Elementary Certification Granted to Cedarville

At its monthly meeting on March 14, the State Board of Education, upon recommendation of the State Department of Education, approved Cedarville College as an appropriate institution to grant teacher certification at the elementary school level subject to annual review.

The college was not granted approval to continue the secondary education program. Students desiring secondary certification will now need to consider the alternatives of utilizing the Central State University-Cedarville cooperative program, transferring, or graduating from Cedarville with a liberal arts degree and then seeking certification elsewhere.

The full impact of the adverse decision will not be known until conferences are held with

Dr. Earl Metz of the State Department of Education.

Dr. Jeremiah, college President, and Dr. Johnson, Academic Dean, have held meetings with many of the students enrolled in the secondary education program and have outlined different alternatives. It was also pointed out that students might wish to delay decisions as to future courses of action until the Metz meeting now planned here on campus, March 31.

Dr. Johnson noted that the cooperative program with Central State has been reasonably successful in the past and that he hoped several might consider this alternative seriously. The cooperative program enables students to take advantage of Cedarville's unique Christian approach and Central State's accreditation.

Groundbreaking Slated For Saturday

Groundbreaking for the new library and the dormitory will be held Saturday, April 2, at 2:00. This action comes after the college signed a contract with the C.I.T. Corporation of New York who will build the dorm on a rent-lease basis. Funds for the library's construction will still have to be raised through the gifts of friends of the college.

Both facilities are sorely needed. The new library will provide over twice the floor space of the present one. Although a basement will not be included in the construction as originally planned, the difference will be greatly noticed.

According to Mrs. Chaffee, college librarian, the new structure is hoped to contain a lot of single study seats. Shelving and study areas will be in one continuous room with conference, projection, seminar and faculty research areas separate. Multi-purpose rooms for typing and binding will also be included.

The college catalog of 1968-69 lists the capacity of the present library at 17,000 volumes, she added. Presently it contains 28,000. While the lack of a basement will cut down on shelving space, the library will still have ample room for over twice that many. Mrs. Chaffee pointed out that considerable space will have to be left in the shelving so that additions can be made more easily. She also observed that while the new library will seat 200 students compared with present capacities of slightly over 100, the 200 places will provide a minimum of six square feet of table space for each student. "We will have a decent place to study."

Construction is also scheduled to begin in the near future on a 220-bed residence hall which will be located north of Cedar View Lane and west of Route 72. This building is being financed by Commercial Investment Finance Corporation of New York City, and construction work will be under the direction of Southern Mills and Manufacturing Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The architect who has designed the building is H. Arthur Tucker of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Preliminary plans for the building include twenty six eight-student units, three four-student units, two guest room apartments, one house mother's apartment, and one co-educational lounge, according to Dean McIntosh. Other features of the building include two laundry areas, concessions and storage area, two linen rooms, two areas for storing formals, and two mechanical areas. The exterior dimensions of the building will be 171 by 212 feet, which is sixty feet longer than the Student Center-Gymnasium. All student units will open on an interior court. There will be no interior hallways, but the second floor rooms will open onto a balcony overlooking a courtyard. The eight-student units will include four sleeping rooms, lounge, storage area, and bath. The cost for next year will be $165 per student per semester.

Dean McIntosh said that the new building will probably be used to house women students with Patterson reverting to a men's residence hall. Students desiring to live in this residence hall next fall may make request on forms furnished by the Student Personnel office after Easter Vacation.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

R. T. McIntosh, Dean of Students, and Stanley N. Ballard, Dean of Men, will be attending the annual convention of The American Personnel and Guidance Association in Washington, D.C. Convention dates are April 3-7. The 1966 convention theme is "Man in the World Society: Heritage, Status and Promise."

Outstanding and nationally known leaders in the guidance and personnel field will be appearing on the daily programs. More than 180 program content sessions have been scheduled to occur in meeting rooms in the Washington Hilton, the Shoreham, and the Sheraton Park Hotels. Nearly 8,000 members, friends, and guests of the APGA are expected to attend. The Cedarville deans will give special attention to the American College Personnel Association and the National Vocational Guidance Association. Both of these are divisions of the APGA.

Deferment Tests Planned

STUDENT DEFERMENT....

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—If a college student can answer questions such as "32 is 2/7 of what number?" his chances of immediately avoiding the draft will improve, the Selective Service system disclosed recently.

That particular answer is 112. It was one of 30 sample questions contained in a "bulletin of information" for college students who want to take a three-hour test on May 14, May 21 or June 3 that may help them stay in school and out of the army.

Test scores will be sent to the local draft boards of all students involved. The results will help the boards decide whether students should be permitted to remain in college under a "2S" classification or be re-classified 1A.

The Selective Service system's decision to conduct the tests was made when it seemed possible that some students might have to be drafted to meet manpower requirements for the Vietnam war. The Army hinted Tuesday, however, that such a step might not be necessary because of the increased pace of voluntary enlistments.

The tests will be given at 1,200 locations in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone. They were drawn up and will be administered by Science Research Associates of Chicago.

Strict rules were laid down for all students voluntarily deciding to take the examination. Everyone will be fingerprinted in advance "to avoid the possibility that any unauthorized person might take the test."

Knotts Joins "Ventures for Victory"

All-District Al Knott has received an invitation to travel this summer with the Ventures for Victory team. The team is made up of outstanding Christian athletes who combine basketball playing with the presenting of a Christian testimony.

Some of the athletes who have presented their testimonies through Ventures for Victory have been All-Americans Tenk VanPatton of Temple U.; Ed Beck, U. of Kentucky; Nollan Ellison of Kansas U.; and 1966 All-American Clyde Lee of Vanderbilt.

Competition is provided by national teams. This year the tour will take the Victors to Hawaii, Hong Kong, Singapore, Formosa, New Zealand, and Australia. The team will leave July 9 and return in the middle of September.

Every athlete is expected to contribute at least part of the expenses for the trip. Money is raised by presenting films and slides of past teams and their experiences. Any one wishing to help out in this endeavor can contact Coach Callan.

EDITORIAL

Student Council in a recent meeting passed a resolution 20-4 enabling seniors to vote in the annual elections. The measure will be submitted to a student referendum.

Arguments against the resolution centered around one basic objection: Those who will not be under future Councils should not help determine the officers for those who will. However, in the light of statistics, this objection casts no shadow.

This year Cedarville experienced a turnover of more than 50% of last year's enrollment. 18% of these were seniors leaving absent over 32% of those who could have voted legally last year. This 32% could decide most elections. If another equal turnover occurs, the percentage eligible to vote will increase, for the senior class this year makes up only 12% of the enrollment. The answer to the problem would be fall elections, but they cause more problems than they cure. If present trends continue, the senior vote will not be the problem, but mass turnover will.

On the other hand, there are many advantages to giving the seniors the franchise. First, the seniors with four years of Cedarville life behind them have had a better chance to observe the good and the bad traditions of this life. They have also had a greater opportunity to evaluate the candidates than the underclassmen, especially the freshmen. This enables them to pick the most capable person to carry out the good aspects and traditions of our college life.

Unfortunately, in every election, there are those who do not take their vote seriously. Bitterness, apathy or a warped sense of responsibility lead them to vote in a detrimental manner. In some cases, this faction could decide the election. However, by giving the vote to the seniors, who should reflect a greater sense of responsibility and a keener judgement, much of the detrimental aspect could be counterbalanced.

If for no other reason, the seniors should be allowed to vote because their influence and vote will make the campaigns that much wider, tougher and more exciting. By having to reach more groups, leaders and votes, the candidates will have to show greater ingenuity, creativity and ability to be elected. This in turn will help provide those who have not had a chance to observe the candidates' abilities make a more intelligent decision.

Our student leaders should be the best available for the office. To make sure that they are placed there, to continue the good traditions of our school, and to insure better campaigns, let's give the seniors the vote.

The Gamma Chi banquet deserves our greatest praise. The hard work, originality and uniqueness of the affair will be remembered by all as one of the greatest highlights of this year and should provide incentive for a lot of banquets and social events to come.

We would also like to congratulate Mr. William Riter on the results of his C.P.A. tests, and Mr. Charles Buffam who recently received his Master of Arts in Composition from Ohio State University.

STUDENTS ATTEND

by JOYCE RUDDUCK

Twenty Cedarville Christian education majors attended the Annual Graduate School Conference at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois. Guest lecturer for the conference was Mr. Howard Hendricks from Dallas Theological Seminary.

Miss Jean Fisher observed that the conference was the best she has attended. "Mr. Hendricks' practical ideas and innovations left much food for thought."

Attending students also profited from the experience. Jan Emerson noted that the definitions, distinctives and duties of the counselor outlined in the conference were of special interest and help to her. "Dynamic" describes Dan Nevitt's reaction, while Darlene Patton had impressed upon her the necessity of cooperation among Christian workers.

All enjoyed and profited from the conference. Above all, I learned that the importance of Christ's distinguishing between the press of the mob and the touch of faith. The challenge was left . . . can we?

TO STUDY IN ISRAEL

Arnold Fruchtenbaum and Gerald Fisher, Cedarville seniors, were provisionally accepted in March for studies at the American Institute of Holy Land Studies in connection with the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Israel. They will work for Master's degrees in Palestine. Studies for this degree entail work in Hebrew, archaeology, ancient history and Biblical geography.

Before starting their studies in August, both will work in a kibbutz for a week to acquaint themselves with the language and customs of the Israelites.

Courses will be taught in Hebrew by Israeli professors. Part of the studies will be done at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. The program ends in August, 1967.

Young Americans
For Freedom"Building leadership for a Conservative America"
by Stephen Leiby

On September 9-11, 1960, 100 leading conservative students from 44 colleges and 24 states met in Sharon, Connecticut. From that conference emerged the new potent Young Americans for Freedom, Inc., of which the Conservative Club is now a part. From the meager membership of 100, the organization has grown to 30,000-plus members in 400 chapters in every state of the Union.

The tenets of this establishment, termed by the Hon. Barry M. Goldwater as "one of the most responsible and effective political action groups in the nation," are found in the Sharon statement, reprinted in part below.

IN THIS TIME of moral and political crisis, it is the responsibility of the youth of America to affirm certain eternal truths.

WE as young conservatives, believe:

THAT foremost among the transcendent values is the individual's use of his God-given free will, whence derives his right to be free from the restrictions of arbitrary force;

THAT the purposes of government are to protect these freedoms through the preservation of internal order, the provision of national defense, and the administration of justice;

THAT the genius of the Constitution—the division of powers—is summed up in the clause which reserves primacy to the several states, or to the people, in those spheres not specifically delegated to the Federal Government;

THAT the market economy, allocating resources by the free play of supply and demand, is the single economic system compatible with the requirements of personal freedom and constitutional government, and that it is at the same time the most productive supplier of human needs;

THAT when government interferes with the work of the market economy, it tends to reduce the moral and physical strength of the nation; that when it takes from one man to bestow on another, it diminishes the incentive of the first, the integrity of the second, and the moral autonomy of both.

THAT we will be free only so long as the national sovereignty of the United States is secure; that history shows periods of freedom are rare, and can exist only when free citizens concertedly defend their rights against all enemies;

THAT the forces of international Communism are, at present, the greatest single threat to these liberties;

THAT the United States should stress victory over, rather than coexistence with, this menace; and

THAT American foreign policy must be judged by this criterion: does it serve the just interests of the United States?

Basing its action on the above statement, Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) has, for 5½ years, been the most powerful young conservative movement in the United States. Its greatest victory to date is forcing Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. to cancel its contract to build a tire plant in Communist Rumania. Not to be overlooked, either, are the pages of the Congressional Record filled with discussion of YAF. And why not? Young Americans for Freedom is "building leadership for a Conservative America."

CHORALAIRES IN CONCERT

On April 1st at 8:00 p.m. the Choralaires will present their annual concert. Under the direction of Mr. Paul Vanderkoy, the Choralaires will begin by presenting two songs from Robert Frost's "Frostiana," set to music by Randall Thompson. Four madrigals by Thomas Molloy under the direction of David Nims, student conductor, will follow.

The group will give four numbers by Stephen Foster following intermission, with Tom Biller accompanying the Choralaires on the guitar in one of the Foster songs entitled "Some Folks." The concert will be concluded with a few lighter selections including "The Green Leaves of Summer" directed by John Goodman, and two selections from Walt Disney's "Mary Poppins."

The Question at Issue

What would you like to see done in Cedarville's Artist Series Program?

I feel that the artist series program needs a broadening and intensification. Our students seem to lack a knowledge and appreciation of light and heavy classical music, an awareness of the great movements and philosophies of our day, and an open-mindedness toward ideas that are contrary to our conservative Baptist viewpoint. I would like to see more men well versed in the areas of music, art, philosophy and world affairs brought to the campus through the artist series program.

Dorothy Olsen, 1966

If we are to have required meetings, such as the artist series, I feel that contemporary speakers, such as ambassadors and other notables in the realm of the fine arts should be represented and not programs by Cedarville College organizations.

Rich Davis, 1968

I have two suggestions to make concerning the artist series. One, there have been too few programs, too far between, and second, perhaps there could be a greater variety. With a greater variety of programs, attendance at all of the sessions would not need to be required. Let the program, not an attendance card, draw the audience.

Phil Grisso, 1966

The artist series must include artists in every field, those who are experts, masters of their subject. This rule applies to everyone billed in an artist-lecture series, whether he represents music, politics, or trees.

Gordon Griffin, 1966

I think we ought to have more artist series pertaining to the world situation. Last year it seemed that all the series were directed toward the cultural area, and none toward any other. A well-rounded program would be more fitting. A good speaker directly involved in the Viet Nam situation would be excellent.

Keith Shubert, 1967

We would like to express our sincere apologies for all the mistakes in the last issue's review of "The Mikado." Our embarrassment can be explained. In order to insure immediate coverage of the musical, the review was called in to the printer following the Friday performance. This eliminated the possibility of proof-reading the galley and hence the mistakes. For those of you who would like "to review the paper" the opportunity does exist in SIGNED letters to the editor.

FREE INQUIRY

College students today speak incessantly of their "right" of free inquiry. By this they mean the right to face the variety of potential answers to an intellectual problem and choose from these the alternative their minds find most satisfactory.

This is a nign and worthy goal. Any student hoping to attain intellectual maturity must learn to think through the variegated viewpoints on a given problem. Consequently, one of the basic responsibilities of higher education must be the development of an academic climate conducive to the free exchange of heterogeneous concepts.

An open-minded intellectual climate is not inconsistent with the principles of a Christian college like Cedarville. Conservative Christianity should not and must not be used as a mask for intellectual sloth.

Surveys taken this year indicate that many students feel Cedarville College lacks this "open-mindedness." Several faculty members agree. Naturally the burden of responsibility for this failure must rest upon the shoulders of the faculty and administration. They must create an atmosphere in which students feel free to disagree.

But what about the students? Do they have any responsibility in the development of free inquiry? Indeed they do! In order to have an open-minded intellectual climate a college must have not only a faculty that promotes free inquiry, but also a student body that is intellectually curious. Students must be interested in the basic theories, new ideas, and new interpretations that are stimulating the academic community. They must develop within themselves a sensitivity to significant questions.

A student's investigation of ideas is meaningful only if it is characterized by knowledge, discriminating judgment, and a thorough understanding of every aspect of the problem. This means long hours of reading and study, not merely to fulfill course requirements, but for the sheer pleasure of acquiring information. This accumulation of data is vital to free inquiry. Too many students theorize without the facts, and theories without buttressing are worse than useless.

On the other hand, the learning process must include more than the mere amassing of a myriad of fact. Divorced from an ability to analyze, interpret, and evaluate, facts became insignificant trivia. The educated individual is characterized by the ability to think and reason, and the student must learn to defend his ideas logically and trenchantly.

The process of free inquiry is valuable and delightful when approached properly. But students must remember that this is not only their right, it is their responsibility. The faculty must do everything in their power to stimulate thought. But the students must respond to the stimuli by demonstrating a healthy intellectual curiosity which can be channeled toward a comprehensive investigation of evidences. Free inquiry can become a reality only when open and inquiring minds employ habits of rigorous and disciplined investigation.

DEFERMENT

Any one found cheating will be dismissed from the examination and his draft board will be notified. No one will be allowed to bring "textbooks, notes, slide rules or other aids" into the examination room.

Students wanting to take the examination must get the "bulletin of information" from their draft boards and make a formal application. When they take the test they are to bring along two number two pencils which "should be sharpened and ready for use."

The bulletin said that "the test presupposes no schooling beyond the ordinary high school preparation for college. Scores on the test will not themselves determine eligibility for deferment. Scores on the test will be used by the selective service local boards in considering the eligibility of registrants for occupational deferment as students."

The test is aimed mainly at students who rank low in class standings. Those with high standings will continue to receive student deferments.

* * *

The test, which will have 150 questions, covers four categories—reading comprehension, verbal relations, arithmetic reasoning and data interpretation by analyzing figures on a chart.

One of the questions gave a word and then listed five others. The idea was to find the one most nearly opposite, namely:

Nebulous: A—Disgruntled; B—Clear; C—Fringed; D—Stricken; E—Striped. The answer is B.

Season Opens Saturday

Off Campus Sweeps Season

The Off-Campus team continued its domination of intramurals by winning both the league and tournament championships in basketball. Its only loss during the league play was to Harriman-Farm House.

Tournament finals saw the victors edge a fired-up Bethel team 64-55 after a game that usually had less than a four-point difference. Cedar Park 1-5 captured third place while Harriman-Farm House drew up fourth.

Intramurals are now being played in ping pong and badminton.

Spring Soccer

Coach Dennis Olson has announced that all prospective varsity soccer players are invited to participate in a spring soccer program.

The program, a new one for Cedarville, will start right after Easter vacation and continue for four to five weeks. Inter-collegiate games are a possibility with inter-squad games a reality if enough participate. Interested individuals should watch the announcements and bulletin boards for details.

Baseball Opens Saturday

by JIM HAY

Cedarville's baseball team faces a full season this year with 19 games on the schedule. Nine games will be played at home. The season opens Saturday here in Cedarville with a double-header with the University of Dayton at 12:30.

Predicting a season's outcome is always risky (the Yankees were picked in 1965), but I will take the chance and predict a 15-4 record. The league championship should be between Defiance, Ashland and Cedarville.

Radio station WCDR-FM, 90.1, will broadcast all home games. If you can not make it to the games, tune in when Coach Callan, Jim Phipps and myself bring you the action of Jacket baseball, 1966.

Below are the season's schedule and my predictions.
