October 17, 2011

Last week's match against Notre Dame was yet another game that caused both celebratory dances and long faces. One thing is for sure: when we lose, we make it exciting.

We traveled three hours to Lynchurst, Ohio to arrive at Notre Dame College (the Falcons, not the Fighting Irish.) After being greeted by (and snapping a few pictures with) the life-size picture cutouts of Notre Dame athletes in their athletic center hallway, we meandered around the building like a lost herd of sheep for the second time that day. After this weekend, I think our team should sport a new slogan: CU Women's Soccer - We may not know where we're going, but at least we're early! You see, our nomadic tendencies actually began on our bus trip up.

It all started when our team marched onto the Dayton Dragon's charter bus in Cedarville. After strategically picking our seats that we would be inhabiting for six hours that day, Coach Bri dished us some thrilling news -- we were going to Quizno's instead of Subway for lunch! As the engine revved up and our stomachs dreamed of a sandwich shop that wasn't endorsed by Jerry, Coach Bri sat in the middle of the bus and soaked in the thanks we rained upon her for choosing a different restaurant. Meanwhile, the rain outside the bus pelted the cold windows, reminding us that our game was going to be chilly and wet. However, we were too distracted by the breaking food news to worry about the weather of the match.

Over halfway there, we pulled off an exit while Bri directed our bus driver to "Quizno's." We hustled out of our mobile cave, our stomachs growling like bears. We walked past a cluster of stores as Coach Mac led the charge to the restaurant. Following the crowd, half of us walked right by the alleged Quizno's that Bri had in mind. Dark room, construction inside. Quizno's was closed. Some of us laughed, some of us cried (no not really.) Then we trudged back onto the bus and stopped at the next available restaurant around...Subway. Bri is not going to live that one down anytime soon.

The game itself was on a local high school football field the Falcons use for their home turf. The majority of the match was accompanied with misty rain, which reminded Melissa "Blinks" Ruhlman of sweet Seattle. It reminded Jill "Team Edward" Carroll of Forks.

Notre Dame scored their first goal midway through the first half. However, we maintained more minutes of possession of the ball. The last twenty minutes of the second half, we camped out near their goal, coming close numerous times to getting one in. Being the dramatic team we are, it wasn't until the last fifteen seconds of regulation time that Arianna

"Come sail away" Pepper sent a free kick into the box and Deanne "Deanimal" Bradshaw snuck it in the lower left corner of the goal using her head. We were absolutely ecstatic.

Unfortunately, overtime was yet again unkind to us. In the last couple minutes of the second overtime, the Falcons sealed the win on a breakaway. I'm pretty sure my mouth was hanging open when I saw it happen, because the side referee walked past me and murmured, "After all of that. I really thought you had them. What a shame."

Personally, I was disappointed in the loss because Coach Mac's inspirational locker room speech went to waste. However, I will still leave you with one of his memorable quotations from game day: "Girls, we are going to go to the bus so that we can go to the bus. We are going to get on the bus. Then, we are going to drive." (Coach Mac, you know I'm just pulling your leg for the jokester you are.)

We travel to Malone Tuesday with the boys team for a doubleheader. Pray for safety. It probably wouldn't hurt to pray for our sanity as well.

See you on the field!
