Aerobics workshop

Did you know that Americans are one of the most over-weight peoples in the world?

Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper realizes this problem. He will deliver a lecture series to the students at Cedarville College Thursday.

Dr. Cooper, a former Lt. Col. in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Air Force and Senior Flight Surgeon, is also the author of the four best-selling books including Aerobics and The New Aerobics. Together with his wife, Cooper authored Aerobics for Women. These three books alone have sold more than 7.5 million copies.

Cooper's latest book, The Aerobics Way, presents new data on aerobics accumulated during the past eight years of research at the Aerobics Center in Dallas, Tex.

The aerobics program Dr. Cooper developed has been featured in nearly every major magazine and is the basis for the conditioning of many professional football teams and a number of NCAA colleges. It has been utilized both in schools as a basic physical education program and also as the official fitness program for the U.S. Navy and Air Force.

Dr. Cooper not only creates these health plans and propagates them, but, more importantly, he "practices what he preaches." Cooper has expressed the purpose of his plan as being that good health should be maintained by preventing coronary complications brought on by: obesity, smoking, hypertension, diabetes and physical inactivity. His goal is to revolutionize the health of the American people.

Cooper has lectured in every state in the nation as well as Brazil, West Germany, Japan, Indonesia, Australia, Israel and the Soviet Union.

Due to Cooper's extensive research and promotion of his health programs, he has received honors from influential men ranging from governors to the highest honor the President can bestow: The Distinguished Service Award.

Director of Development resigns post

After serving as Director of Development for 15 years, Lee Turner has decided to leave Cedarville College and return to the pastorate.

During his tenure, Turner saw the college expand its facilities to include a number of new dorms, a new library, science center and the James T. Jeremiah Chapel. He has seen the development office grow from a one-man job to a staff of 12, and taught a class in Personal Evangelism for nine years.

With the growth of the college, Turner said, administrative responsibilities have increased, taking him further away from contact with people in supporting churches. That's something difficult for a man who says, "I'm a preacher at heart. I love the Word; I love the people."

As a result of his desire to work with people in a local church, Turner decided this summer to return to the ministry. Although

Fall Bible Conference services start tonight

Alfred B. Smith, founder of Singspiration, and evangelist Bill Compton will participate in Cedarville College's Fall Bible Conference Sept. 24-28.

Services are scheduled for 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. daily in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel. The public is invited.

Often called the dean of gospel music, Smith was an early pioneer in sacred recordings.

Some of Smith's early compositions have become "standards" in the realm of gospel music. His "For God So Loved the World" has been translated into virtually every language in the world and has taken its place with "Jesus Loves Me" as a favorite of boys and girls everywhere. And who doesn't know "Surely Goodness and Mercy" or "My Father Planned it All."

Feeling that much of the sacred music produced in recent years has drifted far from the moorings of required Christian standards, both musically and scripturally, he has dedicated himself unreservedly to composing, publishing and recording music which is scripturally sound and musically acceptable.

To aid him in this, he has begun a new enterprise called Encore Publications Inc. with the catchy and meaningful slogan, "Music Worth Repeating." It is his prayer and desire that this company may be used mightily of God in this challenging generation to provide the scripturally-based singing materials which are so needed if we are to have revival in our times.

Evangelist Compton completed his education at Tennessee Temple Schools in Chattanooga, Tenn. He was graduated from Temple College in 1951 and continued his studies at Temple Baptist Theological Seminary graduating in 1953 with a Bachelor of Divinity Degree. In June, 1978, he was honored with the Doctor of Divinity Degree by Temple Baptist College in Cincinnati, Ohio.

His experience includes several years in the pastorate, missionary work in Cayman Islands in the West Indies and helping to organize a church in Canada.

The last pastorate which he served was the Southside Baptist Church, Greenville, S.C. This is his 22nd year in full-time evangelism and Bible conference ministry.

More than 1300

Enrollment to set record

Close fellowship will be the norm this year as more than 1300 students attend Cedarville College. The administration praises God for the great enrollment increase, while hurriedly working to accommodate the great number of people.

According to Dr. L. R. White, director of admissions, this will be the last year for a teen-age population increase. Many colleges are already experiencing decreasing enrollment. School officials are not anticipating this happening at CC.

"This was the first year for a concentrated effort in student recruitment," said Dr. White. This

"all our effort" was designed to bring results next year, but the amazing enrollment of this fall provides a very optimistic outlook for enrollment in the future, he noted.

Many factors are involved in the student recruitment program. David Ormsbee has been working full-time in this area, conducting meetings with pastors, and in churches and Christian schools.

A film entitled "Leading the Way," has proven to be a very useful recruitment tool. This film was produced by Stan SeEVERS and Ty Bryant of New Life Media of Cedarville.

Dr. White believes, however, that CC's enrollment increase is due in large part to the word of mouth efforts of our present and former students. This, he says, makes his job easy.

Academic Dean Dr. Clifford Johnson acknowledged. "In general, growth makes it possible for a college to do more things." He cites more courses, programs and cultural activities as examples of this.

Increased enrollment will also help the college financially, since the student fees pay approximately 95 per cent of the college's costs, this year's enrollment will help balance the budget and may create a small surplus.

Seven new faculty hired

Seven new faculty members have been hired for the upcoming fall quarter.

Miss Mary Ann Druhard, assistant professor of speech, will teach Fundamentals of Speech and Teaching Speech this year. She is a Bowling Green State University graduate in 1967 with a B.S. in Education, and recently received her M.A. in Fine Arts from Bob Jones University.

Keith Clark, assistant professor of health and physical education, is married with four children ages 16, 14, 12 and 5. He received his B.A. from Fairmont College in 1964 and his M.A. from Xavier University in 1972. He has had a wide experience in teaching and athletics.

Married with a four-year-old son, Michael DiCuirci will be assistant professor of music (Instrumental) at Cedarville this fall. He received his B.M. in Music Education Instruction from the University of Michigan in 1971, and his N.M. in 1977 from the same school. DiCuirci will teach Music Elementary Teaching and Private Brass this fall.

Dr. Charles Dolph will take the position of assistant professor of psychology. He received his B.A. in 1974 from Cedarville College, his M.A. from Georgia State, and is now working on his Ph.D. from the same school. He will teach Abnormal Behavior and Group Counseling this year.

Mark Larson, who will become Assistant Professor of Spanish, received his B.A. from Bob Jones University in 1975. He studied one year at the University of Madrid and received his M.A. from Middleburg College in 1977. Married last summer to Susan Schneider, he will teach Elementary and Intermediate Spanish, and Spanish Literature this fall.

Groffrey Phillips, instructor of accounting, is a 1979 graduate from Ohio State University with a B.A. in Business Administration-accounting. Having also attended Bob Jones University for two years, he will be teaching Principles of Accounting I and II this fall.

John Silvius will become assistant professor of biological sciences. Married, with two children ages nine and four, he received his B.A. at Malone in 1969 and his Ph.D. at West Virginia University in 1974. He was taught at the University of Illinois, and has done research for the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md.

College gets grant from foundation

Henry Parsons Crowell's Trust Fund has donated $10,000 toward construction of the proposed fieldhouse. This organization's purpose is to aid evangelical Christianity by support of organizations having for their purpose the teaching, advancement and active extension at home and abroad.

Lee Turner, director of development, is responsible for soliciting funds for this college's need for financial support. He coordinated efforts to obtain the grant from the foundation initiated in memorial to Crowell, founder of Quaker Oats and former chairman of the board.

This grant will provide part of the needed money to build a fieldhouse and renovation of the existing fieldhouse into a student center at a cost of $1.2 million.

55 students participate in summer MIS work

Fifty-five Cedarville College students participated in the Missionary Internship Service this summer, according to Harold Green, director of Christian Science.

Basketball, puppet, music and work and teams went to the Philippine Islands, Australia, Israel and nine other foreign countries in addition to several states in this country, he explained.

"Missionary Internship Service is a unique opportunity for students to put into practice much of what they learn in classrooms at Cedarville," the director said "During the past eight years, students have raised approximately $466,000 to support the program."

Senior Dale Shaw of Indianapolis, Ind., traveled with the basketball evangelism team to the Philippines, preaching of his growth, Shaw observed, "This experience provided the most condensed learning I've ever

Students to share post office boxes

Close quarters will be normal at the post office. Formerly, only relatives shared boxes. This year, however, three people will share a box.

Mrs. Betty Grisham, supervisor of post office, hopes this will not cause too much of a problem, but it appears that Cedarville College students will sift through mail to find which prices are their own for several years.

Lack of space for additional postoffice boxes leaves construction of a new post office as the only viable alternative. This construction has been talked about in the past, but no definite plans are in for the foreseeable future, said Mrs. Grisham.

Library addition

Increased enrollment is responsible for the addition to the library. Lack of classroom space made late afternoon classes a necessary for last year's schedule. By winter, however, new fully carpeted classrooms will be ready to accommodate 40 to 60 students. The new facility, according to Business Manager, Kenneth St. Clair will ease the classroom difficulty greatly.

The library was chosen for the classroom addition because of the great need for library space. As soon as funds are available, a new modern classroom facility will be constructed, St. Clair stated. This will allow the addition to the library to be converted into additional library space.

NDSL defaults

Cedarville College recently received a letter of commendation from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for its low default rate on National Direct Student Loans.

With a default rate of 5.83 percent, Cedarville was one of 1025 colleges receiving letters for meeting HEW's 10 percent guideline. Nationwide the default rate is 17.4 percent.

The Springfield Sun recently cited Cedarville as the only college in the area meeting the guideline. Some had rates of nearly 70 percent. Schools which exceed the 10 percent limit face a funds cut off for 1980-81.

Since the June report, Cedarville has reduced its default rate to 2.8 percent, according to David L. Gidley, director of financial aids. The college ranks next to lowest among all colleges in Ohio for defaults on the loans.

"I am very pleased to note that the default rate for students in your institution is not only substantially less than the national average of 17.36 percent but also falls below the 10 percent rate set as a target for all participating schools," HEW wrote the college.

had. The memory of it is branded on my heart and etched in my mind and will not soon be forgotten."

A national pastor wrote to the college about this team, called "Athletes for Christ" and their work. He said "Literally thousands came to see athletes for Christ play and give their testimonies. The athletes helped us distribute the Gospel of John and tracts. Our goal was to present the gospel of Christ to everyone in Sorgosen province. The Lord honored this beyond our expectations. Praise His Name!"

Randy Strobridge, who traveled with the Kingsman Quartet this summer, received his biggest blessing from learning to know and get along with five other guys. Because he worked in a lot of different cities, he was not able to see the work blossom with immediate fruit. He is still hearing about it and praises God for what he has done.

The Swordbearers spent five weeks in various camps. Craig Miller, a member of the team, believes this was his greatest joy because of the chance to become very close to the young people and to minister to them on that level.

He also enjoyed visiting the different churches and seeing the way they operated. He adds, "And you always learn so much about yourself."

CC Harriers chase NCCAA Championship

Coach Elvin King's harriers stand ready to open the 1979 cross country season with bright hopes for a repeat of last year's NCCAA National Championship. The return of six of the top seven runners assures King of a strong, experienced squad. King, 1978 NCCAA Coach of the Year, also pointed out that this year's crop of new recruits is "potentially the strongest group of freshmen ever to come in."

Returning senior Dale Shaw is the most obvious reason why Coach King is smiling these days. The 1978 NCCAA individual winner returns this year with every expectation of picking up where he left off last year. Shaw opened up a thirty-second lead over the rest of the pack in last year's NCCAA National Meet with two miles to go, and held on to win by that margin.

Shaw will be pursued in his race for the front by fellow senior Tom Yater. Yater finished fourth in last year's NCCAA meet, fifty-two seconds behind Shaw. Coach King pointed out that neither Shaw nor Yater were experienced runners before coming to Cedarville, and that they have made "tremendous progress" in their efforts.

In addition to Shaw and Yater, seniors Craig Colas and Dave Treese, junior Cal Clark, and Sophomore Chris Yoder will be returning to defend their positions in the top seven.

However, at least six freshmen will be seeking to break in to the top seven, and according to Coach King, "any one of the six could very possibly make it in spots three through seven. Beyond Shaw and Yater, nothing is certain." One of these prospects is Sonny Snell, who took last year's Christian High School Invitational, which was held at Cedarville.

Another one of the freshman threats is Dave Averill, who has the fastest two-mile time among the six at 9:50. Three new prospects come from Ohio, Kirk Keller, Jon Selden, and Brad Brandt. All three have cross country experience, as does Dean Johnson, the sixth member of Coach King's rookie crew.

As if that were not enough to keep a coach guessing, a number of upperclassmen who have not previously run cross country will be trying to break into the ranks. Coach King said that he could not estimate where these will figure into the overall picture.

For the first time, a junior varsity program is being planned in addition to the varsity team. Coach King commented that the J.V. squad will run in a number of the regularly scheduled meets in order to give them competition experience. The team line-up will be flexible, allowing King the freedom to move men up to the varsity squad or back to the J.V. squad as he sees the need.

This year's schedule features some difficult opponents, especially at the Kent State Invitational on October 27. King admits that "we may be in over our heads on that one, but we look at that meet as a chance to run against some really tough competition." King says that the NCCAA National Meet, to be held at Cedarville for the second year in a row, is the major meet of the season, and the one meet for which the team will be working throughout their schedule.

"Last year we didn't win anything big until the NCCAA meet, and everybody counted us out of it." The loss of former All-American Brian Hull at the beginning of last season added strength to speculation that Cedarville had no chance to win the national meet. "Losing Brian was critical, but the team didn't give up, and really believed that they could win," King said.

Confidence in their abilities is only one of the many strengths of this team. Both Shaw and Yater have been involved in numerous other pursuits, with both having been on this year's Athletes for Christ basketball team to the Philippines. Craig Colas spends much of his "free time" fulfilling his duties as President of the class of 1980, the fourth year he has held that position. All of the returning runners have, according to King, exhibited tremendous attitudes and have been "looking out for the good of the team." The Yellow Jacket coach is confident that this type of team can only point to a bright future for the team and the cross country program.

BALL-HANDLING DRILLS are one of many kinds of workouts Yellow Jacket kickers used to prepare for a tough four-game road schedule as they open their season.

28 attend training starting Sept. 3

Coach John McGillivray opened his 1979 Yellow Jacket soccer camp on September 3rd with 28 players seeking to earn one of the eleven starting spots on the squad. Of the 28, 11 are returning lettermen, with nine of them being regular's on last year's squad.

Three starting spots were left open after graduation last spring, but McGillivray is confident that the new prospects will be able to fill the gaps in the line-up. "All of our new freshmen have at least two years high school experience," according to the coach.

Defensively, the coach will be looking for a goalie to replace George Mitchell, who graduated last year. According to McGillivray, his two top contenders for the position are both upperclassmen who are out for the first time. Junior Steve Piazza has been working out over the summer to try and fill the spot, but sophomore Tim Graham comes to camp having had high school experience.

Stopper Carleton Birch returns for his 3rd season with the Yellow Jackets, as does junior Co-Captain Dave Merkh. Birch was honored last year as an All-NAIA District 22 fullback, and Merkh was named to the All-M.O.C. team. McGillivray noted that Co-Captain Mark Leach, a midfielder, had originally played at fullback and that he might be moved back to that position if needed. Leach won All-M.O.C. honors last year, playing mainly at mid-field. The Yellow Jacket coach also suggested the possibility of filling the defensive spot with either Ed Stewart, a sophomore, or with one of several freshman.

The top two scorers for last year's kickers are both returning again this year. Senior Co-Captain Tom Aitken, who had 15 points last year, and sophomore Jeff Bowser, who added 12 points, are expected to lead a well-balanced attack this season.

Aitken, who received Honorable Mention for the All-Ohio team; was named to the All-NAIA District 22, and the NCCAA All-District teams. Bowser was named to the All M.O.C. team in his first season.

In addition to these two, McGillivray is looking to Leach, sophomore Larry Green, and senior Dave Standridge to add to the scoring threat. All three showed great progress last year, and followed Aitken and Bowser in the scoring department.

While the starting line-up seems to be fairly intact, McGillivray points out that things could change dramatically before too long. The reason is injury problems that plagued the team last year. Green was bothered last year with knee problems, and re-injured it after the season was over. He also has had problems with his ankle. Dave Standridge is expected to be O.K. for the start of the season, but suffered a broken leg last spring in a scrimmage. And Leach has had a tough time in a prolonged bout with malaria, contracted in the team's Christmas trip to Africa.

Leach and six other veterans, along with McGillivray, were on an Athletes for Christ trip to Liberia and the Ivory Coast during Christmas break. The experience was tremendous for the team, but Leach and one other member of the team have developed malaria since their return to the United States.

Other injury problems are not as severe as these three. Aitken has a pulled hamstring, and Bowser has recovered from a broken arm, a broken nose, and a broken collar bone — all three injuries happening at different times last year.

The Yellow Jackets finished in a first place tie with Walsh last year in the M.O.C., breaking Walsh's two year hold on first. Actually, according to McGillivray,

Athletes for Christ review tour

In listing the tools used in missionary work and evangelism, one tool that probably does not come to mind immediately is basketball. In fact, for most people it would not come to mind at all. But if you were to ask any one of the 10 men who traveled this summer on the Athletes for Christ basketball team to the Philippines about it, they could spend a whole day telling you about the work of basketball evangelism.

The Athletes for Christ, a part of the Missionary Internship Service of Cedarville College, is a means for young people with athletic ability to use that ability in the work of spreading the gospel. This year a team of nine players left Cedarville on June 2nd under the direction of Roy Carr, a Cedarville College alumnus and teacher at Cedarville High School. The team included another alumnus, Frank Vitt, from West Liberty, Ohio, and students Drew Baker, Dave Carr (son of Roy), Paul DeLange, Mike Howard, Keith Kirby, Dale Shaw, Chuck Spicer and Tom Yater.

Flying from Dayton, the team reached the Philippines via a two day stop in Hong Kong. Arriving in Manila, the roundballers visited Leyte, Bohol, Panay, Lingayan, and then returned to Manila.

When asked to describe the ministry of the team, Carr said that he saw it as, "basically a ministry of opening doors for the national workers. While we worked with a couple missionaries, most of our time was spent with Filipino pastors and workers." This "door-opening" was accomplished through two factors, according to Carr. "The Filipinos love basketball. Every barrio (Filipino town) considers a basketball court its prize possession. And they also love to see 'big' American basketball players play ball."

Everywhere the team went, they could count on drawing a crowd to watch them play. Coach Carr estimated the number of people in attendance at every game as ranging from a minimum of 500 to a maximum of 6,000 spectators. The team would play other teams from the various villages and towns they visited, as well as teams from schools, and some semi-professional teams from various parts of the Philippines. After the first half of the game, the team would stay out on the court and present the message of the gospel through song and testimony. After the completion of the game, the team would mingle with the crowd, passing out literature and telling people of the salvation made possible through Christ.

Roy reported that the Filipinos would grab as much of the literature as they could get. At first, he said, this bothered him. "I wasn't really sure that they would read it. But then I talked to Pastor Escobar (a Filipino pastor in Bulan, Sorsogon) and he said that since it was from the States, the people would definitely read it from cover to cover, and probably pass it on to someone else to read."

During their five week tour, the team played 23 games and wound up with the record of 22-1. But this was only one of the exciting things that the team experienced. During their tour, the team was able to see much of the Filipino culture, attending a wedding in Ilo Ilo, a funeral in Bohol, riding on overcrowded public transportation all over the Philippines, and tasting Filipino cuisine. Rice was the staple diet of the people, and Carr said that they had it for every meal. Only three of the team members were brave enough to try "baloot" a Filipino delicacy which is simply chicken embryos.

One of the highlights of the trip was a visit to the mountain barrio of Lanoy. The Athletes for Christ were the first Americans to visit Lanoy since 1901, and were greeted as "royal guests." But Carr pointed out that the visit was even more important because, "While we were there, one of the town's leaders asked the national pastor who brought us to start a new work there." While the team left bearing an official declaration making them "sons of Lanoy," they also left having opened a door for follow-up, leaving the potential for a great harvest of souls in Lanoy - which was their goal.

Another time when the team could see the Lord using them in a great way was in Sorsogon, where Pastor Rudy Escobar had come to begin a new outreach about one year ago. Sorsogon is an area that is about 98% Roman Catholic, and Pastor Escobar had found himself facing stiff opposition, and little acceptance from the people. The presence of the Athletes for Christ changed all that. According to Carr, during the team's stay with Escobar, he found himself being introduced to the governor and being sought out by the people because he had brought the American basketball team to town. He is still reaping the benefits of the team's presence, and the work is progressing.

When asked about the team's relationship, Carr said that there was a tremendous unity on the team and that each one had come to realize the value of every other member of the team in the ministry. About the possibility of going again, Carr, a three year veteran of these tours, said, "Oh yes, no question. The more you go the more it gets into your blood. The Philippines is so open to the gospel; I can't think of a place that is more receptive right now. I just have to wonder whether or not the Lord is using this to direct me back there full time." Seeing the mission field up close in the way that the team saw it can only raise that question in all of their minds, at least every time they see a bowl of rice, an outdoor basketball court, and certainly a lined, orange ball made for bouncing and putting through hoops.

Roundballers prepare for 79-80 season

Optimism surrounds the pre-season practices as Coach Don Callan begins his 20th year at the helm of the Yellow Jackets. When quizzed about this year's roundballers Coach Callan gives a glowing rundown on returning and new players, but sobers at the mention of the loss of three steady seniors; Jerry Lantz, Mark Streitmater, and Captain John Potter. Center Dan Reep, who averaged 17.4 points per game and 7.8 rebounds per game, was also lost by reason of transfer. Callan states that these men were more than just basketball talents, they were spiritual leaders and a great asset to Cedarville College and its basketball program.

Returning players include Co-Captains

Eric Mounts and Kim Kauffman. Mounts, number two vote getter in District 22 N.A.I.A., led the Yellow Jackets in scoring with a 23.8 point per game scoring average. ERic was voted M.V.P. by his teammates as well as in two tournaments; Manchester and Marietta. Eric also led the M.O.C. in scoring and was voted by M.O.C. coaches as the J. Albert Turner award winner as the outstanding player of the M.O.C. The 6'3" guard is the most exciting player to come along for some time according to Callan, and is a sure bet for All-American honors.

Kim, a 6'6" senior, missed seven games and played many others on a bad knee, but managed to score 397 points for a 19.9 per game average. He also averaged 9.9

rebounds to lead the team in that department. Kim was named to the All Mid-Ohio Team and was honorable mention All District N.C.C.A.A.

Other starters returning are 6' senior Rick Hickman. Rick led the team in assists with 158. Drew Baker, the 6'2" freshman jumping jack led the Yellow Jackets in field goal percentage and shooting at 58.5 percent and he also led in free throws with an 81.0 percentage. Drew also averaged 12.7 points per game. Other returning letter winners are 5'10" senior Mike Allen, 6'3" junior Greg Greve, and 6'4" sophomore Mark Womack. Three J.V. players who will compete for spots on the varsity are: 6'6" Ted DeShields, 6'4" Scott Carr, and three sport man Larry Green, a 5'10" guard.

New prospects expected to add strength to Callan's squad include 5'11" transfer Curt Berger from Olney Jr. College in Illinois; 6'5" freshman, Dave Carr, a local product whose father Roy also attended Cedarville; 6'2" Steve Stewart from a three year starting role at Wheelersburg, Ohio; Brian Bentrude, a 6'3" all-stater from Utah; 6'5" Rick Canfield, who is married and 22 years old. Rick was a second team all-stater from Elyria West. Larry Gibbs, a 6'2" jumper from Kankakee, Illinois; and Bob Williams, a 6'3" three year starter from Wilmington's championship team, are also expected to compete for spots on the team.

Dayton Christian wins invitational

Dayton Christian managed to run away with all the honors at the second annual Christian High School Invitational, held here on September 8th. Ken Justice, a junior at Dayton, copped the top individual spot with a time of 13:58 for the 2½ mile course. Justice was followed to the finished by two of his teammates, John Rarick at 14:04 and Rick Cromwell at 14:06.

Indianapolis Baptist High School took the next two spots, with freshman Donny Snell taking fourth and Joe McDonald placing fifth, with times of 14:12 and 14:34.

Russell Best of Heritage Christian was sixth, beating out four Dayton runners who locked up the remaining four spots in the top ten, Reid Framton, Gary Jenkins, Ron Miller, and Carlton Jenkins.

Dayton took the team trophy for the day with a team score of 21. Second went to Indianapolis Baptist with a score of 54, followed by Calvary with 82, Heritage with 86, and Trinity with 154.

Forty-seven runners from six schools competed in this year's invitational, which was conducted by Yellow Jacket cross country coach Elvin King, assisted by members of the 1979 Yellow Jacket squad. Sonny Snell, last year's winner, with a time of 13:15, presented the trophy to Justice. Sonny is now competing for the Yellow Jacket team.

In addition to Dayton, Indianapolis, and Heritage, teams from Calvary Christian, Temple Christian, and Trinity Christian competed in the meet.

Field hockey team seeks to regain status

For the 1979 Cedarville Yellow Jacket field hockey team, the upcoming season will provide a chance to regain some of the status held in days gone by. After a number of winning seasons, last year's squad experienced "the agony of defeat" losing almost everything except their composure. While there were some bright spots during the course of the season, the season-ending record of 1-13 was not the kind of thing that a team wants to remember. Or repeat. That is one of the goals that the team will not have while they are practicing, starting September 17. Under the direction of second-year coach Becky Kuhn, the Yellow Jackets will be striving to rebuild the field hockey program into a winning concern.

The team will be playing 10 matches this season, which will determine whether or not they will qualify for the OAISW State Tournament, to be held on November 2-3. Most of the opponents for the Jackets will be coming from much larger schools, such as Miami, the University of Toledo, Kent State, and the University of Dayton.

Other competition will be provided from traditional rivals and new opponents alike, such as Marietta, Wooster, Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenberg, Otterbein and Muskingum.

The Yellow Jackets will open the season at home against Miami on September 29th. Other home matches will pit the Jackets against Ohio Wesleyan on October 9th, Kent State on October 18th, and Muskingum on October 22nd.

Volleyball team faces rough 1979 schedule

Coach June Kearney's spikers open the 1979 season with high hopes but a lot of questions as they look over the fall schedule, one of the roughest in many years. The Jacket coach reports that nine players from last year's roster are returning for another season, including senior Captain Brenda Hobar. Hobar was the 1978 squad's Most Valuable Player, and the team's leading hitter and blocker.

The greatest question in the minds of the coach and players is the effect of the AIAW's new format for tournament competition. Instead of having a small college and larger college division, the AIAW has gone to a three division format, with the divisions being formed according to school size and the amount of financial aid available to the women's team in each sport. Cedarville will be competing in Division III, which is for colleges awarding not more than 10% of that which is allowable by the AIAW.

While this new shift might seem to work toward Cedarville's advantage, Dr. Kearney was quick to point out that this still leaves schools such as Defiance, Ohio Northern, and Wittenberg as opponents. In addition, the AIAW is no longer allowing teams to qualify for the state tourney by record, but is conducting satellite tournaments in which only the top two teams will qualify. Cedarville is hosting one of these tournaments, and will have to face the toughest competition in the state. Dr. Kearney stated that the team that wins Cedarville's tourney on November 5 and 6 will be the favorite to take the state title. In that tourney, Cedarville will have to face Wilmington, Wittenberg, Bluffton, Defiance, and Ohio Northern. Coach Kearney said that both Defiance and O.N.U. will be tough to beat to gain a spot in the state competition.

The volleyballers reported to school on September 20th for workouts. The veterans who returned with Hobar include seniors Sue Riegle, Cathy Turner, Nancy Snook, and Landa Penquite. Jill Griswold returns as the squad's only junior, along with sophomores Darcy Morton, Terry Potter, and Jennifer Knecht. According to Kearney, 12 girls will be kept on the roster this year, meaning that the appearance of some solid freshmen prospects would make the competition fierce for spots on the squad.

The schedule this year includes matches with the University of Dayton, which was ranked 5th in the nation at the close of last year. Another tough opponent for the Jacket spikers will be Mount St. Joseph, always a volleyball powerhouse and a 2nd place finisher in last year's AIAW Regional Tournament.

For those who will be on campus for Homecoming, there will be an opportunity to see the Jackets in action on Friday, October 19, as Cedarville hosts a triangular match with Central State and Ohio Northern, which could well be a prelude for the satellite tourney in November.

This year also marks the first year without the existence of the Ohio Valley League. Cedarville, along with the other schools responsible for the league's origin, had benefited from the competition afforded by the league, but with the divisional set up now being used, the schools no longer needed the league as a means of generating competition. Coach Kearney said that she will miss the league, but that it had served its purpose in advancing the cause and the quality of women's athletics. Kearney pointed to the fact that the winner of the Ohio State tourney had almost always been an O.V.L. member.

Competition gets under way for the Yellow Jackets on October 2nd, with a three way match against Cincinnati Bible College and Kenyon College here. Until then, Coach Kearney and her squad will have their work cut out for them as they face a new season, a new division, and a schedule as tough as they could ask for.

Cedarville had a good shot at winning the title outright, but were tied by the Cavaliers after leading by two goals.

This year, McGillivray expects Walsh to be the Yellow Jackets' stiffest competition in the M.O.C., along with a vastly improved team from Malone.

In District 22 competition, the coach feels that the team has a good chance to repeat as champs, which would be the fourth such triumph in six years. The two teams in the division which could stop the Jackets from recapturing the title would be the Cavaliers or the Quakers of Wilmington College.

The season's first competition was scheduled on September 14-15 at the Geneva College tourney, with the Jackets scheduled to play Liberty Baptist in the first round. This was to be the first of a number of stiff matches against out-of-state teams, including Asbury (Ky.) and Earlham. Other top opponents include Ohio Wesleyan, Denison, University of Dayton, Wittenberg and Wright State.

Athletic Department seeks supporters for programs

The Athletic Department at Cedarville College is faced each year with a persistent and growing problem - how to compete with larger, richer schools in recruitment of Christian young men and women who wish to be involved in intercollegiate athletics. In a day when athletic grants seem to be sprouting up like weeds in secular and Christian colleges alike, Cedarville is striving to maintain a balanced, yet functional and competitive, athletic program. Thus far, the Yellow Jackets have been able to hold their own, affirming their belief that college athletics is not an end unto itself, but a part of the educational opportunity available at a Christian college.

However, Cedarville does see the importance of athletic grants-in-aid for those students who are in need of financial assistance in order to attend college. The college also seeks to provide a scholarship program for Christian young people who by their hard work and talent have achieved recognition as superior athletes.

Such a scholarship program is desirable. Present funding, however, does not allow for this program to be as fully developed as necessary. In order to remedy this situation, the Yellow Jacket Club was formed in 1978. This group seeks to aid the Athletic Department through contributions to the scholarship fund. But the work of the club goes much further, as Club members serve as scouts for the various coaches. When a Club member sees a potential Cedarville athlete, he will contact the Athletic Office, in order for the coaches to follow up.

Membership in the Yellow Jacket Club is a means of supporting the development of Christian young people through intercollegiate athletic competition. More than this, it allows for the growth and improvement of Cedarville's athletic program.

33 graduate during summer

Cedarville College graduated 33 students at summer commencement. This brought to 232 the number of 1979 graduates.

President Paul H. Dixon addressed the class and conferred the degrees.

In addition to regular commencement exercises McCrorey attended Airborne school this summer, and is now attending Officer Basic Training in Ft. Benning, Ga. He will go to Ft. Hood, Tex., where he will become a platoon leader in the Infantry company.

of Kenosha, Wisc., received a regular army commission. He received a degree in Business Administration from the college and was commissioned by Lt. Col. Alfred L. Keyes, professor of military science at Central State University, as a Lieutenant as a result of his ROTC studies at CSU.

'Design for Progress' set for Homecoming

Homecoming 1979 at Cedarville College will center around the theme "Design for Progress," according to Gary Kuhn, alumni coordinator.

Activities for the weekend will begin Friday, October 19, with class reunions for each five-year anniversary. The college musical will perform at 8 p.m., followed by an ice cream social for alumni, faculty and staff.

Alumni will stage the annual Road Run at 9 a.m. Saturday, October 20. The eight-mile course will begin on the Cedarville-Yellow Springs Road and will wind through the township.

Homecoming Parade will also occur in the morning. Rules are similar to last year, and classes and organizations are encouraged to begin work at once on their entries, said Myron Young-man, director of student activities.

Soccer matches are planned for Saturday. The junior varsity will face alumni at 11 a.m., while the varsity will battle Ohio Dominican at 2 p.m. Between the games, the Alumni Association will host the Alumni Awards Luncheon. In addition to the presentation of various honors, the luncheon will feature a full course meal.

At halftime of the varsity soccer match, President Paul Dixon will crown the 1979 Homecoming Queen.

Student Senate will sponsor two activities during the weekend. A pep rally is planned for Friday night. It will include introduction of the homecoming queen candidates. The weekend will conclude Saturday night with a homecoming wrap-up.

Business to offer new majors

With the opening of the fall quarter comes a new, larger business department.

Two new majors have been initiated into the present business program: computer science and secretarial science.

With these additions come many changes. One major change in the business department is its certified status for the Comprehensive Business Education major which includes typing and office procedures, general business and economics. Before the secretarial program was offered Cedarville could not have its business department certified, because no typing was taught.

Because of the new programs, three new teachers were hired.

These include one, full-time teacher, Groffery Phillips. He will teach all the accounting courses.

Two part-time teachers were also hired. Mrs. Kay Fanning will teach Secretarial Procedures and typing. Mrs. Deb Frye, a Cedarville graduate of 1973, will teach shorthand.

Due to the added majors there were a couple shifts in responsibility. For example, Ron Walker will work almost exclusively with computer science students.

Although the present staff does meet the needs of the college for the computer science program, a new teacher for that field is being sought for next year.

The Foreign Language Department at Cedarville College has embarked on another road for the advancement of the students.

Mark Larson, Spanish professor who replaced Miss Carmen Shirk, has begun paperwork for foreign language certification in Spanish. Once state certification is obtained, students can graduate from CC's foreign language program as fully certified teachers.

This could mean a great deal to the Spanish students, Dr. James Biddle explained. Little change, however, will be involved for the college. Although 45 hours of courses, nearly a major, are required for certification, Cedarville College will only need to add one class: Methods of Teaching Foreign Languages. According to Dr. Biddle, once this prerequisite is met and all the paper work is satisfactorily completed, certification is practically guaranteed.

The goal of the language department for receiving state certification is the end of this year.

Juniors this year will be able to receive certification with the addition of the methods course.

Walk-a-thon funds

Wondering where the Walk-a-thon money went? "Approximately $17,000 was spent to buy the ambulance," stated Carlton Birch, member of the Cedarville College Rescue Squad. This leaves $5900 for the second project, renovation of Alford Auditorium.

Keneth St. Clair, business manager, stated that the college plans to use the money to buy chairs for Alford. "We could get 350-400 nice padded folding chairs at approximately $15, a piece."

He explained that with folding chairs the auditorium could also be converted into a recreation room.

However, more money may be needed for the ambulance than expected. The ambulance does not fit in the present garage, which gives the college the option of enlarging the door or building a new garage.

St. Clair said that since maintenance was planning to build a 12-car garage just south of the service building this fall, the rescue squad could use this garage, at no extra cost.

If the rescue squad decides it needs the ambulance in their garage it would cost between $2000 and $3000 to enlarge the door.

Birch said that the rescue squad could enlarge the door with volunteer labor at cost, for only a fraction of the price. Carlton explained that the initial expense of the door would cost around $400. The squad would then enlarge the opening to fit the door.

Extension course

Cedarville College is offering its second extension course in Wilmington, Ohio this fall.

Under the instruction of Richard McIntosh, associate professor of Bible, this course is meeting each Saturday in September for six hours. Classes are being conducted at Second Baptist Tabernacle.

McIntosh explained that the course is designed for pastors, associate pastors and assistant pastors and is including study and discussion of major doctrines of theology.

Participants will receive three credit hours toward a degree from the college.

This extension course is the result of requests from approximately 20 pastors who participated in a similar class last year.

Salute to Summer attracts young guests

Four hundred young people from 45 churches participated in the three-day Salute to Summer at Cedarville College.

States represented in the July 5-7 event were Iowa, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and West Virginia.

Sponsored by the Admissions, Student Personnel and Christian Service offices, the weekend included a day long visit to Kings Island amusement park near Cincinnati.

Prospective students also participated in seminars presented by Bruce McDonald, former pro baseball player; Don Rickard, dean of students; and Harold Green, campus pastor.

College announces R.'A.'s P.A.'s

Cedarville College, with a new and excited staff, has opened its doors for another school year.

Among the newest members of the '79 Cedarville R.A. (Resident Advisor) staff are: Mrs. Howell, who will be responsible for the trailers and Printy Hall; Mrs. Karen Griffiths, advisor in Harriman and South Hall; Debra Hall, who will be in charge of both Patterson and Bethel; Craig Miller, who will be responsible for Williams; and Bob Couch, advisor for Palmer, Rogers, Marshall, Carr, and the trailers. Veteran R.A.'s include: Mrs. (Mom) Printy of Maddox Hall, Mrs. Street of Faith Hall and Bill Potter of Lawlor Hall.

Each of the R.A.'s must oversee and counsel students in his care. R.A.'s work closely with P.A.'s (Personnel Assistants).

A P.A.'s job consists of overseeing, counseling and encouraging each person in his unit. This position is much more closely associated with the students.

Each P.A. must be a Christian person who has the ability to relate to others, and who has a vital, daily relationship with the Lord. The P.A. is to be a model for the other students in attitude and action.

Composed of 52 members, this year's P.A. staff is the student arm of the faculty. Fifteen of the 52 are located in Maddox Hall. These include: Cathy Finemore, sophomore English major from Union, ME; Karen Grant, junior pre-law major from Fountain, CO; Cindy Heinrich, junior history major from Lafayette, IN; and Belinda Majors, junior Bible major from Spencerville, OH.

Also, Kathleen Mallare, junior pre-sem./psychology major from Jamestown, NY; Ruth Martin, senior Bible major from Grethel, NY; Ty Ann Minnich, sophomore el. ed. major from Bellefontaine, OH; Amy Jo Plaggemars, sophomore behavioral science major from Jenison, MI; and Terri Smart, sophomore chemistry major from Woodbridge, VA.

From Faith Hall come eight other P.A.'s including: Ginny Decker, senior English major from Forty Fort, PA; Crystal

Eaker, sophomore music major from Wilson, N.C.; Cindy Mackengie, sophomore music major from South Ostelic, NY; Donna Partridge, senior English major from Blasdell, NY; Janice Reu, senior el. ed. major from Villa Park, IL; Lisa Scaggs, business ad. major from Brookpark, OH; Lori Smart, sophomore behavioral science major from New Carlisle, OH; and Karen Wainwright, senior chemistry biology major from Roebing, NJ;

P.A.'s from Printy Hall are: Kim Henderson, senior el. ed. major from Haddon Heights, NJ; Sherry Levin, senior psychology major from Thornton, CO; and Karen Sewell, senior biology major from Lee's Summit, MO.

P.A.'s from Harriman are: Brenda Hobar, senior phys. ed. major from Grafton, OH; and Deborah Reid, senior behavioral science major from Romeo, MI. P.A.'s from Bethel are: Sarah Arthur, senior Bible major from Norwalk, OH; and Joyce Corathers, senior Bible major from Stow, OH.

science major from Trotwood, OH is the P.A. of Patterson.

Shawn Taylor, senior biology major from Preston, MD is the P.A. of South Hall.

Men P.A.'s for this year include: Dave Bergandine, senior chemistry major from Lakeland, FL; Craig Colas, senior chemistry major from Littleton, CO; Randy Strobridge, junior speech major from Cedarville, OH; and Carey Weaver, junior P.E./psychology major from Waterloo, IA, all in Lawlor.

P.A.'s from Williams are: Kenny Gaines, senior pre-sem. major from Willow Grove, PA; Dave Merkh, junior pre-sem. from Berlin, NJ; Mark Wells, sophomore history major from Flint, MI; and Tom Yates, senior pre-sem. major from Crawfordville, IN.

P.A.'s from Carr include: Gary Gromacki, senior pre-sem. major from Cedarville, OH; Steve Hayes, senior business ad. major from Brownsburg, IN; Kim Kauffman, senior pre-sem. major from Brownsburg, IN.

Carleton Birch, junior business major from Epsom, NH, is the P.A. at West Hall

Kent Graig, senior Bible major from Indianapolis, IN, is the P.A. for Palmer Apts.

Chapel speakers

Bobby Richardson, retired player of the New York Yankees, will be speaking in chapel Oct. 8.

He presently works in development at Ben Lippen School, a Christian high school in Ashville, N.C., and is also active with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. His career with the New York Yankees lasted 10½ years. During this time he played in seven World Series and was named to the American League All-Star Team seven times. Bobby retired from the Yankees at age 31.

He and his wife Betsy have three boys and two girls.

Subject of the thesis was "The Theology of the Evangelical Christians-Baptist in the USSR." He was awarded the degree with honor.

Dr. deChalondeau, a French born U.S. citizen, was saved at the age of 16. His wife Mary is from Chicago. They met in Minneapolis in 1948 as they were preparing to serve the Lord in France.

The deChalondeaus have ministered in church planting and Dr. deChalondeau is director of the new Pastoral Baptist Institute in Algrange, France.

Dr. deChanlendeau has made six trips behind the Iron Curtain, where he has had numerous opportunities to preach in secret meetings of believers.

On one of this trips he was arrested by the KGB, who had been tipped off by a spy among the Baptist believers. After going through Soviet Court he was released.

Computer system

A new computer system is due to arrive today to be installed in Collins Hall. William Riter, chairman of the business department, will work with management Decisions Development corporation of Fairfield, Ohio in Coordination installation of the equipment.

The system will provide computer processing for the business office, student records, admissions, financial aid and development.

"It should help tie the various offices together, and enable us to do some things we couldn't do without it," Riter acknowledged.

It will also save dollars, he said. Cost of the system and remodeled facilities is estimated to be $150,000. This will be offset by the $25,000 a year which the college has paid for outside computer services, Riter said.

Dr. Alexander deChalondeau, a missionary under Baptist Mid-Mission's behind the Iron Curtain, will speak in chapel Oct. 9-10.

He received a Th.D. from Northern Baptist Seminary and successfully defended his Ph.D. thesis at the University des Sciences Humaines of Strabourg, France.
