REFLECTIONS OF SWORDBEARER TOUR

"It is thrilling to show how the Lord is real amongst us." For eleven Cedarville College students this has been their motivating thought as they have traveled throughout the country as the school's Summer Swordbearers team.

Embarking on their twelve week Christian service adventure in June, the group held services in churches on the east coast, traveling through mid-west Ohio, to churches in Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

To each tour group member, the summer has not been a summer of just visiting church buildings, setting up and taking down displays, or moving miles and miles on the highway. For these eleven young adults, the summer has been one of meeting real people, sharing their real problems, and showing the reality of the love of God.

Encountering people means encountering them in their life situations, and for junior Debbie Dear, one situation will remain close to her. While visiting a park one afternoon, she took the opportunity to sit and talk with two girls, one Catholic and the other, unchurched. A lengthy conversation followed concerning the girls' many questions. Before leaving them, she invited them to the Swordbearers rally. The young girls came, gave their lives into the hand of Christ and now continue to communicate the joy of this decision to Debbie through letters.

Counseling experiences at camp left many impressions on senior Rosalie Howard. "Seeing girls' lives changed in dedication was tremendous," she related. Counseling girls at the beginning of the week who wanted no devotional period, to working with those same girls at the end of the week as they sought out Scripture, was a thrilling encouragement to Rosalie.

The Swordbearers ministry includes a variety of activities from girls' trio and men's quartet to seminar sessions and preaching services. Discussing topics of concern to the teenage Christian was the goal for the seminar sessions. Topics centered on such pertinent subjects as Astrology, Quiet Time, Evangelism, Rock Music, Dynamic Christian Living for Adults, and Dating.

Each of the five college men were responsible for preaching services. The leader of the group, spring graduate, Tom Seidler, from Detroit, Michigan, commented that while preparing his messages, they became a part of him, and he felt a real challenge to communicate the reality of what God's Word has done in his life.

"PASSING THE TORCH"

"Commit thou to faithful men who shall be able to teach others." The truth of this Scripture crystalizes the purposes of Cedarville College. The College is committed to passing the Truth to dedicated young people who can commit the Great Commission to their generation.

You can help us pass the torch by subsidizing the cost of a student's education. Since no student pays the entire cost of his education, we are praying the Lord will motivate the hearts of friends of the College to invest $10 a month to help train the Christian leaders of tomorrow.

Anyone giving $10 a month for a year will receive a marble paperweight with the above seal as a prayer reminder. To help each donor pray more effectively, he will receive a quarterly letter from a student sharing his college experiences.

A family of four could take on $10 a month (or 75¢ a week) project. As they prayed for and gave to Cedarville College, it would be a dramatic demonstration to the children of the importance of Christian Higher Education. The Lord may use this spiritual exercise to challenge the children to attend a Christian college.

We rejoice that the College was granted candidacy by the North Central Association last March. It is important that we provide academic excellence as well as spiritual commitment. With your help we can achieve full accreditation in the next two or three years. However, to do so it is imperative that we receive more gifts for our general fund and reduce the percentage of the cost of education paid by each student.

It is a satisfying experience to reproduce your spiritual heritage in another's life. Will you help us pass the torch? For details, write Director of Development, Cedarville College, Cedarville, Ohio 45314.

NEW FACULTY

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Dr. James T. Jeremiah, President

Christians may at times wish circumstances may change so less would be required of them. As long as he is in this life, however, the Christian is responsible to carry out the terms of the great commission. Only as he enters eternity can he complete this responsibility. Serving Christ is a life-long privilege and responsibility.

Having the truth, we must pass it on to others. Surely this is the least we can do. If we have heard the truth and it has set us free (John 8:32), then we are obligated to participate in freeing others. If we have been taught the truth, we must communicate it to others. If we have been convinced that the Bible, God's Word, is truth, how can we be at peace with ourselves and not be concerned about the present and future generation, people for whom we are now responsible?

Paul, in his swan song, instructed young Timothy to "pass on the torch to others" when he wrote, "The things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also" (II Timothy 2:2). Dr. Herbert Lockyer comments that "Paul was here making proper provision for the continuity of sound teaching . . . Men were to be picked intelligent enough to appreciate and trustworthy enough to preserve the gospel handed down to them by Christ and his apostles. The great Christian truths must not be recklessly handled."

In this year of the Olympics, the torch is a fitting symbol of that which should be of utmost concern to all who are aware of the importance of Christian education. To us the Word of God is absolute truth. To possess it means that we must pass it on if we expect to win the crown at the end of the race.

A Christian liberal arts college is in a position to "commit" truth to "others," not only to those who will service in the so-called Christian ministries, but "others also" regardless of the area of service they select. A Christian teacher, because of his own personal convictions, will readily relate what he believes to his students, so that any study or discipline will have Biblical orientation. As a Christian he can do nothing less. Like the prophet, "his word was in mine heart like a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing and I could not refrain" (Jeremiah 20:9). It is inconceivable that a student in a Christian college could ask a question in any class, whether it be theology or science, that can have Biblical reference and that student leave the class without an answer in keeping with Biblical truth.

This being the case, graduates from colleges truly Christian who have received what has been offered to them, will be able to serve with a Biblical undergirding. Whether they are teachers, scientists, accountants, social workers, musicians, or preachers, they will be among the "others" to whom "the torch has been passed."

Having the truth and passing it on to others is an aspect of Christian responsibility that cannot be on a "one to one" basis. It can only be done as "many" are involved in teaching the "many" others to whom we all have a responsibility. It requires untold numbers who will pray, many who teach and maintain the places where the teaching is done. It will take thousands who give, not as a token or tip, but who give sacrificially and pay a price that others may be taught the truth we have received.

It seems quite apparent from all reports in the newspapers, news magazines, and television that God's people must get down to serious work if in the few years ahead Christian colleges are going to be what they ought to be. It will take a great deal of praying to be sure, but we must also sacrificially give to the causes for which we pray.

In the next few months you will hear a great deal in the pages of this bulletin about "passing on the torch." We are asking our friends to make a monthly commitment to the operation of Cedarville College. If we are concerned and want to help "pass on the torch," then it seems to me that this is the very least we can do. However, the least we can do is not enough, churches and individuals must do much more.

The addition of three new faculty members for the coming 1972-1973 school year has been announced by Cedarville College President, James T. Jeremiah.

Filling one of two positions in the music department of the college is associate professor of music, Dr. Robert Monroe. Dr. Monroe received his B.S. degree in Music Education from the Lebanon Valley College of Pennsylvania in 1958. He completed requirements for his Master's degree in Applied Music in 1960, at the University of Miami and received his Ph.D. from Florida State University in Tallahassee, Florida, in 1970. Dr. Monroe has had educational experience as brass instructor at the Junior College of Groward County, Florida, trombone instructor at Florida State University, and director of Instrumental Music at Bridgewater College in Virginia.

A native of Hong Kong, Lawrence Naai-Lei Lo comes to the music department as assistant professor of music and piano instructor. Mr. Naai-Lei Lo attended the Canton Bible Institute in Hong Kong in 1963-64, received the Licentiate Diploma in 1968 from the University of Toronto, and the Master's degree in piano from Indiana University in 1971. Mr. Naai-Lei Lo has instructed private piano in Hong Kong, at Mundinger School of Music, Toronto, Jahn Musical Academy, Toronto, and Indiana University School of Music, Bloomington, Indiana.

Mrs. James Seaman, a graduate of Baptist Bible College, Clark Summit, Penna., has been appointed to the education department as assistant professor of education. She received her Master's degree in elementary education from the State University of New York and is currently continuing studies at Ohio State University. Mrs. Seaman has been an elementary school teacher for six years, a tutor of brain damaged children and an instructor at Central State University.

COLLEGE LIBRARY ADOPTS OCLC SERVICES

While no one was looking, the library of Cedarville College grew to millions overnight. No additions to the present facility were added. No sudden gift arrived. The Cedarville library, under the direction of Mrs. Alberta Chaffe, became a member of the Ohio College Library Center, located in Columbus.

Opportunities to meet people in most every environment have been theirs, and the life of the mentally retarded proves no exception. In late August, the team was privileged to present a song service at the Shepherds Home, Inc., in Union Grove, Wisconsin. Tom recalled, "It was precious to hear a young girl recite the 23rd Psalm to me. Mentally retarded, yes. Disconnected from God, no."

At one point during their visit at Shepherds Home, Tom related that a young boy wanted to contribute to the Swordbearers' ministry. Tom overheard the retarded youngster say to the Home's director, "Here, Mr. Woods, give this (dime) to the Cedarville kids so that they can go to school in my place." Tom humbly admitted that that statement made his whole summer.

When meeting people, comical situations arise, and the Swordbearers met several unusual situations. One afternoon while playing baseball with young people in a park, Debbie noticed some other young people watching. With a tract in hand she walked up behind one individual and handed the ten-year-old the tract, "What Every Girl Should Know." To her utter embarrassment, "she" was a him. Without a second's delay, apologetically she ran and got him the tract, "What Every Boy Should Know."

Talking to people in airports, state parks or in homes have been experiences that will permanently influence the lives of these eleven young Christians. Talking with people in despair, yet knowing the answer to their problems, prove heart-breaking experiences, yet experiences that will build the lives of those young adults, strengthening them in their appreciation of the principles of life that God has set for them. For the Swordbearers, it has been a summer of continually giving to others in listening, laughter or love. For them, it has also been a summer of devotion, dedication and determination.

A keyboard, a viewer and an operator puts the students and faculty of the College in instantaneous contact with over seventy-five libraries throughout Ohio, and in accessibility to over 14 million volumes for research purposes.

The Ohio College Library Center service, chartered in 1967, was adopted in the Cedarville library last fall. Through the use of a computer terminal, which is tied in with the Center in Columbus, students now have materials available from such libraries as the Ohio State University, Bowling Green, Kent State and numerous other schools within and across the state line.

The main purpose of the OCLC is to increase resources for research and educational programs in the Ohio colleges and universities. The first major project undertaken by the Center in 1967, and continually growing today, is a regional shared cataloging system that has the capacity to include all academic libraries in Ohio.

Along with the instantaneous growth of the Cedarville library due to the adaptation of the OCLC computer terminal, the library itself has seen rapid growth in volume number in the last ten years.

Records show that in 1960, there were approximately 12,536 books on the library shelves in comparison to the over 47,000 books now cataloged in the college library. In 1957, Mrs. Chaffe reported that there were approximately 25 periodical subscriptions available to students at that time, in contrast to the 740 subscriptions listed in 1972.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES AWARD

Cedarville College President, James T. Jeremiah, was recently presented with the Xenia Sertoma Club's "Service to Mankind" award. The honor is given to an individual who has given unselfishly to the development and growth of those with whom he has had contact.

In all activities, in all organizations, and with all people, he exemplifies the motto of Cedarville College, 'For the Word of God and the Testimony of Jesus Christ'—a motto that means love, involvement and concern."

SWORDBEARER'S PLAN NOVEMBER CONFERENCE

Youth seminars in politics, quiet time and the local church, and featured speaker, Evangelist Paul Dixon, will highlight the sixth annual Swordbearers Conference to be held on Saturday, November 4, 1972. "Remember Thy God in the Days of Thy Youth" has been chosen as the theme for the all day event.

Paul Dixon, received his B.A. and B.D. from Tennessee Temple Schools. Since 1964, he has been involved in full-time evangelism throughout the United States.

In addition to the three youth seminars offered on Saturday, an adult seminar on "Youth Involvement in the Local Church" will be conducted by Pastor Joseph Stowell of the Southgate Baptist Church in Springfield, Ohio.

Approximately 1000 young people from the tri-state area are expected on the Cedarville campus for the November weekend conference. Pre-registration should be sent to:

Doug Schroeder, Conference Chairman
Swordbearers
Cedarville College
Cedarville, Ohio 45314

Deadline for pre-registration is October 20, 1972. Final registration is planned for 8:00 a.m., November 4, 1972.

FALL CONFERENCE BRINGS EVANGELIST

Evangelist Paul Dixon was the guest speaker at the annual Fall Bible Conference held on the Cedarville campus, October 2-6.

The conference involved the total student body in morning and evening sessions. October 3 was set aside as the Day of Prayer.

Mr. Dixon is a graduate of Tennessee Temple Schools, where he received his B.A. and B.D. Since 1964, he has been involved in full-time evangelism throughout the United States.

CHOOSES INSPIRATION AS TOPIC

With every article or every book there stands an idea, thought or belief that the author wishes to communicate. The Importance of Inspiration, written by Cedarville President, James T. Jeremiah, fulfills this statement.

Published in early 1972, Dr. Jeremiah's book deals with the importance of inspiration to Biblical authority, to fulfilled prophecy, to the expository preacher and to the Christian experience.

Having a long-time interest in studying this most pertinent doctrine of Christianity, and instructing courses related to the subject such as archeology, proved the motivations for the President-author to write the book.

WOMEN'S FELLOWSHIP SCHEDULES MEETING

Cedarville College's Summer Swordbearers and campus pastor, Harold Green, will be the guests at the quarterly meeting of the Cedarville College Women's Fellowship meeting. To be held Homecoming weekend, the meeting is planned for October 20 at 10:00 a.m.

The group will have an opportunity to share many of their summer situations they experienced as they traveled throughout the eastern, mid-western and northern states this summer. Pastor Green will present future plans for the Christian service department in general, and plans for the Swordbearers organization, specifically.

Expanding as an organization in recent years, the Women's Fellowship has a three-fold purpose. To promote Cedarville College among the women of the group, to create a greater interest in the school and to give the women of the organization practical ideas for church work are the goals for the group, according to 1972-73 president, Mrs. Sandy Entner ('59).

Other officers for the Fellowship include: Vice-President, Mrs. Ronald Grosh ('66), Treasurer, Miss Bernice Mick ('55), Recording Secretary, Mrs. Alberta Carr ('63), and Recording Secretary, Mrs. Irene Gidley.

RADIO STATION EXPANDS PRODUCTION

A move, program additions and a new project are three of the major changes involving the staff of the Cedarville College radio station—WCDR.

In August, the Federal Communications Commission released permission to the station to move their transmitter from its present location to a new tower on the Clifton-Yellow Springs Rd. This move will not only increase power, but will provide a clear signal and complete coverage to all of Dayton and Springfield, according to station manager Paul Gathany.

When WCDR resumes broadcasting on November 1st, two new programs will be available to the listening audience. As an educational radio station, WCDR will interconnect with the Ohio Medical Network providing a continuing educational service for doctors and nurses within the station's broadcasting area. Secondly, College President, Dr. James T. Jeremiah, will host a daily morning program presenting campus events and special campus speakers.

To increase the broadcast ministry of Cedarville College, WCDR, at the suggestion of Indiana pastor, Richard Blumstock, and the approval of the radio committee, have set into motion plans for the development of a Christian educational station in the Fort Wayne area. Looking for written support of individuals and churches in the 55 mile radius of Fort Wayne, the college has sent mail reply cards to those on the Cedarville College mailing list. Those who wish to also support this effort may do so by requesting these cards from the Development Office, Cedarville College, Cedarville, Ohio 45314.

ATTENTION PASTORS— YOUTH DIRECTORS— PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS

Soccer weekends, Homecoming, home basketball games and Artist-Lecture series programs are just some of the activities that provide excellent opportunities for prospective students to get an over-all view of campus life at Cedarville College. Each prospective student should have the experience of eating with students in the cafeteria, visiting them overnight in the dormitories and participating in their weekend activities. Below is a listing of fall and winter programs that would be beneficial for an individual or youth group to attend. COLLEGE SPONSORS EASTER BIBLE LAND TOUR

The Seven Churches of Asia Minor will be the highlights of the Easter in the Bible Lands tour scheduled for April 16-30, 1972. The fifteen day tour will depart from Kennedy International Airport on April 16, accompanied by tour host, Cedarville College President, James T. Jeremiah, and assistant host, Director of Development, Lee C. Turner.

Before arrival in the Holy Land, the group will have a day stop-over in Rome, where the tour members will have the opportunity to sightsee throughout the ancient city.

While in the Holy Lands, days will be spent visiting the historical sites of Bethlehem and Jerusalem. Visits will be made to see such places as Jacob's well in Samaria, view the Mount of Beatitudes, and walk into the old walled city of Jerusalem. The second week of the tour will be spent in the Asian cities to whose churches are subjects of letters written by John in the book of Revelation.

Those fifteen "special" days walking in the lands of Biblical significance can become a reality at the cost of only $949.00 from New York. This totally Christian-oriented tour will be most beneficial in providing insights into the experiences recorded in Biblical history and will give a greater appreciation of those experiences.
