Inspiring Greatness

CEDARVILLE

UNIVERSITY®

"Real-World Impact: Unafraid and Unashamed"

This chapel theme from the 2010–11 academic year describes not only our students, but also where Cedarville stands looking to the future.

Cedarville students take full advantage of the broad range of academics, ministries, and programs we offer. They don't always know where God will call them to serve, but they do know they want their lives to make a difference. What a privilege it is for us, as educators, to help them discover His will for their lives!

And what a ministry you have, as investors, supporting this endeavor with your faithful prayer and generous giving. Their opportunities are broader, debt loads are lighter, and futures are brighter because you give.

This fall, we welcomed back more than 3,300 students to campus, our largest student body yet. Their energy and optimism is contagious. They can't wait to see what God will do in their lives this year.

He is at work, accomplishing mighty things in and through His people. Thank you for investing your resources in our students so they can make a real-world impact for Christ.

President

For God did not give us a spirit of timidity, but a spirit of power, of love and of self-discipline. So do not be ashamed to testify about our Lord ... 2 Timothy 1:7-8a

Inspiring Greatness

Cedarville University is a Christ-centered learning community equipping students for lifelong leadership and service through an education marked by excellence and grounded in biblical truth.

Your Investment

Your giving makes a difference for the students, programs, facilities, and future of Cedarville University. With your generous support, we closed our 2010–11 fiscal year with a balanced budget, our 34th consecutive year to do so.

Due to your faithfulness in supporting what God is doing at Cedarville, we've experienced increased giving over the past few years. Thank you for your investment!

Rigorous Academics

Cedarville students do not sacrifice academic quality by choosing a Christian University.

Being wholeheartedly Christ-centered drives us to pursue academic excellence at the highest level. Compare our students and their achievements with those of any institution in the nation, and the results speak for themselves:

- Six-time world champion: Solar Splash (an international solar-powered boating competition for engineering teams)
- Second-place distinguished delegation: National Model U.N. Conference (2,000 student delegates and 200 universities from five continents participated)
- First-place team: National Religious Broadcasters Audio Challenge (36 hours to conceptualize, script, edit, and mix their award-winning entry)
- Top undergraduate paper awards: Evangelical Theological Society and Evangelical Philosophical Society (professional and academic societies for biblical scholars, teachers, pastors, and students)

It's no wonder Cedarville University consistently ranks among the top Midwest colleges in U.S. News & World Report and The Princeton Review.

A Cedarville education equips students to accomplish their professional goals and so much more.

“ We worked on everything from propeller design and fabrication to testing electrical components and batteries. I was able to see how everything we did throughout the year contributed to our success at competition. ”

Tyler Smidt '11, Solar Splash team captain
Mechanical Engineering
Springville, Alabama

Tyler is using his engineering education as an officer in the U.S. Navy.

Students from the Elmer W. Engstrom Department of Engineering and Computer Science brought home a record sixth win in the Solar Splash World Championship. In this hands-on competition, students teach themselves about their own aspects of the project. Cedarville's team won first place in four events as well as the sportsmanship award.

Christ-Centered

When you step onto Cedarville's campus, you will sense the difference. Just watch the students as they walk to class, stand in line at the dining hall, or bow their heads in prayer during chapel. Our love for God and unwavering commitment to Scripture define who we are and shape everything we do.

Distinctly Cedarville:

- We are one of a few universities to hold a daily chapel.
- More than 100 ministry teams serve local churches, schools, social agencies, inner-city outreaches, and area programs.
- One-third of our students are involved in discipleship ministries.
- Two-thirds of our students participate in missions or ministry at Cedarville.
- All students graduate with a Bible minor in addition to their bachelor's degree.

Cedarville's student chapter of Women of Vision sponsored Soup for the Soul, an event designed to involve students with pressing global concerns. Members of the community and the University family donated soup, and all proceeds went to help World Vision provide mosquito nets for communities in Africa to combat malaria.

“ We hope this event encouraged those who attended to look for ways they can make a real difference in someone else's life — not just for an unknown villager in Africa who will receive a net, but also for someone in the local community who may have equally urgent needs. ”

Balanced Approach

Our students are marked by their desire to integrate their professional goals with ministry objectives. They are drawn to Cedarville because we provide a balanced education that develops the whole student, both inside and outside the classroom.

As a junior, Joanna (Pyles) Flack '11 joined five other nursing students on a trip of love and redemption. The team prepared to serve in Manzini, Swaziland, an African country nestled between South Africa and Mozambique where HIV and poverty are commonplace.

Dr. Harry '96 and Echo (Tuinstra) VanderWal '98, leaders with The Luke Commission, hosted the team and provided orientation for what they could expect during their month-long visit. Once they were adequately prepared, the students traveled across the country serving hundreds of patients at temporary health clinics.

Joanna and her team assisted with HIV testing, blood pressure and glucose screening, drawing blood, starting IVs, cleaning wounds, giving eye exams, building wheelchairs, and checking children for common diseases. These daily interactions with patients provided opportunities to share the Gospel and pray with Swazi people.

Beyond their experience in field clinics, students spent time working at the national hospital, where they assisted with baby deliveries and worked in the pediatric unit, emergency room, and female medical ward.

This valuable experience had a profound influence on Joanna's education and career goals. "Many nursing students are preparing for careers in a traditional hospital setting, but this experience broadened my perspective on what I could do with my nursing degree to meet health care needs worldwide," she said. "It was inspiring to work with Cedarville graduates who have taken risks and steps of faith to realize God's plan for their lives."

Joanna's husband is in the Air Force, so she anticipates that she will be adapting her life and her profession as they relocate throughout his career. "My experience in Swaziland showed me unique ways to use my nursing education," Joanna said. "That's what the profession needs — people thinking creatively to reach people who are desperately sick."

Opportunities for international ministry and study abroad complement the on-campus educational experience for students like Joanna (Pyles) Flack '11.

We are grateful for our partners who support Cedarville in a variety of ways:

Gift Planning and Endowment

A long-term investment providing the foundation for the Cedarville experience

Once invested, the gift earns interest used either as income for the donors during their lifetime or as a scholarship for students. Bequests are ideal for donors without immediate access to their assets who desire to plan their charitable intentions for the future.

Cedarville Fund

Programs: An annual investment in the distinctive programs that make up the Cedarville experience

Support academics, chapel, Christian ministries, student life ... everything it takes to operate day to day, year to year.

Scholarships: An annual investment to keep the Cedarville experience accessible

These funds are awarded by financial aid for qualified students with additional financial need.

Donor-Funded Scholarships

A personal investment in an individual student's Cedarville experience

Donors can name their scholarship and choose to benefit students in a specific major, life circumstance, ethnicity, hometown, etc. Named scholarships can be endowed or annually funded.

Academics

A timely investment in the heart of Cedarville's mission

A Cedarville education is marked by excellence and grounded in biblical truth. Supporting a specific academic area advances opportunities for students and faculty in their field.

Capital Campaigns

A practical investment in the unique environment where the Cedarville experience takes place

Thanks to the generosity of many individuals, Cedarville is blessed to have quality facilities that match the excellence of our programs.

Yellow Jacket Athletics

An athletic investment in students who represent Christ on the field and on the court

Yellow Jacket Club members may designate gifts for equipment, special projects, and financial aid for academically qualified athletes and athletic training students.

Missions Involvement Services

A life-changing investment that allows students to explore short-term missions

These experiences deepen students' perspectives about their world when they experience global missions firsthand.
