Athletic Training
Evan Hellwig	Clinical Instructor Educator Seminar
Evan Hellwig	2005 Athletic Training Educator's Conference
Evan Hellwig	Applied Techniques of Manual Therapy Seminar
Evan Hellwig	Capital City Sports Medicine Symposium
Evan Hellwig	Evidence-Based Medicine Summit
Robert Duchardt	2006 OATA State Meeting and Symposium
Christopher Cross	2006 OATA State Meeting and Symposium
Program Director	Underwent 10 hours of training to become a clinical instruction educator
ATC	Required to complete 80 contact hours of approved continuing education every three years in order to maintain BOC credential
ATC	Required to complete 60 contact hours of approved continuing education every two years in order to maintain Ohio license
ATC	Being financially assisted while in pursuit of an M.Ed.
Biblical Education
	Release time for dissertations and two recent sabbaticals
Business Administration
	Availability of summer grants (both at the University and department level) has been instrumental in encouraging successful research leading to both presentations and publications.
	Appropriate release time to pursue more scholarly activities
	Support for conference attendance and professional development
	Houses The Journal of Biblical Integration in Business (the premier journal for issues of biblical integration in business) with the editor a Cedarville University employee
	Several members of the journal's editorial board are Cedarville faculty.
Communication Arts
	Faculty members are encouraged to attend professional conferences to interact with other scholars and teachers in the field.
Foundations of Speech Coordinator	Regularly attends conferences to interact with others in similar roles (maintaining the basic courses in communication in their respective universities)
	Financial support for speech seminars and therapy certification
Education
	Faculty members are encouraged to belong to professional organizations and to attend their conferences.
	Faculty members are encouraged to be presenters and seminar leaders at professional development conferences such as regional ACSI teacher conferences.
	Preparation to be a presenter promotes research and study on the part of our faculty.
Engineering
	Annually budgets $600 per faculty member for conference attendance
Vicky Fang	Attended the Frontiers In Engineering Conference (FIE) in 2005
Vicky Fang	Member of IEEE, ASEE, and SWE
Clint Kohl	Faculty Excellence in Teaching Award from the Southwestern Ohio Council for Higher Education (2004)
Dave Gallagher	Member of IEEE, the IEEE Computer Society, and the Association for Computing Machinery
Keith Shomper	Member of both the IEEE and the Association for Computing Machinery
Gerald Brown	Attended two conferences sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS)
Robert Laramore	Attended the NSF Workshop on "Teaching the First Course in Power Systems"
Samuel SanGregory	In January 2005, his membership status in IEEE was upgraded to Senior Member.
Samuel SanGregory	Attended the Electrical and Computer Engineering Department Heads Annual Meetings in 2005 and 2006
Samuel SanGregory	Actively involved in research and design work for the U.S. Air Force
D. Jeff Shortt	Attended the annual ASEE in 2006
D. Jeff Shortt	Worked with Government Testing Services LLC in the summer of 2005
Timothy R. Tuinstra	Advised students in 2005-2006 academic school year in autonomous ground robot team
Exercise &amp; Sport Science
	Attending and in some instances presenting at professional conferences
Language &amp; Literature
	Availability of funds for faculty development
Music &amp; Art
	Encourages attendance at conferences, workshops, and summer programs
	Contributes to conference and organizational dues
	Makes efforts to help faculty attend conferences that University money does not cover
Nursing
	Support for faculty to attend conferences
	Educational support, tuition, travel, consultancy
Devon Berry	Design and analysis support for nursing research in 2004 and 2005
Devon Berry	Co-investigator and project manager determinants of global health research team (2002-present)
Devon Berry	Various projects with the Kettering Medical Hospital (2004-present)

List 4D-4 Expanded List of Strengths and Opportunities

Strengths

1. Cedarville University's strength is its mission, which serves as a guide to planning, recruiting, teaching, and funding. It provides a foundation that values a life of learning for students, staff, administrators, and faculty. The University commitment is seen in its strategic planning, its funding of development and research, and its acknowledgment of faculty and student scholarship.
2. The intertwining of curricular and co-curricular programs at Cedarville University ensures that students gain a breadth of knowledge and a propensity for engaging in intellectual inquiry. The assessment data show that the University is successful in promoting intellectual inquiry and the breadth of knowledge and skills.
3. Cedarville's general education courses are taken over a minimum of six semesters, allowing for the maturation of ideas and a balance of field-specific and general education courses.
4. The close alignment between the mission of Cedarville University and the learning outcomes of the general education program, as well as the strong administrative and faculty oversight, ensure Cedarville University continues to provide coherent undergraduate and graduate programs.
5. The many co-curricular service opportunities available at Cedarville encourage students to be active in the society around them.
6. Cedarville University demonstrates excellence in maintaining the currency and relevance of all curricula and programs that result in graduates who are prepared for leadership and gatekeeping roles in society following graduation.
7. All programs undergo review and apply the results of assessments in program improvement. Cedarville is involved in total, habitual, full-cycle outcomes-based assessment in all units.
8. In addition to formal curricular offerings, the Missions Involvement Services, travel study programs, and chapel experiences have contributed to preparing students for the global and diverse society they will experience after graduation. In addition, many of these same experiences emphasize the need for students to be involved in their society through service.
9. Cedarville expects students to create and use scholarship. Student access to and use of current technological resources provide the foundation needed to pursue much of that research.
10. Cedarville University consistently and conscientiously adheres to policies that result in the ethical acquisition, discovery, and application of knowledge. Seminars are held to update all faculty regarding current and revised policies. Policies are published and distributed widely to faculty, staff, and students.

11. The University recognizes its critical role in supporting responsible learning through the appropriate use of knowledge, the practice of good stewardship, the application of intellectual integrity, and recognition of social responsibility.
12. At all administrative levels of the University, the acquisition, discovery, and application of knowledge is valued and protected. Cedarville University demonstrates that it integrates intellectual inquiry into all of its educational programs by hiring qualified faculty, providing resources, recruiting outstanding students, and monitoring/improving the outcomes of the interface of these factors. Changes are readily made in response to assessment data.
13. Knowledge is applied responsibly in that the curricula enable graduates to function at high levels in a global, diverse, and technological society while continuing to live out the mission of the University.

Opportunities

1. The survey data from the 2004 NSSE Benchmark Report provides several areas of concern that Cedarville should continue to address and monitor over the next few years.
2. A missing component in Cedarville's general education program is in economics both at the macro and micro level.
3. The University should consider keeping graduate, law, and medical school exam and acceptance rate data in a centralized database to help track how well the University is preparing students for graduate work. At the moment, this is done at the departmental level and is not comprehensive.
4. The AVP has called for a review of the general education program in its entirety in the academic strategic plan. This process should be broadly inclusive and should evaluate how well the current program meets the stated objectives, how well the Bible minor is preparing our students for the integrative process, and how well-grounded graduates are in the liberal arts.
5. The University should review its support of staff development opportunities. While the Staff Committee to the President has been tasked with seeking and providing additional opportunities, the opportunities available to staff are not defined as clearly or applied as uniformly as they are for faculty.
6. The University supports faculty scholarship, but sometimes resources are applied disproportionately. In addition, the funds provided to faculty to attend a conference are often insufficient to cover the expenses. The University might consider expanding those resources and adopting a competitive system for applying for release time to pursue scholarship. Moreover, the University should seek creative ways to allow faculty to pursue scholarship, recognizing that the demands that a 4-4 course load places on them.
7. The University should also consider making funds available to students on a competitive basis to support those who are accepted to present research at professional conferences.
8. In keeping with its mission, Cedarville should continue to promote the important connections between faith and practice. In essence, the focus on social welfare should be accomplished within the biblical context.
9. Cedarville has developed the foundation for a culture of assessment, and that culture must continue to be nurtured.
10. The University should also continue to find creative ways of exposing the students to diverse cultures.
11. Departments using external advisory councils should continue to use them, and departments without such councils should consider forming them.

12. The University has established an institutional review committee (IRC), and faculty need to understand how the IRC will function.
13. The University should consider requiring student research projects that involve human subjects to be approved by this committee as well.
14. Cedarville does an outstanding job of encouraging students to see that the logical outworking of their faith is serving those in the local, national, and global community that are in need. The University could consider finding additional ways of linking that service to learning in the classroom more directly.
15. The University should ascertain the extent to which scholarly activities are hindered by limited space for research/project development or by heavy teaching loads.
16. Cedarville University only recently launched vigorous efforts to develop graduate programs on campus. The amount of foundation funding for graduate education at Cedarville is limited, and strategies initiated to maximize funds for programming and graduate faculty recruitment need to be accelerated if this is to be a priority.
17. Processes for approval and oversight of research and for funding of scholarly work are rudimentary, but improving. This should continue to be a focus area.
18. Funding for centers is not yet established. Options for fundraising for these centers should be considered.
19. The hiring of faculty with doctoral and research experience and significantly more external funding remain major goals for the University.
