An Interview with Dr. James T. Jeremiah, Chancellor of Cedarville College

Dr. Jeremiah breaks ground for the new library in 1966.

James T. and Ruby Jeremiah

Dr. Jeremiah today

In 1953 James T. Jeremiah was instrumental in the transfer of Cedarville College to the Baptist Bible Institute of Cleveland. That same year he left a successful pastoral ministry in Dayton, Ohio, to serve as Cedarville's president until 1978.

Q. Dr. Jeremiah, what is your role as Chancellor of the College?

A. I try to be an ambassador of good will. Frankly, I am enjoying the opportunity to be a voice for the College without having the administrative responsibilities.

Q. What specifically have you been doing since 1978?

A. I've been speaking in the churches, at Bible conferences, and at alumni meetings — endeavoring to encourage the body of Christ, to promote the College, and to recruit students. I have had the opportunity to counsel churches on a number of topics such as outreach and operation.

Q. Do you have much contact with Cedarville alumni?

A. Everywhere I go I find Cedarville College alumni. I am encouraged when our graduates come to me after my meetings and talk about the old days and ask how the College is doing. It's like a family reunion.

Q. You have been associated with the College for 35 years. Have your dreams been fulfilled?

A. More of God's blessings have come to pass than I ever dared to dream. God made this property available to us. We knew He brought us here, and we have rejoiced in what He has done through the years.

Q. Are there times when as president you remember God meeting specific needs of the College?

A. There were many times. In 1956 He brought Dr. Clifford Maddox to Cedarville as our chief academic officer. Dr. Maddox was a fine scholar and an encourager and was just what we needed in the academic area. Regional accreditation came in 1974. A generous gift of money met a real need in 1967.

Q. Dr. Jeremiah, how did you come to know the Lord?

A. I was saved by reading the message of salvation in the Gospel of John. I was born in the hills of New York near Corning. My dad was not a Christian, but I believe he accepted Christ just before he died. My mother was a professing Christian. I grew up in total spiritual ignorance. I didn't have the faintest idea what the Bible was all about. We moved from the farm to Johnson City, New York, and in the providence of God I became involved in the basketball program of the First Baptist Church. But to be in the basketball program I had to go to Sunday School. Arket Savage, the Sunday school teacher, always brought the lesson to the topic of salvation. He told me I needed to be saved. He asked me to read the Gospel of John and I agreed. God's Word convinced me that I was lost, and I received the Lord Jesus Christ as my Savior. I was baptized and became a member of First Baptist Church. After high school I went to Baptist Bible Seminary which was then in Johnson City.

Q. What churches did you pastor before you came to Cedarville?

A. We were at Panama Baptist Church in Panama, New York, for three years; Emmanuel Baptist Church in Toledo, Ohio, for 11 years; and Emmanuel Baptist Church in Dayton, Ohio, for four years.

Q. Tell us what your children are doing now.

A. Lois Ann ('60) is married to Dave Mills who pastors the Ridgewood Baptist Church in Joliet, Illinois. David ('63) is senior pastor of Scott Memorial Baptist Church in El Cajon, California. Maryalyce ('65) is women's basketball coach at Cal State, Fullerton, California. Jim ('70) is in business in California and presently is helping David with the business affairs of the Christian school.

Q. Do you have a few words for our alumni readers?

A. I believe Cedarville College prepared our alumni to serve the Lord. They don't have to be in the pastorate or on the mission field to be witnesses for Christ. It is our prayer that they will serve Him in whatever vocation they have been called. The time for reaching people is short and what we do for God we had better do soon.

Editor's note: We would appreciate your prayers for Dr. Jeremiah and his wife. Mrs. Jeremiah is ill, and her health is not expected to improve.

A Word With Alumni

Dear Alumnus,

On behalf of the Alumni Association, I want to thank Roy Kern and Loren Reno for their commitment to the Alumni Council. These men have faithfully served our alma mater and the Alumni Association for six years as your elected representatives. The Council has appreciated their wisdom, insight, enthusiasm, and humor. Their expertise has enhanced our programs and service to alumni. Thank you, Loren and Roy!

I also want to introduce to you and welcome to the Alumni Council our newest members, Doug Phillips '82 and Steve Shank '73. This year's election was very close, and I am happy to report that we received four times the number of ballots cast in the last election. Thank you for your participation.

As we begin Cedarville's 93rd academic year, alumni, faculty, staff, and students alike can reflect with gratitude on the blessings of God. We look to this year with optimism. For those of us on campus, the arrival of new and continuing students brings occasion for rededication to our responsibilities of providing the very best education in the liberal arts context. As alumni, we can be very proud of the quality of students, faculty, and the educational program our alma mater provides. Your involvement and ideas are always welcome as together we strive to become even better at creating an environment that stimulates growth in every dimension of life.

We had a great time at Homecoming. Many of you returned to share in the festivities and to experienced the momentum and excitement here at Cedarville. Perhaps you can come to campus this year for a concert, drama production, athletic event, or whatever interests you. Be sure to stop in at the Alumni Office. We always enjoy visiting with you.

Rejoicing in Him,

Gary Kuhn

N ew Council Members!

Douglas Phillips '82, is the senior pastor of First Baptist Church of Okemos, Michigan. As a student at Cedarville College his major was pre-seminary Bible. He served as class chaplain for two years and was student body chaplain his senior year. He was a member of Concert Chorale, Summer Swordbearers, Kingsmen Quartet, Abundant Life Singers, CZ, and was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Following his graduation, Doug worked as an admissions representative for the College for one year. He then entered Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary where, in addition to his academic endeavors, he was executive chairman of the student association, taught college and adult Sunday school classes and was named again to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. Doug graduated with honor in 1987 and was recipient of the Lehman Strauss Preaching Award.

Steve Shank '73 is principal of Shaw Elementary School in Beavercreek, Ohio. He majored in physical education at Cedarville College and completed a master's degree in school administration at Wright State University in 1979.

While at Cedarville College Steve was a personnel assistant, student body president, and a member of Student Senate. He was a member of Alpha Chi and the Advisory Council, and was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Steve and his wife Merilee (Johnson '75) are members of Grace Baptist Church in Cedarville. They are sponsors of the senior high youth group, and Steve has served as Sunday school teacher, deacon, and on a number of committees.

The Shanks have three children.

Summer Enrichment Conference

1988 Review by Rick and Debbie Dustin

The Summer Enrichment Conference was a highlight of our summer and a rewarding experience — not just another activity added to our already overloaded calendars.

Our involvement with the conference began in the fall of 1987 when Gary Kuhn approached us and asked us to serve on the organizational committee. Like most of you, our schedules were already too busy, but as alumni we felt this would be an interesting activity in which to become involved.

After several meetings, a workable format was developed and a schedule of events defined. Although the conference program looked interesting and well-organized on paper, we knew it would still take a sacrifice on our part, a little re-arranging of our work schedules, and an overall commitment to attend the meetings. As a result, we lacked initial enthusiasm. After all, how could four days in Cedarville, Ohio, in the summer be even remotely exciting?

Not knowing what to expect, we came to the "ice breaker" social Wednesday night. As we met other alumni and guests, new friendships began forming and little by little the anticipation of future sessions created an exciting atmosphere. We actually looked forward to coming back Thursday morning, and after just one session we could hardly wait to attend the next activity.

The speakers, Dave and Ronnie Carder, along with Master of Ceremonies Mike DiCuirci, created a stimulating, yet informal, atmosphere. The topic of relationships was supplemented by practical illustrations and exercises which allowed us to experience first-hand how to communicate more effectively with one another. By the end of the conference, we had learned many new things about ourselves.

In addition to the seminars, there was plenty of time for leisure activity — sports, a picnic, dining at an area restaurant, and lots of relaxation. We have decided to make it a regular part of our schedule each year, and hope to see many more of our friends and alumni do the same. It is not too early to make plans to attend the 1989 conference.

"Where have we been all these years? It was so refreshing, so enjoyable. It felt like we were at an oasis. It was a vacation... uplifting — just what we needed. We are planning to come back next year."

1989 Summer Enrichment Conference Date: July 12-15, 1989

Speaker: David Jeremiah

Topic: Exposing the MYTHS of Parenthood

Dr. David Jeremiah '63 will expose 10 common myths of parenthood that have imposed unrealistic standards and unnecessary guilt on parents and grandparents alike.

Dr. Jeremiah, Class of '63, is the senior pastor of Scott Memorial Baptist Church in El Cajon, California, and the chancellor of Christian Heritage College. He is a graduate of Dallas Theological Seminary and has studied at Grace Theological Seminary. More than 50 radio stations broadcast his 30-minute program, "Turning Point." He is a guest speaker at Bible conferences and seminars throughout the country.

David has authored several books including The Wisdom of God and his latest, Exposing the Myths of Parenthood. He and his wife Donna (Thompson '63) have four children.

Dr. Rex Rogers ('74) has left his associate professorship in political science at Cedarville to become the Vice President for Academic Affairs at The King's College in Briarcliff Manor, New York. While at Cedarville Dr. Rogers also served as Director of Planning and Director of Academic Computer Services.

Dr. Robert Gromacki, chairman of the Department of Biblical Education, was commencement speaker for Grand Rapids Baptist Seminary June 7. He also has written four articles on "Jerusalem" for The Trumpeter, publication of the Cleveland Hebrew Mission which is directed by Bill Aiken ('81).

The Financial Aid Office — People Committed to Students

Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers. Gal. 6:10 (NIV) financial aid office (fi·nan'shel ad of/iz) n. A place to which a college student may go to obtain monetary assistance to pay for educationally related expenses.

For those individuals with little or no experience with a college financial aid office, this definition might appear accurate and complete. To the seven full-time staff members in Cedarville's Financial Aid Office, commitment to our students adds another dimension to the definition. Our primary motivation stems from a love for our God which is transferred into service and ministry at Cedarville College. We continually strive to convert our financially oriented operation into a caring one that is interested in each individual student.

We express our commitment to our students primarily through two areas: communication and student development.

From the federal and state levels we are continually plagued throughout a single academic year with changes in eligibility criteria, application processes, data collection requirements, funding levels, tax laws, and academic requirements. What a challenge it is not only to understand and grasp the impact of these changes but also to communicate effectively the results to parents and students.

To help meet this need, the Financial Aid Office installed a toll-free line (1-800-444-2433) in August 1986. During the past two years feedback has indicated that this service is invaluable to our constituents.

In addition to a productive telephone service, we also promote an open door policy for our current students. Students are encouraged to come in and talk with any member of our staff. We make it a priority to allow time to counsel with students. Two capable student workers lighten our heavy load of paperwork and data entry, allowing the full-time staff more flexibility to work directly with students and their concerns.

As a service to prospective students and their families visiting the Cedarville campus, a member of our professional staff meets with them. The purpose of this session is to provide the families with an understanding of aid opportunities and the parameters of financial aid. These meetings are held one-on-one or in group settings.

The Director of Financial Aid,

David Gidley, is contacted frequently by Christian and public schools to send a member or even the entire team of aid administrators to speak at college night functions. This opportunity not only allows us to assist families at a crucial point in their lives but also provides us with a chance to share the exciting things that are happening on our campus. We consider effective communication to be a cornerstone of our service to students.

A second way we express our commitment to our students is through student development in financial management. The Financial Aid Office is a critical division of the Student Services Department. The Financial Aid staff has the unique opportunity to assist students in learning about and understanding practical financial aspects of day-to-day living.

Contrary to popular belief, the motto found on a financial aid administrator's wall plaque, paperweight, or business card is not "Just Say No!" All students who are eligible for aid are instructed that certain procedures and steps must be followed before aid can be awarded.

However, not all students qualify for need-based financial assistance. This is a hard fact for many of them to accept. At this point, many students and parents are looking for alternatives and financial planning strategies to utilize during the college years. The federal government has also mandated that students who have borrowed educational loans be counseled in debt management before graduation. At Cedarville, our staff members are dedicated to go beyond the federal requirements. Prospective students are counseled concerning the impact of high student loan debt and average repayment terms. Continuing students are encouraged to be aware of the debt they are

David L. Gidley - Director of Financial Aid

Dave Gidley '73 came to Cedarville College in February of 1965 from the Ohio National Bank in Columbus, Ohio. He served four years in the Business Office as an accountant before starting the Financial Aid Department and completed his B.A. degree at Cedarville College and his M.A. degree at the University of Dayton 1981 in addition to his full-time duties.

Nineteen years later, Dave has taken a one person staff to seven full-time professionals plus student help. His services have expanded from $250,000 in scholarships to $4.8 million in various financial aid programs.

Dave and his wife Irene, who serves as secretary to President Dixon, have three children. Their son David recently graduated from Clark State College in Springfield, Ohio, with an associate degree. Debbie Shirey and Steve both graduated from Cedarville in 1977.

Dave is active with the Ohio and Midwestern Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and frequently assists colleges as a financial aid consultant.

Financial Aid Statistics

Average financial aid administered per student per year in each of the following categories:

Employment	$ 1,038
Endowed Grants	800
Federal Grants	1,115
Federal Loans	2,229
Institutional Loans	1,062
Institutional Grants	960
State Grants	580
Other Aid	816

The College has made extensive changes in the campus telephone system. Jeff Cunningham, utility operating engineer, says that the dormitories now will have service year around and that the students will be billed individually instead of by telephone number. Cunningham's crews laid several miles of new cable around the campus to accomplish the project.

Six new professors have joined the faculty for the 1988-89 school year: Allen Bennett, Department of Business Administration; Debra Oberer and Dr. Carolyn Carlson, Department of Nursing; Bill Kirtland, Department of Science and Mathematics; David Cremean ('80), Department of Language and Literature; and Patricia Ashby, Library.

accumulating and work with the Financial Aid Office to seek out other possible sources of assistance.

It is our intent to emphasize responsibility and accountability. These qualities will help our young people to develop into fully functioning adults who can make a significant contribution to society.

The financial aid staff finds it rewarding to help Christian students obtain the resources needed to study at a fine Christian institution like Cedarville College. We love our God, we love our College, and we love our students. It is our desire to continue to provide the finances needed to keep a quality Christian education within reach of so many Christian young people. The staff wishes to thank you alumni for your generous financial support to the Cedarville financial aid programs. We have seen firsthand the difference you have made in the lives of students. The rewards are countless.

Alumni Scholarships

Alumni Scholarship and Grant Endowment Fund

This endowed fund was established by the Alumni Council in 1978 as a true scholarship fund. The award monies honor students for their pursuit of academic excellence. Currently the faculty of each of the 11 academic departments select one student in their department to receive the $500 tuition credit. To date, 53 awards have been granted totaling $26,500 in scholarship aid.

John W. Bickett Heritage Alumni Fund

This fund was established by Heritage Alumni (alumni prior to 1953) to recognize those early graduates who helped lay the foundation for this school. This scholarship is awarded annually to candidates preparing for vocational Christian service who exemplify the servant spirit and the Christian character attributed to John W. Bickett '97. Mr. Bickett is thought to be the first graduate to receive a diploma from Cedarville College in 1897.

MK Loan and Grant Fund

This fund was established by alumni desiring to provide financial assistance to children of missionaries. It provides loans to eligible, needy students at a nominal interest rate and allocates all earned interest to a grant program available to MK's who meet the qualifying criteria. The children of missionaries who are alumni receive preferred consideration.

Second Generation Investment Fund

Established in 1988, this fund is a joint effort of the graduating Class of '88 and the silver anniversary gift from the Class of '63. Only the interest income earned will be used to invest in the lives of children of alumni. All alumni children are eligible for this grant during their junior year at Cedarville College.

Children of Alumni Scholar Program

This program, in its sixth year, provides children of Cedarville graduates the opportunity to attend summer school and receive up to 10 hours of tuition credit. These students attend Cedarville the summer between their junior and senior year of high school.

Additional information about each of these funds is available from the Alumni Office. Because only the interest from these funds is used for scholarships, your contribution keeps on giving year after year. It is an investment in students' lives to further the cause of Christ.

Watch for Jane (Romig '86) Brooker as a rising star in the world of track. She qualified for the 800 and 1500 meter Olympic trials in Indianapolis in July and reached the semi-finals in the 1500. While she didn't earn an Olympic berth this year, she plans to continue training with husband/coach Scott ('86) for the 1992 event.

For the fourth consecutive year, Cedarville College alumni are teaching English at The People's University in Beijing. Diane Lichtensteiger ('85) and Julie Prentice ('82) have returned to China for their second year of teaching. This year Jewel Schroder ('86) and Scott Morgan ('88) joined the team which helps Chinese students to improve their English in order to function in international trade and politics. In July Tim Barker ('74) led the group in TESL (Teaching English as a Second Language) training on the Cedarville campus. Dr. Dwayne Frank advises the group.

Focus on the Field

Robert '70 and Jane (Austin '70) Kilko are experiencing an influx of new missionaries in Brazil.

They are very much needed. Also much needed are good Baptist churches. The cults are there with beautiful buildings. What are WE waiting for? is their question.

Vic '75 and Cynthia Millard in Haiti ask for your prayer support to help combat the influx of monied cults in the form of Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses, Seventh Day Adventist, Bahaism and the Catholic Church.

Ken '75 and Sandy Van Loon report great strides in the life of their church in Anchor Point, Alaska. They have recently been visited by the Cedarville College Master's Puppets and Lyle '70 and Connie (Clark '73) Anderson held a concert there. Ken has been re-elected secretary for Baptist Mid-Missions Field Council.

Marty '78 and Denise (Gawthrop '78) Shaw, serving in Japan have been asked by a local doctor to teach a group of professional men English. Nine are in attendance.

Pray for a good opportunity to share the gospel while giving needed help and concern.

John '79 and Michele (Meeker '79) Morgan report from Togo, Africa, that Michele has temporarily dropped out of the language school to fully recover from her third bout of malaria. They request your prayers in finding a medication to prevent yet another attack.

Kent Craig '80 was recently interviewed by a young Christian student at the University of the Philippines concerning Cedarville College's "Athletes for Christ" ministry. The interview was taped to be televised at a later date.

Greg and Karen (Wainwright '80) Hogan are serving as church builders under the auspices of Baptist Mission of North America in Broadview Heights, OH.

Mike '83 and Joan (Weber '82) Wilcox are preparing for the field of Indonesia. They plan to get a certificate for teaching English in London, England, before reaching the field.

Jay and Missy (MacMichael '86) Reimer have been appointed by Gospel Missionary Union to serve as missionaries to Ecuador.

From the Heart

Ken Alford '84, is Assistant Pastor of the Community Baptist Church in Puyallup, Washington. He graduated from Cedarville with a comprehensive degree in Biblical Education and is currently completing his M.A.B.S. at Northwest Baptist Seminary.

From time to time I like to get up from behind my desk, move around the other side and sit in one of the two chairs across the desk from me. By doing this I hope to see what others see when they sit in those same chairs.

I write these words while sitting in one of those chairs, looking, as another person would, at books, filing cabinets, decorations, planning calendars, as well as numerous other articles which communicate subtle messages to people who see them. Among the most prominent items seen from "the other person's" point of view are the plaques and certificates hanging on the wall behind my desk. Several of them come from Cedarville College.

People think of many things when they see those plaques but right now I see them through eyes of memory, misty with tears of gratitude. What those plaques represent means a great deal to me. A number of them represent much needed financial assistance I received at Cedarville. Take the Alumni Biblical Education Scholarship, for example. It came at a time when my wife and I had nothing with which to pay for another year of college. Let me tell you, that $500 scholarship made a big difference in our little household. That alone was cause for uncontainable joy, but I received a total of between two and three thousand dollars worth of financial aid at Cedarville. I cannot express enough thanks to God or to those who gave of their hard-earned money so that I could continue school.

Were it not for that financial help, I would still be attending college one class at a time or I would still be paying on school loans. I am so thankful for the giving of others that I am now more than happy to make my contribution to the programs at my alma mater. I know there are people who benefit from what I give. I also know they appreciate it - I surely did!

Many of the people who see the plaques on my wall have needs. That's why they come to me. It's my joy to help them. As I look at these plaques now, it's my joy to remember that I was helped at Cedarville. I only hope that I cause joy as great as the joy that I experienced. I appreciate what was done for me. I love those people who gave. I mean that...from the heart!

In September, the Alumni Association sponsored an overnight excursion to Bardstown, Kentucky, for Heritage Alumni. The 28 participants traveled by College vans, attended the outdoor musical "The Stephen Foster Story," and visited My Old Kentucky Home, the Wickland Home, and other area attractions.

During the summer almost 100 members of the Cedarville College family took part in Christian ministries worldwide. They went to Australia, Ireland, England, West Germany, the Philippines, Quebec, Brazil, Colombia, Spain, Central African Republic, Gambia, South Africa, China, Dominican Republic, and France. Others ministered in Alaska, New Mexico, New England, the Mid-Atlantic and the Mid-Western states.

Bruce McDonald

From Player to Chaplain

The Lord fulfills the desires of our hearts in many different ways and in His perfect time.

As a student at Cedarville College, Bruce McDonald '69 majored in history and physical education, but his goal was to become a professional athlete. He excelled in basketball and baseball during his college years and was named All-American in both sports. Upon graduation Bruce thought his heart's desire would be fulfilled when he was drafted by the New York Mets.

But the joy of his baseball career was short-lived. The Lord began changing Bruce's heart. Desiring to serve the Lord in a full-time ministry he joined the staff of Word of Life. He then served as an associate pastor for seven years in Michigan, Ohio, and Iowa. Since 1977 Bruce has been a missionary with the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism (ABWE). He planted churches in Texas and worked with college students on secular campuses.

However, the desire to be involved in professional athletics never left Bruce and as the church he was pastoring became self-supporting Bruce and his wife Beverly (Hare '72) again asked the Lord where they should serve. Meanwhile ABWE organized a ministry designed for professional athletes, Pro Athletes Support Services (PASS), and invited Bruce to direct this new outreach ministry. After moving to the Cherry Hill, New Jersey, area Bruce was asked to become the chaplain for the Philadelphia 76'ers, in response to a recommendation by former basketball player Bobby Jones.

Bruce believes his ministry is an open door to meeting the spiritual needs of athletes and to finding avenues of service for them. He is discipling many through home Bible studies and through short devotional services held before every home game. It is his goal to train these athletes to be used of God by sharing their testimonies in churches, schools, youth rallies, etc.

As PASS grows and expands it will reach many professional athletes for God's service. God is using Bruce McDonald in a special way in the world of athletics. He truly has granted Bruce the desires of his heart.

Christians Can Influence Public Policy!

Barrett Mosbacher

After graduating from Cedarville in 1979 with a major in business administration with a marketing emphasis, Barrett held positions with the General Foods Corporation and International Business Associates. While an account specialist for the M&M Mars Company in Charlotte, North Carolina, he began personal studies in theology and philosophy. He also attended several national conferences on Christian activism featuring Francis Schaeffer and C. Everett Koop and became increasingly convinced of the need "to apply Christian apologetics to public policy issues."

Barrett is presently the Director of the Christian Action Council for the State of North Carolina. The Christian Action Council is a national organization seeking to influence public policy issues such as abortion and euthanasia.

Presently Barrett is concerned with the issue of school-based health clinics and their intent to distribute contraceptives and has presented a report to the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families entitled "Teenage Pregnancy and School-Based Clinics." He states, "It is not the proper function or sphere of the state to assist individuals in their willful, immoral, and destructive behavior." Also a number of studies indicate that the result of family planning programs is not a decrease in the number of pregnancies but an increase in the amount of sexual involvement.

Barrett was a contributing author and editor of School Based Clinics and Other Critical Issues in Public Education published by Crossway Books. He had the opportunity to express his views nationally during an interview on James Dobson's "Focus on the Family" radio program. Several of his articles have been published, the most recent being "Promiscuity, Prophylactics and the Christian Physician" in the Journal of Biblical Ethics in Medicine, October, 1988.

In Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, Barrett led the effort to stop the local funding of Planned Parenthood. After four years of praying, planning, and working by the Christian community, the County Commission of Mecklenburg County voted against the $115,000 fiscal request from the local chapter of Planned Parenthood, the first denial in 13 years. The details of this endeavor were published in an article titled "How to Beat Planned Parenthood" in the August 1988 issue of Citizen (a new magazine from Focus on the Family).

If you are interested in influencing the legislation of public policy issues such as school-based health clinics, abortion, euthanasia, write to: Christian Action Council, P.O. Box 727, Matthews, NC 28106, or call 704/847-7620.

Partners '88-'89
together - making a difference

October 24 - November 19

At Cedarville College, we're in the business of educating students to affect our world for Christ and we need business partners. PARTNERS '88-89, an alumni Annual Fund opportunity by telephone, takes place October 24 - November 19, 1988. Sometime during these weeks, a student of Cedarville College will call YOU to discuss how you might be involved as a PARTNER. As an alumnus of the College, you realize that the high quality education you received at Cedarville is costly. It was when you were here; it's even greater now.

But you did not pay for it alone. Thanks to the gifts of many alumni and friends—PARTNERS through the Annual Fund—the students of Cedarville today will not need to, either. During 1988-89, the Annual Fund needs a minimum of $600 for each of our nearly 1,900 students—a need which is met only by gifts from churches, friends, and alumni. It takes hundreds of you, working as PARTNERS together to meet this on-going need each year.

As a PARTNER, you can help the students of Cedarville College through the Annual Fund by helping to:

- a. maintain the quality of our faculty and staff,
- b. provide educational materials like computers and books in the library,
- c. augment student aid,
- d. maintain our buildings and grounds, and
- e. fund co-curricular activities such as chapel, Christian ministries, and dorm activities.

Without the Annual Fund, each student's bill would increase $600 immediately—a dilemma we find unacceptable. Such an increase would result in many students missing the opportunity that you enjoyed: an education at Cedarville.

Sometime between October 24 and November 19, 1988, one of our students will call YOU, asking you to be a PARTNER. Be thinking and praying about how the students of Cedarville College fit into your stewardship plans. As PARTNERS, together we can make a difference in the lives of the students of Cedarville College.
