A WORD WITH ALUMNI

Greetings!

In 1977, college and university enrollments in the United States dropped for the first time since 1951. It is estimated that 25% fewer students will be attending college during the 80's. So how do you explain Cedarville College's success? Enrollment grew by 46% during the decade of the 70's and 23% in the last two years. Applications for 1982-83 are coming in at a record pace! Perhaps these words from Wisdom's Dwelling, the college alma mater, are a key: "O let us be God's humble tool, that He may use us and our school." Certainly the "us" refers to more than the students, administrators, or faculty and staff. It speaks also of faithful alumni dedicated to the furtherance of Christian higher education. We thank those of you who send and support students from your church or hometown. Thank you for praying, for giving sacrificially, for sharing your experiences and memories of classes, faculty, dorm life, and fellow students with others who are interested in Cedarville College. God has used all of these things to His glory and for "our school."

I would like to call your attention to two articles in this issue: "Callan Wins 300" and "Faculty Profile." They highlight the lifestyle of two individuals whom God continues to use at Cedarville College. Coach Callan, in his twenty-second year, recently joined an elite group of Ohio coaches by gaining his 300th victory. Professor James Grier, after many years of dedicated service to the college, has accepted the position of academic dean of Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary.

Have you considered vacationing with your family at the Alumni Summer Enrichment Conference June 30-July 3 at Cedarville College? See details on page 6.

Sincerely in Christ,

Way Kuhn.

Alumni Annual Fund Drive

Each year, the Alumni Annual Fund drive commences July 1 with the college fiscal year and ends when the books are closed on June 30. The success of these drives has been remarkable the past few years, and alumni are to be commended for their faithful support of Cedarville College.

It has been our custom to consider all gifts from alumni as being given to the Annual Fund. However, we find this does not give us a basis for comparison with the giving of other institutions, since our giving has included capital campaigns, student missionary internship support, endowment, and other designated gifts. Therefore, your Alumni Council will use a new accounting method for Annual Fund giving beginning July 1.

Below is a list of previous Annual Fund totals:

			Other
Fiscal Year	General Fund	Capital	Restricted	Total
1978-79	$29,382	$15,629	$20,318	$ 65,329
1979-80	45,708	8,895	27,835	82,458
1980-81	48,513	54,004	34,829	137,346
Fiscal Year 1981-82 (July 1-Jan 31)	Annual Fund $45,477	Capital $42,085	Other Restricted $14,278	Total $101,840
(cary round)

Since you may have questions in reference to Annual Fund giving, we've attempted to answer them with the following dialogue.

- Q. Why does Cedarville need money? I thought tuition paid the expenses.
- A. Student income has provided only 92% of the Cedarville expenses. Gifts from alumni, friends, and businesses help provide the difference and assure a balanced budget.
- Q. Why call on alumni for financial help? We paid our tuition.
- A. While you did pay your tuition, it did not cover all the cost of your education. Now that you are benefitting from your Christian education at Cedarville College, we hope you will invest in your alma mater so that others can experience a quality education.

- Q. How long will the Annual Fund drive go on?
- A. The Annual Fund drive lasts for one year and begins anew each July 1 with the college fiscal year.
- Q. Suppose I want to give my money for a specific purpose?
- A. Fine idea just indicate your desire on the check. Your gift will be restricted for the purpose you designate.
- Q. What will be done with the money I give to the Annual Fund?
- A. Any unrestricted gift is used wisely to meet the greatest need facing the college. Your gift may help purchase new equipment, replace worn equipment, or pay a faculty member's salary.
- Q. I give $10 a month as a Torch Club member. Why are you asking me to give more for the Athletic Center campaign?
- A. Operating expenses are incurred daily and the Torch Club gifts, as well as other unrestricted gifts to the Annual Fund, help meet these needs. We seek gifts from alumni over and above their annual gift to help pay for capital projects. We need the support of all alumni, no matter what the amount. A small gift is as important as a large gift.
- Q. How many alumni support Cedarville College financially?
- A. Approximately 1200 individuals or alumni families were contributors last year that's one out of every four alumni. Many businesses and foundations base their gifts on the percentage of alumni supporting the college. Therefore, the higher the number of alumni giving to the Annual Fund, the more we can attract support from other resources.
- Q. Suppose I don't have the money right now?
- A. The important thing is that we need your help. Our bills are paid throughout the year. You can invest in Cedarville College at your convenience, and you may be assured your gift is greatly appreciated.

Area Meetings Successful

Thank you, alumni, for your support at area alumni gatherings. Your attendance has been overwhelming, and we hope it has been enjoyable for each one of you. These gatherings are intended to inform you of changes that are occurring at Cedarville as well as to provide an opportunity for Christian fellowship with many of your Cedarville friends. We are sharing these results to encourage you to consider a fellowship in your area. We can work together if you are interested in hosting or helping to organize a Cedarville gathering in your area. Please contact the alumni office for information.

Alumni Night... on Campus

Saturday, February 13, ALUMNI NIGHT in the new Athletic Center was perhaps the start of a new tradition at Cedarville College. Because of the excellent response of alumni returning to play, the former stars played each other rather than the traditional J.V. opponent. This was done to allow each athlete more playing time, not because of any fear of facing the more durable J.V. squad as was their custom.

Coach Callan wanted to divide the alumni by graduation years, but the even-year graduates were outmanned 3 to 1 by the odd-year graduates. Therefore, the men were divided into two teams, a blue team and a gold team. Selection was made with factors such as height and skill used to determine an equal level of competition — at least that was the idea. Physical fitness took its toll on the athletes. However, glimpses of their old forms were experienced often enough to take our memories back to the days of the "pit" when each proudly wore the blue and gold.

The gold team won the contest 103-89, with scoring power provided by 1981 super sub Greg Greve scoring 25 points. Scott Carr ('81) and Ted DeShields ('81) added 17 points each for the winners. The blue team, down by five points with five minutes remaining, couldn't find the necessary scoring punch in the final minutes. Leading the blue team with 18 points was Rick Hickman ('80). Gary McDowell ('71) added 17 points.

Blue Team
First row I to r: Jerry Osborn ('67), Darwin Boertje ('70), Loren Reno ('70),
Russ Clark ('77), Rick Hickman ('81).
Second row I to r: Gary McDowell ('71), Mark Streitmatter ('79), Jerry

Gold Team Kneeling I to r: Vance Ashley ('67), Norris Smith ('63), Greg Ğreve ('81), Curt Berger ('81). Standing I to r: Lynn Howard ('73), Ted DeShields ('81), Dave Burtner ('77), Scott Carr ('81), Rock Thacker ('77).

Many alumni commented on how much they enjoyed the new format and playing in the new gym. The spectators also agreed by their attendance and enthusiasm that Alumni Night is a great night to return to the Cedarville campus.

Prior to the alumni game, a special luncheon was held to honor the varsity basketball alumni involved in raising funds for the Athletic Center. Under the direction of National Chairman Loren Reno ('70), a network of volunteer phoners was set up to contact all former basketball players. Each basketball alumnus was personally asked to make a pledge toward the completion of the Athletic Center to be paid over a threeyear period. At the luncheon, Loren announced over $25,000 had been committed from twenty-one players, and a higher figure is expected to be reached by the time all pledges are in. The major goal of this effort is to get 100% response or support from the former basketball athletes. Coach Callan also addressed the attentive group, discussing the Athletic Center's versatility. The meeting ended with the viewing of "The Excellence Experience," the college recruitment multi-media production.

Summer School News

Any child of a Cedarville College graduate now may attend one summer school term tuition free, providing the individual meets the admission requirements of the college. In addition, such a student will be subject to the following: (1) The student must attend between his junior and senior years in high school, and (2) Only 100-level general education courses may be taken. Such courses would include Old Testament Survey, Fundamentals of Speech, Grammar and Syntax, and Principles of Biology. No more than 10 credit hours may be taken tuition free.

The cost to a student would include application and registration fee of $25, board $180, room $120, health service fee $8, and if appropriate, science laboratory fee $20.

Another new summer school program makes it possible for gifted high school graduates who are college bound to earn 3 credit hours and be introduced to concepts of integration of science and knowledge. To be eligible for this program, a student must be recommended by his high school principal or guidance counselor, have at least an ACT composite of 25 or SAT score of 525, and rank in the upper 15% of his class.

The program is structured as a 5-day seminar in which students participate in a variety of classes, chapel, and cultural activities. The total cost is $130 for room, board, activities, and instruction.

Speakers for the 23rd Annual Missionary Conference January 10-15 were: Dr. Wendell Kempton, ABWE; Rev. Esper Ajaj, Arabic Baptist Church, Washington, D.C.; Rev. Charles John, Baptist Mid-Missions; and Rev. Starlon Washington, Community Bible Baptist Church, Grand Rapids, Michigan. These men spoke on the theme "I Am Debtor...Ready...Not Ashamed....Romans 1:14-15."

The world premiere of "Logos," a sacred cantata by Stephen Winteregg, composer-in-residence, was presented by the Cedarville College Brass Choir and Concert Chorale under the direction of professors Charles Pagnard and Dr. Lyle Anderson, respectively.

Science department faculty members, Dr. Larry Helmick ('63) and Mr. Lawrence N. Killian, held a Bible-Science Conference at Bethel Baptist Church, Erie, Pennsylvania, which included the discussion of such topics as "The Basis of Scientific and Biblical Dates," "Fearfully and Wonderfully Made," and "The Search for Noah's Ark."

Dr. John Reed, former faculty member who is chairman of Dallas Theological Seminary's pastoral ministries department, was presented the Air Force Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service, one of the military's most prestigious medals. He has served in the Air National Guard for ten years and is currently a chaplain lieutenant-colonel with the Air Force Reserve at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Texas.

On January 29, 1982, Diane Bish, "The First Lady of the Organ," delighted her audience with a concert on the Allen digital organ in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel. Her performance was one of the season's Artist Series programs.

Professor James Bjornstad, Northeastern Bible College, spoke on "Modern Cults and Brainwashing" for the Staley Foundation Lecture Series, held on campus February 16-18.

The Cedarville College Village Players presented "Who Can Be Reasonable When the Subject is Love?" as this year's winter production. This readers theatre presentation dealt with various aspects of love as viewed by authors William Shakespeare, George Bernard Shaw, Carl Sandburg, and Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Campus Activities personnel have moved to their new offices on the second floor of the Athletic Center. In the same area, the Student Center nears completion. This year's student body project is raising money to help complete the Student Center, and they are giving a 12 oz. bottle of liquid soap to anyone making a gift of $5 or more.

The exhibit "Ohio: A Photographic Portrait, 1935-1941" was displayed in the Library, February 8-21.

On February 12, Professor Richard W. Pierard, author and specialist in German history at Indiana University, lectured on campus on "The Christian Roots of the Holocaust" and "The Meaning of the Holocaust for Today."

For the first time in Yellow Jacket wrestling history, the Cedarville grapplers brought home a trophy, the second place award at the Christian College Classic held in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

John McGillivray, soccer coach, and Don Callan, varsity basketball coach, will each hold a sports clinic at Word of Life summer camp in Schroon Lake, New York.

A Free Enterprise Conference sponsored by the student business club, Kappa Epsilon Alpha, was held on campus March 5-6. Speakers included businessmen Orie Fritts and Reese Kauffman. This two-day conference promoting free enterprise attracted area college students, local merchants, and especially area high school students.

On December 13, 1981, the James T. Jeremiah Chapel resounded with the 140 voice Cedarville College Oratorio Chorus when they sang selections from Handel's Messiah under the direction of professor of music, Dr. Charles Ellington, accompanied by organist Karl Stahl and harpsichordist Phil McClure.

Over 100 children are members of the newly formed "Li'l Jackets," a group created by the Yellow Jacket Club. Membership is open to all children through the sixth grade. Special activities have included a team picture night, an ice cream party with the Yellow Jacket basketball team, and a song night with President Dixon directing.

Vera (Andrew '03) Harvey, perhaps the oldest senior member of the Alumni Association, celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday February 8.

Actors in the film "The Life of Hudson Taylor," missionary to China, produced by Ken Anderson Films, are faculty members Wes and Rebecca Baker in leading roles and alumni Ginny (Decker '80) Potter, Mike Brumbaugh ('79), and Lisa Ramsey ('81).

The Spring Enrichment Conference speaker was Dr. David Jeremiah ('63), Pastor of Scott Memorial Baptist Church, El Cajon, California.

A new 150 occupant dormitory located north of Lawlor is scheduled to be completed by the fall guarter, 1982.

Our Jewish Heritage

In its second year, the Alumni Summer Enrichment conference promises to be one you will never forget and one that may be hard to duplicate. Where else can you study archaeological sites buried deep in Jerusalem or the zealot stronghold on top of Masada, or experience in person a Passover service without traveling to Israel?

Refresh your body and challenge your mind while under the teaching of such men as Dr. James T. Jeremiah ('73H), Chancellor of Cedarville College and host of ten trips to the Holy Land; Reverend David Levy of the Friends of Israel Gospel Ministry; and Dr. Gerald Smelser ('77H), formerly the superintendent of the Cleveland Hebrew Mission.

As you relax on the campus of Cedar-ville College, you and your family can enjoy the new athletic facilities and area sites, including John Bryan State Park and Clifton Gorge. Other attractions: a four of an area synagogue and the film "Jesus" which was filmed entirely in the Holy Land and is based on the Gospel according to Luke.

The cost of this spiritually enriching vacation has been kept to a minimum so that the entire family may attend. Children will have a daily program and baby sitters will be on duty. The cost includes room and board; however, bring your own towels.

A brochure with more information is in the mail. We are expecting a crowd much larger than last year, so send your reservations in early! See you there!

Williams Hall Renovated

Currently the home of the alumni office, Williams Hall was built in 1960 as a girls' dormitory. It was meant to house 100 women, but the construction was not completed for the beginning of that school year. Girls were lodged in faculty homes and in the lounges of other women's dorms, and they moved into the dorms as the rooms were completed. The painters could do one room a day, so each night two girls moved into the completed room. Little by little, the lounges and homes were emptied as rooms became available.

At that time the dorm had no name; it was just known as the "new dorm." In the mid-60's it was named Williams Hall by the popular demand of the students. Dr Arthur Williams, former dean of students, had become ill. As he was hospitalized and not expected to live, the women living in the "new dorm" voted to name the hall in honor of their dean, so it was officially named Williams Hall, Dr. Williams recovered and was able to appreciate the honor.

Later, when the need for a men's dorm became more pressing. Williams Hall was given to the men. At one point, 145 men shared the space originally designed for 100. With only one shower-restroom facility for each of the four halls, schedules had to be juggled; cooperation was the byword.

"Williams housed a lot of 'gangs," commented Mr. Richard McIntosh, who was then dean of men. At one time Pi Sigma Nu men lived there, and once there was an Upper East Athletic Association. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh were the advisors for the UEAA group. This group set up the gym for intramurals; and in the days when chapel was held in the gym (which is now the dining hall), these men were responsible for pulling out and pushing in the bleachers every day. Most recently, "Lower East" was the place to be; or was it "Upper West"? Each hall had its own sense of pride and unity bred there that was second only to that of Rife Hall which was destroyed by fire. It has been suggested that because of the oneness characterized by halls, the next new dorm will be built with halls instead of units.

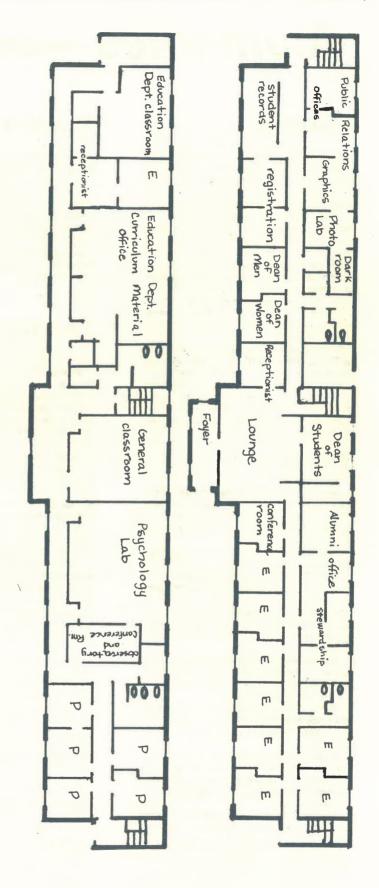

Twenty-two years ago, the construction of Williams cost $100,000. The investment was sound. After all, the building has housed hundreds of men and women and is still standing. Presently, it houses the offices of alumni (room 109), stewardship, public relations, student personnel, and academic records, as well as the education curriculum center and psychology lab together with their faculty offices. Stop and see the "converted" Williams the next time you are on campus.

Focus on the Field

Laurine Gullette ('54), Brazil, is praising the Lord for her recovery from a fall involving a knee ligament which would not stop bleeding internally. She asks for prayer for several nonmissionary children attending Fortaleza Academy that they might accept the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior.

Norm ('64) and Evelyn (Thoms '64) Nicklas, Sao Paulo, Brazil, praise the Lord for a record attendance at their new church. Their goal is to be in a new building for Easter services. Funds for the construction program are still needed.

Jim ('61) and Esther (Weiss '61) Entner, Philippines, offer praise for new personnel and the arrival of the airplane to be used for outreach clinics. Pray for the beginning aviation ministry.

John ('64) and Judy (Marcellus '67) Bigelow, Valdez, Alaska, report their Awana program is off to a good start. Pray as they seek to locate and purchase property in Val-

Joe ('68) and Sharon (Tallman '68) Hollaway received their visas and arrived in Auckland, New Zealand, in January. Pray for their adjustment to this new area and their very important goal - to reach New Zealanders for Christ.

Dan ('68) and Betty Lacey, France, report the Lord has given them some good contacts as a result of their public campfire services they held in different communities. They offer praise for daughter Susan's recovery from an appendectomy.

John ('68) and Faye Rueck report CEF of Austria was officially organized in January, 1982. They offer praise for the many open doors to preach the Gospel in Austria.

David ('69) and Darlene (Durkee '67) Fidler, Bangladesh, report that camp was a success. However, funds continue to be needed to keep the camp operating. There is still a shortage of teachers for Malumghat and Chittagong. An Awana program for MK kids was started in December.

Ken ('70) and Alice Cole are busy visiting their supporting churches while on furlough from the Philippines. They ask for continued prayer for the missionaries and staff of Leyte Baptist Clinic and hospital.

Clif ('72) and Hannah (Stowell '71) Jensen, Manaus, Brazil, report language school is progressing and they are adjusting to this new area.

Ken ('75) and Sandy VanLoon, Anchorage, Alaska, request prayer for additional support, equipment needs, many unsaved husbands in the church, and faithfulness of the people on Sunday and Wednesday

Doug ('76) and Karen (Wimer '75) Weaver ask for prayer that they will learn French quickly and fluently and that their support will be raised by summer so they can leave for Chad, Africa.

Jack ('77) and Lynn Caulfield, England, praise the Lord for reaching over 400 teens in their first season of camps and for growth in the lives of those attending Bible study.

Alumni Writers

In keeping with the association's desire to improve alumni communication and to encourage creative thinking, articles written by graduates and former students are welcome for publication in the AVISO.

The article should be typed. 400 words or less, and be of an instructional or informational nature. Selection will be based on style, accuracy, and interest for a significant number of the Alumni Association.

Faculty Profile

Mr. James Grier, Associate Professor of Philosophy and Biblical Studies, recently accepted the position of Dean of Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary. He will also teach theology and apologetics. In making this decision, he stresses that "the main value involved was 'where can I be of the most significant value to the kingdom of Christ?" Therefore, he feels that a greater impact will be possible with these duties, as he will be training ministers who in turn will instruct congregations.

Before assuming the new position this coming July 1, Mr. Grier will finish the current academic year at Cedarville. He emphasizes his continued support of the institution and particularly appreciates "the opportunities I have had here."

During his 13 Cedarville years, one of Mr. Grier's major accomplishments was the development of the philosophy curriculum. Upon his arrival in the fall of 1969, only two courses were offered in the field. Now it has advanced to the point of being offered as a minor. Such achievements, coupled with his classroom efforts, led to his selection as the 1971 Faculty Member of the Year.

Other recognitions received at Cedarville include the Alumni Association's Distinguished Educator Award in 1981 and the Student Personnel Faculty Honor Award in 1976. The former award included a $400 check which he used to expand his personal library. In the latter case, he was cited by Student Personnel for his counseling efforts in the student area – the only presentation of its type to this date.

A pastor for ten years prior to coming here, Mr. Grier has also served as an interim pastor for eight churches during his Cedarville tenure. Currently approaching the end of his doctoral work, he has completed all classwork and comprehensive exams toward that degree. He is now engaged in writing the first draft of his thesis, which is the final step in the process.

Senior Tim Power, a philosophy major, states that Mr. Grier's departure "will produce a void...because of his grasp of orthodox theology, spontaneity in lecturing, and distinctive approach to Christian philosophy." This echoes the sentiments of many alumni who have enjoyed his teaching and counseling.

Callan Wins 300

Stable. Striving. Sensitive. Successful. Spiritual. Sound pretty good, don't they? After all, who wouldn't like to be described by those qualities? Yet, how many people succeed in exhibiting them consistently? Few people on Cedarville College campus would deny that Dr. Donald Callan, the men's varsity basketball coach, does.

Dr. Callan displays these qualities in his style, through his effectiveness, and by his motivation. His unique style reflects stability, control, and effort. The program he started 22 years ago has made Yellow Jacket basketball a dominant force in intercollegiate athletics. He always strives to produce the best in his team, not only as athletes, but also as men. His first goal is to develop men; winning is secondary. He does demand quality skills; but in addition to those skills, he encourages the team to think. As athletic director, Dr. Callan handles the department finances, scholarships, and equipment, as well as building supervision. He arranges the various team schedules and traveling arrangements.

Dr. Callan's motivation stems from the strong spiritual emphasis he puts on the team. "We're playing for the glory of Jesus Christ," explains senior Mark Womack, who had the "cool hands" that made the winning shot last year and sent the Jackets to Kansas City. "We'd rather lose a game than lose our testimony," Mark continues, "and Dr. Callan stresses this attitude." On the court Callan asks them to play to their utmost potential, and off the court his desire is that they develop their relationship with Christ.

Dr. Callan doesn't come across as a know-it-all. He is able and willing to admit his mistakes. As a result, he has produced a testimony that allows him to communicate to his team. He truly displays the age-old adage, "It isn't whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game." Coach Callan has been named MOC and NAIA District 22 Coach of the Year, has received plaudits from players, administration, the media, and opponents alike. He has been viewed as a pinnacle of success in the Mid-Ohio Conference.

Coach Callan came to Cedarville in 1960 and has a coaching record of 307-263. He joins an elite group of coaches in Ohio who have 300 or more wins. He seems to get better with age, as his record during the last two years indicates – 46 wins and 13 losses.

Alumnus - Poet Carl E. Smith

LOOKING BACKWARD

"INFLAYSHUN"

A bit of nostalgia, a bit of a sigh, A funny old fellow like you or I, A thought of the days that once we knew And scenes of the past roll into view. These days a dollar won't go far, As everybody knows. But what gets you, where'er you are, is the SPEED WITH WHICH IT GOES!

At ninety-two and one-half years old, Carl Smith is still writing poetry. His latest poems were published in January, 1982. Mr. Smith headed a group that bred the American basset hound, and he has been on the staff of seven sporting journals. In all, he wrote for 16 such magazines. Over the years, 300 of his articles have been published, and at one time he was receiving 2500 letters each year from his readers. In his lifetime he has attended three colleges and two universities. For over 50 years he taught in the schools of Greene County, Ohio.

"Amazing," you say? "Yes, indeed!" Carl Smith certainly has led a full life; and you may be surprised to learn that he graduated from and taught at Cedarville College!

Carl's college education spanned 18 years beginning in 1907 at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio. "It was not the same Antioch College that we have today," he is quick to point out. Following this, he commenced his long teaching career in a one-room schoolhouse in Ross Township, Ohio. There he taught grades 8-10 for $45 a month.

In 1915, he became principal of Spring Valley High School where he helped to pioneer basketball. He relates, "Two of our best teammates were two posts in the middle of the hall in which we played. We knew how to use them to our advantage. The visiting team did not."

Uncle Sam drafted him into the Army in 1917, and he was shipped overseas where he was involved in an accident that resulted in the loss of some of his hearing. I was on horse-back at the time," he recalls. "Upon hearing incoming enemy fire, I sought cover near some foliage. Unfortunately, it was camouflage for an allied artillery piece which discharged its wrath at the enemy just as I, unknowingly, drew near it." Because Mr. Smith spoke several languages, he became an interpreter and served out the remainder of the war in that capacity.

In 1920, Carl married and then taught in various Greene County high schools. He tried his hand as a stockbroker for a number of years, but his desire for education led him to Cedarville, where in 1924 Carl began teaching at Cedarville College as well as studying for his B.S. in Education degree. He taught American literature, English, and business, and graduated in 1925.

Many famous people have crossed his path. He has shaken hands with William Jennings Bryan, has studied under Professor Edwin W. Chub, and has taken boxing lessons from John Corbit who was a second cousin of the great professional boxer Gentleman Jim Corbit. He taught alongside L. D. Parker, the father of the great movie actress Elinor Parker. Dayton, Ohio, residents might be surprised to learn that Judge Kesler was once one of Mr. Smith's pupils.

Dogs have always been a great love of Carl Smith – especially the basset hound. He headed a group of breeders who fused three European strains and developed what is now known as the American basset hound. He wrote the first basset training manual ever published in America.

By 1930, his dog breeding business had grown so large that he had distributors in seven states and was selling dogs all over the world. This, combined with his writing for numerous sports magazines, caused him to give up full-time teaching. Thus, you might say, for the next 25 ½ years Mr. Smith's life "went to the dogs."

However, he didn't leave education entirely. During those "dog days," he was a substitute teacher and taught just about every subject. "In my time," relates Mr. Smith, "a principal had to be proficient in nine subjects in order to get an Ohio High School teaching certificate."

Today, Carl Smith is retired – well, sort of. He is working on his fifth book entitled Dad was a Country Doctor in the Horse and Buggy Days. Also, he has an extensive list of talks that he can give on short notice. He relishes the opportunities that he receives to speak in churches, schools, and at club meetings. Yes, Carl Smith is quite a man, and Cedarville College is proud to have him among its number as a Heritage Alumnus.

Alumnae Women Defeated

"A good turnout of alumnae" and "they gave us a tough scrimmage" were the words of women's basketball coach Sandra (Holwerda '75) Schlappi describing the recent alumnae game against her varsity squad. Four of the alumnae, Cathy Bunton ('78), Vicki Butler ('80), Debbie Fakan ('81), and Diane Lichtensteiger ('81), toured with the college M.I.S. women's basketball team to China this past summer and were in good playing condition. However, the alumnae were defeated in a close game, 62-56. Vicki Butler showed her old form, netting 15 points, while "sweet lefty," Cathy Bunton, added 14 points. After the contest, the two teams joined together for a time of fellowship and pizza.

1981 Year of Champions

1981 was a year of champions at Cedarville College. Our athletes distinguished themselves by traveling to Kansas City for national basketball and tennis tournaments and to Houston, Texas, for the NAIA golf finals. With an awesome display of talent and determination, the soccer team (12-7-1) came within inches of walking away with the NCCAA national title in Orlando, Florida. We congratulate all our athletes and are proud of their representation of us in their respective sport. May we each carry the banner in our endeavors even as they have...for the glory of Him for Whom we are ambassadors.
