January 16, 2017

This past week for Cedarville men's basketball was a tough one, but was still productive. We took our yearly trip to West Virginia for our games against Alderson Broaddus (AB) and Davis & Elkins (D&E). If you read the blog last year you are probably aware of how I feel about going to West Virginia.

This trip seemed to look scary before it started when we found out we couldn't take our regular charter busses. Yes, I know I sound like a spoiled brat, but it's vital to have a bigger bus on longer trips because most of the players are pretty big so it's not too much fun getting stuck sitting with a grown 6-foot-6 man. The trip to Alderson Broaddus ended up not being that bad other than the few potholes we hit along the way. Big shout-out to Coach Sok (AKA B sizzle) for driving this weekend. I'm sure it isn't easy driving over six hours, and still having to coach, so your efforts this week were much appreciated. The trip to West Virginia had a couple detours due to a terrible car accident, and some bad weather so we got to our hotel later than expected so practice was canceled. It's never bad to have a day off, so everybody was a little happy about that. We just got up early the next day and got shots up at AB. Later that day we had our game against AB, and it didn't go as planned. Both of our games were kind of similar.

I don't think it was the fact that we played bad - we were just missing shots. Basketball in the simplest terms is a game of makes and misses. This week just happened to be the week that we were missing. We have a lot of hard workers on our team so I will be surprised if that continues to happen. Every team hits a rough patch during the year, and it usually takes everybody on the team having faith in each other to get out of the slump. I know we have the players to do just that, so I'm excited for this next week of games. We play Tuesday at Wilberforce (Start time 7:30 p.m.) and Thursday which is at home game against Salem

International University (Start time 7:45 p.m.). We would appreciate as much support as possible and continued prayers for Colton and Dazhonetae.
