

12-16-1964

Whispering Cedars, December 16, 1964

Cedarville College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedars>

Part of the Journalism Studies Commons, and the Organizational Communication Commons

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a platform for archiving the scholarly, creative, and historical record of Cedarville University. The views, opinions, and sentiments expressed in the articles published in the university's student newspaper, Cedars (formerly Whispering Cedars), do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors of, and those interviewed for, the articles in this paper are solely responsible for the content of those articles. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

Recommended Citation

Cedarville College, "Whispering Cedars, December 16, 1964" (1964). Cedars. 199.
<https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedars/199>

This Issue is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@Cedarville, a service of the Centennial Library. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cedars by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Cedarville. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@cedarville.edu.

Footer Logo

A Student Publication of Cedarville College WHISPERING CEDARS

Vol. XI

December 16, 1964

No. 5

GOLDEN EGG OF OPPORTUNITY LAID

By Joanna Ronk

Trying to save money or interested in storing away a new egg for the future? Many friends of Cedarville College have been doing just that and the total bond sale has climbed to approximately $20,000. These golden eggs come made to order in sizes of $50, $100, $200, $500, or $1000 and may mature yearly from October 15, 1965 to October 15, 1979.

Last summer the board of trustees voted to issue one million dollars worth of bonds in three stages. Mr. St. Clair, Business Manager, is pressing for the completion of the first stage of $350,000 within a year.

Knowing that "Where your treasure is, there shall your heart be also," the 796 bonds will be distributed among individuals and churches rather than sold to insurance companies or similar interests. Mr. St. Clair feels that a close relationship with our constituency is vital.

The purchase of bonds, however, is not limited to those outside the immediate Cedarville family. Any student or organization with an eye for business may take advantage of the opportunity to invest in our college and receive 5% interest on the capital.

"The bonds provide an excellent method of financing income-producing properties such as dormitories," Mr. St. Clair explained. To watch your golden egg hatch into better and bigger facilities, invest now. Purchase orders and further information may be obtained in the Business Office.

ANNUAL CONCERT PRESENTED

By James Miller

On Tuesday, December 15, at 8 p. m., the Cedarville College Christmas Concert was presented. This year's program was given in three sections.

To begin the program, the College Band, under the direction of Mr. William Thornton, played the always-enjoyed winter song "Sleigh Ride." Other selections played were "Quiet Christmas," "Winter Carnival," "Cantique de Noel," and "Winter Scenes."

Miss Ruth Smith directed the Choralaires in the second portion of the program. "Carol of the Bells" and "Winter Wonderland" were the first numbers sung by the group. Next, Vicki Curcio and Mark Averitt sang a duet, "Silver Bells," which greatly aroused the Christmas spirit of all in attendance. "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head" and "Wreath the Holly, Twine the Bay" were the final selections presented by the Choralaires.

(continued on page 4)

EDITORIAL

It is getting a little bit tiring around here, the way that the problem of cheating is being handled at this place. BUT, the big problem is not in the administration's handling of cheating, but in the way some of our thoroughly indoctrinated students refuse to "rat on their Christian brothers." I guess that you think that this is another one of those tirades on the propriety of informing. Well it is! Too many of us sit back and earn our F's while we watch a minority sit in a class room and cheat floating by with very impressive B's. There is an interesting fact about the pathological cheater. He knows that he is incapable of getting A's without cheating so he is satisfied to cheat and get B's or C's. I think that some of the following reactions to my question should prove interesting to the student body.

QUESTION: Why wouldn't you turn in someone for cheating?

New Jersey—I think that it depends on the frequency of cheating. I couldn't turn in someone who never cheated before.

Iowa—I think that a person will answer eventually to the Lord.

New Jersey—What if the State waited for the Lord to deal with murderers?

Michigan—We are not the State, yet we make up the school. We are Cedarville College even more than the Administration is—and we should be the ones who deal with cheating.

Iowa—Yet, if we testify against someone for cheating, we will have to take the responsibility for that person getting kicked out. And frankly I don't relish the idea.

Ohio—Someone has to take responsibility; in court alone witness might be responsible for someone being imprisoned.

New Jersey—If we allow cheaters to get by. We are the ones who are going to be responsible for our school having a padded reputation made up of Cum Laude's who cheated their way up there. I think that we should have one faculty member who we can go to in the administration to report cheating. That way no mention of the name of the one who is the cheating need be made to the cheater. A written transcript should be made of the conversation, signed, and put on file.

Illinois—That way a person could, well, sort of be protected. I mean he won't get the reputation of being an informer.

New Jersey—Then the person who has been caught cheating would be called in and spoken to. His problem could be discussed and perhaps some solution could be reached. Just a talk not a disciplinary action, for the first offense. (Gal. 6:1)

Michigan—His instructors should be informed of his problem. And if it should happen again. He will be immediately dismissed. The student body should not be let in on a first offender at all.

Iowa—The problem about going in front of the discipline committee and testifying, is that you could really be looked down upon by this minority on the campus. And this isn't fair. Having someone to go to and report cheating would help the situation.

It is a 'much-hard-thing' for a student at this school to point the finger of accusation at another student. This system, rough as it is, might help alleviate some of the pressure that a person has when he feels compelled to report a cheater. Any further discussion from the floor?

LUKE says:

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

OPEN HOUSE SHARES FUN

By Mona Ballard

"Half the fun of having a house is sharing it," smiled Miss Joy Mackay, Cedarville's dean of women. Acting upon this philosophy, Miss Mackay held open house for Cedarville College faculty members Sunday, December 6, to officially begin "sharing" her new house, which she has occupied since the first of September.

In preparation for the occasion, Miss Mackay spent all day Thanksgiving putting the house in a holiday mood. The seasonal look begins with four foot candles in front of the house and a wreath on the door to greet guests. Inside, in addition to a seven foot tree asparkle with "75 lights," all doors and even the light switches are decorated.

Miss Carla Packard, language instructor, aided Miss Mackay in preparing for the open house and serving as a second guide to faculty members on tours throughout the house.

GAMMA CHI HOLDS BUFFET

By Patricia Versluis

What would be a better way for a group of girls and their dates to get to know the administration and their wives better than by inviting them to a charming buffet dinner? This is what Gamma Chi did Monday, December 14, at 6:30 in room 201 of the Student Center. After the dinner a group presented a comedy pantomime on "The Night Before Christmas." Carols were voiced and a number of the girls demonstrated how to make candy reefs. Fun and good food were enjoyed by all who attended.

CEDARVILLE PLANS NEW LIBRARY

By Paul Brower

The next big step in the expansion program of Cedarville College is a new library. The President, the Business Manager, and other administrators of the college are tirelessly working as this plan nears reality.

There is one weighty problem—finances. Yet, all those connected with the college are justifiably optimistic, as Dr. Williams would say, because they have the answer to big problems—a big God.

The architect has sent his preliminary drawings to the Administrative Committee. At the present time, two things remain to be done: the architect must finish his drawings and the needed money must be raised. After the drawings are approved by the Administrative Committee, the specifications will be released for bids. The architect estimates that the building will cost approximately $300,000.

The students of Cedarville College are also showing interest in this campus need. The Student Council has set up a committee to raise $1,000 from the student body. They have asked each student to bring a two-dollar bill back from their Christmas vacation. If the students respond, their goal will be met.

When asked the time when these plans will become a reality, Mr. St. Clair replied, "We should begin work on the building early this summer. It is an eight-month project and it will be done before September of 1966 at the very latest."

JACKETS LOOK IMPRESSIVE

The season is still young but so far the Jackets have lived up to expectations. Because of his size and strength, Al Knott has been a very impressive rebounder this year. He is also a leading shooter and will be a welcome addition to this year's team. Because of his qualifications, he will be a great asset in his future years at Cedarville.

As was expected, Big 'Doz' Carter is the center of the team this year. It may seem to some that he doesn't look as good this year because his scoring is less. The reason for this is that Gary Walthall and Al Knott share more with the scoring and the team is better balanced. His presence is always felt under the boards by the opposing players.

Gary Walthall is making a tremendous comeback this year. Because he stayed out of school last year, it is hard to get back into the swing of basketball. However, he is scoring consistently and helping out in the rebounding department.

Larry Richardson is a big asset to the team this year. His shooting and ball handling have improved over the summer and he is playing a very consistent game.

Mark Combs got off to a slow start this year as far as scoring goes but his defense and floor game contributed much to our wins. Mark gained the respect of everyone he played against last year because of his hustle and determination and we are looking for more of the same this year.

Many of the freshmen have proven that they can do the job when substituted this year. A few of those outstanding are John Watson, Gary Drill, "Spider" Wilson, and Gayle Bradds. Because a player has no time to warm up before he is put in, substitution is probably the hardest job on the team and they have done their job well.

CONCERT (continued from page 1)

The third part of the concert was the presentation of the Christmas songs from Frederick Handel's "Messiah." The seventy voice choir, consisting of students, faculty members, student wives, and chorales, was directed by Mr. Walter Meissner. The choir was accompanied by a twenty piece orchestra, pianist Miss Ruth Smith, and organist Gordon Griffin. The soloists in the group were Vicki Curcio, Marlene Werner, Mark Averitt, and Mr. Meissner.

MATTHEW says:

And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.

STAFF

Editor Michael Kellogg
Reporter-in-chief. Joanna Ronk
Copy Reader. Dorothy Olsen
Arts Editor Suzanne Bartheld
Sports Editor Richard Pettitt
Devotional Editor . . Charles Truxton
Political Editor . . . James Stockwell
Typists Dawne Evans
 Louise Stutesman
Circulation-Advertising.
 Howard Timmons
Adviser E. L. Greenwood