Clyde Walker, president of the class of 1939, presented to President Dixon on behalf of his class, three gifts to be incorporated into the decor of the President's Dining Room: a Gorham crystal punch bowl, a tapestry, and a Howard Miller grandfather clock (far right).

370 New Alumni!

With President Dixon are Sue Moyer and Trenton Stokes, President's Trophy winners. The recipients, who exemplify well-rounded Christian individuals, were chosen on the basis of grades, character, testimony, leadership, and sportsmanship.

Dr. Dixon and James Pawelski, Faculty Award winner. Pawelski earned a 4.0 G.P.A. in his quest for a mathematics major and minors in Spanish, English, history, physics, and Bible. He taught Sunday school in the Fellowship, was on the Wright State evangelism team, appeared in three drama productions, was in Forensics, and Timalathians. Penn State has awarded him a full scholarship for doctoral studies in philosophy.

The Class of 1989:

Possessed a willing heart to serve.

As Class President Don Drozd states, this class "was highly Christian ministries oriented." They got involved right away as freshmen and were the backbone of many ministry and gospel teams throughout their time at Cedarville.

Prepared a time capsule for the Centennial Library.

Their intent was to inform the Cedarville College family of 2037 A.D. of what their college was like in the late 1980's. Should the Lord tarry, those people celebrating the 150th birthday of the college will sense, as they examine the 120 items in the capsule, the commitment to the Lord of this present College family. The time capsule rests in a glass case near the reference desk of the library.

Presented a generous gift to the College.

They called it a two dimensional gift. They wanted to give back something intangible that would help the College. Realizing the financial cost of their own educations and foreseeing the higher costs that future students will incur, the Class of 1989 elected to join the efforts of previous classes in contributing to the Second Generation Investment Fund.

They also wanted to leave something tangible that all the College family would enjoy for years to come. As the new Brock Residence Hall and the projected new entrance and new student union will move the focus of the campus to the north, a prominent new plaza will grace the point between Printy Hall and the road to the Athletic Center. Elements of the plaza will express how the Cedarville experience impacted the Class of 1989.

Kresge Challenge Grant Benefits Brock Hall

Construction of Brock Hall is proceeding on schedule and will be ready for occupancy Fall Quarter 1989.

Dr. Paul Dixon has announced that the Kresge Foundation has offered a challenge grant of $250,000 toward construction of the new William A. Brock Residence Hall. The College will receive the funds if $1,250,000 in other gifts and commitments have been received by December 31, 1989. Over $800,000 is already committed to the project. For more information please contact the Alumni or Development Office at Cedarville College.

A Word With Alumni

Dear Alumnus:

The 93rd annual commencement marks the end of another successful year at Cedarville College. We experienced our 10th consecutive record enrollment and now send off 370 seniors "into all the world." Please pray with us that they will have an impact for Christ on their communities.

Our Alumni Association also enjoyed a great year. Twenty-four gatherings, not including Homecoming, united more than 700 alumni and friends for fellowship, educational and spiritual growth and, of course, information about the progress and changes at Cedarville College. Our "Chat With Alumni" program utilized the willingness of alumni to share their experiences and expertise in their professions with our students.

To assist graduates in the transition from student to alumnus the Alumni Association sponsored for the senior class a specialized seminar called "Life After Cedarville." Four alumni volunteers spoke twice in an evening so the students could attend two of the four following sessions: Too Much Month at the End of My Paycheck; Where Have All My Friends Gone?; Bonding with Believers: How to Select a Local Church; and Help! There's an Insurance Man at my Door! Thanks to all who had a part in these alumni-sponsored events.

May I bring to your attention the July 12-15 Summer Enrichment Conference on parenting with Dr. David Jeremiah? It's not too late to call in reservations. Homecoming is scheduled for October 13-14. Be certain to mark those dates and plan to join your classmates and friends for a great weekend of fellowship.

Sincerely in Christ,

Caring for the Whole Person

Denise Auckland

Each day Denise Auckland '87 finds herself caring for the physical and spiritual needs of adolescent patients. Denise works with teenagers in the Young Adult Unit of Children's Medical Center in Dayton, Ohio. Some of her patients are terminally ill with diseases such as cancer and cystic fibrosis, but most suffer from such ailments as broken bones and flu.

Denise says that Cedarville College prepared her well for her nursing career. The four-year program allows prospective nurses to delve into many different aspects of the profession which she feels is a distinct advantage over a two-year nursing program. As a senior nursing student Denise had the opportunity to take her ten-week clinical experience at Children's Medical Center, her current place of employment. Now she keeps in touch with the College Nursing program as she works with current nursing students.

She learned at Cedarville that she must provide for the whole patient, not just for the physical aspect. Denise often finds that she is a role model to her adolescent patients. She sees these young adults not only as patients, but also as friends. They interact easily and ask many questions about college life. Of course, her friends have physical needs, but some of them also are ready to respond spiritually. Often the Lord gives the opportunities to share the gospel. And Jesus Christ is what her patients need most.

As Denise Auckland begins each day at the hospital, she is attuned to the many physical needs of her patients. Yet, more importantly, she is aware of the ripe mission field of needy souls.

Caring for the Whole Family

Tony Goocey

A woman badly burned in a fire; a man who has suffered a heart attack; a semi-comatose teenager involved in a car accident—these are the shattered patients that Tony Goocey '86 cares for and helps to mend every day. But these patients are not the only individuals needing care. An accident or illness affects a whole family.

Tony is a nurse on the medical surgery floor of the Intensive Care Unit in the Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton, Ohio. He began his nursing career at Mercy Medical Center in Springfield, Ohio, where he had taken his clinical work for Cedarville's nursing program. Throughout his clinicals and during his time at Mercy, the Lord formed the desire in him to serve in the Intensive Care Unit. In time he advanced to that position which he now holds at Miami Valley.

Tony says he has found that clear and calm thinking is necessary during the more stressful times of his job, and the Lord enables him to set an example for his colleagues. Since his patients are in critical condition, Tony doesn't have much direct verbal contact with them. For this reason he believes his interaction with the families of his patients is very important. He says, "At Cedarville the nursing professors teach family oriented care—caring primarily for the patient, but also being sensitive to the needs of the patient's family. They are affected by the situation, too, and they need a special kind of care."

Since this sensitivity to the family's needs is especially important in the ICU, Tony tries to make sure the family understands what is happening to their loved one. He takes time to answer questions they have about the doctor's diagnosis and treatment and offers encouragement.

Tony Goocey has a ministry to help the shattered bodies of his patients to mend. But his ministry is more than that. He cares for the whole family, too.

The funds raised for the 1989 Student Body Project will be used to establish a student radio station. Offering a listening alternative for students, the new station also will provide broadcasting majors and other interested students the opportunity to experience all the facets of programming designed specifically for students. Tentative plans for content include music, live sports broadcasts, updates of intramural and intercollegiate sports, and notices of upcoming events at the College and in the surrounding area.

Dr. Norman L. Geisler, Dean of Liberty Center for Christian Scholarship at Liberty University, was the 1989 Staley Distinguished Christian Scholar Lecturer at Cedarville, February 21-23. His topic was "Invasion from the East: The New Age Movement," and he addressed the background, basic beliefs, and influence of the movement. Having previously served on the faculties of Dallas Theological Seminary, Trinity Evangelical College and Divinity School, and Detroit Bible College, Dr. Geisler has taught philosophy, ethics, and related subjects for nearly 30 years. He has authored or co-authored more than 20 books including Is Man the Measure: An Evaluation of Contemporary Humanism and The Reincarnation Sensation.

Love Gift Aids Student's Witness

Ken Oster and his Touch-Talker

Despite tight budgets which are typical of college students, the Cedarville College student body raised over $3,700 in less than one month for a special gift to one of their own. Sponsored by the on-campus Cedarville Baptist Fellowship the love gift was used to purchase "Touch-Talker" — a portable computer device that has restored speech to fellow student Ken Oster, junior Bible major from Richland, Washington.

When Ken was 14, he was caught up in rock music, drugs, and alcohol. He followed the example of many of his rock idols by trying to end his life. His suicide attempt which placed him in a coma for five days resulted in damage to his vocal cords and in neurological impairment which therapy could not correct. His ability to speak was gone, and for the next seven years he communicated by sign language or by writing.

Ken came to know Jesus Christ through the ministry of youth pastor Pete Slusher '78 after the suicide attempt. Pete also encouraged Ken to go to Cedarville College.

As he grew in the Lord, Ken developed a great burden to reach those trapped in the drug/rock culture as he had been. He learned to give his testimony using laminated flip cards which he made with the help of Campus Pastor Harold Green. Ken used his cards on beach evangelism and as he approached young people going into rock concerts.

During his Thanksgiving break in 1988, Ken served with Jesus People U.S.A. in Chicago helping the homeless and the poor. Because many of the people who came to the mission could not read, he found he could not use his cards to communicate with them.

Ken's desire to share the gospel and his positive impact on the campus moved the student body to secure the Touch-Talker for him. The device enables him to communicate verbally through a voice synthesizer and textually by its printer hookup capability. Ken simply enters the words he wishes to say on the computer keyboard, and they are conveyed by the synthesizer or printer. Many barriers have been removed including that of speaking to the illiterate.

Touch-talker, a gift of love from Ken's fellow students, not only aids his day-to-day communication but, more importantly, furthers his ministry of spreading the gospel. Ken Oster loves the Lord and wants to share what Jesus Christ has done in his life.

"Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers" Galatians 6:10 NIV.

Forensics Team's Best Year

One of Cedarville's intercollegiate competitive teams just had the most successful year in its history. The success of this team does not lie in slam-dunking basketballs or smacking home runs. Forensics, which is intercollegiate speech competition, is the only arena in which Cedarville students compete against other colleges academically.

During the 1988-89 tournament season, Cedarville placed in the top four colleges in each of its eight competitions. Each tournament included approximately 20 teams representing colleges and universities throughout the Midwest. In one regional competition, the team placed first ahead of The Ohio State University, Miami University, Eastern Michigan University, Bowling Green State University, and others.

In state competition, Cedarville forensics members were champions in four events including Prose, Poetry, Dramatic Duo and After-Dinner Speaking. Donna Payne, the only senior on the team this year, ended her successful college career by securing three of those championships. Gary Clemmer, dubbed kiddingly by his coach "the funniest man in Ohio," was the champion in After-Dinner Speaking.

The team's fourteen members offered a combined effort that earned them the number two ranking in the state of Ohio for this school year. When the points were tallied, Cedarville College stood second only to The Ohio State University.

Forensics attracts students with an intense desire to develop sound communication skills as well as to grow personally. According to Dr. David Robey, the team's coach, "We field a team that exemplifies what I believe Cedarville College stands for: A commitment to biblical truth, social consciousness, and personal development. Forensics students have a great opportunity not only to exercise their thinking, logic, and communication skills, but also to communicate within each speech they give truth, morals, and biblical values to literally hundreds of secular college students."

This group of students has made a mark not only on the forensics books, but also on the lives of their competitors from other colleges that are part of the exciting arena of intercollegiate speech competition.

Summer Enrichment Conference at Cedarville College Exposing the Myths of Parenthood

Dr. David Jeremiah

Fact or Myth?

- Time -- it's not the quantity, it's the quality.
- A chapter a day keeps the Devil away.
- Read a book and raise a child.
- Teens are trouble.
- When they're grown they're on their own.
- Good parents don't have problems with their kids.

Join us for the Summer Enrichment Conference July 12-15, 1989, as Dr. David Jeremiah exposes these and other MYTHS of parenthood — myths that have imposed unrealistic standards and unnecessary guilt on parents and grandparents alike.

David Jeremiah '63 is senior pastor of the Scott Memorial Baptist Church and serves as President of Christian Heritage College in El Cajon, California. He is the author of five books, and his daily radio broadcast, "Turning Point," is broadcast by more than 70 stations. He and his wife, Donna (Thompson '63), have four children.

Dr. James M. Anderson '38 was selected to represent Cedarville College in the 1989 class of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges Hall of Excellence. The O.F.I.C., which consists of 36 accredited independent colleges, furthers the cause of private higher education in Ohio. Dr. Anderson has served the community of Monroe, OH as a family practitioner since 1948.

Barney's (short for Barnabas) Week was held April 17-22. The event is a special vehicle through which the college family makes a special effort to reach out and meet needs in the community and surrounding area, in addition to regular Christian ministry involvements. More than 300 students representing 15 campus organizations took part in projects to benefit senior citizens, the Opera House restoration, and the Crisis Pregnancy Center in Springfield. In addition, students conducted general cleanups of the Indian Mound and Glen Helen areas and the village of Cedarville. Enthusiastic participation indicates that Barney's Week will become an annual event.

Dr. Robert Gromacki addressed "The Inspiration and Inerrancy of the Scriptures" for the Staley Foundation Lectureship at Faith Baptist Bible College in January 1989. He currently writes a column entitled "Bible Questions Answered" for the Back to the Bible magazine, Confident Living.

Tau Delta Kappa is a new campus organization for students in the Honors Program at Cedarville College. Dr. Gary Percesepe, advisor, says the club agenda will emphasize the need to challenge the mind outside the classroom. In addition to activities on campus, the members of TDK are involved in a ministry of tutoring Cedarville High School students.

Becoming the Best that God Allows

Student nurses enjoy excellent clinical experiences under the supervision of the Nursing faculty.

In the Department of Nursing, the professors and their 175 students strive to become, as Dr. Irene Alyn describes it, the best that God will allow them to be.

Dr. Alyn assumed leadership of the fledgling nursing department in 1981. That year she worked part time to develop the four-year program leading to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree. She planned the curriculum and recruited faculty. The first clinical students were admitted to the program in 1983, and the first class graduated in 1985. To date, 188 students including 38 June graduates have completed the program.

Each faculty member brings a special teaching emphasis to the department. Dr. Alyn has authored several nursing textbooks and is a leader in nursing education. She teaches Introduction to Nursing, Nutrition, Research in Nursing, Pharmacology, and Nursing in Relationships. Lois Baker specializes in pediatric nursing. She teaches Pharmacology, Nursing Care of Children and Adults I, and Management and Advanced Clinical Nursing. Lois has completed all coursework for her doctorate and will begin her dissertation this summer. Dr. Jan Bauer teaches Health Assessment and Nursing Care of Children and Adults I. Dr. Carolyn Carlson teaches Research in Nursing, and Nursing in Relationships. Mark Klimek, who is currently working on his doctorate in trans-cultural nursing, teaches Nursing Care of Children and Adults II. Maternal and Family Health is Debra Oberer's area of expertise. She also is responsible for the learning lab where students are instructed in foundational nursing principles and techniques. Maureen Salladay brings to the department experience in public and community health and teaches courses relating to these topics.

Since most of the nursing courses involve lecture and clinical experience in local hospitals and other health care facilities, each faculty member is responsible for supervising a small group of students in his or her clinicals. These experiences give the faculty opportunity to develop close relationships with students. Robyn Havens, Cheryl Clark, Charlotte Crawford, and Nancy Goodman are part-time clinical instructors.

The outstanding efforts of the Nursing Department have resulted in accreditation by the National League for Nursing as well as full approval from the Ohio Board of Regents and the Ohio Board of Nursing.

Nursing is a challenging but very rewarding major. Students apply for admission to the Department of Nursing clinical courses during winter quarter of their sophomore year. Those accepted return for their junior year three weeks early to take an intensive course in Theoretical and Technical Foundations of Nursing. Students spend 12-16 hours each week in clinicals and must stay current on issues in the nursing field. That Cedarville nursing graduates are proficient in their knowledge and skills is reflected in the very good pass rates on their board exams to become licensed to practice nursing.

The Department of Nursing offers a program for RN's and LPN's to return to college to earn the BSN degree. The program is individually designed for each student based on previous coursework and experience in the field.

The Department of Nursing faculty strives to graduate nurses who can both think and do. Students are encouraged to pursue graduate study in nursing and to consider service in foreign missions. Diane Weaver '86 and Suellen Black '87 served short term; Nancy LaBonte '86 is in Gambia, West Africa; Sandy Jacobs '85 recently returned from Bangladesh; Brenda Mastin '88 is on deputation under ABWE; and Joyce Wesselink '85 is involved in home missions.

Cedarville's nursing graduates find their profession very rewarding as they minister to their patients' physical and spiritual needs. They are prepared to become the best that God will allow them to be.

The clinical program utilizes area hospitals, health departments, mental health services, rehabilitation centers, clinics, homes for the aged, and physicians' offices.

The John W. Bickett Heritage Alumni Scholarship was awarded to two juniors who are planning a vocation in the ministry. Kirk Belmont of Fairport, NY and Nathan Bobbett of New Carlisle, OH each received a $1200 tuition credit for the 1989-90 school year.

On March 16, 1989, Kerry Baumgartner, senior American Studies major from Columbia City, IN and Jodi Sprunger, senior Office Technology major from Berne, IN were called home to their heavenly Father as a result of an automobile accident. We remember the positive influence they had on our campus and their willingness to serve the Lord. We miss them.

Knowing Christ Aright

Dr. Irene Alyn's desire is to help nursing students develop in five dimensions — physically, intellectually, emotionally, socially, and spiritually. She knows her department is able to produce technically competent nurses, but that is not enough. In order for them to be the best they can be — godly, compassionate caregivers — they must be walking closely with the Lord in the five dimensions. Then they can be truly successful in what they do. For when one pleases God, one is truly successful.

The nursing faculty are alert to opportunities to counsel students in their maturing process. To enhance their skills in this area, Dr. Alyn and fellow professor Dr. Carolyn Carlson are taking an advanced course in the use of Scripture in counseling at Faith Baptist Counseling Ministries in Lafayette, Indiana. The nursing professors will be certified as "nouthetic counselors" upon completion of the 96 hour course.

Dr. Alyn's concern for young people extends beyond her nursing students. For the past 18 summers, she and her brothers have conducted wilderness camping trips into northern Canada. The campers are a mixed group. They are young people from churches, from detention homes, and from the streets of large cities. All have needs which Jesus Christ can meet.

In the primitive setting, the campers work hard and learn about authority, consistency, and dependence on others - and they have fun. However, the focus of the experience is to build spiritually into the lives of the young participants. Dr. Alyn presents the core of Bible doctrine, and for those who have accepted Christ, discipling centers on purity, forgiveness, handling anger, and accountability.

The experience has been life-changing for campers and directors alike, and Dr. Alyn can name many young people whom God saved in the Canadian wilderness camp. As the camp brochure states, it is the desire of the directors "that all of us will return from the trip with a deeper understanding of and a closer relationship with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, the One whom to know aright is Life eternal."

Nurses and campers — growing in the Lord. A generation of young people have had this opportunity as Dr. Irene Alyn has allowed God to work through her as an expression of His love.

Free Resume Networking Service

The Career Planning & Placement and Alumni offices are working together to provide Cedarville alumni with a free computerized resume networking service. The service is available to all alumni, and we encourage you to participate, whether currently employed or temporarily unemployed.

This service is offered free of charge — no listing or placement fees. The computerized resume network will give alumni the opportunity to have their resumes screened by many qualified employers across the country via a user-friendly database software package. The database is being managed and marketed to employers by Lundy Associates, Inc.

To participate, simply request an alumni resume application by writing or calling the Alumni or Career Planning and Placement Office. Upon return your resume will be entered into the computerized resume matching data base.

The data base will be sent to qualified employers who then can search the resumes to find a fit for job openings in their organizations. The resumes in the database are protected so that only legitimate, qualified employers are able to access the database. Third party recruiters will not be allowed to access this database.

If you are currently employed, precautions can be taken so that your resume will not be included in the database sent to the company for which you currently work. When you complete the application, do not include your name and address. Interested employers will contact the Placement Office staff who then will contact you. Your name will not be given to the employers.

Request the free Resume Networking Service application form from the Career Planning and Placement or Alumni Office by calling 513/766-2211 Ext. 289 or 331, or write to P.O. Box 601, Cedarville, OH 45314.

When you return your resume application, you may include a copy of your current resume for the Career Planning and Placement Office.

From the Heart

Words Cannot Express

Harold Green, Vice President for Christian Ministries

Words come easily to express our feelings of excitement, joy, happiness, enthusiasm, anxiety, and even anger. But there is a situation where words fail and are most inadequate. In times of sorrow how often we have said or heard, "I cannot put into words what I feel." Nothing we say can fill the void or ease the awkwardness of the situation.

In the New Testament three words are used for death which means separation or end. But those words do not express the suffering and pain that are associated with death. This is especially true on a campus of young adults between the ages of 17 and 25. Death is usually the furthest thing from their minds. To them, life is full of expectation and dreams, not something that will end abruptly. The impact on the "Ville" when one of our students is suddenly taken by death is most dramatic.

During my twenty years as campus pastor, I have witnessed this shock on several occasions and words never can express the feelings of my heart. I vividly recall phone calls I have received: a drowning in Ecuador; a fatality on Rt. 72; a student picked off the side of the road by a truck whose driver went to sleep; a collision in Columbus; a car dropping 100 feet off the edge of Wilberforce Clifton Road; a drunk who hit a car transporting some of our students on a Young's run; a car out of control on the icy road; and, just recently, the deaths of Jodi and Kerry on their way home for Spring Break. What can be said?

Shortly after the news of a catastrophe breaks on campus, words begin to fill our hearts. God's Words. Scripture brings hope out of despair, peace to the troubled heart, and assurance of comfort in grief. Other passages bring challenge and reminders like the inspired words of James, "What is your life? It is even a vapor."

The challenge is given to live in the will of God because the only things that will last and matter are those treasures laid up in heaven, not material or temporal gains amassed on earth. The reminder is obvious. I have no certainty of living on this planet beyond today. All plans for the future must be made with HIS permission and blessing.

After the initial shock, the sobering truth is experienced by all, especially by those who are closest to the one who was taken. But the total impact on the student body is in direct proportion to the visibility and testimony of the individual who died. While there is always the question, "Why?", the final questions are introspective: "What if it had been me? What would my life say?" The best response to these questions is to live my life as they did, with eternity's value in view. Then the words expressed by my Lord at my homegoing will be, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."
