Enrollment Reaches 450 Mark

An increase of 21 students over first semester last year brings our enrollment to a record high of 454 for this semester.

SEVEN NEW INSTRUCTORS JOIN CEDARVILLE FACULTY

Now that the confusion of registration line is over, and the excitement of starting classes has worn off, students are turning their attention to some of the new faculty members on campus. This year there are seven new faculty members and three returning from working on degrees.

Dr. Clifford Johnson, born and educated in Washington, has joined our administration as Registrar. He received a B.Ed. degree from Western Washington State College in 1949, his M.Ed. degree from the same in 1953, and his Doctorate in Education from the University of Washington in 1962. He has taught grades four through nine in Washington and has had wide experience in administrative work on both elementary and secondary levels. Part of Dr. Johnson's job is to co-ordinate the teacher training program between Cedarville College and Central State College and to give direction to institutional research which will be helpful in gaining teacher certification and regional accreditation.

Enrollment by classes:

Freshmen	154
Sophomores	122
Juniors	95
Seniors	68
Special	15
Total	454

For several different reasons such as: finances, transfer, academic standing, and romances, the following number of students who were enrolled at the end of the previous school year did not return to Cedarville this fall:

Freshmen	35
Sophomores	33
Juniors	8
Total	76

For various reasons, such as: finances, change of plans, or acceptance at other schools, 46 of the new students who were accepted did not matriculate. The question has been asked repeatedly, how could the College house and feed an additional 46 students if all those accepted had enrolled? With the present expansion program, the College will be able to care for 500 students next year.

EDITORIAL
"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

Doesn't everybody and everything deserve to have a name? Isn't a building or a dormitory considered a thing? Then can we ask the question, "Why don't all the buildings and dormitories on the Cedarville College campus have names?" Are we waiting for someone to give a large sum of money? Suppose that no one acquainted with Cedarville College has been blessed with great sums of money. Then what?

Other colleges much like our own have named academic buildings and dormitories after noteworthy professors or alumni. Cedarville has been especially blessed with a number of excellent professors, some of whom definitely deserve this honor. Even though they have not contributed a great sum of money, they have given of themselves and their services. Doesn't this warrant some recognition? If a person devotes his entire life to a particular college, doesn't he deserve to be recognized? This, then, could be the answer to solving the problem of the unnamed buildings on our campus.

What is going to happen to the name of the so-called "Bookstore Dorm" after the bookstore moves? It definitely will not be the Bookstore Dorm any longer. How many years will the new dorm be called the "New Dorm"? Is it the new girls' dorm or the new girl's dorm?

Now that chapel is being held in the Alford Memorial Gymnasium, are we to consider this the chapel and Milner Chapel simply "Milner Hall"? Should Alford Gymnasium become "Alford Auditorium"? Who knows the answer? It's for certain the students don't.

Where did the houses which the college purchased receive their names? Of what significance are they to the students who hear the names? Do they mean anything to the people of the community? For instance: the Sticka House is known to Cedarville residents as the Townsley home.

Someone once asked what was being done about this, and the answer received was that a committee was working on it. Who is on this committee? what has happened to this committee? and what is now being done?

Why aren't there name signs on the buildings that do have names? Some upper-class students still don't know which dorm is Bethel and which is Rife. New students and visitors have difficulty in finding their way around the campus because the buildings are not identified. Who would know that Hariman and Sticka belong to the college, since there is no external evidence that these are a part of the campus.

Why aren't there any signs as one approaches the city limits indicating the existence of a college? Many passing through on Route 42 know nothing of our existence. Wouldn't the wise thing be to put some signs up giving this information?

Just as people are given names, so buildings should be named, and people should be given some information concerning the "college home." Again I say, doesn't everybody and everything deserve a name?

Wouldn't the observance of the 75th anniversary of the chartering of the College be an appropriate time for naming some of the unnamed buildings? Wouldn't this be a good time to let people know that there is a Baptist college in Cedarville?

SEVEN NEW INSTRUCTORS

Miss Joy Mackay, new Dean of Women, comes to us from Pennsylvania. She received both her B. A. and M. A. degrees in Christian Education from Wheaton College and is well trained for her work here. For the past two summers, she has worked at the Summer Institute of Camping on Word of Life Island and was also Executive Director of Pioneer Girls for eleven years. Miss Mackay has done camping with Pioneer Girls and also with Percy Crawford's camps. At present she is teaching Introduction to Camping and Christian Education of Youth as well as helping with some of the counseling.

A graduate of Cedarville College, returning after receiving his master's degree in physical education from Western Reserve University, is Mr. Lane Moody. He has taught physical education in public schools for three years and has served as a coach with these positions. Mr. Moody also works with the newly-formed intramural soccer group. He has never coached soccer before but is learning with the team.

Mr. Max Dowell is a new member of the psychology department. He received his B. S. from Bob Jones University in 1956, and his M. A. in Education Administration Supervision and Guidance from the University of Tennessee in 1958. He taught science in the Columbus, Ohio, public schools for two years and United States history and grammar in the Bexley School for over one year. At the college, he is teaching some psychology courses and is assisting in the college counseling program.

Miss June Kearney comes to our school from the same state as the Kennedy clan. She graduated from Taylor University last June with a B. S. in Education and is planning on starting work on her master's degree in the near future. Miss Kearney will teach swimming and gymnastics as well as the regular physical education courses. She is also supervising the girls' intramural program in basketball, softball, and ping-pong.

Mr. Edward Spencer, a native of New Jersey, received his B. A. in English from Ashland College and his B. D. from Faith Seminary. He was in the pastorate for nine years, four of these at a Baptist church in Loraine, Ohio. Before coming to our school, he taught English at Baptist Bible Seminary, Johnson City, New York. Besides teaching English composition and other courses here, Mr. Spencer is adviser for the yearbook.

Mrs. Katheryne Dempsey joins both our faculty and staff as a part-time instructor in the English department and as secretary to the registrar. She admits to Canandaigua, New York, as her home town, but has lived in Ohio, Michigan, New York, and Venezuela. Mrs. Dempsey received her B. A. in English from Shelton College in 1961 and is making plans to begin work on her master's degree in January.

Mr. Dale Thomson returns home with an M. A. in Biology from Ohio State. Mr. Bruce Turnbull has completed all his doctoral requirements in chemistry for his Ph. D. from Western Reserve University and now must write his dissertation. Mr. George Lawlor has only to write his dissertation before receiving his Th. D. from Grace Theological Seminary.

ST. CLAIR'S CYCLING SERVICE SENDS STUDENTS SPINNING

A woman's scream recently attracted attention in the vicinity of the Kenneth St. Clair home in Cedarville. Those who located the source found it to be Mrs. St. Clair shrieking as her husband took a corner at a high rate of speed on the tandem they were riding. Mr. St. Clair has established a reputation with his wife of being a reckless driver; so she would rather not ride on the back of a tandem which he is guiding.

She is usually content to stay at home to take care of their new business--a bicycle rental. This rental has made bike riding a popular sport in the town of Cedarville. Many college students, who at home scorn bicycle riding as childish, unashamedly take rides of an hour or more anywhere in the Cedarville vicinity.

Mr. St. Clair, who is a business teacher at Cedarville College, realized that a bicycle rental might be profitable when some college students asked to rent his children's bicycles last year. His idea for bike rental developed when he began taking daily bicycle rides at 6:30 a. m. with Mr. Fred J. Lutenberger, the local hardware dealer. On these before-breakfast trips, the two men mapped out routes which they found to be pleasant and interesting rides. These routes are now in the form of three separate maps which are available to all riders who wish to explore the country around Cedarville. Mr.

Being college bred has been described as taking a four-year loaf on the old man's dough.

St. Clair's next step was to purchase ten single bicycles and three tandems from Mr. Lutenberger.

The thirteen bicycles are kept busy most of the time, and especially on weekends. The tandems are very much in demand, so Mr. St. Clair plans to buy more for the spring season. He is considering the possibility of purchasing some English bicycles for his growing business.

FROSH TAKE TRADITIONAL BEATING

"Where's your beanie, Freshman?"

"Carry this tray!"

"Sing 'I Love You Truly' to that girl over there."

"Sound off."

"You have a bad attitude!"

These are the magical words that Jack and Jill Freshman have been hearing. Now at last it's all over. Soiled beanies, ridiculous apparel, rotten onions, wounded pride, tired muscles, egg-stained sweatshirts, soggy mattresses, revolution and counter-revolution, black lists, and conviction riddled petitions all are forgotten, at least until next year.

Committee chairman Paul Carlson and crew climaxed the long-awaited day with an ear-shattering finale. Thus, one of Cedarville's all-too-few traditions is relinquished to the class of '66.

"Those sophomores sure have a bad attitude!"

"This whole thing is silly."

"I love you truly, truly, Dear."

"I don't believe in it."

"I can hardly wait till next year!"

CREWS SPEND BUSY SUMMER IMPROVING CAMPUS FACILITIES

The many improvements made on academic buildings, dormitories, and college grounds give evidence of a busy summer for the maintenance crews on the Cedarville College campus.

The most eye-catching change is a completely remodeled office suite for the President and Business Manager. The new furnishings, light birch paneling, acoustical tile ceiling, and tan carpet give an appearance of subdued elegance to these administrative offices.

At the south entrance to the Administration Building, a stone planter was built, new bumper blocks were added to the parking spaces, and one tree was removed from the faculty parking area.

Several major changes were found at the Bookstore Dorm. The first-floor lounge was converted into four new rooms for housing men, and both second-floor entrances were painted. The cleaning of tree roots out of the drain has caused the old Bookstore parking lot "lake" to disappear.

Many repairs have been made in and around the other dormitories on campus. Cedar Hall has received paint jobs in two of its rooms and on the outside trim, plus the addition of new window shades. The appearance of Harriman Hall was enhanced by new sidewalk, curb, and gutter, and a portion of the attic was floored for trunk storage.

The white trim around Faith Hall was painted, the shingles were given two coats of green stain, and the old screen wire was replaced with new on eight of the windows. The parking lot in front of Bethel Hall was changed to the rear of the building, a front lawn was started, and new drain tile was placed on the property.

Other repairs and changes include the new sidewalk laid from Faith Hall to Alford Memorial Gymnasium, extensive trimming of campus trees, and the removal of some unsightly shrubbery from the campus. The conversion of Milner Chapel to a classroom area necessitated the addition of a sixteen-foot blackboard, which can be raised to the ceiling.

Future improvements include the remodeling of the "old gym" into an auditorium. It will be equipped with a thirty-two foot stage and ample stage-foot-, and spotlights. With the removal of the bleachers, six hundred opera seats will be installed. The auditorium is to be completed by the first of November. The Women's Auxiliary of Cedarville College is now raising money for the purchase of stage curtains.

CAST BEGINS PRACTICE FOR HOMECOMING PAGEANT

November 16 and 17 are the dates for something new and excitingly different for Cedarville College. The Homecoming Pageant, "As the Cedar Grows," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Maddox. Although real rehearsals are impossible until the stage is completed, practice is already under way in the basement of the Maddox home. The pageant cast will consist of thirty-five to forty students and will depict the history of the school from the dedication of "Old Main" in 1895 to the present.

EXPANDED FRESHMAN WEEK EVALUATED BY CLASS OF '66

The old days when Freshman Week consisted of eating, sleeping, and taking tests have been replaced by a busy schedule of orientation sessions, athletic activities, and visiting faculty homes.

This "new" Freshman Week with its added attractions is on somewhat of an experimental basis. The administration is trying to establish an orientation time that prepares the new student for life at Cedarville College and at the same time is a pleasant experience for him.

In order to help plan for future Freshman Weeks, the Dean of Students gave the freshmen a chance to evaluate this year's orientation activities.

The visit to faculty homes was by far the most popular of the activities, with the visit to area parks and the friendliness of student and faculty personnel next in the order of things they liked best. The length of the total program and the slide lecture on Greene County were at the top of the list of things liked least.

The general reaction to the appearance of the college was that the campus was neat, clean, and attractive, but some commented that the dorm rooms and classrooms were dirty when they arrived.

Besides evaluating this year's activities, the new students gave suggestions for improvements for next year. Thus Cedarville College is looking forward to even better Freshman Weeks in the future.

COLLEGE CONSTRUCTS OBSERVATORY TO BEGIN SPACE STUDY

The fact that the College is spending $2500 for the construction of an astronomy observatory was revealed in a recent interview with Mr. L. Bert Frye, instructor in physical science.

Mr. Frye explained that his department is expecting the ten-inch reflecting telescope for the observatory to arrive soon. The telescope will come equipped with a focusing attachment with five eye pieces capable of a maximum of 450 power. An electric clock drive apparatus will be attached to the telescope to allow automatic tracing of a star once a fix has been taken.

A five-foot metal dome arrived earlier for the observatory but had to be returned due to damage received in shipment. The observatory will be built on the area northwest of the present athletic field. The contractor that is building the new gymnasium will lay the foundation and pour the floor slab for the observatory, but a few faculty members will finish the 14 x 14 x 10 foot structure.

November 15 is the expected completion date for the observatory. Professor Frye stated that groups other than the class in descriptive astronomy will be allowed to use the facility under his or some other qualified person's supervision.

NOTICE

All seniors are to see the Registrar soon to discuss graduation requirements.

"WHERE DO I LIVE?"

As the fall semester opened at Cedarville College on Wednesday, September 12, several radical changes in student housing were noticed by returning upperclassmen. Harriman Hall, located across the street from the Big Wheel Restaurant, last year housed a select group of young men, but this year is housing an even more selected group of college women. Some of Harriman's occupants from last year are still in a state of shock after returning to their old haunts to find them now occupied by a group of girls who seem to feel that some of the rooms had never been cleaned since the building was first erected.

Traveling up the street toward the main campus, the next change in dorm housing which one meets is Sticka House. Last year this home housed a few girls and the music department. This year the building is the home of many fellows and the music department, which has managed to keep its identity on the first floor. On the main campus, the Book Store lounge has been converted into an extension of the famous upstairs Book Store Dorm. Now that classes have been in session for awhile, everyone seems to have the dorm housing straightened out, but some have been heard to mutter around campus that "college is different."

An importunate bench warmer in his senior year of school had never missed a practice session, never missed a game. It was the final game of the year and he was the only man left on the bench -- finally his chance came. A player was injured, and he anxiously looked at his coach. His coach looked down the bench at him and said, "Get up, I'm sending in the bench."

"WHAT DO YOU WANT TO SEE IN YOUR STUDENT NEWSPAPER?"

- Flo Cannon, Senior: more intellectual articles.
- Linda Martin, Freshman: report on music department.
- Vickie Curcio, Sophomore: no stale reports, all new news.
- Ken Swigart, Junior: good sports coverage.
- Judy Couwenhoven, Sophomore: comics and humor.
- Jody Ronk, Freshman: student spotlight.
- Howard Day, Junior: biting editorials by and about the faculty.
- Mark Haseltine, Senior: dating counselor column with satire.
- LouAnn Mahanna, Freshman: who's who in the news.
- Phil Buchanan, Junior: something that reflects that college students wrote it, not Whistler's mother's boy scout troupe.

SOFTBALL, SOCCER HIGHLIGHT FALL INTRAMURAL ACTIVITY

The women's intramural softball program began September 26 with Team Two trouncing Team One, 26-6. There are five teams this fall with 60 girls participating. The games are being played on the softball diamond north of the New Dorm.

The program is under the direction of Miss June Kearney and Mrs. Dorthea Kidd. Captains are: Team One, Pat Smith; Team Two, Sue Johns; Team Three, Sylvia Wing; Team Four, Pat Kaster; Team Five, Fay Doctor.

Schedule of remaining games:

Oct. 6	Team 4 vs Team 5
Oct. 8	Team 1 vs Team 3
Oct. 10	Team 2 vs Team 4
Oct. 13	Team 5 vs Team 3
Oct. 15	Team 1 vs Team 4
Oct. 17	Team 2 vs Team 5

Only two teams will be fielded in the intramural soccer program this fall, according to Don Callan, Athletic Director. Lack of interest has made the hoped-for four or five team league impossible. The two squads will play on the soccer field north of the New Dorm once or twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Coach Callan hopes these games will stimulate interest in the sport. He said that the intramural soccer program is one step in a series that will eventually produce an intercollegiate soccer team at Cedarville, thus giving the school a fall sport.

He added that an intramural cross-country program will be initiated this fall, if enough men are interested.

KAPPA DELTA CHI HOLDS TEA

Kappa Delta Chi commenced its fall season by giving a tea for prospective members at Grace Baptist Church on Friday, September the twenty-eighth. About thirty-five girls were present for the occasion.

Pat Micka, president, opened the program by welcoming the girls and then stated the aims and purposes of the club. She introduced Judy Siplock, social chairman, who explained the social functions of Kappa Delta Chi. The service part of the club was given by the treasurer, Bette Adamson, and the spiritual benefits were given by the secretary, Betty Wall. Vice-President, Barbara Adamson, gave the requirements of the society, and the adviser, Miss Ruth Smith asked a blessing for the refreshments.

The girls were received by the officers and members of Kappa Delta Chi, and then were served refreshments by Lois Duddleston, Lois Kennedy, Clara Quiter, and Loretta Cushey.
