History Testifies of THE PURSUIT

The Pursuit of a Miracle began in the late 1800's with the dream of five men and their vision of a college to train people to serve the Lord. In 1887, the first real fruits of their dream appeared in the form of a college charter. The real pursuit began as the need for financial backing emerged. Almost ready to give up after several years of trying to obtain support for the college, a gift of $25,000 enabled the opening of the doors.

The dream continued in the 1940's as the Baptist Bible Institute of Cleveland was outgrowing its facilities; the faculty and student body were searching for the Lord's direction. At the same time, Cedarville College was suffering hard times financially. In order for this small Presbyterian college to continue, it would definitely take a miracle and the leading of God. These two institutions, brought together through the providence of God and the insight of Dr. James T. Jeremiah, continue today as a Baptist college with a renewed commitment to "the Crown and the Covenant" and "the Word of God and the Testimony of Jesus Christ."

Community Involvement Reflects THE PURSUIT

The Pursuit of a Miracle continues today through the consistent community involvement of all those at Cedarville College. From a community night basketball game to gather food for the needy of Cedarville, to a 22-hour softball marathon in order to raise money for a crisis pregnancy center, the faculty, staff, and student body participate in activities to help the community and to show their concern for the community.

The college family participates in community governmental functions as well. Students attended a campaign rally for presidential candidate George Bush in Xenia, while others went to see President Ronald Reagan in Columbus. Faculty and staff are actively involved in Cedarville, working with the Village Council and the fire department. Everything that is done in the community shows the college's commitment to improving a good relationship with the community.

THE PURSUIT

The Pursuit of a Miracle calls for a balance in the activities of the students. Training of the mind is done partially in the classroom, but the training would not be complete if it were not for the activities of the body. Many opportunities are afforded to the students to become involved in a variety of activities.

A well rounded sports program offers both intercollegiate and intramural competitions to keep the body physically fit. A variety of sports as well as levels of competition are offered in the intramural program in an effort to give everyone an opportunity to become involved. For those who are talented in a particular sport, there is the intercollegiate program for the major sports. The Christian Ministries office provides a wealth of opportunities for spiritual enrichment. Ministering to children, visiting senior citizens, preaching to prisoners, encouraging the sick, and witnessing to the passers by are just a few of the opportunities that are offered through this program. Organizations are a source of mental and emotional refreshment. Offering memberships to different majors or interest groups, these groups offer friendship and fellowship to all who participate.

The balanced lifestyle of the students in college prepares them to live a balanced life in their careers after graduation.

The Future Anticipates

THE PURSUIT

The Pursuit of a Miracle will continue into the future. What the college does today is in preparation for its future. Cedarville anticipates the introduction of a four year engineering program in the fall of 1990 and a social worker program in the near future. New educational programs are only one facet of the plans for the future. Cedarville College is also in an active building program, having recently completed the Centennial Library and presently building a new men's dormitory, Brock Hall. The faculty and staff of Cedarville are an integral part of the program for the future. Not only does the college hire those who have the knowledge and ability to prepare the college for the future, but also the faculty and staff are preparing the students for the job place of the 21st century. As the pursuit continues into the future, Cedarville College seeks to maintain and improve the quality of education it provides to its students.

Quality has been the standard of comparison for Cedarville College since the first day Dr. Paul Dixon arrived on campus as president. Quality is also a part of the miracle for which Cedarville College is pursuing. Under Dixon's

Dr. Duane Wood
Academic Vice President

Coming to Cedarville College in 1987, Dr. Wood assumed the position of Academic Vice President. His knowledge and experience in the academic arena will help the college in the future as it continues its pursuit for excellence in education, and his enthusiasm and encouragement will continue to motivate students to do their best.

Dr. Martin Clark
*Vice President
for Development*

Leading the Development department by his strong example, Dr. Clark came to Cedarville College 15 years ago. After being the Director of Counseling for several years, he moved on to become the Vice President for Development. Clark is responsible for the annual fund which raises money to cover whatever is not met by student's tuition.

administration, Cedarville has grown to see several new buildings including the Centennial Library and the Business Administration Building; the college has also grown in number: both students and faculty.

As the president of Cedarville College, Dr. Dixon has many responsibilities, but he always has time to speak to students. His concern for students is evidenced by his weekly Monday morning chapel messages and by his offer to take phone calls from students any time they have need.

Harold Green
*Vice President
for Christian Ministries*

A student body actively involved in Christian service caused the need for a full time leader to be called to Cedarville College. For nearly 2 decades, Pastor Green has been in charge of the Christian Ministry program at Cedarville. Known as "PG," Green leads Campus Fellowship every Sunday, assuming the role as pastor and friend to the student body.

John Anglea
*Vice President
for Business*

The newest member to the Cedarville College administrative team, John Anglea joined in 1988. As Vice President for Business, Anglea is responsible for all of the business related affairs of the college including the bookstore, the post office, the food service and more.

Donald Rickard
*Vice President
for Student Services*

Serving as educator and administrator alike, Dean Rickard assumed the position as Vice President for Student Services 19 years ago. Rickard acts as advisor to the Student Government Association, as disciplinarian to those who disregard the rules, and as mediator between the administration and the student body.

Although many are not familiar with the responsibilities and activities of the Board of Trustees, they are involved in all of the major events and decisions that affect the Cedarville College family.

Making plans, examining policies, and reviewing programs are activities that take place at each of the quarterly meetings of the board. Each of the board members travels to campus once every 3 months to take part in these meetings.

The Challenge of Service

Dr. William A. Brock 1926-1988

Dr. William A. Brock went home to be with the Lord early in the morning of August 21, 1988. He left behind his wife and six children, but he also left a challenge: a challenge to a life of service for every Christian. Dr. Brock pastored two churches in the Columbus, Ohio area. At Immanuel Baptist Church he ministered for ten and one half years; he then spent sixteen years at Maranatha Baptist Church before being called to the position of Ohio State Representative of the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches. While at Maranatha Baptist, Brock started Maranatha Christian School, earning him recognition in the field of education. As state representative, Dr. Brock served as the "pastor's pastor," as well as serving on the Council of Eighteen of the G.A.R.B.C. In 1957, Brock began serving on the Board of Trustees at Cedarville College. At the time of his death, he was the chairman of the board. Although he was committed to a life of service to God, Dr. Brock was also committed to his family. His example is a challenge to us that we should have God honoring families. In memory of this godly man, Cedarville College has named its new men's dormitory Brock Hall.

feasible for the college to add a new major, build a new building, or hire a new faculty or staff member. They also decide if the money is to come from student tuition or from fund raising efforts done by the college.

The college is greatly indebted to this group of godly men for their insight and knowledge and the direction they give to the college.

Student Government Pursues Involvement

Activity, involvement, and support marked the service of this year's Student Government Association. Homecoming and the Winter Banquet, Opinion Boxes and Special Cafeteria Nights, Project Angel Tree, and the Used Book Sale all reflected SGA's desires to provide extracurricular activities for the students, represent the student body, and minister to both members of the college and people outside the college.

SGA Chapels highlighted the year and accomplished much in the way of unifying the student body, one of SGA's major goals. The creation of a "chapel committee" by Chaplain Steve Dye to generate ideas, help plan, and pray for SGA Chapels provided interesting chapels with a good deal of variety. The special "un-saved family members" chapel and the final outdoor chapel stood out as products of innovative thinking for chapel programs.

The Student Missionary Project also received great student support in providing Christmas toys for children of parents in prison through Project Angel Tree and helped encourage Cedarville graduates teaching in China by sending care packages.

SGA made a significant move in expanding the student body's involvement with the village of Cedarville with the creation of the Community Relations Committee. The committee experienced a good start during Campus Activities' "Barney's Week" which provided service opportunities to the community.

Guided by the leadership of Scott Beattie and Dave Mooney, SGA was able to make positive contributions to the college both in ministry through the substantial support of the Christian Ministries Office and in student life. Student life was enhanced through Student Body Project which made possible the realization of a ten-year-old student dream by establishing the Student Radio Station.

DEDICATED TO THE PURSUIT

In Pursuit of a Miracle, is the predominant theme throughout the 1988-89 edition of the Cedarville College Yearbook. This pursuit has progressed throughout this institution's history and will continue as Cedarville College grows and prepares for the future. To choose a single person that typifies this pursuit is to give one honor where many faculty and staff are deserving. Many members of the Cedarville College family have served faithfully for many years, giving of themselves to students and to the college, actively involving their time and talents in community and Christian service, and continually contributing to the furthering of the college's mission. But the honor of this year's dedication goes to one who has striven for the last 24 years to make this college what it is today.

J. Murray Murdoch, Ph.D., is Professor of History and Chairman of the Social Sciences and History Department. He has enthusiastically taught U. S. History, 111-112, since he came to Cedarville in 1965 and has successfully coached the men's tennis team. Under his 21 seasons' coaching experience, the teams have won District 22 championships 19 times and he has been named "Coach of the Year" each of those times.

Even though he has served as interim pastor to a number of local churches, he has also maintained an active publishing life. Two of his books are highly regarded histories for the GARBC fellowship and friends: Portrait of Obedience and The Centennial History of Cedarville College.

His family life proves the capstone for this busy professor, pastor, coach, and author. His wife of 31 years, Ruth, and his sons, Jim and Mark, provide the impetus for him to continue to pursue his goal, "Bretheren, I do not regard myself as having laid hold of it yet; but one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind and reaching forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13, 14).

From Senior to Alumni

The seniors presented "Parents' Night, 1989" on Friday evening, June 2nd. Communication Arts major Donna Payne wrote and directed a play "That's Cedarville" that allowed the parents and friends to reminisce over the past four years' happenings in the 'ville. President and Mrs. Dixon hosted a reception for the seniors and their families after the program.

The next morning, the college family and guests gathered in the Athletic Center to witness the completion of a pursuit: 372 college degrees "with all the rights and privileges pertaining thereto" were conferred upon the 1989 senior class. The 93rd. Annual Commencement music and addresses focused on the class verse: "Being confident of this very thing, that He who has begun a good work in you will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Philippians 1:6). Among the beautiful musical selections presented by the Concert Chorale and Symphonic Winds was the senior class song, "He Began...He Will Complete," written and composed by seniors Martha Murphy, Richard Ernst, and David Ray.

Before the conferral of degrees, the classes of 1989 and 1939 presented class gifts. Don Drozd, the 1989 class president handed Dr. Dixon a brick signifying the future campus plaza to be built for the immediate enjoyment of the college family and a check for the Second Generation Fund for the future students of college alumni. The class of 1939 was represented by its president, Mr. Clyde Walker, who presented gifts for the President's Dining Room: a beautiful grandfather's clock, crystal punch bowl and a tapestry.

After the conferral of degrees, President Dixon announced the "President's Trophy Award" winners, Susan Moyer and Trenton Stokes; and presented James Pawelski the "Faculty Scholarship Trophy."

COMMENCEMENT

The senior class of 1989 commenced their next individual pursuits with the exhortation from President Dixon's address: "Don't quit on God. Don't quit on your marriage, and don't quit on yourself. Making a difference means making it to the finish."

The 1989 Nursing Class

The commencement events began with the Nursing Convocation ceremony on Friday afternoon. The Department of Nursing faculty, seniors, and their family and friends gathered to witness 39 seniors receive their pins and awards. Every senior received at least one award, "The Certificate of Character." This award identifies its bearer with a specific character quality of kindness, faithfulness, etc. Other annual awards were given by Dr. Alyn: "Academic Achievement Award," Sally Jo Sager; "Character Awards," Melissa Graham and Amy DeCook Royer; "Clinical Practice Awards," Amanda McIntyre and Amy Holtmann.

WHO'S WHO

Leadership, outstanding academic performance, extracurricular involvement, and character are all requirements for induction into the national Who's Who among American Colleges and Universities. Cedarville annually chooses about 40 members to this organization with the added requirement of quality Christian character. Each spring quarter one chapel service is given to honor these members. The new inductees participate in skits, testimonies, and singing during that chapel service.

LOVE

The ministries of Preseminary and Comprehensive Bible majors manifest love for God as these students follow Christ's leading to full-time service. Working in outreach ministries, participating in internships in local churches, and even preaching at services on the Cedarville College campus provide opportunities to demonstrate and develop a real love for people. The liberal arts education broadens the horizon of Bible majors as they learn to interact with other students and other disciplines in "speaking the truth in love."

Business

GOODNESS

"What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly?" (Micah 6:8) Integrity is a quality to which those in the Business Department strive. Pursuing integrity in business is something Cedarville wishes to develop in all students especially those who work in business with the outside world. Cedarville prepares them through classes like "personal finance" and principles like "stewardship management." Dr. Ron Walker, department chairman, states, "In order for our students to conduct their professional responsibilities ethically, it is necessary to provoke and nurture personal integrity."

A Student's Ministry on Campus

Carla Curry, a Business major from Indiana, has brought a sign language ministry to Cedarville College. During winter and spring quarters Carla taught an evening sign language class, and she frequently signed for students in chapel.

Carla learned sign language her freshman year in high school for a dramatic interpretation to get the audience's attention. Sitting in the deaf section of her church perfected her ability. For the next five years, Carla had the opportunity to sign for the deaf. Last year Carla worked at a camp for the deaf where her deaf roommate helped her communicate even more effectively.

In the sign language class at Cedarville, Carla's goal was to teach others to share the gospel. She emphasized the possibilities of unexpectedly meeting deaf people or having deaf friends that will need to know God's love. Carla has been a real encouragement to many on campus and hopes to use her sign language full-time in her profession.

Communication Arts

WISDOM

The Communication Arts Department is in the process of training speech and broadcasting majors whose futures involve speaking to the public in some way. "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver" (Pr. 25:11). One not only should be confident but also knowledgeable when speaking to people. Wisdom is of prime importance when discerning the proper speech necessary for sharing and exemplifying Christ. Communication Arts include a variety of experiences that aid in gaining this attribute: forensics, dramatic productions, and radio broadcasting.

SELF-CONTROL

Dr. Merlin Ager emphasizes, "What a teacher becomes is far more important than what a teacher does." A teacher outwardly may need to control his classroom because it is infinitely required when working with 25-30 "little angels"; but inwardly the teacher's own life is where this characteristic builds. At Cedarville this inward quality is not hard to cultivate. Through a consciousness of Biblical standards, the Education Department guides the teacher education student into becoming the self-controlled person his students' eyes will be on everyday.

LONGSUFFERING

The development of skills, the building of bodies, and the giving and taking of competition with others certainly tests one's longsuffering. Cedarville's Physical Education Department seeks to build in the students an understanding of the frailty as well as the potentiality of the human body. Chris Reese is one student who demonstrated longsuffering through pain and rehabilitation when he fought his way back from a near crippling injury. The potential of the human body is truly limitless when realizing we can do all things through Christ who strengthens us.

TRUTH

Professional writing is one program in the English Department that constantly must analyse words and thoughts to truth. Writers should be careful to choose accurate and clear words. "The preacher sought to find out acceptable words and that which was written was upright, even words of truth" (Ecc. 12). Mrs. Sandy Harner, head of the Professional Writing program, explains that Solomon did not just write "off the top of his head." He pondered, searched out, and arranged his thoughts and words so as to write truth correctly, using just the right terms.

An Added Adjustment

Several foreign students attend Cedarville. These students adjust to not only the new college lifestyle but also to the new language and culture. Bea Moraes is one student who has successfully adjusted to a new language and culture.

At age fourteen Bea traveled from her home in Brazil to visit the United States. It was then she developed an interest in the English language. She continued her high school education at a Christian Academy in Brazil; but because of the influence of friends and teachers, she moved to the United States to pursue her college career.

Though Bea's native language is Portuguese, her interest in the English language has led her to major in English: "It took me a while to learn the meaning of home run, Jack Frost, and pumpkin pie; however, almost nothing else stood in my way of accomplishing the studies." Bea plans to teach a few years and eventually become a copy editor.

Music

JOY

From the great hymn "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee" to the uplifting chorus "The Joy of The Lord Is My Strength," music does much to lift our spirits. The Music Department has the unique privilege of investing its hard work and time consuming practices to produce performances that will not only bring self-satisfaction but also praise to the Lord. Those with a vocal or instrumental performance major train to bring a sound that in some way ministers to the hearers. Those with a music education major strive to produce a praiseful hearts in the lives of their students.

Nursing

GENTLENESS

Gentleness is shown as a nurse's hand touches patients directly or indirectly. This requires the thoughts behind those hands to be appropriate to particular needs. The mind must be on guard to serve as an advocate for patients and families by listening to both the patient and family. The Nursing Department teaches students to administer nursing care to patients in a manner that provides cure and comfort.

Friends To Remember

Kerry Baumgartner and Jodi Sprunger left Cedarville on March 16, 1989, for their spring break in Indiana. Five miles from their home state, they were struck by a tractor trailer and were killed instantly. This tragedy will linger in the hearts of all who knew Kerry and Jodi, and so will the new perspective they brought to the Cedarville College campus. Although Kerry served in several ministries, much of his time was spent on campus encouraging and discipling his peers. He was an American Studies major from Columbia City, Indiana. Jodi desired to serve God and Cedarville College by working in the admissions office. She was an Office Technology major from Berne, Indiana. Both Jodi and Kerry will be remembered for the changes they made in the lives of others and for their eagerness to serve God.

MEEKNESS

Dr. Stanley Ballard, Chairman of the Psychology Department, stated, "Meekness is an inner quality that is to be evidenced in external relationships." Students learn to show love and build up hurting people by developing in themselves this empathetic spirit. Through the meekness of psychologists and social workers, God can reach and develop other individuals. Psalm 25:9 says, "The meek will he guide in judgement and the meek will he teach his way." God's guidance and instruction are the future products of meek Christians helping a hurting world.

FAITH

Faith is a belief in the things that are unseen but can be proved in the things that are seen: human life, the universe, and nature. The sciences that show consistent universal laws can strengthen faith. Dr. Lee Eimers, associate professor, says that the Science and Math Department wants to show faith to students by observing the fact that mathematical models (the product of a human mind) apply so well to nature (the product of a divine mind). Cedarville produces students who can claim God's promise of consistency and unchangeability.

Interferences of Illness

Most students enter Cedarville as a freshman, complete four years of schooling, campus life, and activities, and finally graduate; yet there are those students whose lives do not fall into such neat "little packages." Esther Hunt, a mathematics major from Lawton, Michigan, made it through her college career despite the interferences.

In October of 1987, Esther left school to return home where she lay in bed for two months. Unsure of her illness, she came back to school winter quarter existing on five to six naps a day. By spring quarter she could barely see enough to read but continued with her studies. Esther explains, "All my life I believed I could do anything I wanted. I based my life on accomplishments. When I was flat on my back, I realized God was more interested in working in my life than having my accomplishments."

Esther graduates not only with a 3.8 grade point average but also with a dependence on God that an education cannot bring. After graduation, Esther plans to attend graduate school and become a teaching assistant at Western Michigan University. Her ultimate goal is to reach to those who hurt because she knows from experience that this is the best time to show God's love.

PEACE

Social Science

"Let him seek peace and ensue it" (I Peter 3:11). Plans to minister to the public make the characteristic of peace very vital to those in the Social Sciences and History Department. Sociology, criminal justice, public administration, pre-law, and political science are some of the majors. A quiet confidence and an open mind to the ideas of others is necessary to those involved in the social issues of today. The Christian perspective provided by the liberal arts at Cedarville can help add the absolute foundation needed to point the world to Christ.

Once Upon A Time

Once upon a time, in the land of Cedarville, a banquet was held to which everyone was invited. Early on the morning of the banquet, which was to be held on the Nineteenth day of May in the year nineteen hundred and eighty-nine, men and women busily began preparing themselves for this festive occasion. Vehicles from Volkswagen bugs to stretch limousines were cleaned and waxed; tuxedos were rented, gowns were purchased, and flowers were chosen without a thought of price. The people of Cedarville then traveled to the land of Cincinnati where the banquet was to take place. As the guests entered the Cincinnati Convention Center, the gathering room was filled with the sounds of a harpist playing and with the smells of many delectable foods.

Suddenly, with the sounds of trumpets, the guests were ushered into the dining room and were escorted to their tables. The food was scrumptuously prepared and was accompanied by the entertainment. With tuxedos bulging and gowns feeling a little more snug, they continued to enjoy the evening of food and entertainment. A madrigal group sang a variety of songs, but their singing of "When the Saints Go Marching In" is what captured the attention of the audience. The enchanted evening ended with a tribute to the honored guests, the senior class of 1989. What a wonderful Junior-Senior Banquet, what a glorious night to remember! Thank you, Greg Gibbs, Julie Titus and Junior class for such a splendid evening.

CLASS SONG

"He began...He Will Complete"

Verse 1

Moving on with the Memories that have molded our lives.
Holding Friends close together with invisible ties.
There's a start and there's a finish in you and me.
And what He has begun here,
He will complete.
He will complete.

Chorus

He began. He will complete.
The day my life's over I will stand at His feet.
Then I will reign with God's own Son,
'Cause His good work in me will be done.
He began.
He will complete.

Verse 2

There are years that now bind us -- Treasures captured in time.
There's a path that He's laid before us paved with this part of our lives.
There's a gift He has given to be given away.
As we open each one,
Lives will be changed.
Lives will be changed.

Chorus (repeat)

Bridge

There's a work He has started And He'll see it through.
There's a plan He has born Here in me and you.

Chorus (repeat)

Words by: Daniel Ray, Richard Ernst, Martha Murphy
Music by: Martha Murphy, Calvin Seidel, Daniel Ray

Skits were used to bring back memories of the four years spent here at Cedarville by the seniors

CLASS CHAPEL

Senior Angela Dennis gave a testimony during Class Chapel.

Class President, Don Drozd presented the Class Gift.

CLASS GIFT

On the day of the Senior Class Chapel, the gift that the seniors were leaving as a memory to the college was presented. A brick was presented to Dr. Dixon representing the building of a plaza on campus for the enjoyment of the students. A check was presented as well, representing a donation made by the senior class to the Second Generation Fund for the use of the children of alumni.

The seniors presented several skits and testimonies on the day of Senior Class Chapel. Memories of each year were acted out through skits and in testimonials. Memories of changes on campus and in themselves of events, and of classes were all part of the presentation. A multi-media presentation brought visual remembrances of the past four years, and the singing of the class song was a perfect capstone for those years of memories: "He Began...He Will Complete."

HONORS DAY

Honors Day is an annual chapel event. It is meant to show honor to students who have achieved the Dean's List or the Dean's Honor list. Many awards and scholarships are given to students who have done exceptionally well academically and who have met standards set for each award. Closing out the Honors Day Chapel, the Student Academic Advisory Board announces the Faculty and the Staff Members of the Year.

Faculty and Staff Assist in the Pursuit

Without the consistent, godly instruction and support from the college's faculty and staff, the students' pursuit of an education would be deterred. These men and women give of themselves in time and talents to build into the students' lives directly and indirectly. Their years of service range from one to thirty years plus. Longevity of service to the college and its mission marks their service.

Over three hundred people participate in this partnership between faculty and staff. To broaden the teaching versatility of the full time faculty, adjunct instructors fill a major teaching role in the classroom. Part time staff round out the body's number by filling in important positions around campus. Some part time staff positions are held by present college students who gain practical experiences in working for the college. Many lasting friendships occur between these students and staff when they work together. What proves to be a viable reinforcement to this "Timothy principle" is that many CC graduates return and become part of the college faculty and staff. Thus the pursuit continues.

Homecoming Royalty Banquet

"Continuing the Tradition"

What an unforgettable evening! The 1988 Homecoming celebration kicked off with the annual royalty banquet. The theme was "Continuing the Tradition," Keeping with the Olympic games, the cafeteria was transported back in time to ancient Athens where athletic traditions began. Chairpersons Dave Mooney and Jamie Brown created the atmosphere of elegance through white lights, pillars and greenery. The attendants were escorted down the center steps and aisle to the stage of pillars and ivy where the queen was announced.

The food was delicious! Pioneer Food Service provided the cultural Grecian meal. The menu consisted of lemon chicken, Greek salad, rice pilaf, spinach pastry, pita bread, and baklava.

Singer-storyteller Mark Lowry brought the evening's entertainment. He sang old favorites from cartoons and family films to humor the group. Later, he combined humor and gospel truth to challenge each guest. --Sue Moyer

Homecoming Tradition

Spirit! Friendship! Loyalty! Pride! Homecoming certainly culminates feelings and attitudes unique from any other event in the college. This weekend unites all of the college family: students, faculty, staff, parents and, of course, alumni. The celebratory attitude erases any differences that exist and magnifies the love that each individual has to share.

The 1988 Homecoming day was kicked off on Saturday, October 15. At Cedar Park, parade entries were being finalized. The parade started at 10:00, as is tradition. The Phipps/Heaton and Ruby/Keller, presidential teams for "Cedar What?", were well accepted in the parade. "Cedar What?" was big! They really were the most exciting part of the parade," stated Lisa Davison. The old traditions, such as CZ's giant music box and the homecoming court's corvette procession, were well received. The Grand Marshall, Dr. J. Murray Murdoch and his wife, as well as the Dixons, rode in beautiful carriages drawn by handsome horses. Though every entry deserved a prize, the Junior class triumphed in this parade.

Another triumph of the day was the Yellow Jackets' victory over Siena Heights, 2-1, in the annual homecoming soccer game. Though considered the underdog, "We would not be defeated," claimed senior Kirt Wilson.

And that is what Cedarville Homecoming is all about . . . tradition. The tradition of unity, started 102 years ago, still gathers the college family once a year to revitalize relationships.

--Dannah Barker

Matt Culbertson and Mark Warnshuis wind down after the parade. The pep band annually rides in an old trolley car.

The Sophomore float was a takeoff of the "Wheaties" theme. The day of the parade was a gorgeous day for the "Victors to Come Home."

The first-place float was built by the Junior class. The "SS Victor" came home in all its glory to back the Jackets.

The "Cedar What?" candidates were an integral part of the parade. "Secret Service men," Mark Murdoch and "Guido" lead the Radical party entourage down the parade route.

CHAPEL

Many different types of ministries take place in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel. Among those are the many different musical teams that are a part of Cedarville College. Often the amount of time and effort put into giving a performance that is pleasing to God is forgotten, and we only see the final product. The Symphonic Band, the Brass Choir, the Concert Chorale, the many traveling teams, the recitalists, and all of our guest artists use the Chapel to present a program that is honoring to God. Before that program much practice time is given. In appreciation for all of the effort and the time given to give God glory, this magazine presents the Chapel Ministries.

Symphonic Band

The Symphonic Band has several opportunities to present concerts each year. Under the capable leadership of Associate Professor Mike DiCuirci, the band presents selections of spiritual origins, as well as "pop" music. The annual "Prism" concert is the first each year, and a guest artist/conductor is always a highlight of the fall quarter concert schedule. The guest artist this year was Ray Cramer who presented a concert with the band and with the Brass Choir.

Although many concerts and recitals are included in the annual scheduling of the Symphonic Band, the highlight of the year would have to be the days spent on tour each spring. This year was no different as the band traveled to New York City, presenting concerts on the way there and on their return. Several things stand out in that week for sophomore Carla Johnson. "It was really neat to be able to go to Ossining High School where Mr. DiCuirci attended as a high schooler. He was able to give a very clear testimony of Christ." She also added, "The day that we spent on the beach in Ocean City was a highlight for me because I had never seen the ocean before."

Artists Series

One of the objectives of the college states: "The College seeks to foster the student's appreciation of, and participation in, wholesome avocational and cultural activities." In light of this, the Campus Activities Office plans several events each year to make up the Artists Series schedule. The first event of the 1988-89 school year was a concert by violinist Steve Majeske on November 4, 1988. Winter Quarter, concert goers enjoyed the Mantovani Orchestra on February 21 and the annual appearance of the Ohio State Men's Glee Club on March 3, 1989. During Spring Quarter, Greg Buchanan entertained and encouraged Christians through playing his harp in daily Chapel on April 17. Two other Artist Series performances took place in Chapel as well. The Talleys presented special music in Chapel on Monday through Thursday before giving a concert in the evening of Thursday, April 6. The A.D. Players spent May 3-4 in Chapel presenting stories from the Bible in brief dramatical productions. They also performed in Campus Fellowship on Wednesday evening, May 3, 1989. Although it was not included on the Artist Series schedule, the music presented by the Collins family is always enjoyed by the college family.

The Concert Chorale, under the leadership of Dr. Lyle Anderson, has the opportunity to perform on several occasions throughout the school year. From Charter Day to the Pops Concert and Graduation, the Concert Chorale's ministry is always enjoyed by those listening. This spring the Chorale had the opportunity to travel to the city of Chicago and minister in several area churches.

Chorale

Brass Choir

The Brass Choir, under the direction of Assistant Professor Charles Pagnard, is a group of musicians playing brass instruments. Many times each year, the Brass Choir has the opportunity to perform in concert either alone or with the Symphonic Band, as in the case of the concert with Ray Cramer. Although they usually go on tour like the band and the chorale, the Brass Choir stayed home this year after a month long trip to the Holy Land last school year.

The Kingsmen Quartet didn't waste any time in starting their summer tour. They left on Saturday after graduation to spend most of their summer in the sunny state of California.

C.A.B. Presents

The Cultural Activities Board is responsible for the scheduling of several concerts each year. The first of the 1988-89 academic year was a concert by Michael Card on October 6, 1988. Card had performed at Cedarville before, the last time being in Fall Quarter, 1986. There were two events scheduled for Winter Quarter by the C.A.B. The first of which was a concert by Cynthia Clawson on January 27. The other was on February 17, 1989. Buddy Green presented a concert on his harmonica after a basketball game and then again in Student Government Chapel on the following day. Spring Quarter saw the return of the Jeremiah People on April 20. The Jeremiah People present real life issues through dramatizations and then use Biblical principles to provide answers to these critical issues. The highlight of the year for the C.A.B. events occurred on May 25. Larnelle Harris presented a concert to a full house in the Chapel and many were touched by the challenge to spend time in prayer every day. Harris was well received on his first visit to Cedarville.

Recitalists

Each year several seniors graduate with a degree in music. What many may not realize is that before a person is allowed to graduate with that degree, he or she must give a musical recital using the talent that God has given to them in music. Several times each quarter the student body is given the opportunity to participate in one of these recitals by listening to some very talented musicians. Much time and effort is given by these students so that their performance will bring honor and glory to the Lord who has given them their talents. As well, there are many communications arts majors who choose rather to give a speech recital rather than to write a paper. These also give many hours in preparation so that they can give a performance which will honor the Lord.

MINISTRIES

"The kind of decisions you make in college will help you to make a difference in life." --Dr. David Jeremiah

The Loftis brothers provided music during Winter Enrichment Week.

Dr. Marv Rosenthal, Winter Enrichment Week speaker, spoke on "The Lamb of God."

Dr. Sam Logan (above) and his wife (below) shared the ministry to which they have been appointed in Bangladesh.

Conference Themes:

Making A Difference

The Fall Bible Conference's theme focused on the college's motto of the year: "Making a Difference." Dr. Jeremiah, senior pastor of Scott Memorial Baptist Church and president of Christian Heritage College in El Cajon, CA, challenged the college family to "make obedience and obsession not an option." Dr. Marvin Rosenthal, Executive Director of Friends of Israel Gospel Ministry, provided spiritual food and edification for the Winter Enrichment Week in March.

"Where in the World?" was the theme of spring quarter's Missionary Conference. Over fifty missionaries representing several, varied mission agencies made themselves available for student interaction during the week. Feature missionary speakers were Dr. Dale Loftis, Director of Evangelism and Church Planting of Baptist Mid-Mission, and his sons Dale and Mike; Dr. and Mrs. Sam Logan, ABWE missionary appointees to Bangladesh, shared their vision for their field and told of their unique meeting on the mission field: "For His own reason the Lord chose to write a unique and beautiful love story."

Woven among the special conferences, Dr. Dixon continually reminded the college family that "Making a difference means being different in your love for the Word of God, your obedience to it, and your spreading its Gospel message throughout the world."

CHAPEL

The heartbeat of every Christian College:

Daily chapel services are scheduled for each student of Cedarville College. In these services the school tries to bring a variety of programming. Each Monday, Dr. Dixon presented a message on "Making a Difference as a Christian"; throughout the week, pastors, faculty, or staff members are given the opportunity to challenge the student body; and on Friday, the students plan and participate in their own chapel. Many times throughout the year, special chapels are planned. Every year many musicians come and present concerts. At other times faculty and staff members present a discussion on key topics. Professional sports figures are also brought in to share their testimony and the challenges that they face as a Christian in their profession. Special speakers such as Paul Tassell, the national representative of the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches, are also given the opportunity to challenge the student body.

DAYS OF PRAYER

Each year, Cedarville College sets aside two days for a special time of prayer. Needs of the college family are shared and then much time is given in prayer. The day begins as each Resident Assistant meets with the students in his or her halls. After sharing requests, roommates and unit mates unite hearts and lift burdens and praises to God. Each student meets with his or her academic advisor in a second meeting on that day and requests are shared again. A two hour chapel service devoted to prayer and giving testimony closes the Day of Prayer before classes resume in the afternoon. Cedarville College truly does place a high priority on the need and result of prayer. Watching the administration of the college devote an entire day to prayer is an encouragement and a positive testimony to the student body and to the community.

CHRISTIAN

The Christian Ministries programs at Cedarville College offer a variety of opportunities to serve the Lord in different capacities. Many students are involved in AWANA programs in churches in Springfield, Xenia, Dayton and in other areas. Other youth ministries include College Partners, a Big Brother/Big Sister-type program helping out children in the Cedarville area and OVCH, a place for children who have been abused or are unwanted. There are opportunities to work with the elderly as well. There are numerous nursing homes in the area that enjoy having college young people come in and show love to the elderly. Not to be forgotten are the programs that deal with witnessing to college age people. There are several teams that go out weekly to the different area campuses to talk with other college students about the Lord.

FORENSICS (inter-collegiate speech competition) is a scholastic area foreign to most Cedarville students. This year, 14 students comprised the team that finished second in the state of Ohio. Members of the team earned 2 novice and 4 varsity state championships; the best record in Cedarville history. Novice state champion in the Extemporaneous and Impromptu categories was Jeff Joiner. The state varsity winner in After-Dinner speaking was Gary Clemmer and in Prose, Poetry, and Dramatic Duo, it was Donna Payne. Jeff Joiner was Donna's duo partner. The team is coached by Dr. David Robey who is in his 8th year at Cedarville. This year Dr. Robey completed his doctoral work in Organizational Development and Organizational Communication.

While many may think of forensics as a performance of literature, Dr. Robey stresses, "Public speaking skills developed through forensics training are very valuable for those who wish to have careers in business, education, or the ministry. Christians need to be good communicators in every arena of life." Dr. Robey believes that the forensics program demonstrates the mission of the college. "We want to field a team that consistently demonstrates what the college stands for: a commitment to Biblical truth, social consciousness, and personal development."

Exams, quizzes, and homework keep the week of the college student filled with studying, but everyone knows that the week is not complete without a weekend full of parties! Throughout the year, the Campus Activities Office provides many activities for the students of Cedarville College, and when these are not enough, classes, organizations, friends off campus, or even faculty and staff make up the difference. Campus Activities plans annual parties such as the Class Clash and one time events like Donkey Basketball; classes provide outings like the annual JAMS party sponsored by the Juniors, or Christmas get togethers; organizations offer numerous skating and bowling parties; and friends just give an all out fun time.

Grandparents' Day Extends Recognition of

FAMILY DAYS

Senior Mark George's grandparents summed up their impressions of November's first annual "Grandparents' Day": "Since this was our grandson's last year in the college, we can only say it would have been nice to have enjoyed this day for all four years. It was perfect." The college extended its recognition of the students' families beyond the already successful Parents' and Little Sibs' weekends to their grandparents. Dick Walker, Director of Campus Activities, was overwhelmed by the number of grandparents who attended and by their positive comments about their experiences. They not only ate with their grandchildren and went to classes, but also grandma and grandpa were honored in a special chapel program.

Each quarter now has its own special recognition of the students' families. During February, little brothers and sisters come and enjoy a weekend of basketball, participate in other activities, and stay in the dorm, Parents' Weekend in May has continued to grow and has almost surpassed Homecoming in attendance and excitement. Students introduce their parents to President and Mrs. Dixon at a special reception, enjoy the spring play, and attend the popular Pop's Concert. One freshman expressed, "I can't believe all the college does for our families."

Grandparents enjoyed attending classes and eating with their grandchildren, as well as the special chapel service that was devoted to them (top and above right). Parents are given a weekend including a picnic, the "Pops Concert," and Sunday Brunch (above left).

Kidnapped and Crazy at Cedar What?

Dr. J. Murray Murdoch, the master of ceremonies for the evening, was the originator of Alpha Chi's "Cedar What?" Brent Brendle, current Alpha Chi president, assisted Dr. Murdoch.

Alpha Chi "Cedar What?" has been a part of Cedarville College since 1968. This mock election, occurring once every 4 years in conjunction with the national election, was conceived by Dr. Murray Murdoch.

The campaign trail began with platform speeches by the Radical and Conservative parties in SGA chapel. The Radical party candidates were Mr. Carl Ruby and Mr. Kirk Keller. The main issues of their campaign were the destruction of the cabbage and the urgent need for more PDA.

The Conservative party candidates were Dr. Jim Phipps and Mr. Tim Heaton. The main planks to their platform were a climate controlled domed campus with moving sidewalks and the restoration of Bethel dorm.

During the final week of the campaign, the Materialist party was formed. Their candidates were Mrs. Deborah Haffey and Miss Angela Cooke. Their platform included a Cedargate Mall and a teller machine on campus so students could access their parents' accounts.

By convention night November 5, 1988, the Presidency of "Cedar What?" hung in the balance. As the students selected their states, interviews were made, speeches were delivered, and banners were waved. After each candidate had spoken, the states cast their votes. When the votes were tallied, there was much chaos and displayed affection for the Radical party of Ruby/Keller had won the election and will reign until "Cedar What?" 1992.

--Brent Brendle

Radical Vice Presidential candidate Kirk Keller listens as Presidential candidate Carl Ruby gives his kindest regards to the Army ROTC of neighboring Central State University for finding him and personally escorting him back to campus after his mysterious disappearance that was labeled by him as a kidnapping.

The Materialists' candidates Deborah Haffey and Angela Cooke came on the scene late in the campaign. Kirt Wilson seeks their views on the election.

The campaign floor of the Alpha Chi "Cedar What?" convention roared with chatter among the "states" such as "Confusion, Ovlivion and Insanity" as the Radicals, Materialists and Conservatives presented their nomination acceptance speeches.

Kirt Wilson interviewed a variety of voters. One of the most "radical" was . . . Brent Lydic?!?

Conservative Candidates Jim Phipps and Tim Heaton "livened up" the "Cedar What?" campaign. Their campaign slogan was, "Was it me or was it mandatory?"

Justin Keller stands to the side, the rejected "li'l Quayle." When Ruby came up missing, Justin was chosen as Keller's running mate, but in the end he was simply tossed aside!

Two Masters

Fall Drama: The Servant of

Pam Oswald and Gary Gorsline play a pair of young lovers thwarted by fate in the fall drama production.

November 17, 1988, Alford Auditorium was "all of a tremble" as we, the cast, prepared for the premiere performance of The Servant of Two Masters. We were filled with anticipation and all had great expectations for opening night.

The Servant of Two Masters, by Edward J. Dent, translated from the original Italian version by Carlo Goldoni, was directed by Diane Conrad Merchant. The setting for the play was 18th century Venice, when commedia dell'arte was common. In these plays, the actors and actresses poked fun at the selfish, materialistic upper class and tried to prove that the lower and middle classes were morally and intellectually superior. Mrs. Merchant and Don Jones blended the music and costumes of the 1960's with the 18th century setting to add to the humor.

"Being in the play was more than just fun; it was a learning experience. I learned about acting, friendship, myself, working hard, and the strong support a cast and crew can have," said a fellow cast member. His words sum up the experience for all of us.

Behind the scenes we as a cast and crew worked hard. There were new faces under the lights and a special bond grew among us. We developed skills that were dormant within us and encouraged each other to do our best. Mrs. Merchant's famous words were, "That was good, but I know you can do better."

Clarice became a real person who was struggling just like me. She was my comfort relief during some rough days. When an actor or actress develops a character, he/she needs to befriend it and then the character comes alive.

The Lord was gracious to us for He helped us through sickness, death, and discouragement. God gave us victory over our fears and He granted us success.

-- Pam Oswald

Kevin Tupps, Andrew Rudd, and Bruce Quick play a pompous doctor of law, a greedy Venetian merchant and an innkeeper, respectively. The play satirized nobility and the wealthy class.

Julie Kurtz played a lady who disguised herself as her brother. Matthew Stockham played her lover.

The cast: Andrew Rudd, Pam Oswald, Kevin Tupps, Gary Gorsline, Bonnie Miller, Julie Kurtz, Kirt Wilson, Matthew Stockham, Bruce Quick, Layne Turner, Norman Byers, John Fountain, Kenneth Lorow, and Diane Conrad Merchant, director.

As Julie Kurtz attacks "his" victim, Pam Oswald jumps in to save her lover, Gary Gorsline.

Kirt Wilson tries to be the servant of two masters, and while his intentions are noble, finds himself in a predicament.

The body motions of the play were very melodramatic. In one scene, Matthew Stockham, Layne Turner, Bruce Quick and Julie Kurtz over-emphasize each action.

While being the servant of his two masters, Kirt Wilson and Bonnie Miller bring thwarted lovers together and fall in love themselves.

The Importance of Truth: he Crucible

The Winter Drama Production presented by the Village Players was Arthur Miller's "The Crucible." The play ran five nights; one dress rehearsal and four performances. The setting for the drama was the transformed College Center cafeteria. The seats were set on risers around the stage. There was limited seating, so the guests were close to the stage and experienced the emotion and intensity of the program to a greater degree. The tickets were sold out and extra seating was arranged. Some stood stand-by hoping to get in the see the play.

The drama, though partly ficti-itious, is based on actual records of the famed Salem witch trials. The play opened in 1953, when the term "witchhunt" was nearly synonymous in the public mind with congressional investigations then being conducted into allegedly subversive, communist activities.

The plot of "The Crucible" centers on one town's need to blame someone for their evils and ills. Years later, the truth that one man tried to prove surfaced and the trial was seen as the sham it was. As Dr. Robey said, "May we focus our minds again on the need for personal integrity while living in a society that holds allegiance to a false standard of truth."

P Spring Musical: The Pirates of Penzance

The Pirate King.

The Major-General.

After hundreds of hours of practice, the premiere performance of The Pirates of Penzance, an operetta written by Gilbert and Sullivan, took place on Monday, May 1, 1989. The Village Players gave six performances that week under the direction of Dr. David Robey. The cast was Robey's largest on the Alford Auditorium stage; it consisted of 33 members, 4 of whom were alumni.

The setting was the late 1800's. Frederick, celebrating his 21st birthday which was to release him from his contract as a pirate apprentice, planned to leave the pirates because he felt their actions were wrong. Ruth, his nursemaid from childhood, pleads to go along. Frederick thinks that Ruth is beautiful because she is the only woman that he has ever seen, but when he sees a "bevy of beautiful maidens," he leaves Ruth and falls in love with Mabel, the oldest daughter of the Major-General.

While they are talking, the pirates appear and capture the rest of the maidens. Posing as an orphan, the Major-General appears and gets the pirates, all of whom are orphans, to release his daughters out of sympathy for himself. Later, Frederick arranges for a band of policemen to capture the pirates, but then Frederick finds himself still bound to the pirates because he was born on leap year and was in all actuality only 5 and a quarter years old. Feeling a sense of duty to his contract, Frederick tells Mabel he must leave her. Rejoining the pirates, he tells them that the Major-General is not really an orphan. The policemen arrive, ready to capture the pirates, but they hide in fear when they hear the pirates coming. After the pirates capture the Major-General, policemen jump out from their hiding places and attempt to capture the pirates. Unfortunately, policemen are overpowered by the pirates and the police sergeant orders that the pirates surrender in the name of Queen Victoria. Out of love for their queen, the pirates surrender. It is then discovered that the pirates are all "noble men who have gone wrong," and Major-General Starbuck pardons them and gives them his daughters to marry.

One of the alumni parts was played by Jeff Beste, who commented, "The cast worked very well together, and it was neat to see the blend of experience: those who have been in plays before and those who had not." Three people who had key roles in the effectiveness of this musical performance. Dr. Robey showed his dedication as a director by being there whenever anything was going on. He was there to encourage and motivate even when he was not directly involved. Penny DePhillips, a graduate of Wright State University, did an amazing job with the cast in teaching choreography. "She took a group of people with little or no experience in choreography and helped them do things with their feet and hands that many did not think was possible." Don Johnson created and built the set. Practically living in the Alford Auditorium in order to get the set ready in time, Don created a set that prepared the minds of the audience for the performance that was to take place. The result of this hard work: "It was a lot of fun!"

P Annual Drama roductions

Drama is a very versatile tool in presenting messages, and it is used in many different ways during the school year at Cedarville College. Anything from short skits to make an announcement in Chapel to the quarterly drama production of the Village Players is used frequently for entertainment or for a more serious message. The Lifeline Players is a traveling group which goes to area churches and schools and performs short dramatizations which have a message for those who see them. The After Dinner Players is a group of professionals that travels the nation presenting Bible stories in present day terms. This group made a stop at Cedarville this year and took two days in chapel and a Wednesday evening service presenting the Bible through drama. The Jeremiah People make a stop annually at Cedarville presenting Biblical truths through drama, given to encourage and exhort Christians. Drama is being used by God to help bring the message of the Gospel to the world.

Cedarville fans greet freshman Troy Hahn.

Both men's and women's cross country teams had very profitable seasons in spite of the fact that neither team had many returning runners. Christian unity was the overriding theme of the season, and all the runners did an exceptional job of encouraging each other and displaying their theme of unity. The men's team, with only three returning runners, wasn't too consistent at the beginning of the season but showed much improvement and ran very well toward the end. One runner who had a tremendous season was junior Eric Fillinger.

"He was very consistent and competitive against all competition," said Coach King. Eric was the champion of every meet except one. He won the NCCAA national meet and placed sixth in the NAIA national meet. This allowed him to achieve all-American status for the third consecutive year in the NCCAA and the second consecutive year in the NAIA. Eric also received the Wheeler Award which is given to the outstanding Christian cross country runner of the year.

Determined runner Brenda Paulhamus placed first among Cedarville runners in all but two meets.

The women's team had an exciting season this year with the majority of the team made up of new runners and only three returning runners. Two of the freshmen, Brenda Paulhamus and Tammy Harvey, were named all-district in the NAIA and ran in the NAIA national meet—quite an accomplishment for their first year on a college team. As a team, the Lady Jackets ran well, winning the all-Ohio meet and placing third in the NCCAA national meet.

SOCCER

Go get 'em, Jackets!

If there were one word which could describe this year's soccer team, it was POTENTIAL. With eight returning players and a great deal of experience, the Yellow Jackets were ready to attack this season. Throughout a season of victories as well as disappointments, the team remained committed and strove to keep their focus on honoring the Lord above all else. Their commitment was realized when they won the district championship and were able to go to the nationals for the third time in five years. Although they didn't win the national championship, they did place fourth; and even more than that, they were given the Sportsmanship Award. On any team there isn't one player who can singly make the team succeed; and especially on this team, there were several players who did extremely well. Returning senior Paul Norman had a tremendous season with many accomplishments including being named All-American in the NAIA and NSCAA (National Soccer Coaches Association of America) for the second year and NCCAA All-American for the third year. Dave Kohlmeier was the leading scorer with nine goals and eight assists, and Brent Davis was named the Most Valuable Player.

Coach Elaine Brown, who received the "Coach of the Year" award for the Western Buckeye Collegiate Conference, had high expectations for the women's volleyball team this season. The Lady Jackets pulled through for her and played tremendously well, breaking Cedarville's past record of most number of wins with an overall record of 31 wins and 13 losses. With nine returning players who were all previous letters winners, the team had much experience on which they could build. Three of the returning players were seniors who have each played all four years and who will be greatly missed next year.

One senior, Jeri Hastman, had another great season with several accomplishments including first team in all-district NCCAA, all-district NAIA, and all-conference. She was named Player of the Week Sept. 12-17 in the NAIA district; and among Cedarville players, she was named most valuable hitter and most valuable player. Senior Tammy Mascari was named most valuable blocker for the Jackets. The third senior, Janae Smart, also had a great season making the all-conference first team and earning the most valuable defensive player award. Not only did the Lady Jackets have the best record ever, but they had a good season together as a team. One of their strong points was that they kept good attitudes in every situation. Says Coach Elaine Brown, they "represented Jesus Christ, Cedarville College, and themselves in outstanding fashion."

Join The Fun!

"Burnt Toast," the A-League flag football champs, pose after their final victory.

Do you love volleyball, but your version of the spike isn't quite what Coach Brown is looking for? Are you a soccer nut, but you just didn't have time to be on the varsity team this year? Then Cedarville intramurals are for you! The intramural program is a program of organized sports from men's flag football to women's soccer for anyone who wants to play regardless of skill level. The only requirement for playing intramural sports is interest, not ability. People play intramurals for a number of reasons including meeting new people, relieving stress, getting some good exercise, or just simply having fun. Fall Quarter intramural sports included soccer, flag football, volleyball, tennis, racquetball, three-men basketball, and one-on-one basketball. Many of the sports are divided into different leagues which allow students to compete against those students of similar ability. There's something for everyone, so come out for intramurals and join the fun!

Does that crazy Bee ever slow down?
A few not-so-reserved fans show their spirit.

What is it about a Cedarville basketball game that is so exciting? What is it that makes even non-basketball fans so eager to attend? There's only one answer: it's that never-dying Yellow Jacket spirit! Of course, the fans are a major part of all the excitement, but the cheerleaders, pep band, and our own Yellow Jacket mascot provide that extra flair that puts Cedarville basketball games in a class all their own. This year's cheerleading squad had no returning members from last season, but they didn't let this factor intimidate them. They practiced for hours in preparation for the season; and when the time came, they faithfully cheered and provided a great deal of pep and excitement at each game. Another lively group at the games was the pep band led by Michael DiCuirci. Anyone who played an instrument was welcomed to play in the band in an informal atmosphere dedicated to boosting spirit and having fun. Of course, one can't forget the mascot, the "Bee." All of his crazy antics without the slightest sign of exhaustion or boredom were enough to make the quietest fans laugh and cheer. Thanks to the hard work and dedication of a few, the cheerleaders, the pep band, the Bee; and the participation and spirit of many, the fans, Cedarville can enjoy a basketball season filled with fun and excitement.

BASKETBALL

Coaches, players, and fans alike began the 1988 - 1989 men's basketball season with at least some amount of uncertainty. With only two experienced players returning to the team's starting line-up, everyone was probably a little nervous about what the season held in store. As the season progressed, the enthusiasm and determination of the Yellow Jackets were evident as they began to develop and improve much more quickly than anyone had anticipated. Cedarville finished the season with a better-than-average record of 22 wins and 12 losses and a second-place rating in the NAIA District 22. Coach Callan felt that this was "even better than we could have anticipated with such a young team." Gary Harrison, a returning sophomore, led the team with an average of 16.2 points per game as well as being named to the All NAIA District 22 team and the Mid-Ohio Conference (MOC) second team. The second returning starter, Chris Reese, made 88% of his free throws and received honorable mention in the MOC. One of several new faces on the Cedarville team was 6'8" Mike Minto, a junior transfer from Central State University. He had 74 blocked shots for the season and was named to the All NAIA District 22 team and the MOC second team. Freshman Dominic McKinley contributed a high average of 8.2 rebounds per game and received honorable mention in the MOC. Several other players contributed a great deal to the team as well, proving that no single player can carry the team alone. The ability of the basketball team to work together and exemplify teamwork made it an exciting season with many rewards for everyone.

Undoubtedly, the Lady Jackets finished with their best season ever! New records were set both as a team and as individuals. Not only was this a great season in terms of the victories but also because the team experienced close unity and strong friendship among the players like they had never seen before. As Coach Bob Fires puts it, "This was a dream year. The way we played and the way we enjoyed each other will always be a blessing." After a very tough season just two years ago, this was definitely a "dream year!" In the NCCAA district championship game, Cedarville faced Taylor University, who had beaten Cedarville the previous year in the same situation. In a very close and exciting game, Cedarville defeated Taylor, giving Cedarville the championship title and a trip to Tennessee for the NCCAA national tourney.

Lynn Strickland moves past the opposition.

Tami Mascari jumps up for the shot!

The Lady Jackets put forth their best effort and were able to place second in the nation in the NCCAA! Seniors Chris Freisen and Joy Fagan both had rewarding seasons. Scoring a total of 509 points, Chris became the second all-time leading scorer for Cedarville as well as being named to the first team in all-conference, all-district NAIA, and all-district NCCAA and to the NCCAA national all-tourney team. Chris also received the honor of NCCAA Academic All American. Joy Fagan led the team in assists and was named to the second team in all conference, the NCCAA national all-tourney team, and the Concordia Classic all-tourney team. Lynn Strickland also received several honors including first team in all-district NAIA and the Concordia Classic all-tourney team.

The Cedarville wrestling season began in October with much uncertainty about what was to come. Many of this year's wrestlers were new; only 3 returned from last year. Not only did the team have many new wrestlers, but also they had a new coach: Mr. Alan Bennett. Throughout the season, the verse Mark 10:45 became representative of the attitude Coach Bennett and the wrestling team wanted to develop--servanthood. With many injuries and illnesses, the team never had all ten players at one meet. In fact, at one meet Cedarville participated with only three wrestlers. With this handicap the team saw the most overall improvement on an individual, rather than team, level. Dale Kime and Brian Phipps each received first place in their weight class in the NCCAA district championship, and Russ Kime received second place. In the NAIA Area 7, Dale Kime placed third and Brian Phipps placed second. As stated by the manager, Tim Holmes, "As we look back on the season, we see how we grew closer to one another and to God." With all the experiences and accomplishments on which the team has to build from this season, Coach Bennett along with the rest of the team, is looking forward to a great season next year.

--the man behind the scenes Mark Mathews

There is "something for everyone because everybody needs something." This is the motto Mark Mathews uses for his extensive line up of recreational activities. Mark strongly feels that anyone should be able to participate regardless of his or her athletic ability. With this in mind, he has organized a variety of activities reaching from non-competitive to competitive, from one-time-only to several times a week, and from lowest to highest skill level. Although many in the college family take advantage of Cedarville's exceptional intramural sports program, few are aware of the vast amount of planning and organizing that goes on behind the scenes in the Campus Activities Office. As Director of Recreational Activities, Mark is not only in charge of the planning, organizing, and administration of intramurals, but also he is in charge of the many special events such as beachball volleyball, class clash, residence hall week, "The Beach" party, and many other events throughout the year. His responsibilities also include selection and training of officials and the publicity and promotion of all of these programs. Mark has been employed as Director of Recreational Activities for five years which followed his two years as Cedarville's baseball coach. A 1982 graduate of Cedarville, Mark has his teaching degree in Physical Education and will finish his masters in Sports Management this summer at Ohio University. As of now, the future is open for Mark. He likes Cedarville and enjoys his job--especially the variety it offers!--but he is leaving his future open to the Lord's leading.

The winter intramural program provides a much-needed stress release for many students. During the winter months, it is very easy to get in the habit of vegetating in the dorm room every evening and giving up on all of those big exercise plans because it is "much too cold" to do anything outside. To solve this problem, there is a long line-up of organized activities that can be enjoyed indoors in the Athletic Center. A few of these activities include basketball, indoor soccer, racquetball, and bowling. Students can join any of several teams which play throughout the quarter.

INTRAMURALS

Tournaments at the end of the quarter determine the champions, and members of these teams receive free t-shirts. One activity which is popular all year long is the aerobics program coordinated this year by Lisa Bryant. Many students come to the athletic center in the evenings to take advantage of the hour-long workout. The aerobics program is not set up as a class, so there is no required attendance; it is simply open to anyone.

The men's tennis team finished the most exciting, most rewarding, and most successful season in the history of Cedarville tennis this year! For the 19th time in the past 21 years, Cedarville earned the NAIA district championship--but they didn't stop there. They made the trip to Kansas City for the NAIA Nationals and finished better than any other Cedarville team has in the past. They placed 8th in the nation, and each varsity level team member including Jeff Kohl, Steve Lesko, Dino Tsibouris, Bruce Taranger, P. J. Kitchen, and Steve Brumbaugh received all-district honors. Also receiving honors was Coach Murdoch who, for the 19th time, was named "Coach of the Year." Junior Dino Tsibouris says of this season, "Our 88-89 season was where we saw the fruit of two years of personal growth. The team attitude was always competitive, but this year we emphasized encouraging each other to perform our best. We took opportunities to witness to other players, to encourage each other, and to study the Word with each other. This not only brought our best season as a team but also was our most enjoyable."

Pre-season Bible studies and late-night practices at Dayton Indoor Tennis Club helped to prepare us both spiritually and physically for our best season record of 8-2. We made our way through an unusually cold and wet season with high hopes of winning the NAIA District 22 tournament. God saw fit, however, to allow us to learn through a tie-breaker loss to Walsh College. This was a disappointing end to a tremendous season. If I had to describe this year's team in one word, it would be "unity." There was a unity of spirit as we lovingly encouraged each other even after losing a tough match and a unity of purpose as we sought to glorify God through tennis. I have watched the team through tremendous wins and disappointing losses over the past four years as manager. I have also watched Dr. Diehl and her philosophy of the sport. Winning is her desire for the team, but it is not her goal. Her goal, rather, is that we glorify God with the talents and abilities He has given us.

Philippians 4:13 took on a new meaning for the Cedarville runners. With the cold and wet weather, there were many times that team members did not feel too excited about running in an outdoor track meet. This team, however, claimed this promise for provided strength, and they continued to go after their goals and to keep from becoming discouraged. From the men's track team, Eric Fillinger and J.P. Dawes went to the NAIA national meet, and both did very well. Eric placed 4th in the 10,000 meter, and J.P. placed 8th in the marathon. Eric also received all-American status in the NAIA. Winning the Western Buckeye Collegiate Conference was a highlight of the women's track season. The Lady Jackets gave their best effort throughout the entire season, and their diligence paid off when they won this victory. Three runners, Lynn Strickland, Brenda Paulhamus, and Tammy Harvey, had especially good seasons and qualified for the NAIA national meet. In the NCCAA, Lynn Strickland was named all-American. According to Coach King, one of the strengths of the 1989 track team was that they kept athletics in the proper perspective; and with their many accomplishments, this was a good goal for which to strive.

The baseball team was under the new leadership of Pete Reese this season. Reese has spent the last 23 years on the west coast at Los Angeles Baptist College and the Master's College. With 9 players returning from the last year, the Yellow Jackets saw many improvements. Shane Hardy, the team captain, had another great season as a hitter with the highest batting average of .382 and as a pitcher with an earned run average of 2.87. Shane was also named to the NCCAA all-conference team. With the majority of the players returning next year, Cedarville will provide some pretty stiff competition.

The women's softball team may not have had a winning season according to the season record, but ask any team member and she will give a very different opinion. There were several highlights during the '88-89 season that made this season great. Early in the season, two new pitching records were set by Chris Jackson and Kristi Culp. In one game, Chris pitched 13 strikeouts, and on the next day, Kristi pitched the second no-hitter in Cedarville history! Then, to end the season, Cedarville placed second in the conference tournament after defeating higher-ranked Findlay. For many of the team members, this was a year to learn and grow. The Lady Jackets were a young team with seven players returning. Three of these were seniors who each had a fantastic season. Rebecca Clifford finished the year scoring a team-high 18 runs and was named to the all-conference team along with Kristi Lough. Kristi also had the highest batting average of .319. Not only did several individuals have especially good seasons, but also the team had a special season because of their closeness. Unity was definitely a key to making this season a success.

Rebecca Clifford swings hard for another hit.

ATHLETIC TRAINERS

First row: Kim Dietrich, Becca Clifford, Kevin Bloomfield; second row: Evan Hellwig, Kim Bradley, and Doug Roberts

Athletic trainers are responsible for the health of our varsity athletes. Their purpose is to prevent injuries from happening and when an injury does occur, to help with the rehabilitation of that injury. The students in this program have a minor in athletic training and plan to pursue a career in that field.

Kim Bradley, the team athletic trainer, busily keeps the stats.

Kristi Culp tries for another no-hitter.

Dan Schearer lines it up before he swings.

Todd Pennington sets up to tee off.

Coach Monroe helps a puzzled golfer.

With a small amount of experience but a great deal of talent and determination, the Yellow Jackets proved they could hold their own in district 22 play. The majority of the varsity players were young, and the season began with some inconsistency; however, the players soon "developed into a competitive and consistent team" according to the coach, Dr. Allen Monroe. Two sophomores, Dan Schearer and Ryan Bowen, led the team with overall stroke averages of 80 and 80.9, respectively. In the final district tournament, Cedarville placed 4th out of 11 teams.

John Kohlmeyer lines up his ball before he tees off.

GOLF

Spring quarter at Cedarville is filled with exciting events and activities, but there is one event that tops all others--OOZE-BALL! What a fitting name for this popular volleyball game (played in the mud, of course!) Oozeball was one of several activities that took place during Residence Hall Week toward the end of the quarter. This week, planned by Mark Mathews, consisted of activities in which the entire campus could participate. Another fun event was "Battle for the Sahara," a campus-wide capture the flag game ending with a huge water fight.

Along with Residence Hall Week, there is a full quarter of other activities in which anyone can participate. Intramural sports in the spring include softball, basketball, volleyball, bowling, golf, aerobics, and the very popular walleyball, which is similar to volleyball but is played in a racketball court. All of these activities are open to anyone, and most activities are divided into A-league and B-league so that students can play with those of similar skill level. With such an extensive line-up, no one has an excuse not to get involved.

The weather was a little chilly for this fan. Some were willing to get a little muddy.

Let's see some smiles--it's not raining!

...and some weren't!

Covered with mud, Troy Hahn jumps for a hit.

Misti Gerwolds eyes her next target.

DREAMS OF PHYSICAL ACHIEVEMENT

First runner in Cedarville's history to be named an all-American for two years of his college career, Eric Fillinger has his ultimate dream set on the 1992 or 1996 Olympics. He is a junior chemistry/pre-med major and believes that everything he does now at Cedarville is preparing him for competition after college. Eric's rigid training schedule pushes him to 70-80 miles of running each week. Not only is he commended for his hard work but also for his Christian attitude toward his opponents. Eric is a model example of Cedarville's pursuit in motivation and diligence.

DREAMS OF FAMILY

Reehl, Mark
Reeves, Molly
Reid, Dave
Reiter, Jeff

Whether or not the students admit it, marriage is a dream that comes to all of their minds. Classes, seminars, and counselling are provided for those who are already making plans. "Pictionary" in the Science Center, a picnic around the lake, or even a luncheon at Chuck's cafeteria may be where it all begins. Not everyone will leave here engaged, but everyone will have the opportunity to develop godly traits and have social interaction that will benefit them as they pursue their future families.

DREAMS OF SERVICE

Fulfilling the God-given role of servanthood is a dream worth pursuing whatever the cost. Susan Bradway is finding this out as she prepares to become a volunteer registered nurse. With the need of nurses and the hospitals that are willing to pay, why volunteer? To become the nurse she hopes to be, volunteering is necessary. Susan wants to meet not only the physical needs of her patients but also the social needs of her patients (particularly the elderly). Her satisfaction lies in talking with them and being readily available to them. Susan has a unique calling, but it is one that exemplifies true servanthood.

The practicality, experience, and Christian perspective of Cedarville's faculty prepares junior Shaun Hannay for his dream. With a major in accounting and finance he hopes to work for his family's business in Westerlo, New York. Shaun hopes to become a Corporate Financial Officer and eventually the Vice President of Financing. Shaun emphasizes, "The atmosphere at Cedarville gives me a constant challenge to serve the Lord seven days a week, and I hope that will continue when I go out into the business world."

DREAMS OF MINISTRY

Chuck Hagy, a sophomore Bible Comprehensive major, dreams of using his life as a youth pastor in a local church or as a director of his own youth camp. The Christian ministry department is full of opportunities preparing students for the future; but Chuck Hagy claims, "My godly professors and friends prepare me for my future ministry." As they care for him and pray for him, he develops a deeper concern for others. In Chuck's unit anyone can call a prayer meeting for anything and people come to pray. He feels he develops a burden for others here at Cedarville that he would not be able to develop anywhere else. Chuck concludes, "When people are truly concerned for you, you have to get in on the action. Service becomes a way of life."

Strong, positive, and encouraging are words Laura Tuttle's friends use to describe her. A good friend Shelly Harris notes, "Laura was real in everything she did." In spring of 1988, Laura was diagnosed with cancer. She battled her disease without complaint until January 5, 1989. Her time was devoted to her studies: she wanted to use her Behavioral Science major in helping others. She may not have finished her college dream, but she was true to her goal of encouraging others even through her illness.

DREAMS OF THE ETERNAL

Refior, Nikki
 Regier, Gregory
 Reich, Rebecca
 Reid, Deborah

The students of Cedarville will never forget the inspiring diary of Debbie Kettle. On the first chapel of the 1988-89 school year, Dr. Dixon read how Debbie wanted her life to make a difference at Cedarville.

Through her godly heart, others could see wisdom and love. She always had a smile and a kind word. In the summer of 1988, Debbie went home to be with the Lord.

Those who attended her funeral knew that the balloons exemplified the true inward peace and joy that Debbie had and wished for others.

PATRONS

The MIRACLE annually provides an opportunity to the parents and churches of Cedarville's students to make a contribution. In these pages we seek to honor those parents and churches by listing their name and hometown as a witness to others of the financial support they have given to the yearbook. Thank you for your contribution.

SPECIAL THANKS

This section is in special recognition of those parents who gave $30 or more. Your extra contribution is very much appreciated.

A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

I was given the opportunity to work with the college yearbook as a freshman and although I knew some of the basics from high school, the format of the college yearbook was completely different from what I had experienced. I was given the opportunity to take a sub-editor position as a sophomore. This gave me a chance to design pages and put them together on my own. In spring quarter of my sophomore year, I talked to Mrs. Dixon and expressed my desire to be the editor of the Miracle, and in June she told me that I had been appointed to that position. Planning the book and choosing the theme began immediately, and in the fall, I chose for my staff those people who I thought would help me to produce a quality book. My goal for this book and for every experience that I and my staff had through this year has been to glorify God in everything that we have done. For everyone who has helped me to accomplish that goal, I am truly thankful.

A MIRACLE

COLOPHON: The Miracle is an annual student production of Cedarville College. Volume 36 was printed by the State College branch of Josten's Printing and Publishing Division. Charles Miller is the Josten's Field Representative stationed at Springfield, OH, and he is assisted by Tillie Billheimer. Plant Representative is Janice Bigelow. The Craftline cover is leathertone Forest with Mission grain and is silkscreened with Rich Gold and Pale Gold inks over the artwork which was designed by the editor with the assistance of AVTech Corporation of Dayton, OH. The endsheets are Gold Dust. The 216 pages are printed on 80# glossy paper: 66 are printed in clean color, 26 are printed in unlimited 4-process color, and 124 are printed in black and white. The Helvetica family of copy has been used for body copy throughout the book and the Lydian family has been used for headlines and sub-headlines. Design for the book has been the responsibility of the sectional editors with the consultation of the editor-in-chief. Student, faculty, and staff portraits were contracted through Walt Fouch with Directions in Photography, in Cincinnati, OH. Studio Photography was done by David Lesko of Lesko Fine Photography in Beavercreek, OH and by Lonnie Richards of Public Relations at Cedarville College.
