CEDARVILLE COLLEGE — PRE 1923

ACCREDITATION

April 9, 1975, was a day to be remembered. It was on that day that President James T. Jeremiah received a message for which he had been waiting 20 years.

"Cedarville College has been awarded full accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools."

This was the goal that had been the focus of many years of deliberate planning and hard work by Dr. Jeremiah, his administrative team, and many members of the faculty. The feeling of warm relief combined with thanksgiving to the God who made the achievement possible will not be soon forgotten.

Recognition by the 80-year-old accrediting association has been sought by every administration in the history of Cedarville College, but size limitations and financial instability resulted in repeated rejections and inevitable concern.

It has been during the presidency of Dr. Jeremiah, however, that the College has expanded and improved its educational program to the point of fulfilling North Central's stiff requirements.

The North Central Association, one of six branches of the Federation of Regional Accrediting Commissions, has the responsibility of evaluating the quality of colleges and universities within its jurisdiction. To be eligible for approval, a school must be recognized as a bona fide educational institution which is achieving its avowed purposes in an acceptable manner.

As was the case with Cedarville, final determination is made on the basis of a thorough self-study examination by an association evaluation team.

Accreditation is thus a significant accomplishment.

Cedarville is still a small college with substantial needs and concerns, but the faith that has been placed in the College's growth and development by the North Central Association is an encouragement of the highest order.

Continuing to stand "for the Word of God and testimony of Jesus Christ," with full academic accreditation, Cedarville College is in the process of achieving its greatest potential.

SOUNDING BOARD

Dear Alumnus:

One of the most significant aspects of Cedarville's recent accreditation is the educational recognition that the College now possesses and the advantage of that recognition to us as alumni.

Perhaps the greatest benefit is that graduate schools, school systems, employers, and professional organizations will accept Cedarville graduates and former students without question. In most cases the effect will be retroactive.

The fact that Cedarville is now fully accredited can also provide you with additional confidence in recommending your Alma Mater to prospective students. This knowledge, combined with your personal experience, will be an encouragement to young people planning advanced training and parents who are concerned about educational quality.

An additional benefit which affects both you and the College is that employer matching gift programs and foundation grants are much more possible now that the limiting factor has been removed.

You can also be confident that Cedarville College will not cease to improve. Accreditation is not an end in itself, but it is a part of the process in which our college's quality continues to develop in consultation with the North Central Association.

As alumni of Cedarville College, we have much for which to be thankful.

DAN STEVENS '69

DR. WAYNE DICKASON

"I love it!", responded Dr. Wayne Dickason when Harold and Donna Moore ('69) recently inquired concerning his work in the field of plastic surgery.

He went on to explain that it is the diversity and the challenge of meeting each patient's unique need that provide the greatest interest in his profession.

With an associate at St. Peter Hospital in Olympia, Washington, Dr. Dickason is active in surgery entailing nearly all congenital deformities, hand and facial surgery, head and neck tumors, and aesthetic surgery as well as the care of burns. He currently is concentrating on salivary gland tumor research.

Wayne, who attended Cedarville College in 1958 and 1959, now resides in Olympia with his wife, Joan, and their two children, Tonya (10), and Jeffrey (9). He received the M.D. degree from Michigan State in 1966. There followed a ten-year period of training and experience in internship, surgical residency, service as a surgeon for the U.S. in Vietnam, and plastic surgery residency.

The Dickasons are anxious at this time to "settle down to life . . ." as Wayne builds his practice, continues to publish in professional journals, and becomes increasingly involved at the University of Washington.

Though quite busy in his profession, Dr. Dickason places a high priority upon spending time with his family. A home overlooking Puget Sound with a view of Mt. Rainier and a tree house in the back yard reflects their enjoyment of swimming, sailing, beachcombing, hiking, and skiing as well as hours together at home.

The entire family is active in a variety of programs at Westwood Baptist Church in Olympia with both Dr. and Mrs. Dickason participating in music and education responsibilities, and the children involved in youth activities.

As a physician, Dr. Dickason has found that professional excellence combined with the practical application of Biblical principles is invaluable in meeting the total need of his patients.

As a husband and father he has recognized the value of quality relationships in a Christ-centered home.

. . . A most commendable combination.

Editorial—

The Tough Job Is Ahead

Antioch trustees and President James P. Dixon took an important step with their joint decision that Dr. Dixon should step down from the presidency by June 1977. The controversy surrounding Dr. Dixon had made it impossible for him to continue effectively in office, yet his staying until a successor is chosen will help assure continuity of program.

Antioch has a fine program and an excellent faculty (partly as a result of Dr. Dixon's efforts). Its present moves to put its finances in order are necessary for survival. But if the Yellow Springs campus is to continue to attract students, it must face up to an even more difficult problem: the loss of any sense of community among the students.

Twenty-five years ago thefts were rare at Antioch. Dormitory doors had no locks; rapes and armed robberies were unheard-of; the sole campus night security force was a single somnolent watchman; police weren't needed because Antioch had a working honor system.

Contrast that with today. Caf and bookstore run up huge deficits because of pilferage. Students in positions of trust embezzle money. Women can't go out at night for fear of being attacked. People are robbed at gunpoint in their dormitory rooms. Each week's local mayor's court brings its quota of students arrested for shoplifting, who nonetheless are allowed to remain at Antioch, perhaps to steal and steal again.

It is sometimes said that Antioch's security problems are a result of "outsiders." Yet eight miles from Yellow Springs is another college, about Antioch's size, which has none of these problems. No rapes or armed robberies there. Dorm rooms are left unlocked. Bicycles are safe. People are concerned about one another's welfare. They treat one another with consideration and respect.

Of course we liberated intellectuals of Yellow Springs like to snicker up our sophisticated sleeves at the "parochial narrowness" of Cedarville College. No freedom there, we say. (Without having been there.) Yet ask yourself: what kind of freedom do we have, when one can hardly venture outside at night for fear of bodily harm? Isn't it just possible that the Christians at Cedarville College know some things about building community that we have forgotten?

The future of Antioch will be in part determined by budgetary decisions, but to a greater extent it will be determined by the number and kind of students who choose to come.

It's worth pausing to consider. What does it mean? At Antioch, enrollment is shrinking. At Cedarville, it is growing.

FOCUS ON THE FIELDS

With no Bible School, no translation work, few missionaries and no organized churches, Gordon and Alice Wimer ('55) are now in the Ivory Coast. They are involved in linguistic study and are in need of equipment. They will be returning to the States in May for their children's weddings.

Dave ('56) and Joan ('56NG) Gardner report that two students successfully finished the first term at Goroka Baptist Bible College. Their oldest daughter, Pat, is a freshman at Cedarville College.

Sam ('56) and Ellen Hornbrook are now residents of Mexico. The Bible Institute has 12 students and the new library is in use.

Ray ('59) and Jan ('66) Reiner are encouraged with an increase in Sunday School attendance in Brazil. However, they desire to see genuine, lasting conversions.

Jim Entner ('61) went to the Amazon in December to investigate the possibilities of a new medical work. Three new couples have been appointed by ABWE to Palawan.

Jeannie Lockerbie ('61) reports great success in the literature ministry in Bangladesh, as well as great needs involving the purchase of land and the building of a publishing complex. 325,000 pieces of literature were produced in 1974.

John ('64) and Judy ('67) Bigelow are traveling many deputation miles as they are home on furlough.

Norm ('64) and Evelyn (Thomas, '64) Nicklas and family ask prayer for Evelyn as she undergoes further examination to see if surgery is needed. They are thrilled with the potential of the new church.

Arnold ('66) and Mary Ann Fruchtenbaum continue working with the American Board of Missions to the Jews. Arnold is now Editor and holds meetings for Hebrew Christian fellowship and outreach. Pray for a house and for the library program—$1,000 for both Jerusalem and Tel Aviv is needed.

Chuck ('67) and Bev Truxton are encouraged by the progress of the Evangelical Churches of West Africa. All the churches are pastored by Nigerians and are self-supporting. The first nationwide ECWA Pastors' Conference was very profitable. The Truxtons came home on furlough in March.

The John ('68) Ruecks give praise for the new office in Vienna and Christians willing to help renovate the facilities. They are encouraged with the teacher training classes being held in six locations. These classes train others to teach Good News Clubs and Sunday Schools.

Dan ('68) and Betty Lacey need a building in Libourne, France for their work. The Lord has been blessing their work.

Kathy Cartner ('69) reports needs at Faith Academy in the Philippines: maintenance supervisor, librarian, three elementary teachers; junior high social studies and English teachers. She has conducted a Personal Ministries program which God has richly blessed. Pray for wisdom as she has a ministry with young girls.

Dave ('69) and Darlene (Durke, '67) Fidler are still "plugging away at the difficult language of Bengali." A new X-ray machine has been installed in the hospital.

Sami and Roxanne (Butler, '69) Kanani report that they are holding services each Sunday and Wednesday with the Arabs in Detroit, Michigan. Sami is out of the hospital but does have a slipped disc.

Frank ('70) and Brenda Bale in Ontario, Canada, rejoice in the growth of believers and the salvation of souls over the past year. After the Evangelistic campaign in June, they will begin their furlough. It is reported that $2,000 is lacking at the Seminary.

Martha Cox ('70) left for Ghana, West Africa on October 29, 1974 under Baptist Mid-Missions to teach missionary children.

Lillian Burkhart ('73) is busy on deputation. She will leave in May for linguistic studies in Canada and then for French study in Europe before going to the Central African Republic.

Joe ('74) and Vicki Weah arrived in Liberia on October 8, 1974. Joe is now serving as Assistant Pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Monrovia.

DR. DAVID A. HULL, D.O.

David Hull ('70) received the D.O. degree from the Kirksville (MO) College of Osteopathic Medicine June 3, 1974, and is currently serving his internship at the Grandview Hospital in Dayton, Ohio. While at Kirksville, Dave participated in a practical studies program involving hospital work in Tulsa, OK, Kirksville, and Fulton, MO, and Cleveland, OH, as well as rural clinic experience. Now living in North Dayton, Dave, his wife Kathy (Albright, '70) and their two daughters Gwendolyn (3½) and Ginger (8 mo), are all looking forward to July 1, 1975, when they will be moving to Morning Sun, Iowa where Dave will join the medical practice of Dr. Robert I. Carleton.

BOOK REVIEWS

by Dr. Robert Gromacki

ONE PLUS ONE by Tim Timmons

Are you getting married soon? Or have you just been married? Do you have friends who have just become engaged or married? Do you just want to know more about the real meaning of the marital union? Here is some good news. One Plus One is a book you should purchase as a gift or just for your own profit.

In the introduction, Timmons explains that the book "... offers a summary plan for how to have oneness in marriage." It is not a complete manual, but rather a capsule version of the Christian Family Life Seminars that Timmons has conducted throughout the country.

The eighty-page, seven-chapter book discusses God's original design for marriage, the responsibilities of both the husband and the wife, the nature of genuine love, and both the spiritual and the physical needs of each partner. The book concludes with a new marriage ceremony that incorporates within it the major principles of the book.

Timmons has made a valuable contribution to the growing literature centered around marriage and the home. It is highly recommended. It comes with an attractive hard, white cover with gold print. A marriage certificate is enclosed.

JESUS WAS A JEW

by Arnold Fruchtenbaum

If you want to give an unsaved Jew a book written by a Jew about the messiahship of Jesus Christ, this latest volume by Arnold Fruchtenbaum, Jesus Was A Jew, should meet your need. The first chapter, full of quotations from unsaved Jews, shows that there is no common agreement among Jews over the real identity of Jesus. The second chapter contains an excellent exposition of Isaiah 53. Arnie brings out most clearly that the orthodox concept of two messiahs, the Son of Joseph who would suffer and the Son of David who would reign, is a misinterpretation of the one messiah who would come twice to the earth.

The next three chapters trace the other messianic prophecies in the Old Testament and shows their fulfillment in New Testament references to Jesus Christ. He then ably refutes the various Jewish objections to the messiahship of Christ. The book ends with a series of testimonies of saved Jews from all strata of society. The one unfortunate feature is that Arnie failed to include his own testimony. His friends, including me, would have liked to have read that.
