CEDARVILLE COLLEGE

BULLETIN

New Chapel Auditorium

Students frequently state that the ministry of God's Word through daily chapel services has been instrumental in leading them into Christian Service. Many Cedarville graduates have confirmed this statement as they now serve the Lord in a variety of ministries at home and abroad. Clancy Parker, a 1974 graduate, gained direction for his life during the fall Bible Conference his freshman year and is now serving as Assistant Pastor and Youth Pastor of a FBHM church in Iowa. Through exposure during the chapel services to the opportunities in missions, Dave Branon, a 1973 graduate and his wife Sue are presently filling a short-term teaching need at Faith

Academy in the Philippines. Thus, chapel provides exposure not only to the truths in God's Word, but also to various types of service opportunities. Although the chapel campaign was formally announced during Homecoming, efforts were being made previously to provide for the chapel. During early September, thirteen faculty members visited churches, presenting the needs and plans for the chapel. The response was extremely encouraging. The matching gift provision and the donation of shares of stock are additional manners in which funds have been received. As of November 18, 1974, $105,392.33 had already been given or promised.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Dr. James T. Jeremiah, President

As we look back over the months of 1974 and consider what has happened in our nation, our feelings probably run from disappointment to shame because of the political tragedies that have plagued us. Fortunately, the Christian does not have his hopes set upon the political successes or failures of this world. He does have the promise of God's daily provision and the assurance of His eternal glory. Thus we can set our minds and hearts on things above.

During the past year Cedarville College has experienced the blessing of God in an unusual way. Surpassing all other records, our Christian service program has been most effective at home and abroad. The largest enrollment in the history of the college became a reality as we began the fall quarter. By sacrificial service our faculty has achieved a higher academic record than in any time in our history. Campus improvements, including the completion of a beautiful and adequate science building, are evidences of a better Cedarville College. Many new friends have joined the faithful ones of many years in giving Cedarville College a greater financial stability. For all of this and more, we thank God and take courage.

Looking back over 1974 and anticipating the months of 1975, there are three goals that are heavy upon my heart. One is the continuation and growth of the "Passing the Torch" program. The expansion of this emphasis on faithful giving to the general fund is so essential, especially as we face the rising costs of inflation. If you have not joined the increasing number of friends who are contributing ten dollars a month to Cedarville, now is a good time to begin. Why not make this a commitment for 1975?

The second emphasis that will increase during 1975, so far as the development of Cedarville College is concerned, is the campaign for the new chapel. Our students meet for chapel in four different places by means of closed-circuit television, unable to gather as a college family for these daily times of instruction and inspiration. We have become greatly concerned about this need. In this bulletin and probably in many more to follow, our friends will be reminded of the progress of the chapel fund drive. It would be a great encouragement if the millions of dollars needed for this new building could be available so that the new chapel might be erected during the coming year.

Though our student enrollment this fall was the largest of any in our entire history, we want to see more students here next year than we have at the present time. Our third goal then for 1975 will be to introduce the academic program of the college to as many young people as we can. Our desire in this regard is not simply to see how large a school we can become, but to be a good college and help as many as possible within the limits of our resources. We encourage high school juniors, seniors, and graduates to request catalogs and other printed information about the college, visit the campus when they can, talk with students, faculty members, and administrators about the many opportunities available for a biblically sound, Christ-honoring, thorough Christian college education.

May 1975 be the greatest year for all of us as we dedicate ourselves to Christ for total service.

ENROLLMENT STATISTICS

Once again, dormitories and classrooms at Cedarville are filled to capacity. Although the lack of dormitory space prevented a large increase this year, the enrollment did rise to 1,033 students. Those coming to Cedarville major primarily in Bible, Elementary Education and Physical Education respectively. However, with the upgrading of curriculum and increased opportunities, the number of students in the Broadcast, IDS, and Medical Technology majors has doubled this year.

Cedarville students represent 36 states, 572 churches and the foreign countries of Brazil, Canada and Portugal. Included in the 1,033 students are 640 from 288 GARB churches and 233 from other Baptist churches. The ten states supplying the largest number of students are: Ohio, 466; New York, 98; Michigan, 93; Pennsylvania, 77; Indiana, 68; Illinois, 50; Iowa, 34; New Jersey, 32; Wisconsin, 13; and Maryland, 13.

PASTOR JOSEPH STOWELL III

SWORDBEARERS CONFERENCE

Carrying out the theme, "Focus on the Family," the Eighth Annual Swordbearers Conference provided activities for adults as well as young people.

The conference began at 11:00 a.m. on November 2, with a rally in the gymnasium. Joseph Stowell III spoke evangelistically concerning membership in the Family of God, aided musically by the 1974 Summer Swordbearers team. After the rally, young people attended two seminars, "Knowing Thy Family" and "The Successful Partner", and a film.

Many felt this time was more profitable than in the past because of the discussion groups which were held to encourage interaction and personal contact. Adults were challenged by a seminar and films presented by Mr. Robert Burkett, Dean of Men, which concerned the Christian home today. The closing rally focused attention upon the Family of God looking forward to the rapture.

THE STALEY FOUNDATION

As a private, non-profit organization administering funds to provide for the propagation of the "Gospel of Jesus Christ in its historical and scriptural fullness", The Staley Distinguished Christian Scholar Lecture Program has supported lectureship programs at Cedarville College for the past two years. The Staley Foundation desires to "enrich the quality of Christian services and to sharpen the effectiveness of Christian witness, especially at the college level." The Staley Foundation has given Cedarville College 500 shares of Reynolds Securities. The income from the securities provides financial support for lectureship programs, the remaining expense being paid directly by the Foundation.

The Staley Foundation is providing for a lectureship by Dr. Jay E. Adams, well-known author and lecturer, on January 14-17, 1975. Dr. Adams will speak each day in chapel and will hold a seminar on Thursday, January 16 from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. for pastors and Christian workers. The public is invited to hear Dr. Jay Adams speak on the use of Scripture in counseling.

In addition to frequent lecturing responsibilities, Dr. Adams has published books such as Competent to Counsel, Pulpit Speech, Christian Living in the Home, The Christian Counselor's Manual, and Shepherding God's Flock. He is currently Associate Professor of Practical Theology at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia and Counselor at the Christian Counseling and Educational Foundation. After earning his undergraduate degree at John Hopkins University, Dr. Adams received graduate degrees at Reformed Episcopal Seminary and Temple University and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Missouri.

ARS MUSICA

A "new" old sound will be coming to Cedarville College on January 10, 1975. Eight professional musicians formed a group known as Ars Musica in 1970 with the desire to perform baroque music (1600-1750) with baroque instruments, "creating a new performance of an old work". According to Ars Musica, "Some past attempts by academically-oriented musicians have indeed shown that what is 'correct' can be dull." Therefore, Ars Musica does not attempt to recreate exactly an 18th century performance, which would be of interest only to historians. Musicians of Ars Musica believe that if we are going to play old music, we must attempt to understand the parameters of performance that the composer assumed when he put his musical thoughts on paper. Recently, Ars Musica has included music from the post-Baroque period, specifically, Rococo and Classical music (1750-1800).

DORMS NAMED

It was recently decided by the trustees to name the two new men's dorms and the former Fox Apartments after three men who have faithfully served at the college through caring for the physical plant. It is appropriate that these buildings should bear the names of Bob Rogers, "Pop" Marshall, and Hugh Carr, who have all been so much involved in campus construction, improvements, and upkeep.

The late Rev. Bob Rogers ('55) served as the first maintenance director and "held the school together physically." At the same time, he was a student at the college. After the completion of his education, Rev. Rogers continued serving the college while in the pastorate by encouraging students in his church to consider Cedarville for their education.

Devoting seventeen years of service to the college, Gerald Marshall was loved by all who knew him and became known as "Pop" Marshall. Pop Marshall worked at the college until his homegoing in 1972 and is directly responsible for many of the improvements on campus today.

The man responsible for the construction of the two new men's dorms, Mr. Hugh Carr, devotes many long hours working to complete them. He not only has worked on the dorms himself, but has organized student labor so that the dorms could be built by college personnel.

These three men have all generously given of their time and abilities to the college and will be remembered in the future by all who come on campus.

HOMECOMING REVIEW

To set the mood for homecoming, alumni spoke in chapel the preceding week. Speakers were: Dr. Ken Cole, an MD in Columbus and a 1970 graduate; Rev. John Bigelow ('64), missionary to Eagle River, Alaska; Ron Baker ('69), manager at General Electric Manufacturing in Cincinnati and a worker with FBHM in church planting; Rev. Larry Czerniak ('64), Christian Education Director at Bethesda Baptist Church in Brownsburg, Indiana and Director of the Bethesda Christian School; and Ted Oakley ('67), principal of Windermere Elementary School in Columbus.

Friday morning, the Women's Fellowship met and discussed "The Cedarville Product", with a glimpse at successful alumni. Alumni from the 50's, '64, and '69 gathered Friday evening for reunion banquets and a look at the history and development of Cedarville College through a slide presentation. Dr. Arthur F. Williams was the speaker for the occasion. Later that evening, a pep rally and bonfire spirited students for the next day's activities.

Beginning with the annual parade through town, Saturday was filled with activity. The Science Center, begun three years ago, is now in full use and was dedicated. The afternoon activities drew people to the athletic area of campus. To start things off, the alumni beat the J.V. soccer team with a score of 6-2. The women's tennis and field hockey teams participated in the Ohio Valley League Tournaments and placed second in field hockey. Participating in the Cross Country Invitational were Cedarville, which took first place with 20 points, Lakeland Community College, placing second with 45 points, Defiance, taking third with 97 points, Mt. Vernon Nazarene, Kenyon, Central State, ITT Tech School in Dayton, and Wilberforce.

Paul Budnick was the first Yellow Jacket to cross the finish line and placed second in the run. After the Invitational, the alumni competed against track men in a three-mile run. The alumni won, with Steve Jones ('72) placing first. Attention then turned to the soccer field where the Cedarville College soccer team met Malone College and defeated them 10-0. During half-time, 1974 Homecoming Queen, Karen Wimer, was given her crown by Mrs. Peggy (Wagner) Warwick, 1973 Queen. Karen, daughter of Gordon and Alice Wimer, missionaries to Monrovia, Liberia, is a senior majoring in Bible with a missions emphasis. The 1974 Homecoming Court included Janet Green, a senior majoring in elementary education; Ellen Spaulding, a junior music major; Cindi Porter, a sophomore majoring in speech; and Jackie Willan, a freshman Bible major.

The weekend of activity concluded with the WCDR autumn Concert, featuring Paul Schumacher and Ruth Ohman Lehman, outstanding Christian musicians.

The purpose of the book will be to implement Biblical concepts and relate psychological subjects from a Christian perspective.

MR. HARVEY

Summer vacations find most professors pursuing academic knowledge or experience. For Mr. Dane Harvey, Assistant Professor of Physics and Mathematics, this pursuit found him at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Cleveland, working with the American Society for Engineering Education on an awarded fellowship for research.

The task given to Mr. Harvey was the evaluation of testing methods for liner material for space shuttle nozzels. This involved developing methods to predict failure and examining materials to extend life. Other researchers are attempting to design a liner material that can withstand 6,000°F and endure 300 missions.

When asked about the justification for space research and programs such as this in light of our economy, Mr. Harvey commented that in view of the fact that our world is running out of materials, we are forced to look to other planets for them. Research is also involved with working to get the most possible out of the resources now available.

Before coming to Cedarville College, Mr. Harvey was involved in the rocket industry. Therefore, this experience was not only of interest to him, but he also became more aware of changes in space industry and thus can have a better knowledge of the kind of education needed by students going into this field.

SOCCER CHAMPS

Defense, teamwork and outstanding individual efforts were combined this season to bring success to the soccer team, with a record of 10-4. The results were the obtaining of the National Christian College Athletic Association District III championship, ranking in the top 10 teams in Ohio and gaining recognition in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics competition. With their defeat of Bluffton, they took NAIA District 22 Honors and went on to compete in the Area 4 playoffs. A 6-1 victory over Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky, sent them to Spring Arbor, Michigan, where they again demonstrated excellence with a 3-0 upset.

With anticipation and excitement at its peak, the Yellow Jackets soccer team traveled to Florissant, Missouri as the Area 4 champs, to compete with the top 8 teams in the nation. After losing to Erskine College from South Carolina, 1-0, the team defeated George Mason University of Virginia 3-0. Goals were made by Merle Ziegler, assisted by Larry Bollback; Dave Stoner, assisted by Joe Jenkins; and Larry Bollback, assisted by Evandro Batista. In a game against Keene State of New Hampshire, Larry Bollback scored the only goal in a 3-1 game. As a result of the National playoffs, Cedarville now is sixth in the nation in the NAIA division. Evandro Batista received the honor of being one of eleven men chosen for the all-tournament team.

Senior All-American Larry Bollback, sophomore Paul Kester, junior Joe Bartemus, and sophomore Evandro Batista were all selections on the NCCAA District III team.

Coach McGillivray feels that the Cedarville team is of equal caliber with other top

NAIA teams. At the tournament, opportunity was given for observation of techniques used by other exceptional teams and Coach McGillivray is looking forward to another good season next year.

CROSS COUNTRY

With a record of 5-1, the cross country team strongly met tough competition with better performance than previously. They won the NCCAA District III banner and individual runners won trophies in all but one invitation meet. According to Coach King, their strength and success were due to outstanding team unity and team members' ability to run as a group. Although the team lacks an extremely strong front runner, three runners have proven consistent. Sophomore Paul Budnik has been the first man in all but two meets and was given the Outstanding Runner Award. Sophomore Ron Thomas has run in the top five in every meet and received an award for Most Improved Runner, and sophomore David Wishart ran in the top three each time.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Due to inexperience on the college level of the women's tennis team, they finished a disappointing season with a 2-4 record. Although the team was stronger, the other schools in the Ohio Valley League also enjoyed added strength. However, the future looks good for the team as they will lose only one senior, Sandy Finch.

Ending with a record of 3-9, the women's field hockey team experienced good progress and development during the season. According to Coach Diehl, the defense needs work while the offense was strong. Five of the starting players were seniors this year: Sally Orihood, center forward; Debbie Stewart, left half back; Jenny O'Neil, left wing; Joy Erickson, left inner; and Chris Thompkins, right front. Miami Valley League Selections included Nancy Towle, Lauren Clark, and Debbie Stewart.

WOMEN'S FIELD HOCKEY

"We won what we expected to win." This was the comment made by the women's volleyball coach, Dr. June Kearney. The team's losses were to highly rated schools such as Ohio State University. Dr. Kearney feels that good teamwork has been an asset to their success. Because this year's team consists of four seniors who have played together, Dr. Kearney views next year as a rebuilding season. The seniors on the team were: Sandy Schlappi, Sandy Finch, Sally Orihood, and Cheryl Heslop.

WOMEN'S VOLLEY BALL

The season ended with a 16-12 record and a tie for fifth place in the state tournament. The award for Most Valuable Player on the Yellow Jacket team was given to Sandy Schlappi. Other awards were Most Improved Player, Lauren Clark and Most Valuable Hitter, Sandy Schlappi.

ACCREDITATION

The examination for full accreditation was held on the college campus November 25-27, 1974. The announcement of the decision will be made at the annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, April 6-9, 1975.

A considerable number of members of the college family, students, faculty, staff, and administrators devoted much time to the preparation of materials which were provided in advance of the visit. The primary document was the Self-Study which is essentially a description of the college, its people, and its program.

A significant part of the self-study was devoted to presenting the Biblically-related, Christian aspects of the purposes of the college. The presentation of this section demonstrated that the Christian college which operates within Biblical and Christian framework is definitely an option in our nation's total culture and that no apology or compromise needs to be made.

If the examining committee's decision is favorable, the college will almost immediately have a broader ministry in the areas of pre-law, pre-medicine and dentistry, and other pre-professional programs. The preparation of teachers who seek certification in states which require regionally accredited degrees will be positively affected.

Although a summary report of the examiners' findings will become available in the early part of 1975, final comments will not be known until after the April meeting of the North Central Association.

COMMUNICATIONS

The increase in employment opportunities in the area of communications has had a positive effect upon students' interest in the Speech-Communications major at Cedarville College, particularly in the area of broadcasting. As a result, the number of majors doubled this year. Partially responsible for this increase is the fact that the present generation of students has been acquainted with and involved in media-communications all their lives. There is now a much broader opportunity in secondary education as most schools now require speech and offer speech-related electives. The broadcast and speech majors function with a true liberal arts concept since within the structure of the majors, courses in almost every other field are required.

Another factor affecting the growth of the Communications major is the expansion of the teaching staff which has made an upgraded and broadened program possible. Mr. Roger Booth, Instructor of Broadcasting, has brought fifteen years of experience with him and thus is a valuable resource person as well as a teacher of technique courses. Miss Marsha Shepard, Instructor of Speech, is providing for a full oral interpretation instruction and dramatics program. According to Mr. Jim Phipps, Department Chairman, WCDR station manager, Paul Gathany, has kept the broadcasting major alive in the past.

As a result of the increase in interest and staff, the curriculum is being expanded. Courses such as Broadcast Announcing, Broadcast Research, Broadcast Law, and Persuasive and Interpersonal Communications are being added, serving to upgrade the program and better prepare those in the field. In the future, the Communications Department plans to further expand, implementing an internship program, a job placement bureau, and providing opportunities for experience on the mission field. Expansion into television is also in sight with students already receiving preliminary training by broadcasting the daily chapel sessions on the campus' closed circuit network.

More students are realizing the relevance of communications skills since it is often the determining factor between success and failure. This they realize because more employers now tend to consider the ability to communicate more important than the specific skills which they themselves can teach.

Mr. Phipps is encouraged by the response he has received from the employers of Cedarville graduates who were Communications majors. He stated that these graduates have experienced extremely good success.
