Cutting the costs of college

BY ELAINE SWARTWOOD

Would you like to be able to cut the costs of going to Cedarville College by up to five percent next year? Because of the plan co-operatively devised by Dr. Johnson and Ken St. Clair, the student will actually be able to save as much as $500 on his year's education expenses.

The costs per quarter for 1980-1981 are approximately as follows depending upon the credit hour load the student decides to carry: Tuition for 16 credit hours will be $800. Room will be raised to $260 and Board to $340. Other fees will amount to about $100. All of this comes to a total of about $1,500 per quarter.

Since the last increase in college costs, those that are listed above, was announced by President Dr. Dixon in chapel, many students have been trying to figure out where the extra $500 is going to come from. If it is possible for the student to meet the plan's requirements, he will not have to even consider $225 of that extra cost, because it will not be there.

This money-saving plan is appropriately called the Prepayment plan." According to Ken St. Clair. "This is a plan in which new students can prepay all of the first quarter and the second and the third if they would like too." As a result of the student's prepayment of the quarter or the year, whichever they prefer, he will receive a certain percentage of deduction from his college costs for that year.

When questioned about his usage of the term "new students, St. Clair explained that actually all students can participate in this new program, and the word "new" was used to indicate the idea that each student is new to the school year at some point of time. He did not refer only to new students in terms of their being entirely new on the Cedarville campus, but rather, all students in a "new" school year.

The actual plan allows for the following deductions: If a student pay for Autumn Quarter in full by June 1, July 1, August 1, or September 1, he will receive a discount of $50 (3 1/2%), $37.50 (2 1/2%), $25 (1 2/3%), or $12.50 (5/6%), respectively.

If the student is able to make payment for both Autumn Quarter and Winter Quarter, he will receive a $100 (3 1/3%), $87.50 (211/12%), $75 (2 1/2%), or $62.50 (21/10%) discount, depending on the date of payment - June 1, July 1, August 1, or

September 1.

Finally, if he can pay for the entire year before June 1, he will be given a $225 deduction which is equal to five percent of his college costs for the year; before July 1, he will be given a $200 discount, 44/9% of the year's costs; before August 1, $175, representing 38/9% of the year's costs; and if he pays in full before September 1, he will receive a $150 or 3 1/2% deduction from his college costs for the year.

This plan does not cover students who are fully supported by scholarships, grants, etc. Furthermore, "If a student received some student aid, lowering the price of his actual payment, the discount amount would [also] be decreased," as explains the recorded provisions for the plan that Dr. Johnson and Ken St. Clair have drawn up.

The discounts cited above represent an interest rate of twelve percent, the approximate amount that the college pays for a short term loan from the bank in the late summer months. (Actually, the eleven to twelve percent interest rate of the banks is a projected figure, not the actual rate.)

As a result of this plan, the student will be able to save money, but the college will also benefit from the program.

Ken St. Clair explained the rationale behind the institution of this program. During the summer months (June 30, the end of the accounting year, to October 1, the Autumn Quarter registration), the college has very little income, and no tuition income with which to meet the expenses incurred in the summer getting ready for the next academic year. This program would enable St. Clair to smooth out this lull in income and stabilize the rate of cash flow.

Under the present system, the end of September, March and the beginning of January are the times when most of the tuition monies come into the college; and the summer is virtually "dead" as far as income is concerned. This has resulted in the college's having to borrow money on a short term basis from the bank at times and having a surplus of money to be invested at other times.

With the expansion of the campus to include several new buildings and the addition of more and more students, the problem or irregular cash flow will be magnified many times over in the years to come. This is why a good cash flow is a necessity for Cedarville College now. It will be even more necessary in the years that will follow.

A student may ask, "What if I pay for Autumn Quarter or even the whole year, and then something comes up resulting in my not attending Cedarville College? Would I be able to get my money back? How much of it would I forfeit for withdrawing?"

This situation has been provided for in the plans that have been drawn up. Money will be COMPLETELY refunded.

Also, if the student must withdraw after the Autumn Quarter, having pre-paid for the entire year, he will receive a complete refund for the two remaining quarters.

"This same program would [also] apply to students who wish to enter some quarter other than the Autumn Quarter. A student unable to enroll in the Fall would receive a complete refund of the $100 reservation fee if a pre-payment has been made. Normally this deposit would not be refunded."

If many students would cooperate with the college in this program, the college would not have to borrow money from the bank, but would still be able to invest some of the money later. Basically, the idea behind the program is that the college would like to get the money in early so that they can invest it.

The college investments range from the required operating expenses to the lending of monies to Savings and Loan companies or banks in terms of 30, 60 or 90 days certificates of deposit.

LINDA GRAFTON

Grafton shakes first Lady's hand

Linda Grafton, a senior broadcasting major, claims an experience unique to other students on campus. Last January Linda traveled with two other students and Professor Wesley Baker to the National Religious Broadcasting Convention held in Washington, D.C. While there, Linda attended a White House reception held by Mrs. Rosalynn Carter for the first one hundred women to register for the convention.

Those attending the State Dining Room tea were given the opportunity for a personal introduction to the First Lady. Linda's overall impression of Mrs. Carter was that in spite of fatigue (this was Rosalynn's second tea of the morning) she was very gracious and friendly. After shaking Mrs. Carter's hand and chatting briefly with her, Linda preferred to watch rather than to participate in the hubbub surrounding the celebrity.

Lot sales meets with limited success

BY ELAINE SWARTWOOD

College Hill Park, one of the biggest potential moneymakers for the college, has experienced very limited "success."

Back in 1965, the college purchased a parcel of land composed of 68 acres of good farmland. Originally, the land was rented out to a farmer - Mr. Reese, the father of Pete Reese (a Cedarville College Basketball Star of the 60's), but, today, the lots are being sold in an effort to raise money.

At the outset, the lots were primarily for Faculty and Staff. Since all of the houses in Cedarville had been sold, this new area was to provide residences for the College employees enabling them to live close to their jobs.

This land has been divided into two sections. Covering an area of sixteen acres, the first section is divided into 32 building lots.

Each of these lots ranges in price from $10,200 for .29 acres to $16,900 for .83 acres, making the average price for a lot amount to $13,000. The average price per acre is about $28,950.

By the beginning of the year, Ken St. Clair, Lyle Anderson, and one non-college family had each purchased one of the building lots and built their homes there. But few have been sold since that time.

Soviets threaten world peace by their invasion

BY THOMAS PAYNE

Dr. Payne is Assistant Professor of Political Science at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Michigan. (c) Public Research, Syndicated, 1980.

What precisely is involved in the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan that makes it the gravest threat to peace since World War II, as the Carter administration has branded it? What has been "destabilized" in Zbigniew Brzezinski's "arc of crisis," an area stretching from Central Asia to northern and eastern Africa and containing both oil, Islamic revivalists and Marxist militants?

Because of the prevailing popular suspicion about foreign interventions, the public must have at least the outline of answers to these questions if it is to support stabilizing counter-measures and if it is to judge the adequacy of the measures proposed by the Administration for restoring stability.

From the Editor

Public transportation is becoming a greater asset as the price of gas climbs higher. A proposed Xenia-Wilberforce-Cedarville bus route is on the drawing board. Opening new opportunities the route would serve students for jobs, shopping, sightseeing, and etc.

Cedarville's inclusion in this route may be scrapped due to lack of interest. Philip Bass, director of the Greene County Transit board said he has received no formal request for the route from either Cedarville village officials or Cedarville College. He is recommending that the route be stopped at Wilberforce and consider Cedarville at a later date. It's a shame that we might have to wait for a second proposal because we failed to show interest in the first.

THE EDITOR

From a strategic point of view, Afghanistan is the Switzerland of Asia, although economically the two countries are quite different. Like Switzerland, Afghanistan is a mountainous country situated in the midst of very powerful neighbors, the Soviet Union to the north, China to the east, India to the south and Iran to the west. Like the Swiss, the Afghans are a linguistically and culturally diverse people, united by nothing so much as a desire to be independent of foreign rule. Therefore, because of its location, its mountains and the independence of its people, Afghanistan, like Switzerland, is both a cross-roads linking these nations and a mountain fortress standing in the way of their expansion.

However, when Afghanistan is conquered or otherwise controlled by one of its more powerful neighbors, the barrier fortress becomes a fortified forward base from which conquerors may descend upon their victims. It is for this reason that during the past one hundred and forty years, Czarist Russia, the British Empire in India and even the Iranians have struggled to control all or part of Afghanistan. Their failure to do so limited their ability to expand further in Asia.

In fact, the last conqueror to subdue Afghanistan was Genghis Khan, whose Mongol Hordes swept out of China and through central Asia to subdue Indian, Iran and Russia. Similarly, the last European conqueror to subjugate Switzerland was Napoleon, who also conquered Germany, Italy and the old Austro-Hungarian Empire.

In general then, the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan is destabilizing because it removes a barrier to Soviet expansionism while providing a base from which to put military pressure upon the Indian subcontinent and to increase pressure upon Iran. This pressure may be applied directly, by invasion or the threat of invasion, or indirectly, through the infiltration of guerrillas and terrorists to support dissident ethnic groups along the border.

Specifically, and in the present geopolitical context, the Soviet Union may take advantage of its occupation of Afghanistan in the following ways.

1. The Soviet acquisition of air bases in Afghanistan puts the entire Persian Gulf and the Straits of Hormuz — the entrance to the Gulf — within range of Soviet fighters. All the oil shipped from the Persian Gulf must pass through the Straits. Should the Soviet Union or a local power hostile to the West — say the Islamic Republic or Iran — attempt to close the Straits, the Soviet Union could send fighters to support the closing or to resist attempts by the U.S. Navy to reopen them.

2. The Soviet Union, Iran's northern neighbor and natural enemy, now has troops on Iran's eastern border as well. Iran's eastern border is her least defensible frontier. The once formidable army of the Shah was prepared to resist all the most massive of Soviet invasions over the northern border, but that army is now in shambles and menaced on two fronts — or perhaps three, if one considers Iraq's hostility. Soviet forces could easily be introduced into Iran on a scale small enough at first to avoid exciting a Western response.

Fewer low-income students apply for BEOG

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CPS) — Fewer low-income and more middle-income students are applying for Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG), and the College Board, in a study, attributes the trend to government anti-fraud campaigns that inadvertently eliminate eligible students from financial aid programs.

The study found that only 31 percent of the freshmen from families earning less than $15,000 per year have applied for financial aid, compared with 41 percent three years ago.

For the first time in history, students from families earning more than $15,000 accounted for a majority of BEOG applications this school year.

Lawrence Gladieux, the College Board's research director, says there's "no doubt" that the government's elaborate aid application procedures, established in 1978 to help prevent fraud, have reduced the number of low-income students who get aid.

Under the new procedures, apparently-contradictory answers on the long income verification forms are grounds for rejecting aid applications.

The College Board also found that a 75 percent "tax" on family contribution to college expenses has eliminated a possible 25,000 students from eligibility.

Final preparations made for musical

Opening night for the Cedarville College Village Players/MENC production of "The Sound of Music" is rapidly approaching and cast and crew are busily preparing for the musical.

Crews are adding finishing touches to the sets and finalizing lighting and staging details. The cast is working on perfecting individual gestures and lines, and the costume committee is finishing the outfits for the play. Rich Connors is working with the choral aspect of the musical while Mr. Pagnard is directing rehearsals of the twenty-seven member pit orchestra. Dress rehearsals (which begin May 5th), will comprise the final stage of preparation for the actual performance.

Director Rebecca Baker has been pleased with the cooperation, hard work and progress of all involved and does not anticipate any major problems in production.

Although many individuals are spending hours in preparation for the musical, the lead actors and actresses have a major responsibility and are naturally involved in more scenes. Freshman Cindy Ulmer as "Maria Rainer" and senior Phil Stoner as "Captain von Trapp" have put extra hours into private practice as well as regular rehearsals.

"The Sound of Music" will be performed in Alford Auditorium on May 8, 9 and 10, 1980. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. for evening performances and 2:00 for the Saturday matinee.

CAST PREPARES FOR BIG DAY.

Many ticket reservations have already been called in from Cedarville and the surrounding area. Tickets for the Friday performance are going fast, as predicted by Mrs. Baker. Ticket sales for Cedarville College students and college family begin May 1. Prices are as follows:

Cedarville College students $2.25, College faculty, staff & their families $2.25. Other adults $3.00; Children under twelve $1.50.

Students, faculty and staff may purchase tickets at the ticket office in Alford Auditorium weekdays between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Group formed to promote student awareness of Health Service

January of 1980 saw the formation of a new group on the Cedarville College campus known as the Student Awareness Committee. Begun by school nurse Betty Bertschinger, the group was formed as part of the solution for the identity crisis with which the Health Service suffers. The committee's purpose is to find new areas of service for the Health Service and to find which of the former services may be inadequate or inappropriate.

Members of the committee are Brenda Boley, Cheri DePew, Mark Leach, Kelly Kandal, Jill O'Neal, Shawn Taylor and Faith Williams. At present, the group is distributing survey forms to determine the overall student knowledge and appreciation of the Health Service.

It is hoped that the committee will carry over into next year. Any students desiring to know more about the Health Service are welcome to attend the meetings of the Student Awareness Committee. Schedules of the meetings can be obtained by contacting the Health Service.

Swordbearers bear their sword

When someone says "Swordbearers," what do you think of? Extension teams, traveling teams, or summer teams? Well, if you thought of any one of these three, you would be at least partially correct, because the Swordbearers ministry includes all three of these areas.

Swordbearers is an organization composed of Cedarville college students who are concerned about the local church. It began more than a decade ago and is still actively involved in ministering to local bodies of believers in many different ways.

The extension teams which are associated with Swordbearers consist of groups of students who travel to the same church week after week. At these churches they take part in canvassing, teaching Sunday school, performing special music, working with young people, and many other activities.

The churches to which these extension teams travel are within an hour to an hour and a half drive from Cedarville. This includes churches in the Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati, and Springfield areas.

Membership in these teams is basically on a volunteer basis. The grade point average of those wishing to have a part in this particular ministry are checked, but generally anyone who has a desire to serve in this way is encouraged to do so.

There are presently eight extension teams traveling to area churches every week. Leaders of these groups include Kent Craig, Kevin Grant, Alan Green, Chuch Hickey, Dave Merch, Chris Skjerli, and George Stephens.

Regular traveling teams are also an important part of Swordbearers. These teams travel to churches within a six to eight mile radius of Cedarville. At these churches the members of the teams participate in Saturday night youth rallies, teach Sunday school, join in rest home visitation, and take part in many other activities.

Members of the traveling teams are chosen in the fall through the process of auditioning. Those who are selected then participate in a 3-day retreat in Brownsburg, Indiana, where they are given extensive training to prepare them for their upcoming ministries.

This past year there have been three traveling teams led by Craig Colas, Tim Hoganson, and Floyd Stanfill. These teams have been working in churches on an average of every other weekend, and during spring break, they also had the opportunity to travel and serve in local churches.

Craig Colas' team traveled to Michigan and ministered to churches there.

Floyd Stanfill's team traveled to New Jersey and worked for a week at Hackensack Baptist Church. They not only participated in that church by doing such activities as providing the special music for special meetings, but they also worked with other churches in the area.

Tim Hoganson's team traveled to Laurinburg, North Carolina, where they assisted in the Stewartville Baptist Church and in other churches and schools

Wilcox competes in SIFE program

Cedarville College students were on hand in Akron to demonstrate their free enterprise campaign to judges of Ohio's Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE), competition. Cedarville junior Randy Wilcox, right, exhibits a film his team used to explain the free enterprise concept to area high school students. Frank Tully, left, of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, served as one of the competition judges. Fourteen colleges competed in the SIFE program, which is sponsored each year by The Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) to encourage students to realize and communicate the importance of the American free enterprise system. Top honors were awarded to the University of Akron and Findlay College who will represent Ohio at the National SIFE competition July 15 in Dallas, Texas.

Bechler to perform sacred piano concert

Paul Bechler, a former Cedarville College student, will perform a sacred piano concert on Friday evening, May 16, at 8:30 p.m. in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel. A national Talents for Christ winner in 1971, Bechler attended Cedarville during the 1971-72 school year before transferring to Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan. Having obtained his degree from that school, he now teaches in a Christian school in the Detroit area.

Bechler is known for his versatility at the piano, and is indeed an exceptional performer, having produced a sacred album. He is a personal friend of the DiCuirci family. The concert is open to all members of the college family and their guests.

Dr. Riggs hopes to write OT textbook

Doctor Jack Riggs of the Bible Department strives to produce students capable of leaving the classroom with the ability to handle the Word of God in whatever role in life they fill.

Professor Riggs has spent much of his own life pursuing higher education. The West Virginia native graduated from Taylor University in 1956 with a B.A. in history, followed by B.D. (Bachelor of Divinity) and Th.M. degrees from Grace Theological Seminary in 1959 and 1963. In 1968, he received his Th.D. from Dallas Theological Seminary.

Initially, Dr. Riggs intended to be a pastor. During his seminary preparation, Jack Riggs considered teaching but continued with his original plan of entering the ministry. However, in 1965 during his second pastorate, the young minister had Dr. Jeremiah of Cedarville College speak in his church for a week of special meetings. Jeremiah discussed with the questioning pastor his growing urge to get back into the classroom situation, counseling him to begin doctorate study in preparation for a teaching position.

Making his decision, Jack Riggs set out for Dallas. This was a step of faith on his part, for he was without promise of a job, and his wife was expecting their third child.

Professor Riggs came to Cedarville in 1967. In reflecting upon his first day as instructor, he reminisces, "It was the fulfillment of a dream. I didn't leave the ministry, I just had a change in the kind of ministry."

Another dream of Dr. Riggs involves writing. In the past he has published several works, including an adult Sunday School quarterly for Regular Baptist Press. In the future, he would like to publish an Old Testament Survey volume, much like the textbook Dr. Gromacki has prepared for his New Testament Survey class.

Dr. Riggs is a very busy man. On campus he advises the Married Students' Fellowship, in addition to participating on the MIS committee. Currently he is serving in his fifth interim as pastor of a Milford, Ohio church.

Dr. Riggs' wife, Joyce, is also involved in teaching. She is employed in Yellow Springs as a special education teacher for children with severe behavioral disorders. The Riggs' have three children: Elaine (a sophomore attending Cedarville college), Jeannine, and Melissa.

Dr. White introduces Dean Bates to CC

While she was growing up in Arkansas, Dean Pat Bates had one younger brother and two younger sisters with which to contend, but now it is her cocker spaniel, Honey, that keeps her on her toes.

After graduating from high school, Dean Bates went on to undergraduate school in Arkansas and majored in psychology. Her education was then continued at Xavier University in Cincinnati where she earned her master's degree in corrections.

After receiving her masters, Dean Bates spent the next seven years in Kentucky as a social worker in institutions for delinquents.

Although she was raised in a Christian family, Dean Bates was not saved until she was 27. Her conversion took place at the time that she was attending Calvary Baptist Church in Covington, Kentucky.

It was while she was attending Calvary Baptist that Dean Bates was introduced to Cedarville by Dr. Bob White, Cedarville's present Director of Admissions. Dr. White had gone to graduate school with Dean Bates and was a deacon at Calvary Baptist at that time.

Dean Bates had never heard of Cedarville before Dr. White mentioned it, and she obtained her first view of the campus when she came to talk with Dean Rickard. The Lord led and she shortly became Cedarville's Dean of Women.

Dean Bates' duties encompass anything concerning the women of Cedarville, including residence halls. She counsels and teaches a class in criminology as well.

Dean Bates said she never expected to take a position as Dean of Women. She planned to work in delinquent institutions all her life, but the Lord directed differently and brought her to Cedarville.

Dean Bates said that she is happy with her work, that it is different and fulfilling. She stated that one of the most enjoyable parts of her job is getting to know the women of Cedarville; she likes being able to share in others' lives.

Dean Bates seeks to use consistently Biblical principles in her work. She believes that the Bible holds the answer to the needs in every area of men's lives. She also stated that the application of Biblical principles in her life aids her in giving guidance to others.

Dean Bates is concerned about being a good model and being faithful in the little things, concerns which are certainly reflected in her work.

Soaking in the sun

BY TERRI SCHMIDT

Are you tired of that same old wintery white look? Then perhaps you ought to take up the habits of the Maddox courtyard gang and take advantage of the season's first rays of sun.

Before you rush out to cash in on this spectacular natural offer, however, there are a few factors that you might want to consider.

Did you know that too many people have been spending too much time in the sun? Seeking the benefits of a deep, dark tan, they have neglected to protect themselves against the harmful effects of the sun's ultra-violet rays.

What can you do to protect yourself from the sun's harmful rays yet still get that tan look? There are several sensible rules which you can follow to safely achieve your goal.

First of all, you will especially want to be careful during your first two to three days out in the sun. This is a critical point because when you first begin to tan, your skin has no protection whatsoever against the sun's ultra-violet rays.

Trying to rush the tanning process will only result in a bad burn and a violation of the first rule of sense—avoid getting burned.

Sunburns are not only painful, but they also increase the risk of skin cancer in later years. You may not feel any immediate effects besides the agony of the burn, but the harmful effects of the sun do accumulate over the years.

Secondly, when seeking a tan, you should watch the time and the place. The worst time of the day to sun bathe is from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. because that is when the sun's burning rays are strongest. The location, too, is a factor due to the intensity of the exposure to which you subject yourself.

Yet another sensible rule to consider when you are after that tan look is to use a good sunscreen. Check the labels on the lotions that you are using to see if they are giving you the protection which they should.

Unsafe and ineffective sunscreen ingredients include the following: 2 ethylhexyl 4-phenylbenzophenone-2-carboxylic acid; 3-(4-methylbenzylidene)-camphor; sodium 3, 4-dimethylphenylglyoxylate.

Another item which is sometimes listed on suntan lotions which helps to determine their effectiveness is the SPF or Sun Protection Factor. A product's SPF indicates its strength as a sunscreen. It lets you know how much longer you can stay in the sun without getting burned.

Sunscreens are placed on a scale from 2 to 15 according to their SPF. A rating of 2 indicates that a product affords minimal protection with a lot of tanning while a lotion rated in the 15 category gives ultra protection but allows no tanning.

Concerning other categories on the SPF rating scale, a rating of 4 offers moderate protection with some tanning; a rating of 6 affords extra protection with limited tanning; and products rated in the 8 to 15 category give maximum protection with little or no tanning.

When using a sunscreen, remember to put it on 15 to 30 minutes before going out in the sun. Do not forget to reapply your suntan lotion regularly throughout the day, too—especially when you are swimming.

Practices such as these will insure not only a tan look but a healthy look as well.

Where have all the alumni gone?

MARK MORLEY

Where do I go from here? This perplexing question confronts scores of college students as they near graduation and prepare to enter the "real world." For Cedarville College graduates this adventure has led to a wide variety of careers and occupations.

A survey of Cedarville alumni from the years 1969-1979 produced a wealth of information on these graduates and their current occupations. After compiling the data received from the survey participants, the following statistics were revealed:

- Of more recent graduates (1977-79), nearly 70 percent reported that their Cedarville majors played a crucial part in getting into their present occupations.

- 27 per cent from the 1977-79 group said that they either had been or were now enrolled in graduate school.

- Among graduates from 1977-79, almost 38 per cent are presently employed as teachers or school administrators. Nearly 10 per cent are involved in

Women's softball hits winning season Women's tennis

Although rain cancelled several games of the beginning of the season, the Women's Softball team has finally been able to compile an 8-4 record. Victories for the season include Marietta (9-1, 12-0); Central State (19-5, 12-0) in five and six innings respectively; and Thomas More by forfeit. The Cedarville players split doubleheaders to Bluffton (8-3, 0-6); and Ashland (4-1, 1-13). Defeats were meted out by Capital (4-6) and Baldwin-Wallace (3-11).

Coach June Kearney commented that the team is progressing well, but the inexperience of the young team shows, especially in hitting. They are still several games from the state tournament and hope to gain the needed experience by then.

Leading the statistics in hitting, Susie Riegle has 17 hits to her credit for a .500 batting average, Val Whistler has 15 hits, a .469 average, and Barb Vinson has 13 hits with 12 RBI's. Vicki Butler and Sue Kulp have 12 hits apiece, each with batting averages above .400.

Jackets capture moc title

Cedarville remained undefeated in the Mid Ohio Conference by winning the MOC tennis title on April 25-26.

All six of the Jackets singles won their matches. Curt Berger was extremely strong winning 6-0, 6-0. The doubles teams also defeated their opponents in three straight matches.

Cedarville won the title with 45 points. Walsh finished second in the tournament with 15 points. Mount Vernon and Malone College finished third and fourth respectively.

On April 14, Cedarville defeated Wilberforce 9-0 at Central State University.

All of the singles matches were impressive by the fact that no match went over two sets, and no player gave up more than two games.

This match enabled coach Murray Murdoch to use all twelve members of the team.

Cedarville again won 9-0 on April 18 defeating Central State University. Doug Wiseman, who holds the number one position on the team, raised his record to 8-3 in overall play.

John Snoke and Dan DeLancey won strong victories defeating their Central State opponents 6-1, 6-1, and 6-0, 6-0 respectively.

Two new combinations were tested in the doubles matches. John and Dan DeLancey paired up to win 6-0, 6-1, and the tandem of Curt Berger, Dale Schaeferle won 6-0, 6-2 over their Central State doubles opponents.

The 1980 varsity baseball season has been hampered with inclement weather thus far as the team supports a 12-11 record. The Jackets post a 4-6 win-loss record in the Mid Ohio Conference.

Ron Hobar leads the team in hitting with a .408 percentage.

Sophomore Ed Stewart leads the Jackets in home runs with four, and is followed by his brother Al who has connected for three long balls thus far.

Ed Stewart also leads the team in runs batted in, and is followed by Greg Greve. Ed has accounted for 22 RBIs and Greg has driven in 19.

Marty Divine has shown excellent production at the plate this season. Marty is batting .392 with four doubles, nine triples, and he has batted in 11 runs. Marty has also hit one home run.

Mark Matthews has been the pitching ace for the Jackets in the 1980 season. Mark posts a 4-2 win-loss record. He also holds a trim 2.70 earned run average. Mark has given up only seven extra-base hits this season.

The Yellow Jackets defeated both Bluffton College and Sierra Heights in a tri-match on April 19.

Sierra Heights presented a stiff challenge in defeating three CC players in singles matches. Cedarville came from behind, however, winning two of the three doubles matches to secure a 5-4 team victory.

The Jackets won the second half of the Sierra Heights tri-match by defeating Bluffton 8-1.

John DeLancey won a very encouraging and impressive match after defeating a leg injury which has hampered him throughout most of the 1980 season.

Cedarville won the tri-match with 13 points. Sierra Heights followed in second place with 11 points and Bluffton finished third.

faces tough season

With the last match completed before the Satellite Tourney, the Women's Tennis Team had compiled a season record of three wins and six losses.

Two home matches April 28-29 resulted in a 5-4 victory over Central State and 3-6 loss to Otterbein. In the Central State contest, #2 Patty Harding, #4 Cathy Boyd, #Shawn Taylor, and #6 Colene Fox all had singles victories, and #3 doubles Cathy Boyd/Nancy Oscar chalked up a win as well. Against Otterbein, Boyd, Fox and Boyd/Oscar were victorious.

In a rescheduled match against Ohio Northern April 23, the Cedarville women lost by a narrow 4-5 margin. Individual victories were earned by #4 singles Cheryl McMillan (6-3, 5-7, 6-2); #5 Cathy Boyd (6-7, 6-3, 6-3); and #6 Colene Fox (7-6, 6-3). Oscar/Boyd won another doubles match (7-5, 2-6, 6-2).

Results of other matches were: Wittenberg, 1-8; Wilmington, 9-0, and Wright State, 2-7.

Golf team seeks moc title

The Cedarville College Golf Team swung into a third place finish in the Malone Invitational April 25. The Cedarville golfers tallied 305 points with a 76.3 stroke average, behind Malone's 294 score and one point behind Lakeland Community at 304.

During this season the Cedarville team has defeated Rio Grande, Wilmington on two separate occasions, and Urbana by forfeit. Losses were suffered in competition with Walsh, Sinclair and Tiffin.

In reference their 4-3 record, Coach Allen Monroe commented that the team is stronger than the record indicates, as Cedarville has defeated every team in the MOC at least once. Looking ahead to the MOC Conference and District 22 competition, he believes the title and trip to nationals is up for grabs. Although Malone appears to be the toughest competitor at present, any of the teams, including Cedarville, have a chance to win.

After six matches, Mark Womach led the team average with 78.0 strokes per game closely followed by Brian Johnson at 78.3 and Jim Baldwin with a 79.2 stroke per game average. The top six is completed by Mark Brandt, Ken Gentzler and Doug Bauer.

Peters qualifies for NAIA Nationals

With only tournament competition ahead, the CC Track Team finished three final regular season meets with some strong showings and hopes of doing well in Conference, District and National Meets.

In the Cedarville Relays April 15, the Jackets finished second of six teams with 69 points. Anderson took top rank with 74 points. First-place medalists for Cedarville were Tom Seymour, high hurdles; Dave Treese, steeplechase; Mark Peters, 100 meters; Dave Averill, 800 meter run; and the 880 one-mile and four-mile relay teams.

At the Marshall Invitational April 19 twelve teams were present with scoring for individuals only. Mark Peters placed fourth in the pole vault, the mile relay team placed fifth, and the 440 relay team placed sixth.

The previously rained-out contest with Wittenberg was rescheduled for April 22. Mark Peters vaulted 15½ feet to qualify for NAIA Nationals. Other first place medals were earned by Tom Yater, steeplechase; Tom Seymour, javeline; Mark Bubel, 400 meters; Jon Selden, 800 meters; Dale Shaw, 5000 meters; and Peters again in the triple jump. The team victory was undecided until the final event, the mile relay. The Wittenberg team took the event by 1.2 seconds, and Wittenberg won the meet, with 81½ points to Cedarville's 72½ points.

In the Hillsdale Invitational, CC placed fifth of nine teams with one first place finish in the shuttle hurdle relay.

Theological insights

BY DAVID JAMES SUGG

In previous columns we have dealt with several aspects of unity as it relates to the Christian. Thus far we have seen that this unity is primarily a doctrinal unity, and a cognitive unity. There remains one important facet that needs to be addressed, this is the place of love in unity.

Throughout the New Testament Christians are exhorted over and over to love one another. The Christian life should have as its primary attribute the practice of love. This love is not to be restricted just to those who are in the body of Christ, rather it must extend to all men, even to those who despise and abuse us. Love is the radical element that sets the Christian apart from the rest of society.

In Colossians three, Paul speaks about this aspect of love as it relates to unity. Starting in verse twelve and continuing through chapter four and verse six, Paul delineates many basic ways in which the Christian can "put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness." Paul prefaces these remarks by reminding those at Colosse that they are saved not by their merits, but by the election of God. This brings all men to the same level, for no one can claim that God saved him on the basis of inherent merit. Salvation is solely of God, therefore pride in salvation cannot be accepted by the Christian, for he had nothing to do with it.

business, while 7 per cent are in Christian service.

- Of all Elementary Education majors from 1974-78 who returned data, nearly half are currently employed in Christian schools. This represents a dramatic increase over graduates from 1963-73 of which 17 per cent now teach in Christian schools. From the same group of 1974-78 graduates, over 21 per cent are now teaching in public or private schools.

- In regard to Secondary Education majors, over 38 per cent from the 1974-78 group now teach in Christian schools, while 17 per cent are employed in public or private schools.

- Among Bible majors from 1974-78 who reported, 27 per cent are involved in vocational Christian work, while 17 per cent are in business and 14 per cent are still attending seminary.

In light of the great diversity of careers represented among Cedarville alumni, a few stand out as being in occupations of particular novelty or notoriety.

Cedarville alumnus Tim Timmons is the author of several books and is a counselor in various Family Life Seminars. Mrs. John Speed Harvey holds the distinguished title of poet laureate of the state of West Virginia. The head coach of the University of Dayton women's basketball team, which recently captured the national championship in NCAA Division II, is Dr. Maryalyce Jeremiah.

Many alumni find themselves in positions of administration or leadership. Graduates Rick Frost and Bill Pierson are administrators for Baptist Mid-Missions and the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism, respectively. Joe Weah serves as a pastor and Christian school director in Liberia, while Arnie Fruchtembaum is the president of a Jewish mission agency.

Some alumni have chosen to begin their own businesses. Locally Stan Ceevers and Ty Bryand are co-owners of New Life Media, an audio-visual multimedia production company which works extensively with Cedarville College. Elton Acter is the owner of a realty company, and Mel Entingh is founder and owner of the Entingh Water Conditioning company in

Christians exhorted to love one another

After showing this common element of unity in all Christians, Paul then develops the concept of how we ought to relate to one another. Paul states: "Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meedness, longsuffering: Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye."

Paul continually returns in this passage to the common unity that we have as Christians, in the Lord. One of the prime marks that should be evident in the Christian community should be that of the love-bond of unity, and in this passage, Paul tells how this love-bond should be manifested. It is interesting to compare these manifestations with the fruits of the Spirit that are discussed in Galations five; for the lists are strikingly similar. This provides the tie to one vital element of live in unity, that is helping one another, as seen in Galations six.

In Galations 6:1, Paul states the principle that if a fellow Christian falls into sin, it is the duty of those who are spiritual to go to that one and lift him up. One is not to lift him up to throw him out, but rather, he is to be lifted up and back into fellowship. In our modern enlightened minds, we see such tremendous benefit in systematically killing off our wounded brother and sisters in Christ, rather than trying to lift them back into fellowship. It seems strange that dueling (at least it has remained verbal) has become the most popular form of Christian entertainment. Truly we are living in a spirit of unity and love, showing care and consideration for our fellow brothers and sisters in Christ.

What are we to do when someone falls into sin, or into wrong doctrine (which also is sin)? The first thing to do is to remember that you are no better than he, and that you too could easily fall into such error. (Don't believe it? See Gal. 6:1). Secondly, remember that you are all saved not of your own merit, but by the merits of Jesus Christ only, so come down off your ivory tower and get involved in the person's life, rather than sitting by and talking about how terrible his sin is.

Lynchburg, Virginia, to work in the Timberlake Baptist Church there.

All of the traveling teams will be concluding their ministries on May 17th and 18th.

Yet another branch of Swordbearers is the summer team. Members of this team include John DeLancey, Dann Green, Julie Hutchins, Kirk Keller, Patty Maloney, Brian Miller, Lisa Ramsey, Sharon Rawson, Karen Sewell, Keith Willhite, and Randy Wilson.

These students were also chosen by auditions. The auditions were held in January, and the final selection of team members was made in February.

The Summer Swordbearers met infrequently during winter quarter but have begun intensive rehearsals with the advent of spring quarter. Their first performance will take place during the weekend of May 24th and 25th.

The team will begin its summer travels on Wednesday, June 11th, and will return to Cedarville on August 24th. The days between the end of spring quarter and the beginning of their trip will be used to polish up their program.

Thirdly, keep the matter between you and the individual. Paul does not tell us to go to the church if a brother falls into sin, but rather we are to go to the brother himself, and talk to him. There is nothing that you can do to change the person's heart, nothing except being a faithful witness of the true gospel of Christ. We are saved by God only, and we are kept in the faith by God only, so don't play "junior-holy-spirit." He can do the job much better than you can. Lastly, remember to keep your speech "with grace, seasoned with salt" (Col. 4:6), keep the salt in your speech, and out of your brother's wounds.

Tradition states that in his last days, while at Ephesus, the Apostle John would tell his brothers nothing but to love one another. Perhaps the lesson needs to be learned once again today, when the church seems intent on self-annihilation rather than the exultation of Christ.

The 1980 Summer Swordbearers will begin their travels in the mid-eastern region of the United States. Their activities here will include stops at churches in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and a week of camp at Skyview Ranch.

The team will then travel to Arkansas for a week of firsts. They will be the first team at Camp Hosanna, the first GARBC camp in Arkansas, during its first year of operation.

The Summer Swordbearers will spend two weeks at Camp Hosanna counseling, conducting services, life-guarding, directing crafts, etc. In short, they will practically make up the entire camp staff.

From Arkansas, the team will move on to Ottawa, Kansas, where they will spend a week at Amazing Grace Baptist Camp.

Their journey will then take them to various churches in Kansas and Colorado, and they will spend a week in Denver before moving on through Nebraska and Iowa.

The final weeks of the Summer Swordbearers' trip will include stops at Camp Patmos and various Ohio churches, and then they will return to Cedarville for a much needed and well deserved rest.

A final ministry of Swordbearers is the canvassing team. John Harvey is the leader of this group and heads up any door-to-door efforts.

Four Oaks plans Special Olympics

On Saturday, May 17, 1980, Four Oaks School will sponsor a Special Olympic meet at Beaver Creek High School Field House, 2940 Dayton-Xenia Rd., Beaver Creek, OH. This sanctioned meet is for students, aged 8-21, who are multiply handicapped.

Students from Greene, Montgomery, Miami, Clinton, Warren, and Fayette Counties are being invited to participate. Athletic competitions will include the 15 yard creep, wheelchair races, assisted walk, and beanbag throws.

Special Olympics is an international athletic & recreational program for mentally retarded children and adults, so-sponsored by The Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation. Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver is the president of the International Special Olympic organization.

The primary purpose of Special Olympics is to improve the self-confidence of all participants. The general public is invited to attend the competitions on that day. There will be no admission charge.

Dayton.

Several Cedarville graduates have chosen careers which require special skills or which offer a unique flair. For example, Art Schuter works as a piano tuner, while alumnus Wayne Dickason has become a qualified plastic surgeon after seeking further education. Filling the role of veterinarian is Val Roloff, and among the corps of missionary pilots is Cliff Jensen. Managing the business affairs of a carrot factory is graduate John Rooke.

It can indeed be said that Cedarville graduates are leaving their mark in the world today. This goes to show that among such a diversity of skills and talents, Cedarville College alumni serve the Lord in a broad range of occupations.

Another non-college family bought a lot and erected a home during this year. Also, Dick Torrence of Christian Service and Dick Bowersox have both purchased a building lot.

At the present, there are four buildings constructed in the Park with two more on the way. Currently, Dick Torrence's house is under construction, while the building of Bowersox's house is still in the future.

Ken St. Clair explained that the reason for the extreme slowness of the lot sales is that the economy is very bad. He added further that few people anywhere are buying houses; again, it is due to the economy.

The money that is made from the selling of these lots goes into the endowment fund. This means that the money is invested in stocks and bonds so as to gain interest which will then be used by the college.

Once the endowment fund gets sufficiently large, usually around three million dollars for a school the size of Cedarville College, the excess money will spill over into the general fund, thus lowering the students' costs. This is not the case presently, due to an inadequate endowment fund of only 1/2 million dollars.

This single-family, residential development itself is a very exclusive one. Homes, averaging about $100,000 in worth, are the type characteristic of this area. In fact, each home is REQUIRED to be built with a two car garage affixed to it.

Many restrictions are placed upon each lot owner that will ensure the future respectability of this little village. A few examples of the restrictions are as follows: no temporary housing vehicles may be used on the lots; boats, trucks, trailers, and motor homes cannot be stored outside of the residential buildings.

No animals except for dogs and cats are allowed; all garbage cans must be kept out of sight; no nuisance, advertising signs can be erected; and if a person wants to build on to his present dwelling, he must submit the plans to the Grantor for approval first.
