September 12, 2011

Three away games, twenty hours on a bus, five movies, a documentary, two continental breakfasts, 4 1/2 completed crossword puzzles (@MoZie), hundreds of tweets, countless homework assignments finished (none of them being mine), a win, a tie, and a loss – last week was a memorable one.

Tuesday we traveled to Defiance, Ohio to take on another set of Yellow Jackets. They were also located in the middle of the cornfields, and the similarities didn't stop there. As the game began, we didn't realize our twelfth opposing player would be the wind. This was not just any wind, but the kind you only find in high-performance wind tunnels or walks around Cedar Lake. Although we dominated possession during the game (you'll get sick of hearing me say that), Defiance found the net first. It wasn't until the end of the first half that Kristie "The Big Bad" Wolff decide to huff and puff and blow the keeper out of the way with her first collegiate goal, as well as the first goal of our season.

During halftime, I overheard defender Arianna "I eat, sleep, and breathe Disney movies" Pepper state how she was itching for a goal as well. It was more than exciting when her free kick in the second half sailed right into the net like John Smith sailed right into the path of Pocahontas. Other goals by Amanda "Yellow Card" Bunton and Morgan "I love my work boots" Ziegler sealed the deal for our first W of the season.

After a pit stop at Cedarville, we jumped back on the bus Thursday night for our journey to Bryan College in Tennessee. Surprisingly, the seven-hour trip did not seem that long. This was probably due to the fact that coach encouraged us to "interact" with one another. In fact, these were his exact words: "Interact with each other, ladies. When I coached the men's soccer team, they would always talk about their upcoming plans and future spouses, fun stuff like that." Although we may not have touched on those exact subjects, we had a lot of fun. We are also still debating whether tweeting is an acceptable team-bonding activity.

Friday, we took on the Bryan Lions with one of the most hopeful, yet frustrating games I have ever played. Our team out-shot the Lions 23-2, a margin of 17-0 in the second half, but we simply could not get the ball past their goalie. It was a similar story on Saturday when we competed against Cumberlands, another team in the tournament.

Unfortunately, shooting percentages don't win games. However, we also gained confidence in our new system of play and started to get more chemistry on the field. It is extremely humbling to head home after some disappointing results, but maybe that's what our team needed. Thankfully, we won't have to hop back on another bus for a while as our next six matches are at home. We take on Taylor University at 6:00 pm Tuesday night.

See you on the field!
Kelsey Watkins is a senior forward from Parkersburg, WV majoring in graphic design.

Tonight's Match

The Cedarville University women's soccer team hosts the Taylor University Trojans tonight at Yellow Jacket Field in the home opener of the 2011 season.

The Lady Jackets enter tonight's game with a record of 1-2-1 after tying Bryan College 0-0 and dropping a 1-0 decision to Cumberlands KY this past weekend at the Bryan Classic in Dayton, Tenn.

Taylor brings a 3-2 record into the match with Cedarville including their most recent action - a 2-1 setback to visiting Trinity International on Saturday.

The Lady Jackets have struggled to put the ball in the net in the early going. The team has scored four goals - by four different players - Amanda Bunton, Arianna Pepper, Kristie Wolf and Morgan Ziegler.

Amanda Bunton

Senior forward Kelsey Watkins, who ranks eighth all-time at CU with 16 goals, has the lone assist in 2011.

The Lady Jackets will be relying on a new keeper tonight versus Taylor as starting goalie freshman Keri Sachtleben is out with injury and back-up Christine Faulds has not seen action yet due to injury.

Head Coach John McGillivray is in his 14th season with the Lady Jackets after serving as the CU men's coach for 24 years.

Taylor is led on offense by junior forward Cara Johnson with four goals and two assists for 10 points. Senior Taylor Hale and sophomore Molly Drooger also have posted four goals in the first five matches for TU. The only other Trojan score this season is rookie forward Sofia Cabrejas.

Cara Johnson

Corrie Sehr, a junior keeper, has seen most of the action this season allowing four goals with 11 saves in 315 minutes of action.

Taylor, NAIA members of the Mid-Central Collegiate Conference, has scored 13 goals while giving up just six.

Cedarville holds an 8-3-2 lead in the all-time series with the Trojans including a 26-19 margin in goals scored. Taylor posted a 4-0 win over the Lady Jackets last September in Upland, IN.
