YELLOW JACKET SOCCER BLOG

September 5, 2016

The Blog, "A tradition unlike any other."

They say the first is the worst and the second is the best, but "they" also say all roads lead to Rome and I know for a fact that isn't true because if it were Coach Grant "The Maverick" Knight would have accidentally ended up there by now. So I don't know who "they" are, but if I were you, I wouldn't put too much stock in the first saying, which means that you shouldn't expect too much from this, the second blog of the year.

The week that has elapsed since the last blog was a wild one. It started with a new thing we're doing as a team called "Mingle Monday," where we try to eat lunch or dinner with a group of people other than the soccer team. Yes, we challenged ourselves to do this because we've become notorious for always being together around campus and some of us don't know all that many people outside of the team (of course not yours truly – I have tons of friends not on the team and I totally spend time with them on a regular basis). This, the inaugural Mingle Monday, happened to be the first Monday of the semester, which is typically a lot like the first dip in an ice bath. It's more than a little uncomfortable, likely painful, takes longer than you want it to, and no matter how many times you do it, it always takes your breath away in what you have to begrudgingly admit is a good way.

In addition to the first real plunge into the semester, Monday night brought around the second-ever meeting of CU Fellowship, which is a student-athlete led group on campus that is trying to bridge some of the social gaps between the various athletic teams on campus and build community. Speaking from my experience here, we at Cedarville, myself certainly included, tend to form conclusions about other guys/gals/teams before we really know all that much about them. It's a very human thing to do, but I for one have had my perceptions of others proved wrong in the best way more than I care to admit and I don't think I'm alone in that regard. So we had the first "club" night with CU Fellowship. We played a hastily organized version of the Human Knot, worshiped together, and had folks from various teams speak about the way they had seen the Lord work in their lives over the summer.

Tuesday followed Monday if I remember correctly and for the soccer team, it meant all sorts of things. Before I go any farther, I'd like to note that there is a group of about eight guys that have 9:00 a.m. classes so we all go to breakfast at about the same time and we call it the "Breakfast Club." So far it seems like it's gonna be a fun time full of Kyle "Sports Fan" Smoker's adorable squinty smile, Isaac "I'm Lonely When You Guys Leave" Nelson's infectious giggles, and some sharp-dressed, eligible gentlemen just getting their day off to a great start. So that's how my day started. It ended with practice, homework, and packing for the West Virginia trip, which began Wednesday Night.

Wednesday saw us all running around trying to get packed, make it to class, and get treatment before practice. We left at about 7:00 p.m. in our brand new team bus. Lemme tell y'all about that bus. Leather seats. TV's. POWERFUL air conditioning. HUGE YELLOW JACKET ON THE SIDE. It felt like home on wheels (except a little more cramped and raucous). We christened it Big Frank in honor of our gracious Bus Driver and his lovely wife (this was done by me a few seconds ago – I really enjoy exercising my blog-autonomy). First movie we watched was one of the 1,000 Rush Hours. Jackie Chan is the man forever and always and that movie has hilarious outtakes.

We went about halfway that night and stopped at a hotel where our freshmen were given the first room assignments of their college careers. Carter "Facetime" Selvius was agreed by all to be the most fortunate of the freshmen as he ended up in a room with none other than your illustrious blogger, Ben "The Doc" Johnson (classiest gentleman on BOTH sides of the Mississippi), and Connor "Yeah, I'm Still Here" Gilmour.

Next day we had some designated "study time," and were off to complete the second leg of our trip. We went straight to our pre-game meal at CJ Maggie's before checking into the hotel, but that part wasn't quite as simple as it sounds. Apparently CJ Maggie's is something of a chain restaurant. So we initially showed up to a CJ Maggie's, but not THE CJ Maggie's where we had made our reservations. It was a pretty scary moment when we walked in and the host responded to Coach Knight's assertion that we had made reservations for 35 guys with a stare blander than the walls of a room in Castle Brock. We eventually figured it out though, and got to THE CJ Maggie's where we enjoyed some salad and pasta.

After lunch it was off to the one-and-only Isaac Jackson Hotel where, legend has it, Connor "I Make The Rules" Scott caught a glimpse of the talented and redundantly-named Phillip Phillips during our last stay. The factuality of this legend is much-debated, but a legend it is nonetheless. All I'll say about the UIndy game Thursday is that it gave me an entirely new appreciation for the European rules of soccer and that, ironically, the buzzer was no friend of the Jackets.

Friday we got a recovery practice in and bussed over to the "Center for Hospitality and Tourism" in Elkins, which was to be our home for the night. All you need to know about the Center is that it was a remarkable combination of slightly outdated "hominess" and unapologetic "dorminess," that made it seem like someone took the starkly contrasting worlds of my grandma's basement and Brock Hall, mashed them together, and served them with a glass of warm milk. 10/10 would recommend.

Friday afternoon we had some downtime before congregating in the basement of our temporary abode for a Golf Tournament (the kind with playing cards) that was the cause of much strife, some good-natured back-stabbing, and some drastically heightened blood pressure. That night we went to none other than Bob Evan's, where, by the transitive property, Strangers are Family (a somewhat worrisome prospect in my mind). Pretty much everybody got the Farmer's Choice breakfast as usual and we ate like kings. We ended the night with a little Chariots of Fire. The general consensus was that Eric Liddell had some pretty interesting running form and the movie was way funnier to us than the original creators intended it to be.

Saturday morning saw us back at Bobby E's for some fantastic breakfast food before our game. On this day, thankfully, the buzzer was a little friendlier to the Jackets, but you can read more about that elsewhere.

After the game we were on the road headed for home. We watched 1.75 Batman movies and snacked the evening away. Also on the ride, Joel "No really – I'm getting married" Twinem had the longest-lasting hamstring cramp ever known to man. If I remember correctly, Brad and Braak also cramped up at one point. Aside from that, we slept, complained about the temperature, slept, snacked, and complained about the temperature. We finally made it home tired, smelly, and wanting nothing more than some personal space, but safe around 10:30 p.m. and there was much rejoicing.

This week our games are Thursday and Saturday at home and, while the trip was great, I'm pretty pumped about the fact that we don't have another six-hour bus ride.

Go Jackets!

"We Back the Jackets!"

TONIGHT'S GAME

The Cedarville University men's soccer team hosts the Trevecca University Trojans in a Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC) tangle tonight at Yellow Jacket Field. The game is also a fundraiser for "Lace Up for Pediatric Cancer".

Cedarville, picked to four-peat as G-MAC Champions, are currently 1-1-1 overall (0-0-1 G-MAC) after a hard-fought 1-1 double-overtime contest against visiting Trevecca on Thursday night. Senior Connor Gilmour tallied the lone Yellow Jacket goal.

The Panthers, selected to finish fifth in the Coaches Pre-Season Poll, are 0-3 (0-1 G-MAC) in the opening days of the 2016 season. KWC lost a 3-0 contest at Ohio Valley on Thursday in Vienna, West Virginia.

The Yellow Jackets, under the direction of fourth-year Head Coach Brett Faro (43-12-9), return another solid nucleus from last year's G-MAC championship squad.

G-MAC Offensive Player of the Year and fifth-year forward Connor Gilmour is back for a final encore. Gilmour was an NCAA Division II All-American and an All-Midwest Region Team pick. He led the league in points (37) and goals (17) and tied for seventh in assists (3). Gilmour rates #5 all-time at CU in goals (43) and points (97).

Brett Faro

The Yellow Jackets are in good shape behind net with Paulo Pinto who set the conference single-season record in goals against average and posted a total of eight shutouts in 2015. Pinto also tops CU's career goals against average list (0.75).

KWC is led by Head Coach John Fusco who is in his 5th year with the Panther's program (13-52-6).

Two all-conference performers return to the pitch with seniors Kurtis Roberts and Blake Cobb. Roberts is a playmaker in the open field while ranking among the conference's all-time best in assists. Roberts (10 points) and Cobb (9 points) were the team's top two point scorers in 2015.

Junior keeper Grant Allen will seek to help fortify the KWC defensive efforts.

Cedarville leads the all-time series with the Panthers by a 7-0 margin including 25-2 in goals scored. The Yellow Jackets posted a pair of 4-0 wins last season - one on September 26 in Cedarville and another on October 15 in Owensboro.
