The 1986-87 Centennial Issue Alumni Directory of Cedarville College

CEDARVILLE ALUMNI

THE COLLEGE ALUMNI AWARDS

Dear Alumnus,

As you can tell from the cover of this AVISO the Centennial Directories have been printed and by now have been distributed to your home. A limited number of copies are available on a first come basis for a gift of $10.00 or more. Please indicate you'd like a copy when you send your next gift to the general fund.

While rummaging through a file I came across a paper that contained the following ideas from Edgar Carlson, president of a small independent college. His thoughts describe the sentiments of your Alumni Council and the Development Department of Cedarville College. He writes, "If a college has not succeeded in persuading its students to give after four years on its campus, after lives have been subjected to the whole educational program of the institution, it has failed in its mission. If it trains men to 'get' but fails to train them to 'give' it really has no good reason for existence. It must be the hallmark of the alumni of this kind of institution that they are 'giving' people. This thought applies to their family life, their church activities, their vocational service and community participation. It should be evidenced also in their relationship to the college that persuaded them -- or at least helped to persuade them -- to be that kind of people. It is in teaching people to give -- of themselves, their efforts, their devotion and their means -- that colleges like ours have their mission."

If that is true, now is the time to measure how well we have been doing the job. Sending a gift to support the ongoing ministry of Cedarville College is like sending a sample of your life back each year to let the College know that you are keeping faith with them by being a "giving person." The amount of the gift isn't nearly as important as the fact that you evidence that you care.

Your gifts to the Alumni Scholarship Funds, General Fund, and other designated areas continue to make it possible for today's young people to receive a quality Christian education.

For a short time -- until December 31 -- you have an opportunity to see your gift or pledge for the new Library matched dollar-for-dollar. An envelope has been provided in this AVISO issue for your convenience. Please take time now in the "giving season" to help us reach our matching challenge goal of $150,000. Thanks for your generous support!

Alumni Challenged by Library Gift

Q. Why does the College need a new library?

A. Cedarville has simply outgrown the present library building. Built for an enrollment of 800 students and a collection to support less than half of our current curriculum, it is often overcrowded. But size is not the only issue. Library and learning technologies have changed, and the current building cannot accommodate these new functions.

Q. Are the alumni participating?

A. Aviso readers will not be surprised to learn that Cedarville's alumni are rallying to this cause. By June 30, 1986, alumni had already committed about $150,000 to the new Library. We then received the Alumni Matching Grant, which will match the new commitments received from alumni from that date until December 31, 1986.

Q. How will the Alumni Matching Grant program help?

A. Parents of two alumni have established a $150,000 fund to match alumni gifts and commitments for the new Library. Gifts received from alumni during the last 6 months of 1986, or commitments received during the same period for gifts to be given during 1987, will be matched on a dollar-for-dollar basis in 1986. These parents, who obviously have a great confidence in the alumni, hope that the prospect of having their gifts doubled will encourage many alumni to give generously.

Q. Do you anticipate success?

A. I surely do! Cedarville alumni have shown their enthusiasm for their College in a great way. The percentage of our alumni who give to Cedarville now exceeds the national average by about 3%. Because the new Library is so important to the quality of the academic program Cedarville will offer in the years to come, I am confident that even more alumni will show their support.

Q. Is the project progressing well?

A. I am happy to report to the alumni that the construction is on schedule. Begun last March, the library should be completed in April 1987, and dedicated at Homecoming. As soon as the new Library is finished, we will begin the retrofit of the current library building to provide a classroom and office building to accommodate our Department of Business Administration.

Q. What about the funding of the new Library?

A. The new Library will cost $4.2 million for construction and equipment, and the friends of Cedarville have already committed well over 2/3 of that amount! We are trusting God to provide the balance through alumni and other friends. This is quite a step of faith for the College, for prior to this campaign, the most given to Cedarville for a project was $2 million for the Athletic Center, and before that, $750,000 for the Chapel. We are thankful that funds are coming in on schedule.

Martin Clark

Dr. Martin Clark, vice-president for development answers your questions relating to the new library.

Q. Are there any matching funds remaining?

A. There is still plenty of opportunity remaining for alumni to have their gifts matched. The response has been encouraging, but December 31 is very near. We sense a real urgency for more alumni to seize the opportunity to participate in advancing their alma mater by providing this building so crucially needed.

Q. The College has many needs. How was the decision made to build the library now, instead of meeting some other needs first?

A. Several years ago, and ahead of almost all other colleges, Cedarville adopted a strategic approach to planning. This method identifies needs and opportunities, and then focuses on those moves with the greatest prospects of advancing the central mission of the college. The planning process, involving every segment of the campus community, identified the library, classrooms, and offices as priorities several years ago. These priorities were established by the administration and trustees, then confirmed in a feasibility study that included alumni and other constituencies.

Joy to the World!

Alumni Association Presents Awards

Eleanor Finney, our 1986 Alumna of the Year, was born in Cedarville, where she received her elementary and secondary education. She enrolled in Cedarville College in 1935, successfully completing the two-year Normal degree.

Before her marriage, Eleanor taught fifth grade at Casstown Elementary School near Troy, Ohio. The laws at that time made it impossible for a woman to continue teaching after marriage, so she began an involved career as homemaker and community-minded citizen.

Eleanor Finney Alumna of the Year

Always mindful to encourage and promote a positive perspective, Eleanor (Cooley '39) Finney quietly and faithfully serves her family, church, community and alma mater. Married after a Sunday morning church service she and her husband Emile spent their honeymoon at a youth workers conference, a decision that typifies her lifestyle of service to God and fellowman. Together they worked to fulfill dreams of making the 220-acre family farm a home for their two daughters.

Because spiritual convictions are the main focus of her life, she has actively served as youth worker and Sunday School teacher, influencing the lives of many people for Christ. Since Cedarville has been her home for many years, Mrs. Finney has become a reliable friend upon whom many of the infirm and elderly of the community depend. Her time, energy and gasoline are often spent transporting or shopping for another, comforting a lonely shut-in, or serving the community through various volunteer organizations including the D.A.R., Kensington Club and town beautification committees.

Eleanor is always willing to serve the College and the Alumni Association, but is modest about receiving any praise for her assistance. Her reliable memory has been the key to updating alumni records and providing local history. She has chaired the Heritage Alumnae luncheon committee, served on the Centennial Archives committee, and organized Homecoming Class Reunion and Cedar Day activities.

The Alumni of Cedarville College hereby express our appreciation to God for His work in and through Eleanor Finney. The Alumni Council, aware of her consistent example of the virtuous woman of Proverbs 31, and her continued love and interest in Cedarville College, issues this citation naming Eleanor Finney, Alumna of the Year 1986. To God be the glory!

Shirley Schneider Honorary Alumna

A native of Springfield, Ohio, Shirley Schneider began her formal education at nearby Wittenberg University before advancing to Northwestern University for her Doctor of Dentistry degree. After returning to Springfield to establish a practice, she hired Carol Baker, wife of an alumnus. Through her witness and the discipleship efforts of Nedra and Don Callan, Shirley began to examine their faith. Her new life in Christ began in 1968, as did her relationship with Cedarville College.

Shirley could easily be titled Cedarville College's #1 basketball fan, for she has witnessed more than 300 Yellow Jacket games. She serves as head statistician, a non-salaried position vital to the team and the College's public relations efforts.

Shirley was asked to be Commissioner of the women's Western Buckeye Collegiate Conference since its inception in 1982. Shirley has also represented Cedarville College as the NAIA District 22 Secretary/Treasurer for 3 years. Her support of Yellow Jacket athletics extends to all sports as a charter member of the Yellow Jacket Club and the specially appointed Hall of Fame Committee. Her commitment to the athletes and coaches can be best stated by her own words, "I love to do it."

In addition to her many voluntary behind-the-scene jobs, she has been a ten-year member of the College's Teacher Education Committee and for 5 years a President's Associate.

A member of Grace Baptist Church in Cedarville since 1977, Shirley has served on the missions committee. Her commitment to worldwide evangelism is demonstrated through an overseas dental ministry with alumna Elaine Shulte, a nurse in the Ivory Coast, and through her continued financial support of the Missionary Internship Service program. To pastors and missionaries, many of whom are Cedarville alumni, she often provides dental care without compensation.

Dr. Schneider also makes time to involve herself in community activities as a speaker in area public schools and as a member of the international women's service organization Zonta. She has participated as an officer on the state, national and international level, serving as International President for 2 years. She has furthered the cause of Christ by initiating a Sunday morning devotional at Zonta's Annual Convention.

The alumni of Cedarville College could not ask that she give more of herself were she a member of the Association as a graduate. It is with great pleasure that the Alumni Council hereby names Dr. Shirley Schneider as the 1986 Cedarville College Honorary Alumna of the Year. To God be the glory!

One Liners

Regular Baptist Press has released an adult Sunday School manual written by Dr. Robert Gromacki, chairman of the Biblical Education Department, titled Worthy is the Lamb: The Book of Revelation. Also Dr. Gromacki was the Staley Foundation Lectureship speaker at Southeastern Bible College, Birmingham, Alabama on November 4-6. The topic was "An Analysis of Inerrancy."

The Fall Bible Conference speaker was Joseph M. Stowell III ('66), senior pastor of Highland Park Baptist Church, Southfield, Michigan.

Norman Geisler, professor of systematic theology at Dallas Theological Seminary, addressed the topic of social drinking in chapel on October 28, 29. This mini-Inforum was sponsored by Cedarville's Student Government Association.

World-class magician Danny Korem presented his program at Cedarville September 27. "Fraud and the Supernatural" is designed to demonstrate the importance of discernment in the realm of supernatural powers.

Five new professors joined the faculty in the fall. Larry Smith ('60), who served as a missionary to Chile for 22 years, will teach elementary Spanish. Lee Kantenwein, former faculty member at Grace Theological Seminary, has joined the Biblical Education Department. David Nicholas ('74) will assist in the Computer Information Systems program of the Business Department. Debra (Bush '68) Haffey now teaches full-time in the Communications Arts Department. The Physical Education Department has added athletic trainer Evan Hellwig ('84N) who is responsible for injury prevention, management, and rehabilitation of all Cedarville intercollegiate athletes.

The new record enrollment fall quarter was 1821 students.

The Village Players, under the direction of Technical Director Don Jones, presented Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap November 13-15. This classic "whodunit" is the world's longest running play.

Dove award-winning composer Michael Card presented a concert in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel on November 6. One of his best known songs is "El Shaddai."

Four Cedarville College alumni have returned to their alma mater as resident directors. Russ Clark ('77) is responsible for Rogers, Marshall, Carr, and Palmer dormitories, Angela Cook ('85) directs Faith Hall, Steve Meyer ('86) heads Lawlor Hall, and Willetts Hall is directed by Eleanor Taylor ('62).

A look at our Alumni Association roster indicates that 25.4% of the Association matriculated within the last five years while 64.4% have attended in the last 15 years.

A Centennial Beard Growing Contest began November 24 with faculty, staff and student participaters striving for the longest, fullest, best looking, most colorful and several other honors. The contest ends with the special Charter Day Convocation, January 26, 1987.

PR Goes Public

When it's time to prepare AVISO each quarter, the Alumni Relations staff work closely with the Public Relations Department to produce the publication. Both departments are part of the Development Department of the college headed by Dr. Martin Clark.

A native of Chicago, Ron Coriell, ('68) directs the Public Relations Department. Prior to coming on staff at Cedarville in 1979, he earned a master's degree in art education at Wright State University and taught art in grades K-12 at what is now the Ohio Veterans Children's Home in Xenia, Ohio.

"Public Relations," Ron states, "communicates to our publics about the school through TORCH, news releases, advertising, and many other publications this office prepares."

Ron cites his pleasure at working with his creative staff of professionals: an artist, a photographer, and a writer. "I ask them to create, and they do!"

Ron and his wife Rebekah ('70) co-authored a series of children's books on character building. They and their three daughters have a seminar ministry built around this theme.

Carol Bliss serves as officer manager and part-time typesetter of the PR department. From Belding, Michigan, she is completing her secretarial administration studies at the college. She perceives the PR people as "...servants to the public. I really enjoy working in Public Relations... For me, it is great experience because it deals with my major. I have the opportunity to meet and work with people that I might not have met otherwise. The PR staff is like a second family to me."

For the past two summers Carol served as a counselor at Lincoln Lake Baptist Youth Camp in Gowen, Michigan. "I think that was a very important time in my life. I was dealing both physically and spiritually with junior and senior high kids. It helped me to know where I was coming from and how to share it with others."

In September Les Troyer joined the Public Relations staff as graphic artist. A graduate of Lake High School in Canton, Ohio, Les went to Akron University and took all the graphic and fine arts courses the university offered. He has worked in design, illustration, and layout for a number of firms including Harcourt, Brace and Jovanovich, textbook publishers. He sees PR as the opportunity "...for creative people to promote visually the programs and ministry of the college. It's an opportunity to help people with their projects — to produce quality work fast and efficiently. Serving the Lord and going where He leads is how I came to Cedarville."

Les enjoys creating pen and ink drawings, painting with water color and acrylic, cartooning and — hunting! He "got his deer" this fall with a bow and arrow. In August Les married Linda Sheldon of Cleveland, they live in London, Ohio.

Staff photographer Lonnie Richards also joined PR this year. Desiring to learn film making from a Christian perspective, Lonnie enrolled in the cinema program at Bob Jones University. There he met his future wife, an art major from Ohio whose talents meshed well with cinema. "Margaret and I were called to combine film making with missionary outreach. Working with visuals for two years at A.C.E. (Accelerated Christian Education) in Dallas provided on-the-job training." They then became missionaries with Harvest Productions, the film making arm under Evangelical Baptist Missions, and made evangelistic films in Chili, Japan, Europe, Hawaii, and the U.S. Continuing missionary status and the film ministry primarily during the summer months, Lonnie serves as staff photographer during the school year.

He sees "one of the most important aspects of PR [being] the opportunity for direct evangelistic outreach, especially through the ministry of TORCH magazine."

Lonnie and Margaret, the daughter of Dick and Martha Baldwin, are parents of Rachel 7 and Jared 4.

Martha Baldwin's responsibilities center on writing and editing copy for PR publications. "I see Public Relations as the opportunity to project a positive, exciting report about what God is doing for and through our college. We also help other departments with their graphic and promotional needs. An office motto that we strive to live up to is: 'Serving the Lord and our college with excellence.'"

A graduate of Iowa State University, she enjoys taking courses at Cedarville — a hobby which led her to complete the professional writing track in the Language and Literature Department.

She says that one of her greatest blessings at Cedarville has been that of meeting with individual students for Bible study and discipleship.

Martha's husband Richard teaches in the Department of Business Administration. In addition to Lonnie and Margaret, they have two sons Bill ('80) and Jim ('82), two "daughters-in-love" Elaine (Heyworth '81) and Denise (Rockey '81), and five grandchildren.

Public Relations staff: Les Troyer, graphic artist; Lonnie Richards, photographer; Martha Baldwin, writer/typesetter; Ron Coriell, director; Carol Bliss, office manager/typesetter.

Distinguished Service Award

The recipients of the 1986 Distinguished Service Award came to Cedarville College in 1960 as students. Married on September 8, 1962, they have since exhibited an attitude of teamwork and encouragement in every aspect of their lives. In 1969, they joined the faculty and staff. During their 17 years of service they have more than fulfilled their specified responsibilities.

Because Elvin and Joyce serve behind the scenes, their significant contributions often go unnoticed. The National Christian College Athletic Association has national championship meets in track and cross country today only because of Elvin's foresight and persistence to get them started. After finally convincing the NCCAA of the importance of these events, he and Joyce had to organize these meets and run them. The Kings have also been involved in the support group for the basketball program. Elvin operates the time clock at every home game, and both assist with the task of keeping statistics at home and away games.

Their philosophy of help and encouragement extends beyond the campus boundaries. Throughout the years the Kings have opened their door to many students who have found friendship, acceptance, and a home away from home. These relationships don't end at commencement. Many alumni testify of their friendship through phone calls, visits and hosting activities such as the track and cross country alumni golf tournament.

Elvin and Joyce King have also left their individual marks on this campus. Elvin spent countless hours on the design of the Athletic Center. His knowledge of aerobic training and his desire to make every student aware of basic principles relating to cardiovascular fitness were factors which caused the Physical Education Department to develop a new class titled "Physical Activity in the Christian Life," which requires an aerobics program to be completed with each activity class. Elvin was also one of the originators of what is now known as the Cedarville Baptist Open golf tournament, an annual event enjoyed by more than 400 golfers every September. At the request of many area high school track coaches, Elvin organized the Southwest Ohio Indoor Track meet now held during spring break. As a direct result of his coaching many Cedarville track and cross country athletes have received national recognition. But the national tities and public acknowledgement are not Elvin's motivating force. He seeks rather to help each athlete reach beyond their perceived abilities to accomplish far more than she or he thought possible.

Joyce King has served the college in many different areas. Her exposure to the workings of the various offices on campus has prepared her to execute secretarial duties wherever and whenever the need arises. Joyce has been a cheerleading advisor, chaperoned a summer Swordbearers team, and presently serves on the Cedarville College Athletic Hall of Fame Committee. She has also offered her organizational skills to the Cedarville community by her participation in the Cedarville High School Band boosters, and she does her best to make everything run smoothly at the Kenton Trace Conference track meet, and the Old Clifton Days Road Run.

Elvin and Joyce are also committed to service at Grace Baptist Church in Cedarville. They have taught Sunday School, been youth sponsors and worked on various committees, and assisted in Children's Church. Elvin presently serves as a deacon.

Elvin and Joyce, it may not be until you reach heaven that you fully realize to what extent God has used your faithful service to further the cause of Christ. But to recognize your efforts thus far and to encourage you to continue to build into the lives of others in your community, your church, and at Cedarville College, the Alumni Association hereby gives to you the 1986 Distinguished Service Award. To God be the glory!

Golf Fellowship

Champions: Jim Phipps ('68) and Gary Jacobs ('64)

Early in the summer, Coach Elvin King originated and organized the first annual Track and Cross County Alumni Golf Tournament. The first event was held August 16 and took place at Locust Hills Golf Course in Springfield, Ohio. A tremendous time of golf, fellowship, eating (the T-bone steaks were particularly popular), and reminiscing was enjoyed by the sixteen athletes who attended.

Anyone who has competed in track or cross country at Cedarville College is eligible to participate in the golf tournament. Spouses and children are welcomed to join the fun. A division for college faculty and staff encourages their participation as well.

Special recognition was given to those with the longest drive on the front and back nine, Craig Colas ('80) and Gary Kuhn ('83H) respectively, and the drive closest to the pin, Rick Hickman ('80) and Cal Clark ('81).

If you would like to receive information regarding the second annual tournament to be held July 18, 1987, please contact Elvin King or the alumni office. The major emphasis is fellowship; this year's tournament provided plenty.

Julia (McCallister '36) Weaver retired after 32 years as a school teacher. She recently traveled west to visit her daughter and grandson. Julia keeps busy with senior citizen groups and church circle activities.

Mary (Probasco '36) Cheney taught school for 23 years. She stays active with church and women's association. Mary and her husband Ray love to travel. They have been to Alaska and England.

Joe West ('36) and his wife, Harriette have retired from public school teaching and administration. Joe says, "Like all teachers I'm most proud of the successes of former students," in reference to special accomplishments in his life.

The 50's

Jim Wagner ('52) has retired from naval service with the rank of full commander. Jim's son carries on the tradition as a naval fighter pilot aboard the aircraft carrier Saratoga. Jim and his wife Mim reside in Virginia Beach, VA.

The 60's

Merlin Ager ('60) is Chairman of the Education Department at Cedarville and Ruth (Himsel '61N) is a secretary in the counseling department.

Larry ('60) and Beverly Smith have completed 20 years as missionaries in Chile, SA and are presently on leave of absence. Larry is teaching Spanish at Cedarville and Beverly works as a secretary in the Communication Arts Department.

John Butler ('61) and his wife Gail (Carter '63N) are starting their ninth year pastoring the Lyons Baptist Church in Clinton, IA.

Ron and Carol (Zoellner '61) Smith are completely involved in remodeling a home. Ron is in construction, plumbing and heating so remodeling is right up their alley.

Jim ('61) and Carol Neely are presently serving the Lord at Washington Heights Baptist Church in Dayton. Jim is the assistant pastor.

Vernon Miller ('63) and his wife Alice have been in the pastorate, an editor at Regular Baptist Press, and church building consultant. He now is the owner and president of his own consulting company. All five of Vern & Alice's children are Cedarville College graduates and the first three married Cedarville College alumni. Quite a family tradition!

CC Professor Studies At Cambridge

"This is the fulfillment of a dream I've had for eleven years--ever since I started seminary," marvels Dan Estes ('74), speaking of earning a doctorate at Cambridge University in England. "I'm overwhelmed with the privilege of being able to do something like this."

In August, Dan, his wife Carol (Towle '75), who completed her M. Ed. from The Ohio State University this spring, and their three children left for England. Last summer, Dan was part of the MIS team to that country, and was burdened to return. Despite heavy academic demands, Dan and Carol hope to have a tent-making type of ministry and to be an encouragement to missionaries in the area.

Why England? Estes cited several reasons--the British system of education which demands more emphasis on the dissertation; the flexibility he will have in pursuing his studies; the phenomenal library at Cambridge. He also stated that he wanted the "challenge of presenting a truly biblical position before people who would not hold this view."

Perhaps most significant is the actual research itself. Dan will be looking at the theme of pilgrimage from Scripture as well as Jewish and Christian literature. He will be within twenty miles of Bedford, where John Bunyan was imprisoned and wrote Pilgrim's Progress, and have access to Bunyan's papers. Also, Dan feels it will be important to experience first-hand being a stranger in a strange land, where he must weigh evidence and cannot assume conclusions.

During Dan's two-year absence from the Cedarville College Biblical Education Department, Dr. Lee Kantenwein, formerly of Grace Theological Seminary, will be teaching his classes.

Teacher Exchange Signed With China

The Lord has given Cedarville College an exciting opportunity to serve in mainland China. In June President and Mrs. Paul Dixon traveled to Beijing, China to meet with officials of People's University and signed an agreement to provide English teachers for the university as part of a teacher exchange program. As part of this agreement, Cedarville will send seven English teachers for the 1987-88 academic year and fifteen in 1988-89. Cedarville will also arrange for Chinese English teachers to study English and culture here in the United States.

Alumnus Myron Youngman ('76) began teaching English at People's University in 1984, and Sarah (Beattie '84) Dixon taught for one year in 1984-85. Those responsible for the English program were impressed with their communication skills and lifestyle. Their attitude of service was a factor which led to the agreement with Cedarville College.

Presently there are six Cedarville alumni teaching in China. In September Sharon Rawson ('82) and Julie Prentice ('82) joined Myron Youngman at People's University in Beijing, while Becky Jones ('81) and Ed Smith ('81) continued teaching in Chengdu at Chengdu University, and Ray Wigdal ('84) continues at Beijing University.

The students at People's University are preparing for careers in international politics and finance, so the ability to communicate in English is very important. Since only graduate students and professors are allowed to attend the two year English program, the Cedarville alumni are teaching the elite of China.

Other schools involved in providing teachers include Duke University, and Karl Marx University in East Berlin. Cedarville teachers share college housing with the representatives from these other schools.

The teacher exchange agreement is already in effect. Michael Yin of Shanghai is teaching Chinese at Cedarville College and taking classes to learn more about American culture and history. His first contact with Cedarville students occurred in 1981 when Cedarville sent a women's basketball team to China as part of the MIS program.

Since 1981, over 100 Cedarville students have had the privilege of going to China through the MIS program. Many of these students are hoping to return to China to teach.

Teachers of English are needed to staff our teaching faculty in China for the 1987-88 school year. Qualifications include possessing:

1. a Cedarville College degree
2. good communication skills
3. a good team orientation
4. a commitment to being a "servant to all"

Interested and qualified applicants should write to:

FROM THE HEART

I can still remember, as a young teenager, being part of the crowd jam-packed into Alford Gym for a basketball game viewed by hundreds who had the enthusiasm and volume of thousands. Yet it wasn't the eventual outcome of the game, but the unusual school spirit of everyone there that intrigued me. I sensed more than a ballgame or competition between rival schools, well-kept statistics, last second shots, or all that is involved in the sport. Rather, I was part of a unique experience recorded in local papers as "simply unbelievable."

Visiting teams and coaches would ask for the secret used to motivate and promote such school spirit -- the likes of which they'd never seen before; and afterwards, they were glad a year would pass before witnessing it again! Students couldn't really describe it -- much less explain it -- only to say, "come to see for yourself; everybody will be there." They always were!

As a young person, then as a student at Cedarville, and now as an alumnus, I can honestly say that it hasn't changed. It's still nerve-racking to rival schools, and it's still the trademark of Cedarville College -- resounding, reverberating, rejuvenating school spirit.

While we can all relate to how real the school spirit of our alma mater was and is, the thought-provoking question we must ask ourselves is this: "What trademark do we have in our personal lives, and have we continued to reflect it consistently over the years?"

For while we can reminisce and recall the college trademark of school spirit, we must determine what our personal trademark ought to be and thus draw the analogy of the "spirit" we show to others. As Christians, we are in the arena of life, and there are those who still ask us "What is your secret? What energizes you?" It's still the "spirit" they need understanding of, but now it's a person. "Let your light so shine..."

Heritage Alumnus Raises Exotic Animals

Would you trust a banker who has a live python in the parlor, a bouncing bobcat on the back porch, two dogs and a 160-pound cougar in the backyard?

Edward W. Brill, a 1953 graduate of the Cedarville College Education Department, has earned trust and respect during 31 years as bank teller, cashier, and now president of the 119-year-old Farmers and Traders Bank in Jamestown, Ohio.

Brill came to Cedarville College in the fall of 1949 through an athletic scholarship he earned for his basketball prowess. He recalls that the gold medal tournament he played in as a senior of Jamestown Silvercreek High School was a door opener. Cedarville Coach Mendel Beattie was impressed enough to offer him the financial aid he needed for a college education. Since he lived only 8 miles from the campus he often caught an early morning ride with friend Paul Klontz ('51), but roundball practice meant walking or thumbing a ride home in the evening. Brill has fond memories of Coach Beattie - recalling him as a "pretty decent coach" but quickly adds that he always rode in the other vehicle because of the myriad of poems the coach would deliver enroute to each away game.

In addition to the 13 victories, highlights of his freshman season included the 2 exciting one-point defeats at the hands of the University of Dayton and Ashland College and the two over-time defeats handed them by Huntington College. As a sophomore Ed was selected to the second team Mid-Ohio League and given honorable mention to the All-Ohio squad. As a junior he received similar accolades.

After graduating Brill married his high school sweetheart, Marcia Moorman. Two weeks later he was called to two years' service in the U.S. Army and was stationed in Korea for 17 months. He returned to Greene County too late in the year to find a teaching position and was hired by the Farmers and Traders Bank. His wife was employed by the bank from 1951 to 1984. She remembers the amusing stories about Cedarville College her mother, Alberta (Snyder '31) Moorman often shared.

Brill has a sound approach as an independent banker. "We serve our immediate area, which is rural eastern Green County. We know the customer." In fact, Brill recalls he once knew everyone in the Jamestown area, but with the many new people moving into the Shawnee Lake area he confessed, "I may know only about 98% of the people now." The bank once operated a branch in Cedarville and has many long-time Cedarville customers.

Brill has many interests, including following local high school sporting events and the Cincinnati Reds. However, raising exotic animals has been a major part of his non-banking life over the last 20 years. "We always wanted to have animals around while our children, Lori and Bob, were growing up," stated Brill. "We wanted them to see animals born." Over the years the Brills have raised pheasants, chickens, wild turkeys, grouse, ducks, quail, Sitha deer (from Japan), and the more recent "pets". The six-foot python is named "Irma from Burma" and is fed once a month by Bob who obtains 3 or 4 live rats from a pet store. The housebroken bobcat, Skeeter, is a year old. The 2-year-old cougar is named Thor and has been raised by the Brills since the age of 3 months. He has a bowling ball to roll in his cage, and is an "animal of beauty" from Brill's perspective. Don't forget Skipper the schnauzer, the ferret called Peanut, and the cockatiel.

Brill often attends Cedarville College activities and likes to recall his college experiences on the hardwood floor of Alford Auditorium. He is not sure that banking and raising exotic animals relate to his Cedarville College education but as he said, "I'm grateful for it just the same."
