COLLEGE WELCOMES ALUMNI

Reminiscing, spirited chats with old friends, a play and basketball game, displays, an alumni emphasis in the Sunday morning church service, will highlight the Cedarville College annual Homecoming this weekend. Festivities begin Friday night, November 20, with Jesse Stuart's "The Thread That runs So True" presented by a student cast under the direction of Miss Ruth Kantzer. After alumni registration and coffee time Saturday morning, a campus tour will view and judge the Homecoming displays created by college organizations. The Cedarville College Varsity squad and alumni basketball players will battle it out in the afternoon. Following a second presentation of the play Saturday evening, there will be fun and refreshments in the gym. Roy Shelpman, Cedarville College graduate now studying and teaching in Grand Rapids, is speaking at the morning service of Grace Baptist Church to bring Cedarville's Homecoming to a fitting close. Mr. Cooke, Mr. Bowser, and Mr. Brumbaugh, faculty representatives of the college cosial committee, are in charge of this year's Homecoming activities.

FACULTY MEMBER WEDS NURSE

"Congratulations to you. . . Mr. Bartholomew" seems to have become the theme song of Cedarville College in the last couple weeks. And all this because of a wedding! Mr. Raymond Bartholomew and Miss Rosemary Plank were married Friday evening, November 6, at 7:30 in Meadville, Pennsylvania. At the wedding ceremony in the Calvary Baptist Church attended by 450 friends, the pastor Roy T. Plank, father of the bride, and Dennis Plank, her brother, also a minister, officiated. Both the bride and groom had three attendants; best man was Jim Jones of Cleveland, a former student of Cedarville College. A reception at the YWCA in Meadville followed the ceremony.

The couple met in Cleveland's Cedar Hill Baptist Church while Mr. Bartholomew was doing graduate work at Western Reserve University and Miss Plank teaching classes in nursing at the Metropolitan General Hospital; He has a B.A. from Cedarville College, an M.A., and a good start toward a Ph.D. from Western Reserve. She received a B.A. at Bob Jones University and is a Registered Nurse. They became engaged early in July 1959. Miss Plank was given a bridal shower in Cleveland by faculty members of the Metropolitan General Hospital and in Meadville by friends of the family.

Having arrived in Cedarville Tuesday evening after a four-day honeymoon, the newly-weds were shivareed by Trailerville well-wishers. Mr. Bartholomew will continue his English teaching at the College, and his wife plans to go into nursing in a few weeks. Cedarville College faculty, staff, and students wish them much happiness and the Lord's richest blessing.

SPORTS NEWS

The 1959-60 Cedarville College Yellow-Jackets will be fanning their wings against the Alumni Saturday night in a last minute tune-up before taking off on a 24-game basketball schedule, 14 of which will be played in Alford Memorial Gymnasium. Coach Sherm Bowser, blessed with an opening practice turn-out of 31 boys over a month ago, cautiously states that in the past few sessions the squad has been "coming along" and "looking a little better." Although they turned in a rusty performance, the Jackets topped Wright Patterson Air Base 60-42 last Friday in a game conditioned scrimmage.

Hot competition for starting position has been warmest in the bids being made for the guard spots by Sam Canine, Norris Smith, Terry Zerby, Dave Lewis and Bill Elder. Vital returning lettermen in addition to Pete Reese, Zerby and Lewis are John Butler and John and Jim Entner.

According to Webster, Yellow Jackets "are noted for their irritability and their painful stings." Perhaps this will be the year when we will do a little more stinging and be a real pain in the neck.

Cedarville fans want success as does the team, but we feel compelled to go on record in assuring the squad and coaching staff that we've been extremely proud of them in past seasons and can ask no more than a continuation of the same effort, spirit and Christ-honoring sportsmanship.

The new Junior Varsity coach, Dale Thomson, will be playing with the Alumni Saturday and reports that the alumnae probably will have the services of Lane Moody, Jerry Thornton, Dick Wentzel, Dick Lapp, Bob Howder, Dale Breedlove, and Paul Schenk. Welcome home, fellows!

SENIOR SNEAK SUCCESSFUL

Sleepy-eyed juniors peered from their windows at five o'clock Thursday morning to see a string of automobiles with thirty-nine seniors aboard announcing a successful sneak with blaring horns. After the triumphant get-a-way the seniors headed for Lexington, Kentucky, where they saw Nashua and Gallant Man, famous race horses at Spendthrift Farm. Following lunch at the Kentuckian Hotel, the group visited Calumet Farms. The remainder of the afternoon was spent on the University of Kentucky campus.
