TODAY'S OUTLOOK

Today's district 22 play-off provides the classic confrontation of experience versus youth. On the one half of the field we have Cedarville College, a side steeped with a rich soccer tradition. Cedarville has had 21 years of competition including 17 winning seasons. They have shared or won the MOC outright 11 times and in 1974 placed 6th in the National Tournament. The team is headed by 10 year coach, John McGillivray. And on the other half we have Tiffin University, competing in only their second ever season with a program, that according to second year coach Ian Day, is very much still in it's infancy.

The series between the two teams is tied 1-1 with the Dragons winning this season's meeting - 2-1 in overtime. On the year Tiffin (10-5-1 & 6-1 MOC) have faired slightly better than Cedarville (7-6-1 & 5-2MOC) as they were crowned MOC co-champions with Mt. Vernon Nazarene College; however, when it comes to the play-offs, any previous performance counts for very little as both teams know that a loss today will mean the end of the season, while a win will put them in the district final against the Mt. Vernon - Wilmington winner to be played on Saturday, November 2. Also, it will mean one step closer to the NAIA finals to be held in Fresno, California.

You can expect to see a close and hard fought game between two well matched teams.
