In the 1890s, men and women came to the foothills of Azusa in search of gold. A hundred years later, they still do.

One of the oldest cities in the rich heritage of California's San Gabriel Valley, the city of Azusa has long been noted as a city that serves. From the early days of providing gold to miners in search of their riches, through the first half the of the 20th century in which Azusa grew an exorbitant amount of California's citrus fruit, and into today's industrial production, Azusa has been a vital community in the Southern California landscape.

Known as "The Canyon City," Azusa is strategically located at the mouth of the San Gabriel Canyon. It became the local outlet for the early miners who panned canyon streams for gold. In time, farmers settled in the area and developed one of the most productive citrus growths ever in California. For decades, Azusa's population stood around 6,000 inhabitants. However, following World War II, the city exploded in population through the 1950s much like the rest of Southern California. Industry came to Azusa, such as Aerojet Inc. and Avery Label. American Float Builders, providers of over half the floats in the Tournament of Roses parade, settled in Azusa.

Residents found the greenery of Azusa and the backdrop of the San Gabriel Mountains to be a perfect mix for the idealistic lifestyle. Likewise, educational leaders were attracted to the Azusa scenery and in 1946, Azusa Pacific University (then known as Pacific Bible College) moved from the urban surroundings of Los Angeles to the then rural settings of Azusa. Together, the city of Azusa and Azusa Pacific grew by leaps and bounds through the 1950s, '60s and '70s. Today, over 42,000 people call Azusa home while the university has grown to over 2,200 under grad students and has established itself as the largest Christian university on the west coast.

It was gold that put Azusa on the map, and today it is gold that keeps Azusa on the map. This week, approximately 1,000 student-athletes pursue track and field gold at Azusa Pacific in the nation's largest collegiate championship meet — the NAIA Outdoor Championships. For the third time in the past seven years, Azusa Pacific's outdoor athletic complex is the home of NAIA Track and Field. Occasionally labeled "The House that Christian Okoye Built," this complex debuted its facilities on October 16, 1986, and was christened by Okoye's 162 yards rushing and 3 touchdowns in the Cougars' 49-19 football victory over the University of San Diego. In 1988, the complex hosted its first national championship event when the NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championships came back to California for the first time in 30 years. Over the course of its 7-year existence, the complex has hosted such track & field greats as Dave Johnson, Daley Thompson, Mike Powell, Jackie Joyner-Kersie, Jose Barbosa, Joaquim Cruz, Mike Barnett, Kevin Young and Quincy Watts. In 1992, the world's collegiate record was set in track's most thrilling event — the 100 meters. Azusa Pacific sprinter Davidson Ezinwa, then a junior, blazed an incredible 9.91 on this surface.

Indeed, the setting is just right for the 1995 NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

4 Championship Preview

The NAIA Championships are annually the largest collegiate meet in the United States.

Recent evaluations on the state of track and field conclude the sport lacks drawing power because, among other things, on its highest level of competition natural rivalries are thwarted, discouraged and rarely showcased. To those who miss intensity, focus and rivalry, we say, welcome to Azusa.

In its 42-year history, NAIA track and field is dotted with great team clashes such as Abilene Christian vs. Occidental, Texas Southern vs. Mississippi Valley State, Prairie View A&M vs. Southern, and most recently, Azusa Pacific vs. Wayland Baptist.

In the past 24 months, new combatants have developed that are as intense as the old rivalries of yesteryear.

On the women's side, Southern-New Orleans is creeping up on Central State's long-held championship territory. Last February, SUNO yanked the NAIA indoor crown from Central State's tight grasp, beating the Marauders at their own game sprinting. Now the Knights have their eyes set on stealing Central State's 4-year kingdom in outdoor track & field. It's a fierce battle dripping with pride.

To win the women's championship, Southern-New Orleans will have to sprint by Central State.

Last year, all 5 NAIA sprint records (100, 200, 400 and both relays) were set, and 4 of them were established by either Central State or SUNO athletes. All 5 could easily come tumbling down again this weekend. SUNO and Central State bring a wealth of sprint talent to Azusa, and most likely the one who wins the most sprints will win the national championship.

In the 100 meters the battle is between Beverly Langley (SUNO) vs. Chanteau White (Central State). The 200 meters features the clash of Altrice Taylor (SUNO) and Ronalce Davis (Central State). The 400 meters pits Vernetta Rolle (SUNO) against Beverly Grant (Central State). The relays are straight up, head-to-head competition between the 2 most talented and deepest sprint corps in NAIA women's track history.

Away from the SUNO-Central State spotlight, there are plenty of other lady one-on-ones to keep watch over. In the long distance runs of 5,000 and 10,000 meters, Wayland Baptist's unique Rosa Ibarra will try to offset the challenge of Puget Sound's Emily Kellman. Russian Ivana Skladana of Mobile and Valerie Niese of Wisconsin-Parkside waged a classic in February's indoor mile. They should again in the outdoor 1500 meters. Catherine Scott-Pomales of Central State has frustrated Azusa Pacific's Michelle Campbell each time out in the past year, but Campbell is having a great outdoor season and is primed to catch Scott-Pomales this time around.

The NAIA men have their share of rivalries, as well, though they are uniquely set up. Defending national champion Azusa Pacific is braced for another attack on its crown from Central State. Yet, while the Cougars are going toe-to-toe with Central State, they have to watch their back side for Lubbock Christian, the 1995 NAIA indoor champion. Interestingly, though, Azusa Pacific, Central State and Lubbock Christian will rarely meet head-to-head for the team championship. Central State is deep in the sprints. Lubbock Christian is peerless in the distances. And, Azusa Pacific reigns over the field events. The Cougars should jump out to a huge lead by Friday evening and then will try to hold on as Central State sprints and Lubbock cruises in an all-day attempt to run down Azusa Pacific by sundown Saturday. The team that performs best in its respective strength should come out the winner. For Azusa Pacific, it would be its 11th national championship in 13 years. Central State is seeking its second in 3 years, while Lubbock is gunning for its first-ever outdoor crown.

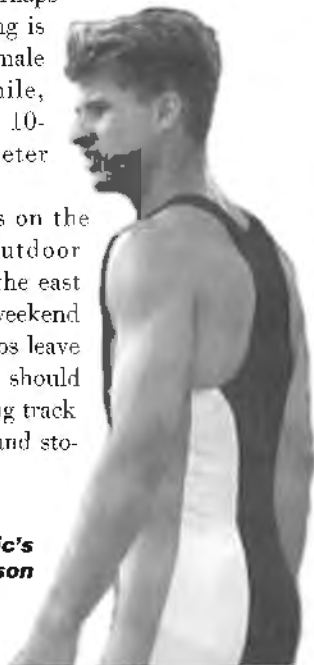

Individually, numerous one-on-one battles highlight the men's competition. Chinese natives Hong Li (Azusa Pacific) and Xiaojun Zhang (Findlay) meet on the east side of the Pacific Ocean to engage in a spirited triple jump. Ali Ahmed (SUNO) and Floyd Howell (Central State) figure to go for the open 400 title then square off as anchors in the 4x400-meter relay. Oregon natives Craig Greis (Western Oregon State) and Travis Olson (Linfield) have taken their local javelin battle onto the national stage. Good friends even in competition, Carl Brown (Siena Heights) and Rene Bustamante (Azusa Pacific) stand in each other's way of multiple NAIA championship titles as they lock horns in the shot put and discus throw.

Perhaps the most engaging rivalry of the weekend though, may be the most drawn out. And what better place to stage this clash of titans than on the home turf of what some believe to be the proving ground of America's best collegiate decathletes. Dating back to last year's NAIA championships, Western Oregon State's Alper Kasapoglu and Azusa Pacific decathletes Tage Peterson and David Pope have waged a 3-way contention for NAIA supremacy in the multi-events. Kasapoglu beat Pope last year to win the decathlon with an NAIA record. Peterson came back to barely edge Kasapoglu and win the indoor pentathlon last February with another NAIA record. Perhaps for Pope, who won the 1992 decathlon title, this is his turn to shine in this 3-man contest.

In this meet of great duels and head-to-head encounters, the NAIA also features 2 of the world's best sprinters. Nigerians Daniel Effiong from Lubbock Christian and Azusa Pacific's Fatima Yusuf are unparalleled in their talent, and they should win their respective events in perhaps NAIA record times. Effiong is the world's No. 4-ranked male 200-meter sprinter. While, Yusuf is the world's No. 10-ranked female 400-meter sprinter.

After 4 straight years on the west coast, the NAIA Outdoor Championships return to the east next year. But before this weekend is out and the championships leave the Pacific Rim, the NAIA should enjoy one of its most thrilling track and field meets in its long and storied history.

Dear NAIA Participants:

It is with great pleasure that I welcome all student-athletes, coaches, and spectators to the 1995 NAIA National Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships held at Azusa Pacific University.

The NAIA is fortunate, and certainly appreciative, to have the enthusiastic support of Azusa Pacific University, and the local NAIA committee and their respective staffs.

As an association, the NAIA serves the student-athletes at our member colleges and universities by creating an environment in which they can succeed academically as well as athletically. This association of approximately 400 member institutions has found a distinctiveness in academic standards. This foundation is at the base of the NAIA's strongest belief that athletics is an integral part of the total educational program of an institution.

Further, any action taken on the part of the association is done to ensure that our student-athletes reach two goals at the end of their athletic careers. The first goal is the attainment of a college degree, and the second is the satisfaction of competing to the highest level of their athletic ability.

Congratulations and best of luck to all student-athletes competing at this year's outdoor track and field championships!

Sincerely,

James R. Chasteen
NAIA President and CEO

8 Women's 100 Meters

PREVIEW

If healthy, 4-time NAIA quarter mile champion Fatima Yusuf, will down-shift her focus to a 100- and 200-meter sweep. Yusuf, an Azusa Pacific junior from Lagos, Nigeria, has the top NAIA 100-meter time this year with a windy 11.36 recorded on this track on April 22. The challenge to her quest will be great since 5 of last year's 6 All-Americans return, including 5-time national champion, Central State senior Layphane Carnagie, the former NAIA record holder with an 11.54 set as a 1992 freshman. Fellow Marauder, junior Bridgette Edwards, a 7-time sprint All-American, was the 1994 national runner-up and is hungry for her first NAIA crown. Not to be left out of the Central State sprint corps, Chanteau White is a young threat since she is the defending indoor 55-meter champion. Southern-New Orleans sprinting parade is led by Beverly Langley, who was second in the indoor 55 meters, and senior Bahamian Chantel Rolle, a 1993 All-American who has run a windy 11.60.

Men's 100 Meters 9

PREVIEW

Ralph Aldredge, Bobby Morrow and Innocent Egbunike — they are the only athletes ever to hold the NAIA record in both the 100 and 200 meters at the same time. Daniel Effiong of Lubbock Christian wants to join that elite group. To do so, he'll have to run a 20.56-or-better 200 meters and a 10.04-or-better 100 meters. He has done it in the past and is rounding into shape to do it again here in Azusa. Two years ago, Effiong blazed a 9.98 100 meters and this year he has hovered around Ezinwa's record. He has the skill, now it's just a matter of featuring it in the championship meet. He is easily the best in the 100-meter field, and the real race in this event may be for second place where Dakota State's Tard Smith, Southern-New Orleans' Christian Nsiah, Hasting's Allen Haynes and Central State's Sayon Cooper and Sayon Williams should lock horns. Haynes was second here last year with a 10.47. Williams was second to Effiong in the 55 meters at the NAIA indoor championships.

The second leg of Fatima Yusuf's double sprint title aspirations concludes with Saturday's sunset. Yusuf, the Azusa Pacific junior, has the best time in the field with an NAIA record-threatening 22.97. Not only is she trying to win both short sprint titles, but she also has the ability to become the first person ever to hold all 3 NAIA sprint records — 100, 200 and 400 meters. It won't come easy though, 6 of last year's 8 finalists are back. Central State's Beverly Grant (second last year), Bridgett Edwards (third last year) and Layphane Carnegie (1993 champ) are formidable and experienced foes in championship competition. Southern-New Orleans counters with whizzes Altrice Taylor (third at indoors) and Vernetta Rolle, who may not run because she is a favorite in the 400 and 800 meters. Findlay's All-American senior duo of Katina Johnson and Araya Brantley look to emerge from rival Central State's sprint shadow. The NAIA record has fallen 2 of the past 3 years, and any one of these 8 ladies can break it again.

PREVIEW

There's no mystery about this race. As the world's No. 4-ranked 200-meter sprinter, Lubbock Christian's Daniel Effiong is in a class by himself. The 22-year old junior out of Lagos, Nigeria, is zeroing in on fellow Nigerian Innocent Egbunike's 10-year old NAIA record of 20.57. Effiong, a former U.S. junior college champ out of Central Arizona, has run a 20.15. Trinidad Olympian Neil DeSilva of Central State, the 1993 NAIA 200-meter champ, clocked a legal 20.66 in 1992. Dakota State's All-American Tard Smith has also run a sub-21 200 meters. DeSilva and Smith have the talent to make this an interesting race and push Effiong, who is hoping to become the 14th person in NAIA history to sweep the 100- and 200-meter titles. Defending champ Damon Sims, an Oklahoma Christian junior, knows he had his hands full in trying to repeat. Yet, he has experience on this track — something the other 3 don't — and he knows what it takes to win.

Southern-New Orleans has the best 400-meter talent in the NAIA. Five Knights are listed among the 9 best times coming into this weekend, led by Altrice Taylor and Vernetta Rolle, both sub-55 second sprinters. Taylor was second at indoors with a 54.93, followed by teammate Selisha Hudson, who ran a 55.96. All-American Lesakay Morgridge was fourth last year in Azusa with a 54.29. SUNO's Patrice Peart is a newcomer to NAIA national competition but she has All-American potential. Central State's multiple All-American Beverly Grant and Arkansas-Pine Bluff's Madie Chunn appear to be SUNO's chief obstacles in gaining a 5-way sweep of the 400 meters. Grant was an amazing third last year as a mere freshman, posting an impressive 53.15, a time that would have won the event in 8 of the previous 14 NAIA outdoor meets. Chunn is a returning finalist who has a 55.30 on the resume. Oklahoma Baptist's Gilliane Quirin hopes to repeat her All-American honor she collected in February's indoor competition.

Four All-Americans from last year's meet are back, including Ervin Whitehead, a junior out of Teikyo Westmar who was the national runner-up a year ago and finished third at the most recent NAIA indoor championships. He blazed a 46.48 on this track a year ago. The current indoor champ Ali Ahmed of Southern-New Orleans and Central State's Floyd Howell will fight here in the quarter mile and probably again as anchors for their respective 4x400-meter relay teams. Certainly any one of the aforementioned 3 can win the NAIA individual title. Former NAIA champ Neil DeSilva of Central State is back but he is trying to regain his winning form of 1993 when he clocked a personal best of 45.40. The list of All-Americans returning to Azusa also includes Findlay junior William Matthews (fifth last year) and Southern-New Orleans' Monte Raymond (fourth at 1995 indoors). Among the newcomers to watch, Ryan Chancy of George Fox and Bryan Poindexter of Wayland Baptist have had impressive outdoor seasons so far.

PREVIEW

If Southern-New Orleans' is to pair an outdoor team championship with its recently claimed indoor crown, then the Knights will need to succeed in the 800. Versatile Vernetta Rolle, who can vie for the NAIA title in the 200 or 400, specializes in the half mile as evidenced by winning the indoor title. She has the NAIA within her eyesight and seems to have no peer in pursuit of the victory. Rolle's teammates, Patrice Peart and Christine Smith finished second and third respectively at the indoor meet and want to repeat that result in the outdoor meet. Central State sophomore Barbara Stewart, who was fourth last year, and senior Ingrid Gordon, who was fifth, figure to be among the finalists. Azusa Pacific freshman Michelle Teodoro, last year's Washington state high school 800-meter champ, has run a 2:12.10 to put her among the top candidates. Mobile's Ivana Skladana has also run a 2:12. Southern California College sophomore Niki Pool has had an excellent 1995 outdoor campaign.

Men's 800 Meters

PREVIEW

When it comes right down to it, the 800 meters may be a 50-meter battle — a sprint among 3 past winners, a national runner-up, a multiple All-American and a newcomer to the championship circle. Southern-New Orleans' Julius Achon is the reigning indoor champion and comes into this meet with the best time in the field. Yet Taylor sophomore James Njoroge, already a 3-time All-American, Simon Fraser junior Sasha Smiljanic, the 1994 indoor winner, and Achon's teammate, junior Darrin Browder, last year's outdoor runner-up, have the talent to win the event just as easily as Achon himself. Toss in NAIA newcomer Escoffrey Thomas of Wayland Baptist and the field becomes extremely competitive. And not to be left out in the whole mix is defending national champ, Oklahoma Baptist senior Dudley Dawkins, the stadium record holder in this event. Senior Josh O'Connor of Linfield is a 4-time finalist to the NAIA half mile and has invaluable experience. Strategy will be a key in the finals with little or no margin for error.

PREVIEW

As a freshman last year, Valerie Niese of Wisconsin-Parkside enjoyed a fine rookie season, claiming All-American honors and establishing herself as one of the promising young milers in the NAIA. This year, her potential came knocking, loud and clear, and Niese has become unbeatable. She won the NAIA indoor mile with a 5:03.19, and is the favorite to win the 1500 meters. However Mobile's Ivana Skladana, who was second in the indoor mile, is extremely strong in the 1500 and will push Niese to the end. Azusa Pacific freshman Michelle Teodoro was an indoor All-American and should figure in the top 5. Wayland Baptist junior Jodie Young is a returning All-American and a potential top 4 performer. Puget Sound's Emily Kellman, an All-American in the 5,000 and 10,000 meters, has one of the top 5 times in the NAIA and has to be listed among the favorites simply because a Pacific Northwest athlete has won this event the past 5 years in a row and 7 of the past 8.

PREVIEW

Just how talented is Lubbock Christian senior Julius Randich? To put it simply, if he concentrated on a single event, he would easily win it — whatever the event: 1500, steeplechase, 5000 or 10,000 meters. As it is, Randich is stretching his physical limits and will probably run in any 3 of the aforementioned races; and still he is a favorite to win those events and perhaps become the first person ever to win 3 NAIA individual distance titles in the same meet. It is likely he will be part of an outstanding 1500 meters field that includes Julius Achon of Southern-New Orleans, the indoor mile king who beat Randich, and Taylor's James Njoroge, who was third last year. All 3 runners have flirted with times that would best the NAIA record of 3:43. Lubbock Christian's Simon Sawe and James Bungei are sub-3:50 runners but they may be involved in other distance races. Azusa Pacific junior Denis Balazs won indoor All-American honors in the mile last February and figures into the 1500-meter mix of elite runners.

Wayland Baptist junior Jodie Young, a 5-time All-American, is the reigning indoor 3000-meter titlist. However, Whitman junior Jessica Bissonnette sidestepped the indoor meet and arrives in Azusa expecting to go head-to-head with Young for the crown. Bissonnette and Young have nearly mirrored their results since they arrived at their respective institutions in 1993. Bissonnette is having a great 1995, posting a 9:50, one of the top times. Young, who clocked a 10:05.79 on the indoor circuit, was sixth here last year. If she runs the 3000 meters, Emily Kellman of Puget Sound figures into the mix and could beat both Young and Bissonnette. Amy Haines of Wisconsin-Parkside, who was second at indoors, and Westmont sophomore Miriam Niednagel, who was fourth at indoors, are looking to snatch All-American recognition. Jen Campbell of Western Washington is a first-timer to the NAAs but certainly is an All-American candidate. Simon Fraser senior Aundrea Bertoia was a sixth place All-American last year and plans to improve upon that showing.

Men's 3,000 Meter Steeplechase 19

PREVIEW

Jason Mohr's 3-year old NAIA steeplechase record is on the endangered list. Lubbock Christian's Simeon Sawe, one of the plentiful distant-running Chaparrals, has a bead on Mohr's 8:43.44 set in 1992. Already this season, Sawe has run a sub-8:35 steeplechase, thus displaying his unequaled talent that could shatter the record. His nearest competitor is teammate and 3-time NAIA champ Julius Randich, who may not even feature his 8:15 abilities in this event, saving his energies for the 1500, 5000 and/or 10,000 meters. Erik Gibson, a junior out of George Fox, and Preston Richert, a junior from Southwestern, are the only returning All-Americans but so far their bests have been more than 30 seconds off Sawe's 1995 best. Gibson was fourth last year and would gladly welcome a cool Southern California Saturday afternoon to best simulate his personal training weather in Northwest Oregon. Cedarville's Pete Simons wants to make his first NAIA Championship showing a memorable one by claiming All-American recognition. Westmont junior Phillip Livingood, a 1994 qualifier who missed the finals by just 2 seconds, could post a point or 2 for the Warriors.

After sitting out the indoor campaign, 4-time national champion Rosa Ibarra, the 1994 NAIA cross country runner-up, is back and ready to post a historic performance. Last year, the Wayland Baptist senior became only the fourth lady ever to pull off victories in the strenuous 5000/10,000-meter double. Now she is attempting to become the first ever to successfully defend both long distance titles. Ibarra clocked a 17:14 (the second slowest winning time ever) in winning last year's 5000-meter crown, but this year she is within range of besting Amy Giblin's NAIA record 16:44. Puget Sound senior Emily Kellman recorded her first sub-17-minute 5000 earlier this season and is the prominent threat to Ibarra's hopes of repeat double victories. Jessica Bissonette, a junior from Whitman, was fourth last year and has a personal best of 17:08 this year to better Ibarra's winning time of a year ago. Wisconsin-Parkside's Tracey Pope and Amy Haines will run toward the front of the pack should both choose to compete at this particular distance.

PREVIEW

At the NAIA Indoor Championships in Lincoln, Neb., last February, Lubbock Christian scored 33 points in the 3000 meters and added 25 more in the 5000 meters on its way to the national championship. Chaparrals dominated the distance events in Lincoln, and they can again in Azusa. For Lubbock coach Darryl Price, it's a mix and match as to where he'll run all his talented athletes. In fact, some of their running assignments weren't determined until Wednesday. Nonetheless, any one of the following Chaparrals can win the 5000 meters or score very high. The Chaparral list begins with Peter Tamui, the indoor champ, and continues with the All-American parade of Mike Mamo, Tim Kemei, Levis Anyega, James Bungei, the 1991 and 1992 champion and Julius Randich, the 1993 winner. Central Washington's Eric Tollefson, Life's Curz Gallegos, both of whom did not compete at the NAIA indoors and Azusa Pacific freshman Jaime Martinez are the most likely candidates to break up a Lubbock onslaught that could produce a lot of Chaparral points, just like the indoor 3000 meters.

Last year Wayland Baptist senior Rosa Ibarra and Puget Sound senior Emily Kellman staged a thrilling 10,000 meters with Ibarra pulling away over the final lap to collect a 7-second victory. The pair return this year, expecting to lock horns in the 5000 and the 10,000 meters (though Kellman could figure into the 1500 and 3000, thus taking her out of the 5000 and/or 10,000). Ibarra has run a personal best 35:18 this year. Jenny Kohl, a junior out of Olivet Nazarene, was seventh last year and is planning to earn All-American recognition this year. She is running in the low 37s which could put her among the top 4 finishers in Thursday night's final. Sophomore Julianne Pletcher of Cedarville is also a 37-minute runner, and after advancing to the NAIA's last year, she figures to do quite well now that she has championship experience. A typically cool Southern California May night would be welcomed by all competitors in an event that could out-shine last year's stirring finish.

PREVIEW

Last year he sidestepped this event, allowing a teammate one last NATA championship. But there is no mistaking that this is Lubbock Christian senior Julius Randich's event. After all, no one in NATA history has run 10,000 meters like Randich. As a 1993 sophomore, he set the NATA standard with a blistering (to both his feet and the clock) 28:16.65, shattering his own 1992 NATA record by 46 seconds. No one in NATA history has won the team triple crown championships — cross country, indoor and outdoor track. Lubbock, which is two-thirds of way there, is gunning to be the first, and the Chaparrals' pursuit of the final jewel appropriately begins on Randich's shoulders Thursday night in the 10,000 meters. Fellow Chaparrals Jaimes Bungei, second to Randich in the indoor 3000, and Peter Tanui, the indoor 5000 titlist, will pace Randich and battle Life's Wilhelm Gidabaday and Malcom Campbell for an additional and all-important 14 points. Members of Azusa Pacific, Central State, Western Oregon and Southern-New Orleans, all who share Lubbock's team title dreams, will watch this event with vested interest — it's a key to Lubbock's success.

Women's Marathon 25

PREVIEW

No lady in NAIA history has ever won the marathon and the 10,000 meters. Last year, however, Deb Chavis, a senior out of Siena Heights, finished fifth in the 10,000 and came back 2 days later to post a third in the marathon. That is about as close as anyone has ever come. So this year, can she become the first ever to pull off that rare double? It is a daunting task for any competitor, but Chavis is a rare athlete. She already has a 3:06 marathon to her credit and with that becomes the favorite to win Saturday morning. Doane junior Heather Thompson, who was fourth in 1994 with a 3:10, and Andrea Nye, a senior at Western Washington who recorded a 3:30 last year, have run this particular course and have an advantage on many others in the field. Southwestern's Raquel Rios has run a 1:22:12 half marathon, the best among all those who qualified by that venue.

Men's Marathon

PREVIEW

An event run by itself or in an Olympic setting, the marathon is a collegiate championship event unique to the NAIA. Life senior John Bartlett, last year's winner in 2 hours, 27 minutes and 30 seconds, is trying to become only the fourth repeat champion, but the conditions need to be right. Last year, mid-morning heat got the best of several runners during the final 5 miles. NAIA officials hope to enhance Bartlett's chances and the championship hopes of every other runner by moving the marathon to 5:15 a.m. to take advantage of cooler morning temperatures. If the weather cooperates and Bartlett's body is willing, the NAIA record could fall in the streets of Azusa and Glendora. Lubbock Christian's Hallis Banire, the 1992 champ, has a 2:28 to his credit and can run with Bartlett in the front. Azusa Pacific's John Cachao and Siena Heights' Lee Shaw posted strong half marathon times to qualify for this event. They could prove to be front-running surprises and pull off an upset or 2.

PREVIEW

The 100-meter hurdles race is simply a 2-lady sprint. Former Californian Catherine Scott-Pomales, a junior out of Central State who competed at nearby Mt. San Jacinto Junior College during her 1992 freshman season, and Azusa Pacific junior Michelle Campbell are in the midst of what appears to be a 3-year battle for queen of the NAIA hurdles. So far, the Olympian Scott-Pomales has held the upper hand, beating Campbell in last year's 100-meter hurdles and this year's indoor 55-meter hurdles. However, for Campbell, the 1994 indoor champion, this may be her year. Already she has blazed a sizzling, though windy, 13.17 to finish fourth at the Mt. SAC Relays. Scott-Pomales has a 13.79 to her credit. Both are foreign athletes, Scott-Pomales from Jamaica and Campbell from England. In addition, both are married with Campbell's spouse being former U.S. Olympic hurdler Tonie Campbell. All-Americans Rene Zimmerman, a senior at Sterling, and Becky Kastrick, a sophomore at Midland Lutheran, return to improve upon their respective fourth and fifth place finishes of a year ago.

ENTRIES

Three-time NAIA high hurdle champ James Rollins, a senior at Central State who won this event as a 1992 freshman, seeks a second outdoor hurdle jewel to add to his NAIA crowns (he won the 1994 and 1995 indoor titles as well). Rollins, who was disappointed after finishing second last year, has clocked a 13.98 and is trying to become only the ninth NAIA champ ever to post a sub-14-second 110-meter hurdle race. Rollins has no major threat to his title pursuit. In the finals he may be pushed by Azusa Pacific senior decathlete David Pope, who finished second to Rollins at the indoor meet, and Missouri Valley sophomore Detrick Davis, who has had a strong outdoor season after placing eighth in the indoor finals. NAIA indoor finalists Justin Lydon of Willamette and Scott Huston of Oklahoma Christian should be finalists again and perhaps collect All-American honors as well. Marian sophomore Spencer McKenney is making his second appearance in Azusa and can draw upon championship experience to give him All-America potential this time.

about your future at APU

will tell you, a degree from Azusa Pacific means big advantages. "Azusa Pacific University gave me an edge as I applied to some of the nation's top law schools. They're looking for a balance of strong academic preparation and involvement in leadership, ministry, and extracurricular activities." This winning combination certainly worked for Keri. Accepted at prestigious law schools like Georgetown, the University of Virginia, and the University of California, Berkeley, she currently attends Harvard.

The APU faculty inspires a passion for learning and serving on a personal level.

Keri's story isn't unique. With 30 majors and numerous pre-professional programs from which to choose, as well as an outstanding faculty, it's no wonder that a high percentage of APU graduates are accepted into strong medical, dental, and graduate programs. Since 1899, Azusa Pacific graduates have made significant contributions to society and the world. Our growing list of success stories is just one reason why APU is considered one of the top small, comprehensive Christian universities in the nation.

Women's 400 Meter Hurdles 31

PREVIEW

Central State junior Catherine Scott-Pomales was the 1994 NAIA Female Outstanding Performer for one simple reason. She became the first female ever to pull off the difficult task of winning both the 100-meter hurdle and 400-meter hurdle races. This year, she is out to prove that though the feat is unique, it can be done with regularity. She is among the favorites in the highs, but she is the clear cut, easy-pickin' favorite in the intermediates. She comes in with the best time in the field, a full 3 seconds ahead of her nearest competitor. Among last year's finalists who return, senior Amy Carlson of Willamette and senior Tanya Wilde of Moorhead State appear to be among Scott-Pomales' chief rivals. George Fox junior Liz Stephens, who did not get out of the first round last year, could be a finalist this year and perhaps an All-American. Central Washington senior Karla Dodd, a 1994 semi-finalist, is among those who could push for national runner-up honors.

Men's 400 Meter Hurdles

PREVIEW

Experts say it's the most grueling event in all of track & field. The 400-meter hurdler must sprint for 55 seconds while hurdling objects every 7 to 9 steps. He can not lose his intensity nor his focus. And his reward when he crosses the finish line is sheer pain. Monte Raymond of Southern-New Orleans thrives on that kind of pain; so too does Central State Anthony Dean-Neil. Both men are sub-52-second hurdlers and the leaders of a brigade of pain-seekers racing for an NAIA title that is open for the taking this year. There is no clear cut favorite. Western Oregon senior Rio Okmura was here last year but did not get out of the first round. This year, not only should he advance out of the preliminaries but he could garner some All-American recognition to boost Western Oregon's national championship aspirations. Doane's Dan Marousek is an All-American candidate as well.

Sophomore Danielle Kirk is back on home turf. The Southern California native who grew up in the San Fernando Valley has walked her way east to Wisconsin-Parkside, by way of Cal State Northridge and Azusa Pacific. Last year, Kirk won All-American honors at Azusa Pacific (the only athlete outside Wisconsin-Parkside to do so) after finishing fifth in the walk with a 14:58. She comes back this year with the top time in the nation and the favorite to win with her 14:24 stride. Fellow Ranger junior Sue Kisting was the national runner-up last year with a 14:27.56 and figures to battle Kirk for the victory this year. Kirk's teammate, senior Ali DeWitt plans to want amends for last year's disqualification. An All-American award is likely for DeWitt, who won such an honor with a fifth place showing in 1993. Simon Fraser's Anne-Marie Oswald, who was eighth last year as a freshman, and Joanne Fox (11th as a sophomore last year) appear to be the top walkers outside Parkside.

PREVIEW

For years they have endured the chuckles of bystanders, but the walkers of Wisconsin-Parkside don't mind. They just waddle on by those who don't understand their event, the only one of its kind held on any collegiate championship level. The most diverse distance program in the nation, Wisconsin-Parkside runs and walks to unparalleled successes. A Parksider has won the walk (a 10,000 meter event from 1974 to 1992) the past 12 years in a row and 18 of the past 21. Five of last year's six walking All-Americans hailed from Parkside. Indeed, this is Wisconsin-Parkside's very own event. Senior Tim Seamon, a 3-time national champ (won the 1991 10,000 walk) is back to defend his crown, as is teammate and national runner-up junior Al Heppner. Sophomore Will Van Axen returns to improve upon a fourth place finish. Will Leggett and Dave Mitchell are hoping to get their first-ever All-American walking papers. Can anyone break up Parkside? Western Washington's Don Wesley and Simon Fraser's Ian Heitherington are the best bets, but expect a Parksider to waltz . . . or walk to the title.

Central State's Catherine Scott-Pomales

Big-time meets can rattle the most seasoned athlete. But for Central State junior Catherine Scott-Pomales, they simply propel her to big-time marks.

Most legends are born over time, but it took Scott-Pomales just one championship meet to etch her name among the all-time

NAA greats. In Azusa last year, she became the first female ever to win both the NAA's 100- and 400-meter hurdles, blazing a personal best 13.79 in the highs and a stadium record 56.57 in the intermediates. By the time Scott-Pomales anchored Central State's 4x100m relay team to an NAA record 44.32, she had sewn up the meet's Female Outstanding Performer honor.

Even she was surprised by her amazing hurdles accomplishment — one that track experts call the most difficult double in the sport. The 21-year old Jamaican expected to win the intermediates but she thought Azusa Pacific's Michelle Campbell had the edge in the 100-meter hurdles.

As a result, a rivalry developed. Campbell was an odds-on favorite to walk away with the high hurdles title. However, Scott-Pomales, a veteran of 7 Penn Relays and the 1992

Olympics, overcame her nerves and pulled off the upset.

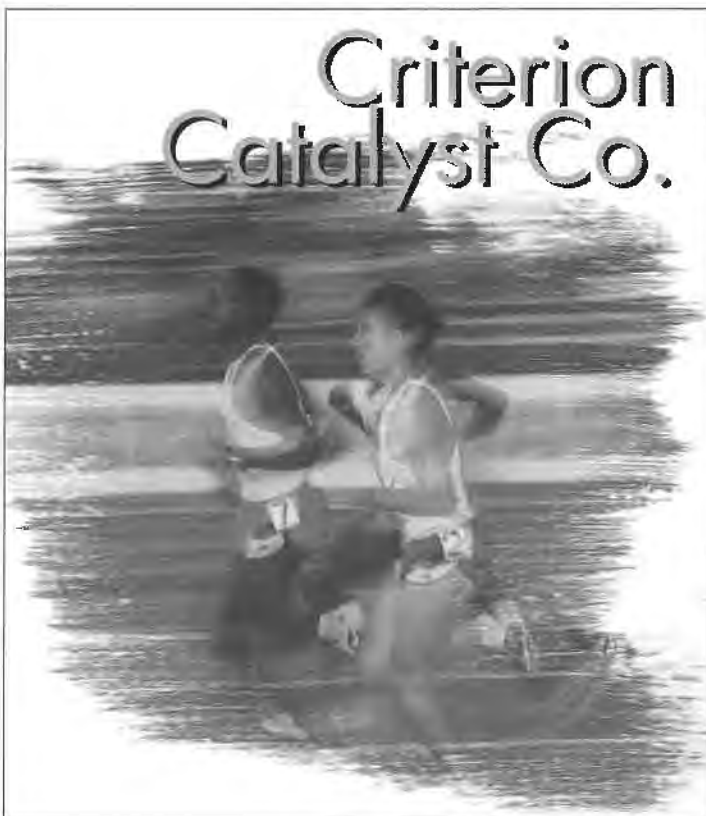

"I didn't think I'd win the highs," recalled Scott-Pomales. "Going into the finals I was so nervous. Michelle is a determined athlete and a good hurdler. To be honest, I was kind of scared. I was so relieved when I won the race."

This past February, the two met again at the NAA Indoor Championships in Lincoln, Neb. And again, Scott-Pomales won, posting a 7.74 in the 55-meter hurdles to nip Campbell's 7.79. Despite their intense competitiveness, the 2 hurdlers enjoy a healthy friendship.

"I consider her a good friend," Scott-Pomales said of Campbell. "She is always very nice to me. Some people in your own event won't talk to you. They treat you as the enemy. But Michelle always speaks to me and tries to help me develop my technique, and I try to do the same for her. Plus, I respect her talent, so she motivates me to practice."

A product of track powerhouse Vere Technical in Clarendon, Jamaica, Scott-Pomales came to the United States in 1993 to run at nearby Mt. San Jacinto Junior College in Hemet, Calif. Though she enjoyed 1 season there, she followed the Vere-Central State pipeline (also traveled by current Marauders Beverly Grant, Bridgette Edwards and Ronalee Davis) and took up the hurdles for the first time ever. She recently clocked a personal best 56.42 to finish second in the intermediates at the prestigious Penn Relays.

Undefeated in 3 NAA championship events, Scott-Pomales knows the pressure is on her to repeat her double victory. Nerves, however, will not get the best of her. She thrives under the pressure of big-time meets.

The last 4 NAIA sprint relay championships — whether the 400 meters or 1600 meters — have been nose-to-nose battles between Central State and Southern-New Orleans. The Marauders won this event last year, screaming to an NAIA and stadium record 44.32 while beating SUNO by more than a full second. That record is in trouble once again. All season long, the Marauders have been flirting with another mid-44-second spin around the track. Chateau White, Bridgette Edwards, Catherine Scott-Pomales, Layphane Carnagio and Crystal Finlayson are hoping to sprint Central State to its fifth straight 4x100-meter relay title. Southern-New Orleans, which is churning out 45-second 1-lappers, counters with the likes of speedsters Beverly Langley, Chantell Rolle and Lesakay Morgridge. It's a fierce rivalry that may learn toward Central State because of its depth. Arkansas-Pine Bluff and Findlay, perennial finalists in this event, are talented in their own right and should show well for themselves.

Men's 4x100 Meter Relay 39

PREVIEW

It's the most exciting 40 seconds of the weekend. It's intense, exhilarating and has no margin for error. A season of great starts, fast legs, picture perfect exchanges and come-from-behind anchors can be wiped invalid with a mistake that lasts no more than a blink of an eye. So who's been picture perfect in the men's 4x100-meter relay so far? Central State. The Marauders may have no peer in this event, though Southern-New Orleans (SUNO) will push them to the finish line. The Marauders have their collective eyes on the NAIA record. They've blazed several sub-40-second relays, nearly a half second ahead of the NAIA record 40.02. The true race may not be for first place, but rather second, where SUNO seems to be challenged by Hastings, Findlay and last year's surprising winner — Doane. Hamstring muscles are a key in this event and after running several prelims in both open sprints and the relays, tender fibers are the rule by Saturday, and they could play a determining factor in the finals.

Women's 4x400 Meter Relay 41

PREVIEW

Possibly the women's team championship will come down to this event — and the 2 likely challengers will square off for the event title and perhaps the meet championship. Reigning NAIA indoor team champion Southern-New Orleans, which last year set the NAIA and stadium record in this event, has another set of deep and talented quarter milers, led by Altrice Taylor and Vernetta Rolle. They've already posted an early season 3:37.42, just 4 seconds off last year's record pace. Four-time defending NAIA outdoor champion Central State should be nipping at SUNO's heels the entire 4 laps. SUNO posted a 3:41.18 in Lincoln, Neb., at the indoor championships to beat Central State by 2 seconds. Since Azusa Pacific has Fatima Yusuf, the world's No. 10-ranked quarter miler, the Cougars are a factor. Not to be left out, Findlay was fourth last year and third at indoors. This anchor leg may be a thrilling sprint between SUNO's Taylor, Central State's Catherine Scott-Pomales, Azusa Pacific's Yusuf and Findlay's Katina Johnson.

Men's 4x400 Meter Relay

PREVIEW

Central State has won 3 of the past 4 NAIA mile relays and is the favorite to capture another this weekend. Marauder All-Americans Floyd Howell, Michael Sulcer and Olympian Neil DeSilva are a formidable trio who figure to run after the 200- and 400-meter individual titles as well as this 4x400-meter relay crown. Led by Ali Ahmed, Southern-New Orleans, which has built quite a sprint factory, should give Central State a severe run for the title. Less than half a second separates the 2 relay teams. Wayland Baptist, once king of the NAIA sprints, gives a blast from the past and hopes to turn the clock back 10 years when it last won the mile relay in Hillsdale, Mich., in 1985. Oklahoma Baptist, which returns Ray Strauss and Larry McFarlin from last year's impressive third place team, is still among the 4 teams that have good reason to ponder a national championship.

* Mile Relay

PREVIEW

When Selisha Hudson, a junior from Southern-New Orleans, posted a surprising victory at the indoor championships (she had finished no better than eighth in 4 previous NAIA meets), it proved to be the result that made SUNO uncatchable in the team title chase (the Knights won by 19 points). A repeat performance in Azusa won't be a surprise, but it will be just as invaluable to SUNO's outdoor aspirations. However, Hudson's challengers are many and strong. Nancy Rissmiller from George Fox is a newcomer to NAIA championships, but she is already a leading contender for a national title with her season best near 6 feet. If nothing else, Sterling senior Rene Zimmerman, a 4-time All-American, is consistent. She has finished fourth at the past 3 NAIA outdoor meets. However, her 5-8 jump this year makes her a potential winner. Cindy Leingang from Mary was the indoor runner-up and is 1 of 6 other competitors who have all gone over 5-6 during the outdoor campaign.

PREVIEW

In the mid-70s, Southern California College came from no where to enjoy one glorious moment in NAIA track & field, finishing second in the 1974 men's team championship. It's been 21 years since a Vanguard has won an NAIA individual title, and now 2 brothers — Kevin and Brian Carlson — are hoping to put SCC back in the NAIA national track picture by winning Saturday's high jump. Both Carlsons, who double their athletic pleasure as Vanguard basketballers, are 7-foot jumpers. But then so too is Doane's Quinten Esser, who has something on the Carlsons —

NAIA championship experience. Esser, looking to become Doane's first ever NAIA high jump champ, was fifth at the 1995 indoors. However, it was fellow Nebraskan Chad Drehle of Hastings who won that particular competition with an even 7-foot jump. Linfield's Scott Radetich, the lone returning outdoor All-American (third last year), is a 7-foot high jumper like everyone else it seems. And not to be forgotten, Southwestern's Chad Hamlin, Azusa Pacific's Tage Peterson and Ambassador's Randy Meyer, are all 7-foot jumpers who could win as well.

In only her second NAIA championship event, Cedarville senior Stephanie Sherman was an individual champion. As a 1992 freshman, Sherman won the NAIA outdoor triple jump with a leap of 40-5 1/2. Since then, she hasn't won. In fact, she is the perennial runner-up, finishing second in 4 NAIA meets (third in 2 others) including last February's indoor championships. She is making her final NAIA appearance this weekend, and she won't settle for second best. Of course, it's only fitting that she comes in with the second best outdoor mark this season, Arkansas-

Pine Bluff junior Demetricia Hayes, who placed 13th last year, has gone over 40 feet this year to lead all competitors in Azusa. Sterling senior Rene Zimmerman, who is also vying for the long jump title, has won indoor All-American recognition in this event but has never collected an outdoor honor. She may remedy that Saturday afternoon. Azusa Pacific sophomore Mary Sauer was sixth at indoors and may sneak into the top 4 this time around.

PREVIEW

China's Xiaojun Zhang and Hong Li bring their native land battle to Azusa, where for the third time in 53 weeks they vie for an NAIA title. Li, a 2-time NAIA triple jump champ (1994 indoor and outdoor) from Azusa Pacific, has been slowed by a sprained ankle suffered at the NAIA indoors. Xhamg took advantage and beat Li with a second place finish. Li has gone 53 feet in the past. Zhang has 50-foot capabilities.. All-American Kevin Wardlaw, a senior at Olivet Nazarene, has jumped in the high 40s and is primed to take the crown should Li or Zhang slip, but not since 1969 has a sub-50-foot jump won at the NAIA's. Lindenwood All-American Julian Smith is gunning for a top 3 finish. Findlay sophomore Latef Roberts is the heir apparent to the NAIA crown but this figures to be another learning year in the championship meet for the promising youngster who should go home with All-American honors. Midland Lutheran's Kyle Keifer looks to duplicate the All-American recognition he garnered at indoors.

Seventeen-foot winners have been the norm the past 4 NATA Outdoor Championships, but probably not this year. Only 1 All-American returns from last year's outdoor competition — Azusa Pacific senior Tim Cockrell, the reigning indoor champ with a career best of 16-5. Willamette's Allen Heinly is a 16-foot vaulter who should challenge Cockrell for the crown. Western Oregon State's Danny Ventura, who finished eighth in 1993 before sitting out the 1994 campaign, is back, looking for a title to aid WOSC's pursuit of another top 5 team finish. Wolf teammate Matt Frketic, a high 15-foot vaulter who is making his first NATA showing, is a key figure in WOSC attaining that goal. Hillsdale senior Jim Coleman, who used a 15-1 vault to finish fourth at the NATA indoor meet 3 months ago, was ninth last year, narrowly missing a scoring spot. This time not only does he expect to score points, but he is set on earning All-American recognition that goes to the top six finishes in each event.

PREVIEW

For years Azusa Pacific was the dominate team in the hammer, providing 9 national champions in an 11-year span (1981-91). Now Western Oregon State wants to emerge as the new force. A Wolf won the title in 1993 (Ryan Parshall) and though no Wolves won the title last year, 4 of them finished in the top 6. High on Western Oregon State's list of returnees are seniors James Van Orden, the top returning All-American with a fifth place finish, Steve Gehley, who was sixth last year and James Young, who was eighth last February in the 35-pound weight throw, the indoor's cousin to the hammer. Even Dean Barley, an up-and-comer for Western Oregon State, figures into the 8-man hammer fray on Thursday. Azusa Pacific's Rene Bustamante, the 1995 NAIA 35-pound weight throw champ, has the top NAIA hammer mark (205-0) coming into this meet and is the man who stands in the way of a Western Oregon State sweep. Cougar teammate Ryan Root is enjoying his best season and figures to push for All-American honors.

Doane senior Heather Rhoadarmer relishes the underdog role. So when she, the defending outdoor champ, realizes that Wayland Baptist's Michelle Hagge is expected to win the shot put, Rhoadarmer will be right where she wants to be. Rhoadarmer, a 5-time shot put All-American and a 3-time national champ, is engaging Haage in another dual for the NAIA title. Hagge beat Rhoadarmer at the NAIA indoors in February by an inch and a half. The result on Thursday could be even closer this time around. Molly Duggan of Western Oregon State doesn't plan to be a spectator to the Rhoadarmer-Hagge rivalry. She has the talent to frustrate both putters' title hopes. Junior Karin McCall walked on to the Azusa Pacific team without much fanfare. However, she can't hide anymore; not with 44-foot puts. Dordt senior Tercasa VanZee is a veteran of NAIA shot put wars and has 3 All-American honors to show for her battles. Central Washington junior Kari Peters is a returning outdoor All-American.

ENTRIES

An Azusa Pacific Cougar has won the shot put the past 6 years in a row and 8 of the past 9. Therefore, the pressure is on defending champ Azusa Pacific senior Rene Bustamante, who is undefeated in 3 NAIA national shot put competitions (1994 indoor and outdoor, and 1995 indoor) and comes into this meet with the NAIA's top mark this year (59-11/2). Senior Carl Brown out of Siena Heights, a senior who finished third last year and was second to Bustamante in February's indoor competition, continues a rivalry between Bustamante and himself that may be the best in any event this weekend. Footballer Lucian Scott, a 2-time All-American out of Central State, has a season best of 55 feet. Huntington's Jim Arnett was a surprise at the NAIA indoors, finishing fourth ahead of Scott with a 53-01/2, and thus looms as a major player in the outdoor scene. Western Washington junior Scott Easley, an All-American with last year's fourth place finish, has a 55-foot put on his resume to make him a title contender.

There's been just 2 shot/discus double winners in NAIA history (Beth Stuart of Nebraska-Kearney in 1987 and Carrie Pietig of Willamette in 1990). Possibly, Wayland Baptist's Michelle Hagge will join that select group this weekend. She has tossed the discus nearly 160 feet this season, almost 10 feet better than her nearest competitor. Hagge's shot put rival, Doane senior Heather Rhoadarmer, is a 2-time All-American in the shot and could mess up Hagge's title desires. Gretchen Wehner of Western Oregon State has heaved the disc 150 feet and is a potential individual titlist in her first NAIA competition. Dee Balderson, a senior out of Western Washington was sixth last year with a 146-1 and has gone nearly 150 feet in the past. Sophomore Kari Hohn from Mount Marty placed 11th last year in her first national championship competition. Now somewhat seasoned, she'll be pushing for All-American recognition the second time around with her 140-foot capabilities.

PREVIEW

Five All-Americans from a year ago are back, including the charismatic and defending national champion, Siena Heights' Carl Brown, who is trying to buck the odds by winning successive titles. In 43 years, only 5 men have won back-to-back NAIA discus championships, and this year's potential crown won't come easy for Brown. Jon Byrd of Wayland Baptist and Azusa Pacific's Rene Bustamante, who finished second and third respectively last year, are nipping at Brown's heels once again. Only 5 feet separated the 3 throwers last year, and the competition is expected to be just as keen this time around. This is the second of 2 key individual title battles between Brown and Bustamante—the other being the shot put. Southern Oregon State's Elliott Osborn, the 1993 NAIA champ as a mere sophomore (USIU's Bengt Nilsson is the only person ever to win NAIA discus titles in nonsuccessive years), and Florida Memorial's James Whiley are back as well after finishing fifth and sixth, respectively, last year. Toss in Westmont's Eric Chirgwin, and 6 of last year's top 8 throwers are back, hunting for a crown.

Stacy Koontz is free in Southern California! No, not that one, but rather the Bethel senior, who is among the leading candidates to win Saturday's javelin competition. Koontz is a 2-time All-American in the javelin and is the top returning spear thrower from last year's competition (third with a 139-4). She has thrown in the mid-140s in the past which makes her a viable candidate to win. However, George Fox junior Leah Johanson is hitting the 150 mark with regularity and enters the meet with the top throw this year. Johanson and Koontz are the only returning All-Americans from last year's field. Since high schools in the Pacific Northwest throw the javelin, it's not surprising to find Western Oregon State's Emily Pohlschneider, Whitman's Amanda Bradford and Whitworth's Gail Pitman and Trina Gumm among those contending for a top 8 finish to assist their respective teams. Pitman should clash with Johanson and Koontz for the individual title.

Athlete Profile

Azusa Pacific's David Pope

Azusa Pacific's David Pope is perched on a pedestal that views his promising future. When he ponders how he got here, he realizes 3 turning points brought him to a threshold of track & field glory.

The first came in 1991, when as an 18-year old freshman standing in the middle of Notre Dame Stadium, he concluded that track was more enjoyable than Irish football. Without another thought, he turned in his helmet, packed his bags and stunned everybody — the Pope left Notre Dame.

"I wanted to go to UCLA or Florida," he remembered, "but I visited Azusa Pacific and loved the place."

Working out in a warm climate with world class decathlete Dave Johnson also made Azusa Pacific appealing. However, Pope's dad, Isaac, wouldn't allow David to accept a scholarship his first year, citing he had to earn it — and did he ever. As a mere 1992 redshirt freshman, Pope won the NATA decathlon with 7,040 points.

Now with a scholarship and national title in hand, greater success seemed a given. But it wasn't. Frustration ruled for the next 18 months. Three shoulder separations, a surgery and a broken leg nearly brought Pope's decathlon career to a halt. He missed the 1993 NAIA's, and though he rebounded to finish second last year, he remained frustrated by unmet potential.

Enter the next significant moment.

"I heat myself up for a long time because I knew I had the tools, but I was no Dave Johnson," said Pope. "Coach Franson kept saying I was just a pup, that it would take time. I then realized that the decathlon is a long haul. To succeed, it must become your lifestyle."

Relaxed and patient with himself, Pope began to blossom. He made noticeable improvements week by week. Then came the defining moment.

This past April 15, Pope tallied 7,753 points, the third best mark in Azusa Pacific history and a personal record by more than 400 points. But more importantly, that qualified him for the U.S. Track & Field Championships in Sacramento, Calif., in mid-June.

"Ever since I got here all I ever wanted was to qualify for the U.S. Championships," said Pope. "I was lost in a daze afterwards, stunned and thinking 'what do I do now, die in peace?'"

Instead of dying, Pope has reset his goals. He once dreamed of competing in the 1996 Atlanta Olympics. Now he trains for them. "Dave Johnson said to me that the decathlon constantly changes your mindset," said Pope. "I understand now what he meant then."

Perhaps this weekend will be another milestone in David Pope's life — the moment when papal supremacy took over the decathlon.

PREVIEW

Azusa Pacific is known for its multi-event athletes and junior Carmen Gage does not intend to be left out of that elite group of Cougars. Last year, she won 3 of the 7 events, which included a heptathlon record 2:12.65 in the 800 meters, to score a school-record 5,039 points and win the heptathlon. She is back to defend her title, which has been a frequent accomplishment since, in the past 14 years, 4 previous NAIA champs successfully defended their titles. This past February Gage won the NAIA pentathlon, the indoor version of this multi-event. She figures to be challenged by Mary freshman Cindy Leingang, an outstanding high jumper, who pushed Gage for the pentathlon title (she finished third). Western New Mexico's Reda Riddle was ninth last year but she could win All-American honors this year with her 4,400-point potential.

Men's Decathlon

PREVIEW

If this talented trio isn't at Atlanta in 1996, they likely will be in Sydney, Australia, for the 2000 Olympic games. Western Oregon State's Alper Kasapoglu, the defending NAIA champion and record holder (7,596), already has Olympic experience, representing Turkey in the 1992 Barcelona Games. Azusa Pacific's Tage Peterson and David Pope, the 1992 NAIA champ, are two of the United States' most promising young decathletes. They come into the meet with the top NAIA marks this year, and both have qualified for this summer's U.S. Championships. The 20-year old Peterson has a season best 7,788 points. Pope, a former Notre Dame footballer, has a personal record 7,753 points. This trio was the top three a year ago, then staged a classic for the indoor pentathlon crown in February (won by Peterson), and should do the same this weekend in the decathlon. It is an intense rivalry and whoever wins should claim another NAIA record. All-American Rodney Wallace of Wayland Baptist and John Heckenlively of Doane are back as well to make this perhaps the best decathlon competition in NAIA history.

The NAIA – Providing Balanced Athletics Programs for 60,000 Student-Athletes

Throughout its history, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) has provided strong leadership for all aspects of intercollegiate sports. Since its introduction of intercollegiate championship basketball in 1937, the NAIA has maintained the highest standards while administering first-rate athletics programs.

Time and time again, the NAIA has stepped forward to address the important issues of the day — be it racial integration in the '40s and '50s or establishing the first women's championship program in 1980. The NAIA has not been afraid to enact changes while others have watched and waited.

In the past decade, presidents of the NAIA colleges and universities have assumed a position of responsible leadership. The NAIA's Council of Presidents, the organization's primary governing body, is comprised of 32 college and university presidents from all regions of the United States.

With its major emphasis on educational development, it was natural for the NAIA to further strengthen academic eligibility requirements in the mid-'80s. All NAIA participating student-athletes must maintain a certain grade-point-average (GPA) while accumulating credit hours for a declared academic degree. Unlike other associations, NAIA student-athlete academic eligibility is monitored on a term-by-term basis.

The All-America Scholar-Athlete program, a long-standing NAIA tradition, recognizes junior and senior student-athletes with a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5 (on a 4.0 scale). This past year, more than 700 NAIA student-athletes were so honored, representing 225 member institutions.

During the '90s, the waves of change once again washed over the NAIA. The membership voted to institute affiliated conference and regional groupings and discontinue the use of district play as a means of qualification for national championships, marking the first time since the NAIA's creation that district competition would not be used.

Since 1937, the NAIA has administered athletics programs and championships in proper balance with the overall collegiate educational experience. Serving higher education in this manner is a responsibility the NAIA does not take lightly. It is a relationship built on confidence and trust — a relationship strengthened year after year. The future of 60,000 young people is too important to handle any other way.
