A CEDARVILLE COLLEGE AVISO

Vol. III Issue 1

Spring '89

Construction of the new William Brock Residence Hall (inset) is proceeding on schedule. Heavy excavation and construction equipment has been on the site since Fall Quarter.

William A. Brock Hall

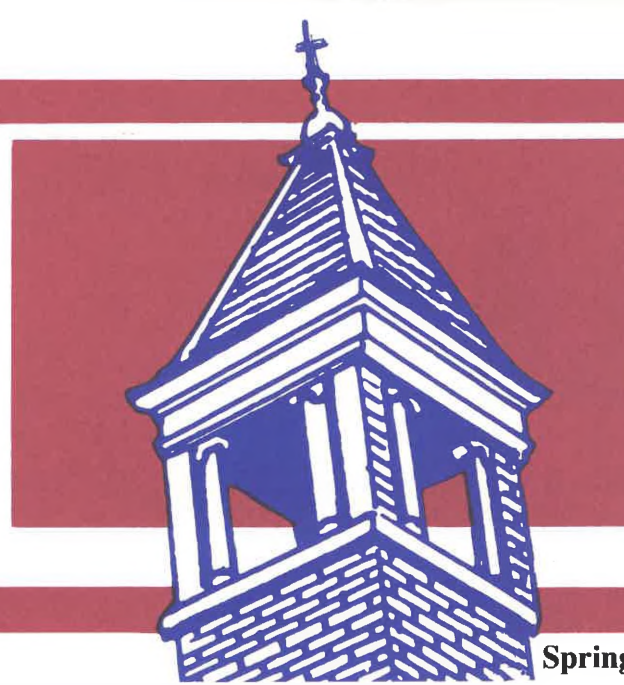

- flagship of the residence life program
- attractive, three-story brick
- accommodations for 170 men
- eight study areas, lounges, recreation areas
- computer access in each student room
- attractive wood furniture
- thermostats in each room for heating and air conditioning
- proximity to Student Activities Center, Athletic Center, intramural fields, tennis courts, and three other residence halls
- ready for occupancy fall quarter, 1989

The new William A. Brock Hall will enhance the fine residence hall program at Cedarville College. Students will engage not only in academic pursuits, but also in Bible study and Christian fellowship. They grow together, pray together, and encourage one another — as they prepare for further service for Jesus Christ.

The building is named for the late Dr. William A. Brock, Cedarville trustee for 31 years.

Gifts are needed to provide furnishings for student rooms — $3,000 per room or $1,500 for each student. Please contact the Alumni Office for more details.

How's Curtis Doing?

Curtis ('83) and Carol (Stoltzfus '82) Hoke became parents of a baby girl on January 7 (see Alumnotes). Cynthia Elizabeth is a special gift from God because quadriplegics are not supposed to be able to father children.

Alumni of the early '80's remember Curtis Hoke well. God had saved sixteen-year-old Curt when Evangelist Paul Dixon presented the Gospel during services at Calvary Baptist Church in Meadville, Pennsylvania. Influenced by Dixon and by his youth pastor, Curt headed for Cedarville for his college education.

He fit right into the academics and the activities of Cedarville College and became a campus leader. It was a time of maturing for him, of learning about responsibility. As a mathematics major he learned to think critically which helped him later in his work as a computer programmer. He was student body president, student body project chairman, and worked in the Campus Activities Office. The cover of the 1983 Miracle is Curtis' design.

It was at Cedarville College that Curtis began to take his faith seriously. He found that faith was a lifestyle to live, not just something to do on Sunday. His two years of Christian service ministry in an area nursing home gave him an appreciation for those who were not as well off physically as he was, and he really learned to care about them.

Curtis and Carol Stoltzfus became engaged. She graduated and accepted a teaching job in Indiana while he finished his senior year at Cedarville. They planned an August wedding date following his graduation in 1983, but in July a diving accident left him paralyzed from the chest down.

Curtis and Carol faced uncertainty and difficult times, and their wedding was delayed almost two years. But their faith in God and in each other did not waver. What seemed like shattered dreams offered many opportunities to share their faith.

Curtis spent the six months following his accident in Philadelphia hospitals followed by three months with his family in Meadville. Then the Lord directed him into a computer programming course for the disabled offered by the University of Philadelphia. Carol transferred her teaching career to Morgan, Pennsylvania.

As job opportunities became a reality, the need for transportation for Curtis became pressing. If he had a job and could secure a van, the state of Pennsylvania would equip the van for him, a quadriplegic, to drive. Through Cedarville alumni, their churches, and other friends, the Lord provided the converted van in April 1985, just days before their wedding.

Curtis is a construction estimator, and Carol homeschools eight children in their home four hours each day. On Sundays they teach a class of 20 second and third graders in their Evangelical Free Church. They have a ministry showing the Joni Earickson Tada film "Let's Be Friends" in Christian schools and churches. The film suggests ways that the viewers can relate to handicapped people and gives the Hokes opportunities to testify of God's goodness in their lives. Curtis also has spoken at camps for handicapped children and in the Cedarville College chapel service.

Before Curtis and Carol were married, they were told that quadriplegics could not father children. However, an article in a medical journal described a new procedure that seemed to fit their situation. They approached doctors in Thomas Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia who were willing to help them. The procedure utilized their own reproductive cells, and Carol conceived on the first attempt. Cindy is only the fourth child to be fathered in this manner by a quadriplegic father and carried to term by the mother.

"O Lord, you are my God. I will exalt You and praise your name, for in perfect faithfulness you have done marvelous things, things planned long ago" (Isaiah 25:1).

Attention, Alumni!

Join us for the George Bernard
Shaw Festival
Niagara-on-the-Lake,
Ontario, Canada
September 15 & 16,
1989

The Alumni Association and Professor Ed Spencer have arranged a special theater experience for YOU! Enjoy three drama classics in picturesque Ontario, experience quaint B & B accommodations, and lunch in the elegant Prince of Wales Hotel — all for an affordable price.

Enjoy these theater classics.

Friday, 8 p.m. Peer Gynt by Henrik Ibsen. Ibsen presents an intense look at the quest for identity through the life of the wild and imaginative lad, Peer Gynt.

Saturday, 2 p.m. Man and Superman by George Bernard Shaw. In this popular, comic masterpiece, John Tanner, a young revolutionary, is appointed guardian to the wily Ann Whitefield. Unbeknownst to Tanner, Ann has requested his guardianship in an elaborate plan to make him her husband.

Saturday, 8 p.m. An Inspector Calls by J.B. Priestly. Intrigue develops at the home of the wealthy and respectable Birling family when Inspector Goole investigates the suicide of a young girl. Skeletons come out of the closet, and the family makes a shocking discovery.

Interact with our guest speaker.

Ed Spencer, Professor of English, will give background information and share his insights on each of the plays.

Note the reasonable cost.

$135 single occupancy
$235 for two sharing a room
$330 for three sharing a room

This price includes tickets for the three plays, two nights in a local Bed and Breakfast, and Saturday luncheon at the Prince of Wales Hotel. Our theater seats are the best in the house, but tickets are limited.

Make your reservations.

You'll want to make your reservations as soon as possible. For more information, contact the Alumni Office, Cedarville College, P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314 (513) 766-2211, ext. 331. We will need your reservation fee of $20 per person by July 15.

A Word With Alumni

Gary Kuhn

Dear Alumnus:

Birthdays, no doubt, are special days in your life. The same is true here on the campus. January 26 is Cedarville's special day. It was 102 years ago on this day in 1887 that the College was chartered by the State of Ohio.

Praise the Lord for the privilege Cedarville College has had to help nurture and develop the more than 11,000 students who have filled her classrooms, opened her books, worshiped in her chapel, competed on her athletic fields and courts, and have left here better prepared to meet the challenge of the future. From the success of our graduates I would say she has done an admirable job. To God be the glory!

Providing opportunities for alumni to continue learning, discovering, and growing is a priority of the Alumni Council. It's the basis of our Summer Enrichment Conference. Have you ever thought of attending -- perhaps trying it just once? Please do! I encourage you to make plans today. You'll not be disappointed. In fact, you'll be treating yourself and your family to a great experience. You might even join us again another year as nearly 60% of our participants do. This year we have a great communicator and a pertinent topic. I hope you will join us July 12-15, 1989.

Sincerely in Christ,

Gary Kuhn
Director of Alumni Relations

P.S. Vera (Andrew '03) Harvey, our oldest living alumnus, turned 104 on February 8th. If you would like to send your greetings, address your correspondence to 1325 Sixth Avenue, Huntington, WV 25701.

Exposing the Myths of Parenthood

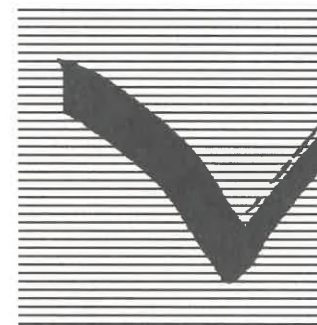

Dr. David Jeremiah

Fact or Myth?

- Time -- it's not the quantity, it's the quality.
- A chapter a day keeps the Devil away.
- Read a book and raise a child.
- Teens are trouble.
- When they're grown they're on their own.
- Good parents don't have problems with their kids.

Join us for the Summer Enrichment Conference July 12-15, 1989, as Dr. David Jeremiah exposes these and other MYTHS of parenthood — myths that have imposed unrealistic standards and unnecessary guilt on parents and grandparents alike.

David Jeremiah '63 is senior pastor of the Scott Memorial Baptist Church and serves as President of Christian Heritage College in El Cajon, California. He is the author of five books, and his daily radio broadcast, "Turning Point," is broadcast by more than 70 stations. He and his wife, Donna (Thompson '63), have four children.

Alumni Council NOMINATIONS

We are seeking nominations for two positions on the Cedarville College Alumni Council. A council member must hold a degree/certificate from Cedarville College or, prior to 1954, from the Baptist Bible Institute of Cleveland. Information about the nominee should include special abilities, interests, and why this person would be a good council member. You may nominate yourself. Please send nominations by April 15 to the Alumni Office, Cedarville College, P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314.

Shelley Fratus '88 was one of six students nationwide to win the Woody Hayes National Scholar Athlete Award. A biology major with a 3.95 GPA, Shelly was the only Ohio resident as well as the only NAIA athlete to receive the award this year. In the NAIA national finals, her fourth place finish in the 400 meter hurdles earned her All-American honors. Her time of 62.94 seconds was a school record. Shelly currently resides in Xenia with her husband Jeff.

FDA Chief Speaks at Charter Day

Frank E. Young

Dr. Frank E. Young, Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, spoke at a special Charter Day Chapel commemorating the 102nd birthday of the College. He also hosted an informative question and answer meeting later in the day.

When Dr. Young moved to Washington almost five years ago, his home church commissioned him a missionary to government. Serving as FDA chief during the Reagan years, he will continue in that position in President Bush's administration.

In his Charter Day address, he urged (1) students to synthesize their faith with their learning, (2) faculty to be involved in Christian and secular scholarship in the humanities and sciences, and (3) the College to stand for the truth in the state and the nation. He suggested that Christians write their Congressmen informing them of their prayer support and asking for specific prayer requests.

Holding both the M.D. and the Ph.D. degrees, Dr. Young publishes extensively in his field of biotechnology. He has received numerous prestigious awards including three honorary doctorates and has served on the faculty or administration of Case Western Reserve University, Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, University of California at San Diego, University of Rochester, and several hospitals. Presently he is on the Executive Committee of the World Health Organization.

Torch Club: Helping to Pass the Torch to Our Students and Beyond

The Torch Club — doesn't that include all the people who receive the TORCH magazine?

That's one of the greatest myths of the 1980's. You may think that the Torch Club exists to publish the TORCH magazine, but the only things that the Torch Club and the TORCH magazine have in common are their name and Cedarville College.

"Commit thou to faithful men who will be able to teach others also." Paul's words in II Timothy 2:2 reinforce why the Torch Club exists: to help pass the torch of truth to each of our students so they, in turn, can take this truth into their careers and ministries. We want to give them a torch lit with the light of the gospel; a torch they can carry into the world of darkness.

Individuals or married couples who desire to join us in "Passing the Torch" give $10 or more each month to the College through the Annual Fund. Such gifts touch literally every aspect of a student's life: his professors, any student aid he may receive, facilities he uses, co-curricular activities in which he is involved, and educational materials which complement his classroom instruction.

Your greatest benefit from joining the Torch Club is knowing that you are involved in the lives of nearly 1900 students, helping them to carry the torch of God's Word. As a tangible reminder of your ministry, you receive a marble paperweight. We trust that it prompts you to pray continually for the ministry of Cedarville College and for your financial ministry.

We invite you to become a member of the Torch Club, to provide $10 per month to help uphold the quality of a Cedarville education, and to join the many others who are already making a difference by "Passing the Torch" of truth to our students.

We would enjoy answering any questions you may have about the program. Please call or write:

Campus Activities Coordinates and Complements

Alumni, do you remember...

Follicle Follies — the only time in Cedarville College history when faculty and staff men were encouraged to grow BEARDS?

Painting The Rock — perhaps you and your buddies were the fourth group in a single night to spray paint the declaration of your allegiance to YOUR team the night before the Ohio State-Michigan game.

Cedar What? — that ridiculous spoof on our nation's presidential campaign, held only once during your college career, fortunately!

CZ's antics — designed to encourage you and to point out specific events. The unveiling of the members came only when they graduated.

Artist Series — that quarter you took "Man and the Arts" and were required to attend.

And INTRAMURALS! Is it true that in the early '80s a student enrolled at Cedarville fall quarter only for several years just so he could play flag football?

Coordinate and Complement. According to Campus Activities Director Dick Walker '74, these words best describe the work of his office. The CA staff coordinate all the non-academic events of the college, including those generated by their own office. A key project of Walker's office is the Activities Calendar. The CA staff is the central control for the balancing and spacing of events throughout the school year and for publishing a calendar of these events. They also help other departments and organizations with specific activities and arrange for outside groups to use college facilities.

Their own office seeks to provide a variety of programs and activities which complement the educational goals and the spiritual emphasis of the college.

Walker asserts that much of the college experience takes place outside the classroom — character and personality development, friendships, spiritual edification, and cultural awareness. A Campus Activities event must enhance that part of the college environment.

Walker says he relies heavily on his "3 M's" (Mark Mathews '82, Michelle Longo '86, and Melissa Basler '88) to make the Campus Activities program "go."

Mathews directs the popular Intramural/Recreation program. Most quarters 60% of the student body is involved in some sport or activity.

Michelle Longo coordinates the use of the Student Center, the Gavelyte Deli, the concert series, and the hosting of off-campus organizations who wish to use college facilities.

Melissa Basler is office manager and calendar coordinator. She also schedules meeting rooms for campus organizations and disseminates general information.

The Office sponsors special events such as Orientation Week, Homecoming, Li'l Sibs Weekend, Parents' Weekend, Residence Hall Week, and Grandparents' Day. Contact with parents is maintained and encouraged through a newsletter from the CA Office.

The CA Office encourages leadership development and communication through the President's Council which is comprised of the presidents of all the student organizations and classes.

Student leadership training builds confidence, teamwork, and leadership skills. Participating in the ropes course in Columbus, Ohio, are Paul Czerniak and Jenny Fink.

Jeff Beste '86, visitor coordinator for the Admissions Office, acquaints a tour group with a new map of the campus at the entrance of the College Center. A gift of the class of 1982, the map will assist the more than 10,000 visitors who come to the campus each year. When the 1982 class members were planning their five-year reunion, they discovered that their senior class gift to the College had never materialized. They saw the project to completion and recently presented it to the Admissions Office.

Is "glasnost" real? See for yourself when you visit the Soviet Union this August with Cedarville alumni and students! You will tour the historic Kremlin, walk in famous Red Square, enjoy the art treasures of Leningrad, visit Riga on the Baltic, view the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, and experience the balmy Black Sea port of Odessa. On this 17-day tour you will also enjoy two days in London, all for less than $2,000. Interested? Contact David Ormsbee, the trip coordinator at Cedarville College, P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314.

Oozeball is one of the competitions of the annual Residence Hall Week held each May.

1st Annual Cedarville College Video Yearbook

Coming this summer --

Relive your Cedarville College experience. See who "made a difference" in the 1988-89 school year. Fully edited, VHS format approximately 45 minutes. $25.

To order: Contact Brett Montford, A/V Services, Centennial Library, (513) 766-2211 (ext. 207).

Can you identify these scholarly students? If you think you know them, send your answer to the Alumni Office. From the correct responses, a winner will be drawn who will receive a T-shirt, compliments of the Alumni Association.

Do you enjoy serving young people? Do you possess excellent communication and organizational skills? Have you ever considered working for your alma mater? If you answer "yes" to these three questions, consider working in the Cedarville College Admissions Department!

Cedarville graduates make the best recruiters because of their first-hand knowledge of the College. At least one full-time professional position will be open late this spring. If you desire additional information about this opportunity, please send a recent resumé and letter of inquiry to David Ormsbee, Director of Admissions, Cedarville College, P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314.

Alumni Profile

Reflecting Christ through Law Enforcement

Chief Mark Evans

One might say that Mark Evans '64N was born with law enforcement in his blood. Two grandfathers were in police work and an uncle served as a warden in a penitentiary. For the past 22 years, Evans has come up through the ranks of the Woodhaven, Michigan, Police Department and in February 1988 was appointed Chief of Police.

During the two years he was a Cedarville student, Evans had a busy Christian ministry in Xenia and Clark County jails and in the Lebanon Correctional Institute. The concern and special interest shown him by faculty member Miriam Maddox laid a foundation for his own concern for young people. He credits Cedarville for helping him develop spiritual thought patterns and a consistent devotional life.

Evans continued his college work at Oakland University in Pontiac, Michigan, Wayne State and Michigan State Universities. He then went to the Detroit Metropolitan and Michigan State Police Academies. Special training followed at the Smith & Wesson Firearms Academy and the National Police Firearms School. Through the years he has served in crime prevention and surveillance and as vice, juvenile, and command officer. He has received several commendations and, in 1975, the U.S. Jaycees named him Distinguished Policeman of the Year.

Each year Evans teaches law enforcement courses at Woodhaven High School. He educates students about problems they will confront -- alcohol, drugs, crime, domestic violence, and abuse. Evans also speaks to middle and elementary students about law enforcement and good citizenship.

Evans' interest in the out-of-doors and big game hunting also has provided opportunities to work with young people. As a Scout Master, he is able to teach his scouts not only about wildlife but also about firearms safety. Woodhaven also sponsors a law enforcement explorers program for youth with which Evans is involved. These experiences may not only foster good relations between the police department and the young people, but also have opened many opportunities for Evans to pursue friendship evangelism.

Evans is a trustee and Sunday school teacher at First Baptist Church in Lincoln Park. He and his wife Joyce have two sons, Bryan 19 and Brad 16.

A verse which has been an encouragement to him throughout his career is Philippians 4:13: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

Door to Door Via Telephone

Pastor Earl Shaffer

When Good Shepherd's Baptist Church in Sidney, Ohio, opened its doors on October 2, 165 people came to the first service. About 40 were friends and family members. The others were present because of an intensive telephone campaign conducted in the area by Pastor Earl Shaffer '77, his wife Marilyn, and about 100 volunteers from nine churches in western and northwestern Ohio.

The Shaffers are church planters with Baptist Mission of North America. On the basis of surveys, Sidney was selected as a city in which to plant a church whose ministry would be Bible teaching, outreach, and discipleship.

In early August, the Shaffer family moved into a home in Sidney, installed 10 telephone lines, and with the help of their volunteers started the calls.

Shaffer reports, "Our folks 'visited' 17,322 homes." To the 950 who expressed interest, they mailed brochures outlining the purpose, goals, and programs of the church, and made follow-up calls. They found that God had prepared ten families as the core of His church.

Arrangements were made to meet in a local elementary school. Prepared with a nursery (staffed by Cedarville College students), Sunday school teachers, a youth pastor (Cedarville senior Jeff Oswald), and pianist (freshman Linda Thompson of Troy), the church planters were expecting 90-100 for the first service.

That first Sunday two decisions were made for salvation, four people made commitments to Christ, three desired baptism, and two said they wanted to join the church.

The expected drop in attendance was not as great as they had anticipated: the fifth week there were 110 present and two salvation decisions.

"Now to Him Who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all we ask or think, according to the power that works in us, to Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen!" (Ephesians 3:20).

It was through the ministry of Blackhawk Baptist Church in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, that Shaffer was saved in 1973. Blackhawk also introduced him to the concept of church planting.

He cites his Bible training at Cedarville, discipling underclassmen, and his work with OVCH children as good preparation for his ministry.

Before going to Sidney, he took graduate work at Bowling Green State University and Winebrenner Seminary and pastored First Baptist Church of Forest, Ohio.

Earl and Marilyn Shaffer have two children, Grant 3 and Leya 2.

Tonia Thane

From the Heart

Sufficient for Today

by Tonia (Wilson '81N) Thane

August 8, 1988 — Another hot summer day. After a hectic week of VBS at church in addition to our normal commitments, I am looking forward to staying home and keeping our four little ones as cool as possible. Amber is four, Adam, almost two, and the twins Hayley and Justin, almost four months.

7:00 a.m. — Justin awakens with a temperature of 101. I am not alarmed, but think I should call Dr. Delapaz anyway. She wants to see him.

11:00 a.m. — Justin has no other symptoms, but she tells me what to watch for and says to call if any occur.

4:15 p.m. — I call the doctor. She says if his temperature does not go down by 5 p.m. she will admit him to the hospital for observation. I have no car...Mike is still at work...who will stay with the other children?

5 p.m. — A friend comes to help with supper, and she will stay with the children. Dad stops by. He will take Justin and me to the hospital. I look at Justin. His lips are turning blue, and one eye is starting to cross. The doctor calls and tells me to meet her at the hospital.

At the hospital — The doctor orders a spinal tap to rule out meningitis. Mike joins Dad and me in the waiting room shortly before Dr. Delapaz tells us that Justin indeed has meningitis. We have heard of it and know it is serious. Our son will be taken to the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit of the Hurley Medical Center in Flint.

In the ambulance — I think the ambulance will never arrive at Hurley. Justin lies almost lifeless, and my heart aches for my precious baby. I feel so helpless. There is nothing I can do.

At Hurley Medical Center — The doctor says the first 24 hours are the most critical. Justin has a seizure at midnight and again at 3 a.m. He goes into septic shock and is attached to a ventilator.

August 9, 7 a.m. — With tears streaming down his face, Dr. Zureikat (head of PICU) tells us that Justin is dying and they are doing all they can. Now it is up to God. Mike asks me if I am ready to give Justin to the Lord. "No!" I mean it with all my heart. No one is going to take my baby! Later — as I look at my baby attached to ventilator and oxygen, I realize I have to give him to the Lord. All of a sudden it is easy to do.

Many have been praying for us. Our church family has drawn very close to us through their prayers and through the ways they have helped us.

August 10 — The doctors say Justin will live, but he will be incapable of voluntary functions. The septic shock has caused the loss of circulation to his hands and feet. His fingers and toes have turned black, and the doctors say he will probably lose some toes and maybe a finger.

August 15 — Justin is off the ventilator. His hearing seems normal; his vision does not. He has lost the suck-swallow reflex and we are learning to tube-feed him.

August 28 — Justin is back on a bottle and some solid foods. The CAT scan shows some brain damage, but he is too young for the doctors to determine the extent.

August 30 — Justin is home! He is like a newborn; he has no head control, but we will continue to work with him, and a therapist will come twice a week.

September 10 — The pediatric ophthalmologist says Justin is not blind, just visually delayed.

November 10 — Justin's fingers and toes are now healthy pink again. The black is gone. He lost only the tip of a baby toe and his fingers are fine.

November 19 — Justin's vision still is not normal, but it is better, and the doctor feels it will continue to improve.

December 12 — Justin is eight months old now. He has made much progress. He smiles a lot and is a happy baby. We have high hopes for him.

We are so very thankful to our Lord for giving Justin back to us. We told Him we would take him back however He chose to give him to us. We have learned a valuable lesson. Our children are not ours — they are lent to us for a time. I never would have believed I could make it through an experience like this, but God gives grace and it is sufficient for today. Tomorrow He will again give me what I need.

Mike ('85) and Tonia (Wilson '81N) Thane reside in Lapeer, MI, where Mike is a salesman for Active Homes and Tonia is a homemaker and mother.
