Cedarville Offers Many Courses In Forty-Ninth Year Opening Sept. 21

High School graduates enrolling at Cedarville College this September will find a wide variety of possibilities open to them as they plan their college work. The College will open its 49th year fully equipped and staffed to prepare students in all regular departments.

A majority of incoming freshmen will begin a course leading either to the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Education degree. It will be possible for students to earn any of these degrees in three years or less by attending summer school also; or the regular four-year program can be followed.

Many School Teachers Needed

Due to the shortage of trained teachers for the public schools, many students will also prepare for the temporary elementary teaching certificate. Requirements for this can be met in two years, or less with summer school work.

Other students are entering to take two to four years of pre-professional courses. They will then transfer to universities elsewhere to complete work in engineering, medicine, theology, etc.

Men students regularly enrolled at Cedarville College can enlist in some branch of military service on the Reserve basis, thus being permitted to complete more college work than would otherwise be permitted. Further information about this plan is found elsewhere in the Bulletin.

Expenses Low at Cedarville

Cedarville College's long-standing policy of keeping college expenses low is of course of great value to prospective students. Many working opportunities and a limited number of loan funds and scholarships are also available further to reduce a student's costs.

Tuition is $80 per semester. With books and fees, this makes the direct academic costs slightly less than $200 for the entire school year.

Living costs are also unusually low. Room rent and board is about $200 for the school year. This figure can be materially reduced if the student can go home week-ends, and of course is eliminated altogether if he lives at home.

Rooms for girls are still available at Harriman Hall, at $1.75 per week. Rooms for men in carefully selected private homes average about the same. Early reservations are advisable, particularly for the Girls' Dormitory.

Prospective students are urged to write for further information and a copy of the College Catalogue to President W. S. Kilpatrick, Cedarville College, Cedarville, Ohio.

Bette Lee Garrison, of Los Angeles, a former student, writes interestingly of her work. She says, "I shall always feel indebted to Cedarville for the many advantages I had there. I think the new Self-Help Program is wonderful. I want to help because I feel I can never really repay Cedarville for all the inspiration I gained there."

What the Graduates Have To Say About Cedarville College

Charles E. Bost, '33—

(Principal of McGuffey School, Springfield; on leave of absence for military service; received his Master's degree from Wittenberg College)

"I have always appreciated any school in which one felt free enough to approach the teachers and professors concerning any question in mind. It gives one a feeling of worth as well as deep appreciation for a service rendered. Young people need such contacts today. That type of service was given to me at Cedarville. Any agency which will unite people in a spirit of friendliness and mutual cooperation certainly has a place in our modern world."

MANY COLLEGE MEN TO ENLIST IN RESERVES

'42 Freshmen May Continue Training

America is looking to its colleges and universities for trained leaders in its all-out efforts to win the war. This was made abundantly clear at a meeting in Columbus recently when presidents and deans of these institutions met with representatives of the army, navy and marines.

The government is depending upon schools of higher learning with their organization, equipment, leadership and experience to furnish them with the thousands upon thousands of trained men for all branches of the service. Many thousands of high school students throughout the nation are enrolling in the colleges and universities this fall to prepare themselves to be of greater usefulness to their country.

Here is the plan: High school students can enter college this fall and enroll in those courses in which they show aptitude. From time to time representatives of the various armed forces will explain the various positions open to men with advanced training. Opportunity will then be given for students who are qualified to enlist in the reserve forces of any

Prof. M. S. Hostetler, '32—

(Professor of Bible, Westminster College, Salt Lake City, Utah; received the degrees of S. T. B. and S.T.M. at Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh.)

"Even under the most favorable circumstances, people do not inherit Christian natures, but must voluntarily surrender to Christ if they are to be his followers. I believe this country needs more educated people who are Christians, and Cedarville College is one institution which can educate people without destroying their Christian faith."

THE STUDY-WORK PROGRAM

The study-work program in higher education is gaining wide acceptance throughout educational circles. Briefly stated, it provides an opportunity for a student to gain some actual work experience while pursuing his academic course.

It provides alternate periods of time for work and study. These alternate periods range from many weeks to a few hours. Both students and colleges arrange their courses so that the work may be dovetailed into academic study. This program has many advantages:

1. The student in school learns from the experience of others. At work he learns from his own experience as well.
2. His work puts reality into his study.
3. The program brings education in line with actual life.
4. In many cases it enables students to earn a part of their expenses while in college. Many ambitious young people are thereby enabled to obtain a higher education.

Cedarville College is no stranger to this development. Throughout her almost half century of history many students have had opportunities to work as they studied.

The acquisition of a 200-acre farm is therefore a logical first step in the enlarged Student Self-Help Program. With its development and the addition of other related industries, Cedarville College will be able to offer the advantages of the study-work program to all of its enrolled students.

Other features to be found at Cedarville are:

1. It is a distinctively Christian college.
2. Expenses are among the lowest in the state.
3. It has a small, closely-knit student body.
4. It has a remarkable record throughout nearly a half century in turning out leaders in all walks of life.
5. It has unusual success in placing its graduates.

Our 49th year opens September 21. With the increasing demand on the part of the government for trained leaders it is increasingly becoming a patriotic duty for all qualified high school graduates to continue their schooling.

Representative Andrew J. May, Chairman of the House of Military Affairs Committee, has this to say, "The war may be over this year, but if it is not ended in 1943 the conflict may go on for years and years . . . As I view the war outlook for the next 18 months—that is, through 1943—I can see no need of drafting for the army boys 18 and 19 years of age who registered recently . . . Let them continue their schooling. Let them develop into manhood physically. Let them be the foundation of our postwar era."

INCREASE YOUR INCOME THROUGH ANNUITY BONDS PAYING 4% TO 7%

In these days of investment uncertainties, friends seeking security and regular fixed income have increasingly turned to Annuity Bonds. These insure dependable income for life and the residue added to the Expansion Funds of the College would project your life's interest and influence in training young people for leadership.

Annuity Bonds—

1. Provide semi-annual or quarterly income that cannot shrink.
2. Can be made payable to any person designated.
3. Constitute sound investment based on financial resources and administration of a time-tested, trustworthy institution.
4. Have values and income rates, once fixed, that do not fluctuate.
5. Enable you to aid a vital enterprise to recruit and train a Christian leadership.

The rate of interest depends, of course, upon the age of the person receiving the annuity.

For further information regarding Annuity Bonds, Bequests or other contributions to Cedarville College write

President W. S. Kilpatrick,
Cedarville, Ohio.

College Men In Reserves

branch they desire. Such students will be allowed to remain in school and finish their work.

Throughout the nation this year the armed forces expect to enlist, on a deferred basis, college students to the number of 80,000 first-year men, 57,000 second-year men, 41,000 third-year men and 37,000 fourth-year men. Thereafter, 80,000 first-year men will be enlisted in each calendar year.

So long as a student who has been accepted for the Enlisted Reserve Corps remains in school and maintains a satisfactory grade of work, as shown by a qualifying examination, he will be permitted to continue his college course on an inactive Reserve basis.

Cedarville College will cooperate fully in helping students fit themselves into this forward-looking government program. Students have already begun to register in this program. Many more will do so at the opening of the fall semester.

MANY FRIENDS RESPOND

The response to the needs of Cedarville and its $100,000 expansion program has been marked. Cedarville College has a host of friends throughout of the Middlewest. Many of these have assisted in providing the sums necessary for the initial payment on the farm and the many other expenses connected with its development.

With the increasing demand of the government for college trained men we must double our program of student aid. Instead of 15 scholarships asked for in our last bulletin we need 30 at $50.00 each; instead of 20 labor grants, we need 40 at $80.00 each and instead of 10 rotating loan funds we need 20 at $100.00 each. We trust many friends will respond to this appeal to help deserving youth prepare themselves for patriotic war duty.

DR. McCHESNEY RECOVERS

The many friends of Dr. W. R. McChesney, President-emeritus of the college, will welcome the news that he is rapidly recovering from the illness that kept him in his home since the end of June. He will resume his active work after a brief vacation.

DR. W. R. McCHESNEY

In addition to his various college and community activities, he is again seeking the nomination as representative for Greene County in the Ohio Legislature. His many years of service in that capacity have made him especially fitted to serve in these unusual times. He is generally recognized as one of the most capable men in that body.

His pledge to the people in this campaign is, "Trusting in God, I pledge my aid to our State and Nation for victory and a just and lasting peace."

WHAT IS THE REASON?

Dr. R. Lincoln Long, Minister of the Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian Church, Toledo, and valued friend of Cedarville College, recently offered in his church bulletin a prize for the best essay of 250 words or less on the subject: "Why people have time to read a book like 'Moscow Diary,' 'And Now Tomorrow,' or 'Washington Is Like That,' or 'The Days of Our Years' but can't find time to read Dr. George A. Buttrick's book 'Prayer,' which takes too much time. (All about the same thickness.)"

What the Graduates Say

Dr. James Otis Young, '32—

(Minister of the First Methodist Church, Worthington, Ohio; Secretary Ohio Conference, Methodist Church; received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Garrett Biblical Institute, Chicago.)

"Two things will make Cedarville live in the future. First, keep a distinctive religious note. Second, provide more self-help for the worthy student.

"I stand ready to do my part in helping you in the program to raise your $100,000."

President M. Earle Collins, '23—

(Tarkio College, Tarkio, Missouri; received his Master's degree and Doctorate at Ohio State University.)

"Cedarville College with its almost half century of history and its splendid record of alumni achievement has an important place in the future. Our country and world today need the type of citizen produced by the small Liberal Arts College. The loyalties and ideals established through a family fellowship in an institution of Cedarville's type are essential to our present civilization."

Dr. Joseph Free, '33—

(Instructor in Speech and Dramatic Art, Herzl Junior City College, Chicago; received his Master's Degree at the University of Michigan and his Doctorate at the University of Iowa).

"I have been connected with seven 'institutions of higher learning,' either as a student or as an instructor. The most inspirational teaching that I ever experienced took place at Cedarville College. The educational world needs inspirational teaching. I was fortunate enough to find it at Cedarville. It can still be found there."

Dr. Nelson H. Thorne, '28—

(Minister of First Presbyterian Church, Clarksburg, W. Va.; received his Bachelor of Theology degree at the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago; Doctor of Divinity from Cedarville; Doctor of Laws from Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va.)

"No other institution has ever had the influence upon the development and character of my life as has Cedarville College. Its faculty of Christian men and women and the atmosphere of the community determined my place in the Christian ministry."

VICTORY DEMANDS MORE COLLEGE MEN

It was particularly emphasized at the Columbus meeting that the armed forces rely upon graduates of the Liberal Arts Colleges as well as on those who have had technical training. The ability to think clearly in unforeseen emergencies is one of the important requirements of modern warfare. The military leaders find this factor of thinking an outstanding characteristic of graduates of Liberal Arts Colleges.

A statement released by the Army and Navy reads, in part:

"The Army and the Navy alike appreciate the spirit of patriotism and self-sacrifice which has led an increasing number of young men to forego, in whole or in part, a college education in order to be immediately available to the armed forces through enlistment.

"The Army and the Navy recognize, however, that it is imperative to the success of the war effort that there continue to flow not merely into industry but also into the armed forces numbers of men having the requisite educational background for rapid assimilation into certain increasingly important and increasingly technical fields of industrial and military service."

DARKROOM SUPPLIES NEEDED

We have had students who from time to time have taken up photography and have thereby earned a part of their college expenses. We have depended for most of the equipment upon generous friends who have loaned it to us.

With the growing demand for our own pictures we need our own dark room supplies. We would be happy to have any of the following permanent equipment:

Developing Tank.

Developing Trays.

Printer.

Enlarger.

Masks.

Tray and Tank Thermometer.

Dark Room Lights.

Word has just been received that Lieutenant Robert M. Thompson, '37, Jamestown, flier with the U. S. Army air forces in Alaska, saved himself and his crew of six by his skill in effecting a landing under great difficulties.
