RESERVED FOR CONFERENCE

March 31 through April 4 has been reserved for the missionary conference which is sponsored by the Fellowship for World Missions in conjunction with the Maranatha Baptist Church in Springfield, and Emmanuel and Calvary Baptist Churches in Dayton. The script for the conference song was written by Gary Fransted, and the music was arranged by Shirley Byrd.

Previews of the guest missionary speakers are as follows:

Stanley Brittain who has been stationed in Liberia, West Africa, under Baptist Mid-Missions, is the business manager of the mission and does evangelistic work in Monrovia, the capital city.

Bernard Bancroft, administrative secretary of Associated Missions, a missionary arm of the International Council of World Missions which works closely with ABWE, has served several years in the Philippines. He was a pioneer in the missionary outreach in that country.

Jaymes Morgan, under ABWE, has been in the "roof top" ministry in Hong Kong working with refugees who have escaped from Communist China.

SOCIAL WORKERS STAND IN FRONT RANKS OF ATTACK ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS

"Throughout the country social workers today are in the forefront positions in their communities to prevent the causes—as well as to deal with the products—of such major problems as poverty, delinquency, needs of the aging, mental illness and mental retardation, family breakup, and racial prejudice," according to Konrad Reisner, chairman of the Miami Valley Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

The month of March is being used by social workers here and throughout the country to stimulate public awareness of the role of social work, as represented by both public and voluntary agencies, in helping individuals, families and communities to understand the social problems confronting them and in developing and strengthening efforts to meet them.

"While governments and communities are mounting new programs to combat social ills and look for professional social workers to man them, the supply of qualified social work personnel continues far below the demand," Mr. Reisner declared. He emphasized that there are 10,000 current social work positions unfilled in the United States, that 15,000 social workers must be recruited annually just to maintain exist-

EDITORIAL

The excited students applauded their team as it appeared on the court to warm up. Cheers were in order as the game began; bells and horns added to the effect. "What spirit!" an observer commented.

Having come a good way through another basketball season, school spirit has been discussed and commented on considerably of late. There is perhaps no better obverse example of school spirit than a basketball game. Yet, is this all there is to school spirit? Is this true school spirit?

School spirit in its purest sense is a deep rooted attitude which affects the way a person reacts to the various situations in which he finds himself while at college.

To graduate from Cedarville College, every student is required to take Old Testament Survey. Most students reacted favorably to a Saturday morning class; they realized it needed to be done and have never complained. One student, however, rebelled by attempting to start a fire in the Student Center one Saturday just before class.

Many desk tops in our classrooms bear a "written record" of our school spirit and respect for college property. The gum chewed so ardently during Theology Survey is found on the bottom of a chair or in the dirt under a plant on our cafeteria tables. When leaving the Snack Shop, some drop papers as inconspicuously as possible to the floor or on the ground outside. We are showing our school spirit by the way in which we react to these and many other situations.

True school spirit, then, is deeper than a basketball game. It envelops a proper attitude toward administration and faculty, and a respect for school property and fellow students.

"Be Careful for Nothing" (Henry F. Lyte)

My Spirit on thy care
Blest Saviour I recline;
Thou wilt not leave me to despair,
For thou art love divine.

In Thee I place my trust,
On thee I calmly rest;
I know Thee good, I know Thee just
And count Thy joys the best.

What'er events betide
Thy will they all perform,
Safe in thy breast my head I hide,
Nor fear the coming storm.

Let good or ill befall,
It must be good for me;
Secure of having Thee in all
Of having all in Thee.

SENIOR CITIZEN

Christian fellowship is the most enjoyable aspect of life at Cedarville in the opinion of Helen Joanne Hamilton. Jo, better known as "Hammy" to some, transferred from Grace College as a second semester freshman three and one-half years ago. Despite the sometimes annoying problems accompanying the Central State program, she is happy to be a part of Cedarville College.

An elementary education major was Jo's choice for a course of study. Perhaps the most important factor in this decision was that she "likes kids." Certainly her friends say that Jo's "even-tempered, understanding personality" will be a great asset to her as a teacher.

Jo has put her persuasive power to work by convincing her younger sister, now attending Southern Illinois, to apply to Cedarville for next fall. Joanne's home is Alton, Illinois, where her father is pastor of the Brown Street Baptist church.

Joanne has kept herself busy during her college career. Aside from her class work at two schools, this year she announces on WCDR, participates in Gamma Chi, and plays the organ at a Presbyterian church on Sunday mornings. Summer is also an active time for Jo. Somehow she takes time from relaxing to attend classes at Southern Illinois and work in the personnel office there.

It might be surprising to learn that the interest in Jo's life most nearly qualifying as a hobby is cars. In fact, she "wouldn't mind owning a powder-blue GTO," a friend intimated.

After graduation in May, Jo hopes to teach either second or third grade in her home town, Alton.

ing services and that new Federal-State programs, such as that for establishment of community-wide mental health centers throughout the country, will require 50,000 additional social work recruits within the next decade.

Mr. Reisner said that numerous scholarships and fellowships are available for graduate study at the more than 65 accredited schools of social work in the United States and Canada.

Information is available directly from the schools or from the National Association of Social Workers, Box 67, Dayton, Ohio 45401.

Dean McIntosh says: "The names of students which appear on the academic dean's list are seldom found on the dean's discipline list."

BASKETBALL SEASON ENDS

A loss to fired up Rio Grande and a relatively easy victory over Fenn the last week of February brought to a close the most successful basketball season in Cedarville College history. On February 22 Coach Don Callan's quintet traveled to Gallipolis, where they met head on with a much improved aggregation from Rio Grande. Displaying uncanny shooting ability from all areas of the court, the Red men built up an early lead then headed off several Cedarville rallies to hand the Yellowjackets their third defeat, 97-91. Dozier Carter led all scorers with 30 points for Cedarville. He was followed by Gary Walthall with 23, Al Knott with 17, and Mark Combs with 15. Rio placed five men in double figures, as Jim Marshall, Paul Dillon and Don Trainer led the way with 26, 25 and 18 respectively.

On Saturday, February 27, Cedarville returned to their home gymnasium for the final game of the regular season and the final home game for seniors Carter, Walthall, and Combs. Fenn College provided the opposition as the Yellowjackets returned to their winning ways by captioning an 88-65 verdict over the Foxes for their 22nd victory of the season. A cold first half spelled doom for the Clevelanders as Cedarville moved to a commanding 46-20 half-time lead. Coach Callan substituted freely and nine Yellowjackets cracked the scoring column. Al Knott led the way with 17, but Dozier Carter and Gary Walthall were right on his heels with 16 apiece, while Mark Combs also hit double figures with 13. Weldon Kytile and Dick Mostowry paced Fenn with 16 apiece.

Then came the District 22 NAIA Tournaments. This year the Yellowjackets did not fare as well as last. The Jackets topped Findlay in the first round by 89-77; but the next night against undefeated Central State, the Jackets were swamped by an 87-61 count. Further facts of this Tournament may be seen in the next Whispering Cedars.

Martin Strolle, who is the deputation secretary for Hiawatha Land Independent Baptist Missions, served for a number of years as a home missionary in the state of Michigan.

Carl Anderson has worked as a missionary to the Jews in St. Louis, Missouri, since the 1930's giving him much experience in the missionary ministry.

Each of these missionaries will address the student body twice and speak in the participating churches once during the conference. The F. W. M. group will be presented a talk on various aspects of missions each weekday morning at 7:25.

A special part of the conference will be the film, "Haven of the Orient," which will be presented on Saturday night. Bernard Bancroft will be the speaker at this service.

The Fellowship for World Missions encourages all students and interested persons to pray for the speakers and the conference. Each one should anticipate a blessed time of fellowship during this series of meetings.
