CEDARVILLE COLLEGE BULLETIN

OCT. - NOV., 1967

80TH ANNIVERSARY 1887-1967

This year the college celebrates its 80th Anniversary. We are taking this opportunity to share with our churches and friends how the Lord has been blessing the college. We would like to sit down with each one of you personally and discuss our past progress and future plans. Since this is not possible, we have called upon friends of the college to help us. Over one hundred thirty-five men have volunteered to help in our 80th Anniversary Campaign.

The area extending from Illinois to the East Coast has been divided into 24 zones. A chairman is in charge of each zone, and several men will serve on a committee to help him. The chairmen of these zones attended a kickoff banquet held at the college Saturday, September 9, and they were informed of our 80th Anniversary plans. During the past month, the president and the director of development have been traveling to each zone holding meetings with the chairmen and their committees. During November and December, it is our goal to contact every church in these zones personally and give them an in-depth report on the college.

Informative literature and slides have been prepared for use in the 80th Anniversary Campaign. Churches and interested individuals outside of these zones will receive information and literature by mail.

There has never been a year in the history of the college when we have had so much for which to be thankful: a new library, a new 220-bed dormitory, a $234,000 addition to the cafeteria. We can reflect on the unusual growth of our college during the past few years. As you rejoice with us for "what great things the Lord hath done," we trust that it will cause you to pray for and participate in our 80th Anniversary Campaign.

The following incidents leading up to this 80th anniversary of the college are an indication of divine favor upon Cedarville College and are a cause for rejoicing and appreciation among friends. Unmistakably, Cedarville College, as it thrives today, is a work of divine origin made possible through the vision, sacrifice, and persistence of numerous Christians.

Special thanks is due Dr. Cleveland McDonald, Professor of Social Science at Cedarville College, for permission to abstract choice portions from his dissertation, "History of Cedarville College."

In 1790, the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church in the United States of America was established by Scottish - Irish Presbyterians. From this "General Synod" arose Cedarville College in 1887.

The Presbyterians experienced a great dearth of ministers at this time, because they had no denominational colleges to filter graduates to their seminary. This deficit proved crucial to the emergence of Cedarville College. Rev. J. F. Morton, pastor of the Cedarville congregation, asked the Synod to appoint a committee to select a site for an academic institution in 1879. God had planted the seed.

After years of inactivity, two other factors spurred the Synod to action. Along with the lack of ministers came the fear of young men being "weaned away" from the church by their attendance at other denominational colleges. When the Gibson endowment was promised, the Synod passed a resolution in 1885 to locate a site "in or about the town of Cedarville" and adopt measures to raise funds. However, almost two years passed before the charter was granted. Cedarville College was incorporated January 20, 1887, and granted a charter by the State of Ohio, January 26, 1887. At an organizational meeting February 10, 1887, officers were selected and plans were made for: solicitation of contributions, by-laws for

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Dr. James T. Jeremiah, President

"Most private universities and colleges are in grave financial trouble. Many are seeking frantically to close the dollar gap that threatens their very existence." This report from June 23, 1967, Time magazine, is just one way of saying what is being repeated in many periodicals these days. Many are ready to point out that the small college is in trouble and readily announce that many of them will cease to exist within a few years.

These predictions of gloom cause all of us who have a vital interest in Cedarville to ask wherein this spirit of hopelessness applies to us. It would appear that even large endowments do not meet the needs of many colleges and universities as they once did. We are told that we cannot expect money from foundations unless we have something distinctively different to present as a subject for research which will benefit the donor. Even federal funds are not supplying all the answers for many of the colleges that are so dependent upon this money. What then can we hope for Cedarville with a small endowment, little possibility of aid from endowments, and without the aid of government funds? To us, these reports of financial trouble are serious, indeed; but they do not spell hopelessness.

Through the years we have seen serious financial problems face us, and we expect others to come along. New buildings and facilities now in use for the first time on our campus with additional faculty members on our staff will mean additional operational costs. Wherein lies the answer?

Frequently, in the pages of this bulletin we have referred to a promise of Scripture which needs to be quoted again in the light of the foregoing statements: "And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work" (II Cor. 9:8). Looking at any possibility of success in this problem of financing a Christian college only as man can see it is most discouraging, indeed, but when we know "God is able" the picture is not one of a midnight gloom, but a scene which marks a new and bright day of opportunity.

It is significant that our faculty chose as the college verse for this 80th anniversary year, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever" (Hebrews 13:8). For 80 years Cedarville College has been in business. During the past fourteen years we have seen many days of crises followed by events of divine victory. He Who has guided us this far is capable of taking us on for the complete fulfillment of His divine purpose. Confident in our God's ability to meet the needs as they come, we press on to do His will, depending upon Him to supply our need.

This attitude of confidence and faith in the promises and power of God is not one that leads us to sit by with folded hands. We exercise every effort to be the instruments in His hands to accomplish His purpose. Therefore, during the next few months, an 80th anniversary fund raising program will be in operation. We encourage every friend to help meet the needs for expanding facilities.

Since all of our students are professing Christians and members of churches in various parts of the land, and in view of the fact that our college exists for the young people of these churches, we shall appeal to the pastors and people to seriously consider the fact that we must be supported by the churches for whom we exist. Whatever failure there may be in the program of financial support for such a college as ours will come as we fail to meet the needs of these churches, or these churches fail us in the time of need. Neither of these possibilities must ever become realities.

Perhaps it is a good time now to ask you and every other member of your local church "What can you do to make the 80th anniversary fund drive of Cedarville College a success?" Will you do your part?

FACULTY FACTS

Mr. Harmon Bergen, assistant professor in foreign language, has become a full member of the International Library Science Honor Fraternity, Beta Phi Mu.

Mrs. Ardeth Webber, assistant professor in secretarial science, has received a master of arts degree in business education from Ohio State University.

Dr. Robert Gromacki, professor of Bible and Greek, conducted a prophetic conference at the Immanuel Baptist Church in Columbus, Ohio, October 1-6.

Mr. C. B. Hurst, registrar and director of admissions, has co-authored a book entitled, "Guidelines in Cooperative Education" in conjunction with The Center for Vocational and Technical Education of Ohio State University. The book is concerned with cooperative education at the high school level and will be used by state departments of education.

Mr. Merlin Ager, associate professor of education, has completed his dissertation at Ohio State University. The research, undertaken at Cedarville College concerns the discussion techniques employed by student teachers. The title is, "A study of the Relationships Between Selected Personality Variables and the Verbal Behavior, Supervisory Ratings and Grades of Student Teachers."

Mr. Emerson Russell, assistant professor of art, has his television program on two channels. Tele-Bible Time, a one-half hour color presentation, is viewed on WLW-D in Dayton, Ohio, and WYAH in Norfolk, Virginia.

Dr. Donald Baumann, professor of bacteriology and chemistry, attended the meeting of the American Dairy Science Association at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York, June 25-28 and the meeting of the Society for Cryobiology held August 7-9 in Washington, D.C.

operation of the Board, and reception of building estimates.

The $25,000 bequest of William Gibson at this time brought the college from charter to reality. God's grace was again demonstrated. Because of the lack of action by the Synod committees, Mr. Gibson had decided to disperse his riches elsewhere. However, he died before this could be accomplished. It is possible that his cousin, Thomas, who was a will executor and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Cedarville College, influenced William to give five times as much to the college as he did to the seminary and other groups.

On May 21, 1894, the beginning of the first term was established as the first Monday of October that year. A co-educational policy was enacted, and Dr. David McKinney was appointed first president. Dr. Wilbert McChesney, later the second president, served as Dean of the Faculty. Fertilization was taking place.

A house at the east side of Cedarville was rented for one year for operation of the college. The college spent $152.39 for carpentering, painting, and paper hanging to prepare the house for use. A total of $105.56 was invested in furniture, etc. The lettering, "Cedarville College," on the gate necessitated the expenditure of $4.00. The prenatal college was receiving intensive care.

The grand opening occurred September 19, 1894, when at 10 a.m., a bell was rung calling thirty-two students to the chapel. Very soon the corporate seal, Pro corona et foedere Christi, i.e. "For the Crown and Covenant of Christ," was adopted. A Christian college birth is such an exciting occasion.

The rented house proved to be too small, so the trustees voted to build a three-story, brick building. "Old Main" was completed in time for the opening of the college in September 1894 and was dedicated at the meeting of the General Synod on May 26, 1896. The building with furniture cost $14,000.

The college operated the first year on a two semester basis; but in 1895 the faculty switched to a three term basis which lasted until 1911 when they returned to the semester and introduced the "elective system." It is so difficult to get an infant on schedule.

Dr. Wilbert Renwick McChesney was inaugurated as the second president on November 12, 1915. The college made great progress under his able leadership and the Endowment Fund grew to a sizeable amount. However, contributions from the churches never met the expectations of the college and overtures were made to another Presbyterian denomination. On May 18, 1928, the college was released from the control and ownership of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod, but efforts to align with the other denomination were unsuccessful. It is so unfortunate to be an orphan.

During the great depression a policy was begun which would eventually undermine the stability of the college. Money was borrowed periodically from the Endowment Fund. Because of these problems merger negotiations with Geneva College, Rio Grande College, and Wilmington College were undertaken, but nothing unifying came of them. This financial degeneration continued under the college's third president, Rev. Walter Kilpatrick and his successors. The college passed through numerous childhood diseases.

It is most providential how the college passed into the hands of the Baptists. By 1952 the college was experiencing severe financial difficulties. Dr. James Jeremiah, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in Dayton, Ohio, heard of the situation of Cedarville College. As a member of the Board of Trustees of Baptist Bible Institute of Cleveland, Ohio, he brought the matter to their attention. The Institute was seeking larger quarters due to an expanding enrollment. Adolescence requires many adjustments.

After negotiations on April 4, 1953, the trustees of Cedarville College and of Baptist Bible Institute met together to make the transaction. The college trustees first voted to delete the by-laws which stated that "The majority of the members of the Board always to be members of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A." Then eight Cedarville trustees resigned. The remaining Cedarville trustees elected nine men from Baptist Bible Institute to membership on the College Board. Eight more Cedarville trustees resigned and ten members of the Institute Board were elected. Finally, the chairman and secretary resigned and were replaced by Baptist Bible Institute men. Personality changes are so necessary as a youthful college progresses.

The vision of Dr. Jeremiah and the institute was vindicated by the fire which burned the Cleveland quarters of the institute during the summer of 1953. Again God's greatness was evident. They had received a 15 acre campus and nine buildings valued at $250,000 for agreeing to assume a possible indebtedness of $25,000.

The college opened under the Baptist Administration in September, 1953, offering both a Bible institute program and a liberal arts curriculum. Dr. James Jeremiah became the 7th president November 1, 1954. The decision to drop the Bible Institute program came January 8, 1955. Cedarville College has since been a liberal arts college under Dr. Jeremiah's responsible leadership. It is so blessed to be in the prime of college life.

OARBC WOMEN'S GIFT

The Women's Missionary Union of the Ohio Association of Regular Baptist Churches has given $565.26 to Cedarville College. The money is designated for library foyer furnishings.

1966-67 STUDENT AID SHOWS INCREASE

College costs continue to increase at the rate of five to seven percent each year. Written costs in state supported colleges and universities are now averaging $1400 to $1700 a year, and private colleges normally average about one thousand dollars more per year. Cedarville's written costs have increased approximately $100 for the current school year and will average students $1700 to $1900 depending on class load and housing accommodations. This figure includes room, board, tuition and books. It does not include personal expenses or travel. The main responsibility for meeting college costs rests with the students themselves and their parents. However, as costs increase more and more, students look to the colleges and other agencies to supplement their ability to meet college expenses.

Cedarville College is attempting to assist as many students as possible in meeting their educational costs. Since College funds for this purpose are limited, aid is assigned on the basis of need and ability. The following report will give some detailed information concerning aid received by Cedarville College students during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Ninety-six students received $22,325 in the form of scholarships and gifts. Included in this were College academic and athletic scholarships as well as benefits to dependents of College employees and winners of the national GARBC Talents for Christ contest. Eight residents of Pennsylvania received $7,050 in the form of scholarships from Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency. Fifteen students received $7,200 from various scholarship sources. Thirty-five students received a total of $3,164 in the form of gifts from churches. Twenty-five students received $5,063 from gifts designated for specific students or to the College Student Aid Fund. Six students also received $3,442 through various rehabilitation programs. Scholarship assistance totaled $48,244.

Cedarville students received loans to help meet their educational costs from several sources: fifty-seven students negotiated loans underwritten by the College through the United Student Aid Funds, Inc. amounting to; $47,550 twenty-eight received loans through the Ohio Higher Education Assistance Commission amounting to $20,150; eleven received loans through the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency amounting to $11,000. Twenty-five students received loans through various College loan funds amounting to $4,582.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS

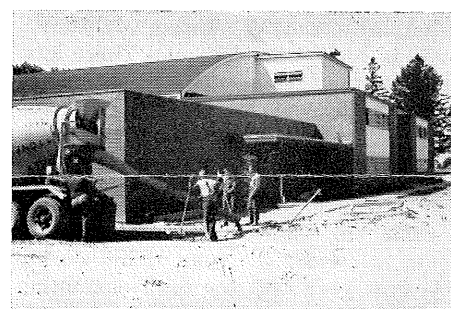

Little remained of the president's office after a fire swept through it on August 17. A student working in the Administration Building noticed smoke coming from the president's office and notified members of the maintenance department. The maintenance men used fire extinguishers to contain the fire until the fire department arrived. This quick work on the part of our maintenance department prevented the loss of the entire Administration Building. Flames had already darted outside the president's office and were licking at the stairwell, ceiling, and office doors across the hall.

It is believed that the fire started in an electrical box. Insurance will cover the cost of repairs.

New furniture now adds luster to the interior of our new library. Dr. Jeremiah and Mrs. Chaffe, Librarian, watch study carrels being unloaded.

This year students will not have the distraction of trying to study while sitting around a large table with other students. These individual carrels will provide solitude for the serious student.

The $234,000 addition to our cafeteria has been completed. We can now seat 529 students at one time in air-conditioned comfort. This more than doubles our present capacity. The addition also provides ample room for food storage and preparation.

Other items included in this project were the remodeling and air conditioning of three classrooms upstairs in the gymnasium, one classroom downstairs, two student offices, and a cloakroom. The parking lot south of the gymnasium has been black topped, storm sewers installed, and the lawn sodded in front of the gym.

The maintenance department has been busy this summer with several other remodeling projects that included putting up new light poles, hot water heating system in Alford Auditorium, refinishing and carpeting Bethel Hall, and paving parking lots beside Maddox Hall and in front of Patterson Hall. The old library has been painted and made ready for use as a Fine Arts Building.

CLASS AGENCY

Cedarville College extends commendation to Miss Rosemary Smith, Class Agent of 1960, and to Mr. James Neely, Class Agent of 1961, for the outstanding service they performed for their classes and the college this past year.

The new 1961 agent has not been named as yet. The new 1960 co-agents will be Mr. David Matson, instructor in music at Cedarville College, and Mr. Merlin Ager, associate professor of education with the college. Mr. Ager's and Mr. Matson's address is in care of Cedarville College. Mr. Ted Oakley, Class Agent of 1967, has the address of 3158 Far Hills Avenue, Apt. 1, Kettering, Ohio 45429.

Total funds received through loans during the past year were $83,282.

A third method of meeting educational costs is student employment. Three hundred thirty-two students were employed by the College during the past year and received total remuneration of $79,053. Another 142 students were employed in the area in various types of work.

From our available records, 448 students received some type of aid during this past year with the total amounting to $210,578. It is interesting to note that four students received aid amounting to $2,000 or more, 74 received between $1,000 and $2,000, 83 received assistance of between $500 and $1,000, while 183 received amounts of $100 to $500, and 104 received less than $100.

We are anticipating an increase in student aid for the 1967-68 school year because of larger budgeted amounts available for scholarships and a contemplated increase in student wages. Churches and individuals are encouraged to make contributions to the College Student Aid Fund. These gifts may be designated for specific students or can be given with the request that the College use these funds to assist needy students. Some friends of the College have recently set up loan funds as memorials for members of their family. This type of gift is always welcome. Since Cedarville College does not participate in any federally supported student aid program, it must rely upon gifts from its supporters to help meet the financial needs of deserving students.

80TH ANNIVERSARY PAGEANT

"As the Cedar Grows" is an historical pageant dealing with the growth and development of Cedarville College. It will be presented in recognition of the college's 80th Anniversary, November 17 and 18, in Alford Auditorium.

The pageant will begin with the dedication of Old Main in 1896 and will feature the original address delivered by the first President, Dr. David McKinney. The traditional Cedarville Day program, showing the planting of the cedar tree and the crowning of the May Queen will be climaxed by the singing of the school song of 1928. The transfer of the charter in 1953 and the parade of college organizations will bring the college history up to the current time.

The finale in dramatic color will show the many fields all over the world where many of the alumni of the college are engaged in Christian service. The pageant was written and will be produced by Mrs. Miriam Maddox.

MUSIC CLINIC

A lecture-demonstration workshop for piano teachers was presented Oct. 31 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building. The free clinic was presented by Dr. Harry Lee Neal of the Nelson Neal duo-piano team.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE

Regular Baptist Press of Des Plaines, Illinois, will sponsor a tri-state Sunday school conference on campus November 13-14. The theme for the Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky meeting will be "Training for Troubled Times." Featured speaker is Dr. David D. Allen, pastor in Hazel Park, Michigan, and noted conference speaker and Sunday school authority. Pre-registration is $1.50 per person payable to Cedarville College.

Churches with 90-100% of their staff in attendance can register for $1.00 per person. Additional information is available from Regular Baptist Press. The conference will feature both departmental and topical seminar discussion groups, exhibits, etc.

Those participating from Cedarville College are: Dr. James Jeremiah; Miss Jean Fisher; Miss Joy Mackay; Mrs. Alberta Chaffe; Dr. John Reed; and Dr. Arthur Williams, formerly with the college.

COLLEGE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Grace Baptist Church of Cedarville has established a Sunday School program for college students. Pastor William Broughton supplies the morning worship message. Each evening service is conducted by several men of the church.

Four elective courses are offered in Sunday school the first quarter. Miss June Kearney, assistant professor of physical education, teaches a girls' class, "Great Women of the Bible."

WORD OF LIFE

Approximately 300 people attended the institute which was comprised of lecture and seminar sessions. The purpose of the conference was to educate Christian youth workers, pastors, and laymen toward better understanding of teenagers with consequent progress towards more effective youth programs.

Mr. Harmon Bergen, assistant professor in foreign language, teaches "The Struggle for Peace — Mental Health for Christians." Mr. Murray Murdoch, associate professor of history, instructs students concerning the "Church Covenant." Mr. Allen Monroe, assistant professor of social science, conducts the lessons about "Christianity's Answer to Communism."
