

5-19-2014

The Tragic Triumph

Becca J. Kochsmeier

Cedarville University, rkochsmeier@cedarville.edu

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a publication platform for fully open access journals, which means that all articles are available on the Internet to all users immediately upon publication. However, the opinions and sentiments expressed by the authors of articles published in our journals do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors are solely responsible for the content of their work. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

Recommended Citation

Kochsmeier, Becca J. (2014) "The Tragic Triumph," Cedarville Review: Vol. 15 , Article 10.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol15/iss1/10>

The Tragic Triumph

Browse the contents of this issue of Cedarville Review.

Description (Optional)

This photograph of three dying roses, taken in a studio, represents the inherent beauty so often undiscovered in brokenness.

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

About the Contributor (Optional)

Becca Kochsmeier is a journalism major from northeastern Pennsylvania. She is passionate about roller coasters, creative writing, climbing trees, book stores, and exploring unfamiliar places in the great outdoors.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview>

Part of the Photography Commons

The Tragic Triumph
Becca Kochsmeier