YELLOW JACKET SOCCER BLOG

October 24, 2016

The Blog: A Tradition Unlike Any Other

What a week it's been for the Jackets. By the numbers, there were about 30 guys, seven days, 5 1/2 Harry Potter movies, three games, three states, and two big conference wins and each one of them was unlike any other.

The week started with a pre-game day. We had Mercyhurst at home on Tuesday so we spent the day preparing for that and recovering from a tough set of games on the weekend. Tuesday rolled around and your Jackets were dressed in our typical regalia for home games for one final time this season.

The game itself was absolutely crazy. It was Senior Night and we wore our yellows so it was never gonna be just another night especially against a quality opponent like Mercyhurst. If you want a full recap you'll have to look somewhere else, but here's mine: We scored, they scored, we scored, they scored (all that in the first 25 minutes), and then, finally, Levi "Mr. Congeniality" Haight roofed one in overtime to put the game away and give us old dogs a Senior Night to remember.

...But wait. There's more...

After the game it was announced that one lucky Jacket-Backer had been selected to receive a gift, which was more or less true, but definitely not the whole story. The lucky fan was Kelsey Mullikin who, if you follow Lendyn on any form of social media, you most likely know is his better half. When she got out to half field you could hear the dulcet tones of the one and only JBiebs as the soundtrack to a slide show of these two young lovebirds. All the while Lendyn's formerly-just-girlfriend stood there perplexed looking for her boo thang (he was hiding behind the rest of us for the moment of the big reveal). Then the music stopped. The wall of Yellow Jackets separating Kelsey-poo and Lenny Pickle parted like the Red Sea before Moses and the God of Israel and the bridegroom stepped forth in a manner that can only be described as almost eschatological. He got down on one knee. He spoke with the smallest stutter, which we can all agree is understandable given the circumstances. He asked the question...

And she. Said. YES. BOOM. Go Jackets and go Prickels. Just like that the two were betrothed. Naturally, the place exploded. E'erbody loves a good proposal and this, my friends, was a fantastic one. Of course we were all excited, but no one on the team expressed their excitement more emphatically than our very own Coach Grant Knight. He looked like a man who won the lottery and was freed from prison at the stroke of midnight on New Years' Eve. It was majestic and entrancing and we have film.

Congrats to the newly-engaged couple. Couldn't be happier for you guys.

...And that was just the second day of the week...

Wednesday was a post/pre game day so we went on another lovely recovery jog, passed the ball, and played enough to stay sharp and focus on some points of emphasis.

We embarked on our journey to KWC Thursday morning in the midst of some very "Cedarville" weather. The driver for the trip was to be none other than the man, the myth, the long-living legend Coach John McGillivray. The movie of choice was the first of the Harry Potter series, thanks in large part to the suggestion of our very own Musclebound Hoosier Brian "Slow-n-Steady" Wolverton. Harry really is great. How many 11-year-olds do you know that have stuck their wand up a troll's nose to save their nerdy friend's life? None. That's how many.

Pre-game meal was at Fazoli's, where I believe we placed our orders with a lovely lady named Edna who had been working there for over a decade. It was delicious, full of carbohydrates, and as greasy as ever. The weather in Owensboro was a little drier than Cedarville's, but still a touch chilly. We ground out a big conference W in front of a sizable contingent of Jacket families including the Browns, the Smokers, the Prickels (of course), the Hecklingers, and the Aulds all the way from Boston, the second greatest city in the world behind the one and only CLE, land of champions.

After the game we hung around to support the Lady Jackets and munch on some delectable Panera sandwiches and cookies (a black market for cookies quickly developed and was dominated, as you would expect by Papi "the Kingpin" Duke). We did our very best to be rowdy, which, you can imagine, is not all that hard for a college soccer team. Our time in the hotel that night was another brimming with immaculate fellowship. My room was made up of a very strong quad - Zac "The Hair" Muir, Christian "The Tattooed Terror" Alexander, Derek "Cubs fan" Braak, who was in a great mood since the Cubs were winning, but I'm sure he understands that it can only last so long because they're playing the Windians next. So they'll probably not be able to win. Cuz that's what we do in Cleveland and can't two teams win the same series, nah'm'sayin'? We watched some enthralling animal fights on the Discovery Channel and decided we kinda hate predators, but also learned that you can feel bad for just about anything once it starts losing a fight.

Friday morning we got a great breakfast at the hotel, had some down time to watch home-w-I mean do televis-I mean to relax and study. Nobody procrastinated and I have no idea where you would get that wild idea. We headed out to KWC for a recovery session, which was awesome as always and kicked some balls around and did some things. Then it was back to the hotel to change and pack up for Nashville.

The drive to Nashville flew by as we watched Harry, Ron, and Hermione save Sirius and Buckbeak and fight off the dementors and had an all around great time chowing down on some Chick-fil-A because would we really be a Christian school if we didn't eat there at least once a season? Probably, yeah, but c'mon. We had to.

Once we got to the hotel in the 'ville we had some down time and made full use of it. Then it was off to the nearest theater to watch Deepwater Horizon featuring the one and only Marky Mark, leader of the funky bunch, don of the Wahlberg family. Great movie, but not great for your faith in the capitalist system and big business. Dinner was at Chili's near the hotel and it was glorious. Conner "Texas for a Little While at Least" Hughes and I ganged up to make the most of our dinner allowance and I think it's fair to say we came out winners.

Saturday we had breakfast before 9 a.m., had some more time to study, then got all packed up by about 11 a.m. We had a rousing game of Family, a team favorite, which was won by Coach Grant "Something Ninninger" Knight, who used his parental knowledge of Seussian literature to devastating effect. Then it was off to Trevecca to support the Lady Jackets once again and prep for the game.

Game highlight: the Musclebound Hoosier put us up in typical Brian-style and we held on for another huge conference W. The drive home was all the better for the good result and the three Harry Potter movies we made it through for those of us who stayed conscious. Highlight of the return journey was probably Coach Faro demonstrating our program principle of servant leadership in magnificent style by hand-feeding Coach Mac some pizza while he was driving. It really is a privilege and honor to be led by a man who cares so much about the little things.

And just like that another week was in the books. We've got our final regular season game and conference tournament beginning this week so it's another big one and we're ready to go.

Go Jackets!

TONIGHT'S GAME

The Cedarville University men's soccer team hosts the Kentucky Wesleyan College Panthers in a Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC) Tournament Quarterfinal game at Yellow Jacket Field.

Cedarville completed the regular season with 9-6-3 overall record and a 7-3-2 mark in the G-MAC to earn the #3 seed in the post-season tournament. CU's most recent action was a 1-1 double OT outcome at Ohio Valley on Tuesday afternoon.

The Panthers ended their regular season with a 3-13 overall record and a 2-10 league tally to earn the #6 seed. KWC's final game of the regular season was a 6-5 OT loss at Trevecca on Tuesday in Nashville.

The Yellow Jackets are under the direction of fourth-year Head Coach Brett Faro (51-17-11).

Sophomore midfielder Bryce Childers leads the squad in scoring with five goals and two assists for 12 points.

2015 G-MAC Offensive Player of the Year and fifth-year forward Connor Gilmour, although being hampered by injury, is second on the team with four goals for eight points. He is fourth all-time at CU with 47 career goals.

Junior John Schwien and senior Joel Twinem are the team's third-leading scorers at seven points each.

Yellow Jacket senior keeper Paulo Pinto ranks second in CU's career goals against average list (0.91). Pinto has allowed 18 goals in 13 games this year while making 59 saves.

KWC is led by Head Coach John Fusco who is in his 5th year with the Panther's program (16-62-6).

Bryce Childers

Leading scorer for KWC is freshman Arthur Rogers from London, England with seven goals and four assists and 18 points.

Two 2015 all-conference senior performers - Kurtis Roberts and Blake Cobb - have been solid for Kentucky Wesleyan in 2016.

Junior keeper Grant Allen has a 2.29 goals against average while allowing 31 goals and making 71 saves.

Cedarville leads the all-time series with the Panthers by a 9-0 margin including 28-3 in goals scored. The Jackets posted a 1-0 victory (Sept. 10) and a 2-1 decision (Oct. 20) over Kentucky Wesleyan this season.
