NINETEEN STUDENTS MAKE DEAN'S HONOR LIST

The highest academic honor it is possible for a student to attain at Cedarville until final awards are announced at commencement is to be included on the Dean's Honor List. Only a small percentage of our Cedarville students receive grades high enough to qualify for this honor. The requirements for the Dean's Honor List are as follows:

- (1) A student must have an average of 3.5 grade points.
- (2) A student must have no grade lower than a "B."
- (3) A student must complete every course he is taking by the time that grades are turned in by the faculty. Any grade of "Incomplete" will exclude a student from candidacy for the Dean's Honor List.

Following is a list of students who received this honor for the first nine weeks of the 1962-63 school year:

Bob Fidler	4.00
Eugene Wallis	4.00
Dave Warren	4.00
Nancy Buerer	3.81
Susan Martin	3.78
Lynne Cayton	3.77

CHURCHES PLEDGE $40,000 TO MEET ENDOWMENT NEEDED FOR TEACHER EDUCATION

Meeting the endowment requirement set up by the State Board of Education is one of the biggest problems in obtaining teacher certification at Cedarville College.

The requirement for a college our size is $500,000 or an amount contributed annually by some church or denominational board of 5 per cent of the endowment, $25,000.

In order to meet the second alternative, President Jeremiah has asked our supporting churches to prepare statements showing their intent to continue financial support of the College. More than one hundred churches have replied, and the total amount budgeted is approximately $40,000.

The administration is now in the process of preparing an application to the State Board of Education utilizing these statements from our churches. No one should assume that the State Board will act favorably on this application. Fine points of the law will be involved, and the final decision might rest on the State attorney general's approval. The results of this application will not be known until Spring.

EDITORIAL

WHERE DO WE DRAW THE LINE?

How does one determine who should be accepted and who should be refused admittance to an institution of higher learning? Now that the war babies have grown up and are seeking admittance to colleges throughout the nation, where is the line of demarcation as far as accepting prospective students applying to these colleges and universities? Is it fair to the individual and/or to the institution, to offer higher education to one who will probably not be able to meet the pace required? These are all questions that come to one's mind when approached with the situation as it is today.

It has been said that everyone should have the right to try and, therefore, should not be refused admittance to an institution of higher learning. But, how long should these students be given an opportunity to try?

Certainly it is evident that if high school has been relatively hard for a student, college is going to be even harder. Why, then, do these students, and even their parents, insist that they are going to college? If his high school records and tests indicate a lack of ability, would it not be better for both student and parent alike if he chose some occupation which did not require a college education. By sending a student to college who is deficient scholastically, it would seem that the student is wasting both his time and his parents' money only to receive comparatively nothing in return.

I ask you the question, "How liberal should our admissions policy be?" Just because Cedarville is a Christian school, does this warrant accepting everyone who applies? A great number of other colleges and universities are very selective in their admissions and therefore do not have a great many "flunkies." This problem of admissions is not new and is being handled in many different ways in various institutions.

Schools are putting out a great deal of money in order to educate these students. If the students themselves are not willing to do all they can and use what has been given to them, then why continue to keep these students. Are colleges obligated to allow them to stay and prevent someone else from attending?

I think every student attending Cedarville College should realize that by coming here he is utilizing money that has been given for the Lord's work and also using the Lord's time. Is it right for him to waste valuable money and time simply because he decides he wants a good time? Haven't our faculty members made a sacrifice in order to help us further our education? We then have an obligation to them to do our best and use to the best of our ability what the Lord has given to us. It is time some of our students wake up to the fact that they are not here for a good time, but that they are here to learn something that they can use in their future service for both the Lord and themselves.

Cedarville College is in a sense no different from these other institutions of higher learning which are making higher education a little harder to get than it used to be. Possibly this is the answer and by doing this students will then realize the worth of a college education and also realize that college is not the place to come to have a good time on someone else's money and time.

STUDENT OPINION POLL

"Do you feel there is room for criticism of the rules or administration in a Christian school?"

Sue Geyser: Yes, no person is perfect. Cooperative effort can be very beneficial.

Dave Perry: Yes, if carried out through correct channels. Students should be able to voice their opinions.

Dorinda Bush: Yes, constructive criticism is good in anything.

Bill Riter: Yes, it should be voiced through the Student Council.

Jody Ronk: Definitely, without criticism there is no improvement. It should be constructive.

WATER POLLUTION INCREASES IN THE UNITED STATES

For want of a glass of clear water, the continent that heard Niagara's restless roar and sang of the mighty Mississippi and the wide Missouri and drew its life blood from the Great Lakes, holding more than one-third of the world's freshwater supply—that continent, that civilization could die of thirst.

President Kennedy has called the pollution situation "a national disgrace," and it "has reached alarming proportions." His opinion is strongly supported by legislators, the United States surgeon general, and Public Health Service scientists across our country.

A housewife on Long Island draws a glass of water with an oily, fishy taste and a two-inch head of froth. Towns along the Animas River in Colorado and New Mexico found that their drinking water contains 40 to 160 per cent more than maximum safety levels of radioactivity. An outbreak of hepatitis has been traced to clams dug along Jon Barker: Yes, even though the administrators are Christians, they are still human.

Dave Blossom: Yes, administration examines itself and through self-criticism has changes of policy, so students should also be allowed to improve things.

Ron McDugle: Yes, we have a right to speak out against them. I see no reason why they should be right on everything, and we should be wrong.

ADMISSIONS COMMITTEE TO ATTEND CASC CONFERENCE

Commission II of the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges will hold three regional conferences this month to consider problems related to admission and attrition at its member schools. Dr. C. R. Maddox, Dr. Clifford Johnson, and Mr. Richard McIntosh will represent Cedarville at the conference to be held at the King's College on Dec. 19, 20.

In an attempt to determine why students leave college, educators from approximately twenty unaccredited schools will discuss such factors as academic failure, financial aid, student employment, counseling, testing programs, and the differences between students who finish college and those who drop out. The relationship of admission requirements to drop-out rate will also be considered.

the Gulf of Mexico and the coast of New Jersey and Connecticut. Rensselaer, N. Y., residents have been ordered to boil all their drinking water as the bacteria count soars in its water mains from pollution in the Hudson River. Patterson, Nutley, and Passaic, N. J., switch to emergency water reserves when the Passaic River floats up a cargo of dead fish. The verdict is poison by pollution.

Tracing an upsurge in diarrhea, intestinal disorders, and stomach sickness in different areas reveals in each case that water is the carrier. Unless we stop poisoning our water with chemical bug killers and quick-sudsing detergents, with radioactive wastes and virus bearing slaughterhouse remains, with untreated municipal and industrial sewage, with oil-well brine and pulp-mill acids and tons of silt from road and building projects—unless we reduce these and other hazardous contaminants—the curse could fall on our land in our own lifetime.

Our water supply has increased only slightly since Columbus landed here, but our population increases by leaps and bounds. By 1980, water re-use will be a necessary way of life. Water is our only re-usable resource. It can't be duplicated; it has no substitute; and it has no synthetic equivalent; but it can be used over and over again. The problem is to keep the rivers clean enough to enable this constant re-use.

Yes! the nation that Khrushchev once threatened to bury might well bury itself—ingloriously, ironically, insanely—in its very own garbage.

CANTATA CLIMAXES CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The music department of the College will present a Christmas program, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. in Alford Auditorium.

The program will open with the Chorales singing, "Holiday Tune," "Jingle Bells," and "I Wish You a Merry Christmas." Two of the girls trios will sing "Silver Bells," "Winter Wonderland," and "Thirty-two Feet and Eight Little Tails of White."

The band will then perform, followed by the combined choirs and Chorales presenting "The Manger King." This is a cantata for mixed voices by Randolph Johnston. The soloists for this cantata are Elayne Howard, soprano; Judy Lachman, mezzo-soprano; Vicki Curcio, alto; George Zinn, tenor; and Mark Averitt, bass.

NEXT ARTIST SERIES TO BE PIANO DUO

Ruth Smith and Joe Zimmerman will present a duo-piano concert Jan. 4 at 8 p.m. in Alford Auditorium.

Mr. Zimmerman attended John Brown University and the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati where he received his M.A. He has had a tour of duty in the Army and is now teaching at John Brown University. He is also working on his Ph.D. at Indiana University.

Miss Smith attended John Brown University and received her M.A. from the Cincinnati Conservatory. She taught at John Brown University for nine years

PI DELTA PLANS ACTIVITIES

Pi Delta, meaning "prove all things," is the campus organization which students interested in the various fields of science may join. The interests of Pi Delta members range from electronics and physics to genetics and biochemistry.

Mr. Elmore is the adviser of the group, which has recently chosen its officers for this year. Dave Trumbull was elected president; Jim Furry, vice-president; Nancy Buerer, secretary; Dave Rifenerick, treasurer, and Paul Reno, Student Council representative.

Caring for club business and having a guest speaker or a demonstration by one of the student members comprises the program for most meetings. Thus far this year Mr. Thomson has given a talk on the recent research in DNA, the important chemical of heredity in the cell nucleus, and Paul Reno has presented a demonstration and talk on space.

Pi Delta members plan various field trips and special projects of interest for the year. Plans include the presentation of a Moody science film for the enjoyment of the entire student body.

Membership into Pi Delta is open to any student, science major or not, who has an interest in science.

before coming to Cedarville.

Miss Smith and Mr. Zimmerman have performed together at John Brown University when they were both teaching there.

JACKETS DUMP GRACE, EDGE TAYLOR, LOSE AT WILMINGTON

CEDARVILLE 82, GRACE 69

Nabbing 49 rebounds between them, Gary Walthall and Dozier Carter led Cedarville to an 82-69 win over Grace College in the opening game of the 1962-63 varsity basketball season.

Walthall scored 25 points on 8 fielders and 9 for 11 from the free-throw stripe, while pulling 22 rebounds off the boards. "Big Doze" canned 7 from the field and 2 from the charity line for 16 points.

Hot sniping by Norris Smith helped get Cedarville off to a startling 14-0 lead early in the game, but the Yellow Jackets saw it disappear to a three-point edge, 45-42, at halftime. Chet Kammerer of Grace, carrying a 21.7 average into the game, led the Lancers on their comeback drive, scoring 10 points in the surge. Grace caught and passed the Jackets in the second half, but weren't able to hold the lead as the Cedarville club bore down and gradually built up its winning margin of 13 points. Freshman guard Jerry Olsen did a fine job in guiding the team in the later stages of the game.

Kammerer led all scorers with 27 points.

WILMINGTON 92, CEDARVILLE 87

Wilmington's Rex Taylor and Roger Reveal proved too much for Cedarville as they combined for 47 points to help defeat the Yellow Jackets 92-87 in the 1962-63 Mid-Ohio League opener. The loss evened the C. C. record at 1-1.

Taylor was the big gun for the Quakers in the first half as he scored 16 points, mostly on drive-in shots and short jumpers. Reveal started tamely enough with only 5 points in the first half, but he roared back with 15 big markers in the second.

The Yellow Jackets scored first on a jump-shot by Dick Spencer for their only lead of the game. Wilmington pulled ahead and stayed there for the remainder of the game, increasing their lead to as much as 10 points in the second half. Cedarville pulled within 3 points, 85-82, in the final four minutes, but were unable to overcome the stubborn Quakers.

Dave Jeremiah was high for the Jackets with 18 points, followed by Dozier Carter with 16 and Gary Walthall and Jerry Olsen with 14 each.

CEDARVILLE 98, TAYLOR 92

Dick Spencer, the "quiet guy" of the Yellow Jacket quintet, exploded for 41 points as Cedarville stunned Taylor 98-92.

"Spence" banged in 7 field goals in 7 tries early in the first half. His fine ballhawking gained possession for Cedarville time after time as he stole the ball and picked off numerous Taylor passes and loose balls.

Taylor jumped off to an early 2-0 lead, but Spencer's first field goal knotted the score. Cedarville went ahead and managed to maintain the lead throughout the first half, leading at the intermission, 53-47.

The two clubs battled evenly in the second half. At one point the Jackets led 70-60, but a Trojan rally put Taylor ahead 74-73 with less than 12 minutes to play. However, the Ohioans were not to be denied as they stubbornly fought to their final 6-point advantage.

High scorer for Taylor was Larry Winterhalter with 19 points, followed by Lee Deturk with 18. Dave Kastelein and Ed DeVries each hit for 13. Dozier Carter, Gary Walthall, and Norris Smith backed up Spencer's performance with 20, 18, and 13 points respectively.

MR. REED TAKES SEMINAR AT OSU

Students who like "project" type courses should be interested in the situation of Mr. John Reed.

Mr. Reed of the College speech department is currently taking eight credit hours at Ohio State University in the field of radio-television education in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Ph.D. in Speech. One of his classes is a 5-hour seminar involving individual projects by each class member. Mr. Reed's project for the course is the programming and training of announcers for WCDR-FM. In addition to the work for the campus station, Mr. Reed must fulfill certain reading requirements, and must evaluate a number of radio and television programs. He is assisted in his project by Dave Jeremiah, Paul Gathany, and members of the radio-speech class.

Mr. Reed's seminar teacher is Dr. Keith J. Tyler, a top man in the field of radio-television education. Dr. Tyler will be leaving for Egypt Dec. 13 to work for the United States government as technical adviser to educational broadcasting in Egypt.

FROSH ELECT OFFICERS

The climax in the Freshman class elections came Monday, December 10, when the majority of the freshmen made their various ways to the polls to vote for the candidates of their choice.

Those students running for the office of president were Gene Culley, Denis Rockwell, and Charles Wilkins; and those aspiring for the office of vice president were Dorinda Bush, Ron Dew, Anne Halley, and Annette Whaley. Suzanne Lepine, LuAnn Mahanna, Loretta Taulbee, and Kathy Teeters competed for the office of class secretary, while Barbara Bieger, Charis Johnson, and Joe Stowell sought the office of treasurer. Those seeking to represent their class in Student Council were Mona Ballard, Dawn Mitchell, Jody Ronk, John Stockwell, and Gordon Taylor.

Each student who wished to run for class office was required to obtain a specified number of his classmates' signatures on a petition. After this it was open season on campaigning. The mark of the election board, headed by John Lawlor, had to be on each piece of publicity. The bulk of this consisted of posters, tags, and vocal persuasion.
