GAME DAY

Cedarville University vs. Campbellsville University
Saturday, October 4, 2014 • 3:30 PM

Sept. 30, 2014

I approach this blog from a slightly better place this week (See Blog 4). I mean, I'm still waiting for someone to give me convincing evidence that there isn't Insta-Injure: You Need it, We'll Break it! in our water bottles. Also, if that same person could also remove the dead animal that's currently surrounding our entire practice field in a stench that could raise all the other dead animals within a 300 mile radius from the grave, we, and our gag-reflexes, would appreciate it.

BUT, there have been some excellent moments. I'd say the front-runners are our beating Findlay on a last-second-of-double-overtime-shot from Kristie...and the fact that we had 10 bucks for dinner at Panera Bread. Yup, 10 G. Washingtons' to buy whatever our little crab-craving hearts desired ("Can you put the baguette...IN...the bread bowl? Yeah, that's what I want."). Alright, I know what you're thinking, but my priorities aren't off. Kristie's shot really was that good!

Other notable events include Chipotle after our Ursuline game and watching coach's return-trip movie choice of Amazing Grace, the incredibly educational, historical film giving a very detailed depiction account of William Wilberforce's role in the abolition of slavery. I will leave deciding whether those are both exciting post-game prospects for a team of 20ish year old girls up to my readers, but I will say one thing. Education doesn't lead to action, because I was appointed to bus-clean-up duty that night. If you don't immediately recognize the gross injustice/timing of that fact, please refer to my picture....in color. Yup.

Anyway, as you may know, recent events have forced--I mean...given me the opportunity...to reprise my role as Official Game-Filmer. Alright, I do look at it as a great opportunity to serve my team in whatever capacity I can. And, believe it or not, it has given me the perfect way to relay this week's games. Filming our Findlay and Ursuline games has given me some great insight. The process of filming a great game and filming a...less great game...are very different things. Allow me to demonstrate.

Focusing

Great Game: Like I said, Kristie Wolff scored a thrilling last second shot in our double over-time win at Findlay. The scene was everything you could ever want it to be: Grace flicks on a perfect through ball, Kristie dribbles full speed towards the goal with the ability to make the announcer's "3...2...1..." either really inspirational or really depressing. She shoots, she scores, Coach jumps way higher than anyone has ever seen, and we're storming the field. A moment like that, and all the other great ones from that game, gave me a great problem to have as a filmer. I don't know what to focus on. Should I attempt to capture the perfect dynamics of Elise's one touch, equalizing zinger from 18 yards out, or incorporate the wide-screen shot of all the Findlay girls' faces as they watch their lead disappear. Would it be better to get a rising panoramic of the perfectly synchronized back line or give a close-up of how Hannah Velloney manages to completely stuff a striker and still make it the most well-meaning thing you've ever seen. Do I end-scene with a sentimental shot of the entire team surrounding Kristie, or should I start with a shot of Grace who opted for a non-traditional, but equally excited private celebration and transition to a fading shot of the field. The possibilities are endless!

Bad Game: Well, I guess the problem is still not knowing what to focus on, but in a bad way. To give you a clue for this particular game, I'll use my friend Hannah Lyons's words: "At some point in the game, I realized that I didn't know if I cared about winning anymore, I just wanted everyone to make it off the field alive." Yup. Walking wounded, party of 25. That was us. You try filming that. These are the thoughts I distinctly remember. "Well, I'm supposed to show what happens up close...but something about this angle is making the fact that almost everyone on the team has the same limp even more pathetic." "Oh, oh Jacoby that tackle looked so painful. And now you're writhing in pain..Zoom out Zoom out. Abort, Abort." The worst was when Hanna Harris suffered a direct kick to the back. No one could blame her for staying on the ground for a while. Unfortunately for me, I'm not allowed to turn off the film So.... "Uhh probably shouldn't focus on her wallowing in pain...uhh..here's a nice close up of the score board...that's a pretty nice tree...hmm...I wonder how close I can zoom into the grass and maintain focus...C'mon, Hanna..." Needless to say, a 2-0 loss with even worse injuries makes for a lot of things that aren't ready for their close up.

Commentary/Technical Difficulties

Great Game: I take Bri's command that I should not be seen and not be heard on film very seriously, but I think the fact that I'm still a living human with emotions warrants me a few audible reactions here and there. During a great game, I like to think it adds to the final product. A gasp of shock followed by a sigh of relief made for a great backdrop for Hanna's 7,000 Is-this-Wicked-cuz-I'm-"Defying-Gravity"- saves from the Findlay game. Also, I can't be sure, but I'm pretty sure you can hear, or at least feel, the proud smile on my face as I watched my girls take it to the team that broke our hearts last year with an overtime shot of their own. If not, then you could definitely feel the jerk of the camera when I realized that my excitement almost made me over shoot the zoom button and miss the goal entirely. Anyway, all that to say, any minor glitches during a good game somehow enhance the experience. I mean, Bri and Coach haven't exactly told me that my little additions inspired them to tears of joy, but they don't have to. I can tell.

Bad Game: Well, if I happen to slip up a couple times in good games, I lose all control during bad ones. There is a direct relationship between the frustration level of a game, and the smoothness of the camera's movements. Basically, what are graceful transitions become violent, jerky jumps made by a hand clenched around the camera in anger. Unfortunately, nothing was more frustrating than what happened at Ursuline. We played well, we gave it our all, and yet, we just couldn't put it away. That, and the fact that the great minds behind the press box successfully situated the supporting beams in such a way that a good third of the field was blocked off, added to the frustration. So, by the end of the whole ordeal, watching the game might've been a slightly jarring experience. Bri and Coach haven't exactly told me that they suffered near seizure conditions from reviewing it. But, they don't have to. I can tell.

After-Game

Great Game: After you've filmed a great game, there's always a completely misplaced sense of pride in what you've done. Yeah, they may have been the ones who actually played the game and made the shots. So, I guess technically they had the important job. Buuut, then again, you can't help but descend from that press box with a smug smile that says "A film is only as good as its director, am I right?" And then, you get the oh so gratifying pleasure of responding to everyone's excited questions of: "Did you get the goal?" With a self-confident nod and "Psshh...they don't call me Chloe Spielberg for nothing." It's a great feeling.

Bad Game: It's a terrible feeling. Your team just endured 90 minutes of brutal, heart-breaking soccer and you're the chump that got it all on film. It's like how our mom's should feel when they know that they've forever immortalized our terrible fear and acne-stricken faces and slightly too-light-wash American Eagle flares on the first-day-of-high-school picture. You've made it possible to watch the other team's game-winning goal over, and over, and over again. Well done.

Okay, so maybe all this blog showed you is that I take filming way too seriously. But, hopefully this gave you a little understanding of how the game looks from my side of the camera.

Until next time!

"We Back the Jackets!"

TODAY'S GAME

The Cedarville University women's soccer team hosts the Campbellsville University Tigers in non-conference action today at Yellow Jacket Field as part of Homecoming Weekend.

The Jackets, 5-4, recorded a 9-0 win over visiting Ohio Valley in a Great Midwest Athletic Conference game on Thursday night.

The Tigers, NAIA members of the Mid-South Conference, are 5-5 with their most recent action a 5-1 league setback at NAIA #6 Lindsey Wilson last Saturday.

Sophomore Grace Miorelli took over the team lead in scoring on Thursday when she tied a school record with four goals versus Ohio Valley. She has a team-high six goals with two assists for 14 points.

Grace Miorelli

Senior forward Kristie Wolff is CU's second-leading scorer with two goals and eight assists for 12 points.

The Lady Jackets third-leading scorer is Jacoby Ziegler, a junior forward, who repeated as the G-MAC Offensive Player of the Year. Ziegler, recovering from an injury, has four tallies for eight points.

Carly Gregory, a junior, was the G-MAC Defensive Player of the Year. She and Ziegler were joined on the all-conference first team by Miorelli and junior defender Kaleigh Rowlands.

Sophomore keeper Hanna Harris has allowed 12 goals while making 36 saves en route to a 1.33 goals against average.

Campbellsville is under the leadership of eighth-year Head Coach Thomas Jones, a 1992 Cedarville grad, who is 85-58-9 with the Tigers. Jones was a four-year member of the Yellow Jacket soccer team.

Sophomore Mhairi Fyfe is the leading scorer for the Tigers with five goals and an assist for 11 points. Madison Ratchford, a rookie forward, has added three goals and an assist for a second-best seven points.

Mhairi Fyfe

Freshman keeper Amanda Howard has allowed 18 goals (1.79 gaa) while notching 67 saves in 903+ minutes of action.

Cedarville owns a 4-2 lead in the all-time series with the Tigers. The teams last met on Oct. 23, 2012 in Campbellsville, KY - a 3-1 CU win - as Jacoby Ziegler scored all three goals.

HEAD COACH JOHN MCGILLIVRAY

John McGillivray is one of the most well-respected soccer coaches in the state of Ohio and has been coaching soccer at Cedarville University since 1974.

McGillivray has been the head coach of the Lady Jackets since 1998. He served as the Cedarville men's head coach from 1974 through 1997.

Coupled with the 137 wins with the women, McGillivray has 352 total soccer victories at CU. His 300th overall win came in a 5-0 decision over Grace on Aug. 28, 2008. He picked up his 100th victory with the Lady Jackets in a 2-1 result at Point Park on Oct. 17, 2009.

McGillivray has enjoyed seven winning seasons with the Lady Jackets including a best-ever 15-7 mark in 2013. CU led the Great Midwest Athletic Conference with a 9-1 regular season mark and McGillivray was voted G-MAC Coach of the Year.

Cedarville finished 13-8-2 in 2004, won NCCAA Midwest Region championship, and secured an automatic berth in the NCCAA National Tournament. The 2000 club had a 12-7-2 record and made the school's first-ever NCCAA championship appearance in women's soccer.

McGillivray and his teams have long been recognized for their sportsmanlike behavior. His Lady Jackets twice received the Fair Play Team Award from the American Midwest Conference for their exemplary conduct on the field. He was presented the first-ever Distinguished Merit Award in 1990 by the Ohio Collegiate Soccer Officials Association. The National Intercollegiate Soccer Officials Association honored him in 1992 with their National Merit Award.

The Springfield, Ohio native led his men's teams to eight Mid-Ohio Conference titles, five NCCAA District III banners, three NAIA District 22 championships, and one NAIA Area IV crown which carried with it a trip to the NAIA Nationals in 1974. He guided his squad to five NCCAA National Tournament appearances, a pair of NCCAA National Runner-Up finishes and he was chosen NCCAA National Coach of the Year in 1981.

McGillivray served at all levels of NAIA soccer including president of the NAIA Soccer Coaches Association from 1983 through 1985. He was inducted into the Cedarville University Athletic Hall of Fame in 1991 and the NAIA Hall of Fame in 1993.

McGillivray, who is an associate professor in the Department of Kinesiology and Allied Health, is a 1970 graduate of Cedarville College, and he earned his master's degree in 1976 from the University of Dayton. John and his wife, Bonnie, reside in Cedarville and have five children and 15 grandchildren.

Women's Soccer Athlete of the Week

(Sept. 21-27, 2014)

Brooke Gann · Trevecca
Senior · Chattanooga, TN

Brooke Gann has been named the conference's Women's Soccer Athlete of the Week for the first time this season, and her second time in her career, which came back on October 1, 2012. The two-time G-MAC All Conference selection helped carry TNU to a pair of wins this past week, including a win over Kentucky Wesleyan in conference.

The Trojans improved to 2-1 in conference behind the 3-0 win over KWC. Gann assisted on the game's first goal by Diana Corzine in the 50th minute of the contest, she then capped the scoring in the 89th minute with an unassisted goal. In the first game of the week, Trevecca defeated Carson Newman 2-1, a game in which Gann scored the first goal of that contest, coming on an unassisted run.

Gann's two goals this week were her 26th and 27th career goals, which makes her the career leader in Trevecca history in goals scored. She also moved into second in career points with five coming this week.

GREAT MIDWEST ATHLETIC CONFERENCE - WOMEN'S SOCCER

The Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC), was approved by the NCAA Division II Membership Committee in February of 2012 as a member conference and earned active status in July of 2013, after completing an educational assessment program in 2012-13. The conference began competition as the 24th active NCAA Division II conference in 2013-14.

The G-MAC features both active and reclassifying members from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Charter members of the G-MAC included Cedarville University, Central State University, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Trevecca Nazarene University, and Ursuline College.

The G-MAC expanded with the inclusion of Alderson Broaddus University, Davis & Elkins College, Ohio Valley University, and Salem International University as active DII members. Georgetown College was added as a Provisional Member in 2012, while Cumberland University was added as a Provisional Member in 2013.

The G-MAC, headquartered in the Indianapolis metro area, sponsored 17 championships in 2013-14 as an active NCAA Division II conference.
