CEDARVILLE

reflections

You can see a lot reflected in the lake at Cedarville. Come and take a closer look ... you just might see yourself here, too.

I'm sitting by the lake at Cedarville University. Taking a break. Just thinking. Reflecting actually.

The sun is hot today, bouncing off the water, and dancing off my face. I'm right next to that rock. You know, the one we students paint every year, marked by layers of color and memories and, well, just plain "student-ness." From here, I can see much of Cedarville's campus reflected in the lake's clear blue surface: the Dixon Ministry Center, where students ponder, praise, and worship God at our daily chapels; the Stevens Student Center, a place to gather, eat, laugh, buy books, and see if I finally got that care package from Mom; the Engineering, Nursing, and Science Center, an impressive structure that surely represents Cedarville's commitment to the sciences; the Centennial Library, our study sanctuary equipped with every book and technology one would need to get that elusive "A." Then there's the latest addition: the Center for Biblical and Theological Studies, with its stained-glass windows, contemporary architecture, and dedication to biblical truth and integrity.

Still, I have to say this water reflects much more than the buildings surrounding it. Cedarville is the people who daily pass by — from the students who won last year's annual canoe race across the lake to the professor who has her class sit on its edge and write poetry. You can see a lot reflected in the lake at Cedarville. If you lean over and peer in ... you just might see yourself here, too.

“Chapel builds such strong community relationships that the friends I sit with every day refer to each other as ‘the fam!’”

TONISIA JACKSON '09, BRONX, NEW YORK, EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION MAJOR

reflecting Christ

When you step onto Cedarville's campus, you will sense it. Just watch the students as they walk to class, stand in line at the dining hall, or bow their heads in prayer during chapel. Our love for God and our unwavering belief in the inerrancy of Scripture encompass all we do and set our school apart from the rest.

We are one of only a few universities that holds a daily chapel, sees a majority of our students participate in a missions trip or on a ministry team during their academic career, and graduates all students with a Bible minor in addition to their degree.

If you're committed to growing spiritually and desire to place Christ at the center of your life in all you do today and in the future, then Cedarville is the place for you!

Bible Minor

Cedarville is one of only five schools in the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities that requires a Bible minor for its graduates. Always among our students' favorites, Bible classes will stretch you to think about God, His Word, and His world in new and life-changing ways.

[www.cedarville.edu/bible]

The Bible minor course sequence:

- Christian Life and Thought
- Spiritual Formation
- Old Testament Literature
- New Testament Literature
- Christian Worldview Development
- Christian Worldview Integration

Daily Chapel

The heartbeat of Cedarville is our commitment to the study and practice of the Word of God. The outgrowth of this commitment is the daily chapel service in the 3,400-seat Jeremiah Chapel located in the Dixon Ministry Center. Sitting with your new friends, you will enjoy incredible worship and challenging messages from some of the world's most compelling Christian speakers.

[www.cedarville.edu/chapel]

Recent chapel speakers:

- Dr. Mark Bailey, president of Dallas Theological Seminary
- Josh Bales, singer/songwriter
- Dr. Alistair Begg, pastor and author
- Clay Crosse, contemporary Christian music artist
- Jason Nightingale, co-founder of Wordsower International
- Phil Savage, senior vice president and general manager of the Cleveland Browns
- Donna VanLiere, author
- Mike Yankoski, author

"Light isn't hidden. Light goes out to illuminate the darkness, just like we want our students to do."

“Cedarville provides me with many unique opportunities to live out my faith.”

with a servant's heart

Use your gifts as part of a Cedarville ministry:

- More than 100 teams serve in local churches, schools, social agencies, inner-city outreaches, and community programs.
- Traveling drama, music, and puppet teams minister in churches and schools across the nation.
- Discipleship groups provide opportunities for Bible study, mentoring, accountability, prayer, and open discussion.
- Missions and study abroad possibilities reach nearly every corner of the world.

Reflections of Faith

During the spring of 2008, Jubilate — a Cedarville music ensemble — used free time during a five-day concert tour around Chicago to re-level a sand volleyball court and remove a hill next to a baseball field at the Christian Youth Center in Joliet, Illinois. “The greatest aspect of touring isn’t the fun bus rides, the great food, or the opportunity to perform,” said Stan Moran, a 2009 music education major. “It’s knowing that God can use us in many ways when we have a servant’s heart.”

Closer to home, nursing student Sarah Stambach '10 felt prompted to minister to the construction workers God had brought to the Cedarville campus. Sarah — along with fellow students Benjamin Roose and Matt Fox, both 2009 biology majors — began bringing coffee and snacks to the workers. It soon grew into a multi-team ministry. “I know we were showing them the love of Christ,” Matt said, “by just caring about their lives.”

“I’ve come to see that if I can go into ministry and start a Christian community where the people who work and live around me can learn more about God, then I would feel truly blessed.”

JASON HEUER '08, HARARE, ZIMBABWE, BUSINESS MANAGEMENT MAJOR

“How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!” ROMANS 10:15B

“In the competitive professions many of us face, success starts with personal integrity. I love working with students and encourage them to see the classroom as a rehearsal for their future work. Integrating exciting skills with life-changing values builds more than a resume — it’s academic excellence lived out.”

REBECCA BAKER, M.A., PROFESSOR, DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATION ARTS

a tradition of excellence

Since it was founded in 1887, Cedarville University has stood as a citadel of academic excellence. We are not connected to a major metropolis, nor do we carry the name of a historic and impressive figure. Rather, we have built our global reputation on strong studies, quality research, and a faculty that believes in mentoring and guiding its students.

For this reason, we win awards and take high honors in nationwide competitions. For this reason, our student body is made up of top high school graduates, like you, from across the nation and around the world. For this reason, this University continues to make its mark, handing diplomas to people who have gone on to work for NASA, the White House, Mayo Clinic, and the American Cancer Society. We've graduated best-selling authors, nationally known speakers, and Fortune 500 business executives. What are your dreams?

Academic Excellence

- More than 100 accredited programs of study
- Top rankings at national academic competitions in business, engineering, forensics, debate, political studies, and more
- Caring, Christian professors who excel inside and outside the classroom as authors, diplomats, doctors, engineers, social workers, teachers, and more
- Recognition as one of the best universities in the Midwest by U.S. News & World Report, Peterson's Competitive Colleges, and The Princeton Review

Reflecting Real-World Experience

Top-notch facilities, cutting-edge technology, and real-life experiences characterize your Cedarville education. We make your career success our priority.

With its flashy electronic data ticker and live Bloomberg feed, the KeyBank Trading Center offers Cedarville students a market-savvy environment in which to explore finance. The center boasts the latest technologies and hands-on learning experiences. No textbook can compete!

Five Cedarville upperclassmen created their own public art studio in downtown Cedarville. Calling it Studio 61, they felt the space would allow young, eager artists to stretch their skills through bigger canvases, more-detailed plans, and new media. And visitors could watch as art was taken from conceptual sketches to the final product. Participant Mike Steiner '08, graphic design major, said, "I've been given a portion of Cedarville, and it is my intent to give back to the community through my artistic contribution."

[www.cedarville.edu/whatsabuzz]

"There was only one choice for me for college: Cedarville. It has the best engineering program. Period."

Reflecting Academic Leadership

As a future leader, you have the power to shape opinions, discover innovations, and influence the direction of our society — in short, to change the world. Our Center for Political Studies and our Center for Bioethics will prepare you to engage these critical issues as a Christian leader in whatever field you choose.

One way Cedarville helps students articulate a biblical worldview is through our award-winning speech and debate teams. On March 7–9, 2008, these teams competed at the National Christian College Forensics Invitational and came back with some impressive results:

- National Champions in Debate Team Sweepstakes
- National Champions in Forensics Team Sweepstakes
- Overall Champions in Speech and Debate Sweepstakes

From nursing to engineering and now pharmacy, Cedarville continues its more than 30-year tradition of pursuing excellence in the sciences. By adding pharmacy, Cedarville will fill a nationwide need for quality, godly pharmacists. The first class of prepharmacy students began their career in the fall of 2008, anticipating the start of their Pharm.D. master's program in 2012.

[www.cedarville.edu/pharmacy]

Reflecting Biblical Truth

By pursuing your education at Cedarville, you declare that academics find their highest value when grounded in truth. God is our ultimate authority, and we stand by the inerrancy of Scripture. Academics here are more than gathering information and practicing skills ... your classes and professors will equip you for a lifetime of careful thought and compassionate ministry.

Nothing brings the Bible to life like seeing firsthand evidence of creation and the flood. For 13 Cedarville students and one expert geology professor, no setting was more telling than their cavernous classroom among the national parks of five Southwest states. Dr. John Whitmore, associate professor of geology, has dedicated his life to the study of earth science from a biblical perspective and delights in sharing that perspective with his students.

It's the best — and best-kept — secret on Cedarville's campus. And it all starts in Dr. Jeff Cook's Introduction to Urban Ministries course. Cook, associate professor of Bible, wanted this to be a class that went beyond the intellectual experience and engaged all aspects of a student's life: spiritual, emotional, and physical. So, he added the Poverty Weekend to the course curriculum ... and started changing lives. That's all we can tell you. But if you take the class, you'll never be the same again.

"Cedarville is incomparable."

JACKIE MALMSTROM '10, SWARTZ CREEK, MICHIGAN, NURSING MAJOR

“During my freshman year, the relationships and experiences I enjoyed quickly made Cedarville my new home! I think anyone will agree: there is never a dull moment here!”

“With two weeks, two building materials, and two passengers, the cardboard canoe race energized the whole campus. I never knew floating on cardboard could be so much fun!”

CASEY HINZMAN '11, MASSILLON, OHIO, MECHANICAL ENGINEERING MAJOR

wet and wacky

We know you have expectations when you leave home for college. After all, when will you have another opportunity — in your life! — to hang out with approximately 3,000 laughing, slightly crazy, lit-up-for-God people who all happen to be right around your age? For four years! So yes, we realize you want more than just fun ... you want memorable, life-changing experiences that you can talk about for years to come.

One highlight is Elliv (that's 'Ville spelled backward, in case you're wondering). This yearly award ceremony honors peer-nominated students for their outstanding achievements. It's a tradition that few Cedarville graduates forget.

This is just one of hundreds of events and activities that go on each year. It's no wonder that Cedarville's student satisfaction rating is among the highest in the nation.

Theatre

The theatre program presents three major productions each year, contributing exciting and energetic performances to the University's academic and social community. Recent productions have included My Fair Lady, Romeo and Juliet, Camelot, Arsenic and Old Lace, and Alice in Wonderland.

lifelong success

Here, success is defined as more than a title or a paycheck. It means taking everything you've learned into the workplace to make a difference for Christ.

Cedarville will equip you for just that. We begin investing in your future the minute you arrive on campus, never letting up until you're packed and headed for the next phase of your life — diploma in one hand and a blueprint for the future in the other. With CareerDirect® assessment, one-on-one mentoring relationships, internship opportunities, placement advice, and on-campus interviews, we are here to make that transition smooth and productive. Our highly regarded career services staff stays in regular contact with more than 4,500 companies, organizations, and churches ... opening doors for Cedarville graduates.

Our alumni continue to make significant contributions in their chosen professions. More importantly, they are using their earthly positions as platforms for eternal ministry.

And isn't that what true success is all about?

"I left Cedarville equipped with a mind that's constantly seeking innovative ways to reach the culture with the love of Christ. The result? I am the U.S. director for The Preemptive Love Coalition (www.preemptivelove.org), a nonprofit organization that exists to provide practical solutions to the crises facing thousands of Iraqis who are suffering the effects of the Saddam era and post-Saddam war."

CODY FISHER '06, THE PREEMPTIVE LOVE COALITION, BUELTON, CALIFORNIA

"Cedarville provided me with the day-to-day skills I need to succeed in my job at NASA. From managing a budget and working on a team to learning how to take a design from start to finish, my education was invaluable."

STACIE (BENNETT) COX '00, NASA, HOUSTON, TEXAS

Our Location

Cedarville University is located on a beautiful 400-acre campus in a small, quiet community close to three metropolitan areas and major interstate highways. Our students enjoy a safe and secure environment with:

- Enhanced lighting around campus.
- Restricted access to residence halls on a 24-hour basis and all campus buildings at night.
- Security awareness and crime prevention programs.
- Emergency telephones located strategically throughout campus.
- 24/7 campus safety patrol of campus buildings and grounds.

Our 400-acre campus boasts beautiful modern facilities and grounds. We've highlighted the six buildings our students frequent the most. See more at www.cedarville.edu/virtualtour.

1 Stevens Student Center

This you-friendly facility houses the dining hall, snack shop, bookstore, post office, game room, student radio station, a 400-seat theater, and student government office.

2 Dixon Ministry Center

You'll set foot in here at least once a day for chapel. The building also holds the Christian ministries division, the music and art department, and a recital hall.

3 Center for Biblical and Theological Studies

This structure supports Cedarville's Bible minor as well as nine Bible programs. It includes a technology-equipped homiletics lab and two lecture halls.

4 Engineering, Nursing, and Science Center

Besides classrooms and an auditorium, special features include a reflecting telescope with a 16-inch mirror, a simulated hospital ward, and an engine test cell.

5 Centennial Library

No matter what degree you choose or class you take, the library provides the latest information technologies for higher learning and general seating for more than 800 students.

6 Callan Athletic Center

The sports center provides year-round recreation and training with three full-length basketball courts, five volleyball courts, three racquetball courts, a free weight room, and a rock climbing wall.
