COLLEGE FAMILY CHANGES FACES

Juw5 like every January here at the college, students came and went. Out of a first-semester enrollment of 250, about 17 students dropped out after semester exams. At second semester registration, approximately that same number enrolled for the first time or re-enrolled after an absence.

Coming in as freshmen were Sharon Addleman of Hillsdale, Michigan; Nancy Shimits of East Cleveland, Ohio; Norma Smith of South Bend, Indiana; Robert Bell of Kent, Ohio; and Dale Adams, a returning student from Meadville, Pennsylvania. The sophomore class gained Donna Davis of Detroit, Michigan; William Washburn of Xenia, Ohio; Earl Dunlap of Kalkaska, Michigan; and returning students Bill Lane of Blanchester, Ohio, and Charles Fry of Crawfordsville, Indiana. William Jennings, Don Rickard from Toledo, Ohio, Benjamin Cullers from West Virginia, and Robert Kidd from Brooklyn, New York made the junior class a bit larger. Special students enrolled for classes who were not registered last semester are Ernestine McCartt of South Solon, Ohio, Ruth Ager and Alberta Carr of Cedarville, Ohio.

SOPHOMORES SPONSOR "CENTERVILLE AWAKENING"

Simply because a man has a deep desire to be a missionary, that doesn't mean mission work is where God wants him. God works through the life of one man and his wife to show them that He needs them in the States and uses them to start a real revival in the city of Centerville.

"Centerville Awakening" will be shown Saturday night, February 27, at 8 p.m. in Milner Chapel. The Sophomore Class is sponsoring the film as its all-school party. Refreshments will be served in the dining hall after the film.

by the school. I love schools which are based on a sound approach to the Bible, and this school has impressed me with a good, balanced atmosphere. Even the school's regulations are well balanced--exerting the proper influence on the students, yet not being "legalistic." He is a member of the Boards of two Baptist colleges: Tennessee Temple College and Piedmont College in Winston-Salem, N. Carolina.

When asked if he felt that the students had responded well to his ministry, our speaker replied, "It is hard to say. A school group is something like a penitentiary--they all have to be there...If I can help the Christians to appreciate their heritage, and to be more like Christ, I will have accomplished my purpose. It is hard to preach to a strange audience, because I don't know their peculiar needs."

Dr. Williams, who along with President James Jeremiah has filled the pulpit in Covington for Dr. Eastep on various occasions, stated, "It was felt that his ministry would be of peculiar blessing to the school. And, he has done a wonderful job."

After the lectures are completed, the next event of significance to the spiritual life of the college will be the Day of Prayer, which will be next Wednesday, the 24th of February.

NEW ARRIVALS FIGHT IT OUT

It looks as though the girls have it! Keith and Karen Collett started the ball rolling last fall with a little girl, Kelly. Mark Evans, son of the Bill Evans, came along a few weeks later. Since then Don Adams and his wife had Debra, the Warren Allens another girl, Dave and Glenda Cochran, Tamara Lynn, and Larry and Beverly Smith, Linda Ann. Laura Colleen surprised Everett and Laura Fox. The Dean Mayos tried to even up the score with a pair of twins, David and Timothy. It was a good try, but the girls are still ahead 6 to 3!

Congratulations to the Miracle staff on completion of the 1960 Cedarville College yearbook. Miss Kantzer and the staff: Jim Entner, Delores Osborn, Donis Collier, Otis Stone, Dick Cook, Marlene Davis, Esther Weiss and Norm Getty, have worked hard on it since last spring. We hear that this yearbook is going to be better than ever and so look forward to seeing it.

"IT DOES THEM GOOD"

A survey which Church Horn took of the married men of Cedarville College at the end of the first semester revealed that our "captive males" not only enjoy their status but assert that it has helped them in college work.

Chuck insisted that the survey was not intended as a recommendation to unmarried students, but the results do leave a strong impression.

Of the thirteen men polled, twelve stated that their grades in college had improved since marriage and one that his grades remained the same. The same twelve said they felt a more mature sense of responsibility; one felt his condition remained the same. Ten claimed that their spiritual lives have improved since marriage, and three felt that there had been no noticeable change. While one claimed a more active social life, four said there has been no change, and eight felt that their participation in college social activities had decreased because of their jobs (to support their families.)

Only students who were married after they entered Cedarville College were permitted to register their opinions--this assured an accurate basis of comparison.

According to results of this poll, it is beneficial to your college life to get married, or else the husbands are all hen-pecked and afraid to give their honest opinions.

SENIORS LEADING IN INTRAMURALS

The intramural basketball season heads into its final set of games with the Sophomores and Seniors both shooting for the championship. The Seniors took a half game lead in the three team race by edging the sophomores 39-36 last Monday and then beating the Freshmen 53-36 the following night. If the Sophomores come out on top last night (Thursday) in their game with the Freshmen the league will be all tied up--otherwise the Seniors will have a one game advantage.

SOCK 'N BUSKIN (con't)

Dee Osborn plays Ma, Keith Webster, Pat Don Adams and Lois Jeremiah are Jimmy and Cynthia. Dave Matson plays the lead part of David Lawrence in "Andante". Other members of the cast are Neva Claypool as Martha Lawrence, Keith Webster as Bruce Lawrence, Lee Bennett as Dr. Andrews, and Esther Weiss as the maid, Alice. Tickets are 50¢ and may be obtained from members of Sock 'N Buskin.

About a month and a half ago, January 11, Sock 'N Buskin sponsored its first public event; a black-and-white film presentation of Charles Dickens' Great Expectations. John Mills played Pip, the young man of great expectations, and Valerie Hobson portrayed Estella, the object of his marital hopes.

From a stark, eerie graveyard through a humble blacksmith home and shop, a cobwebbed mansion, a luxurious London apartment, a tiny rowboat, an English court and jail, the humble home and weird mansion again, Pip wends his exciting, uncertain, and often perilous way. Striking settings, vivid characters, and an intricate plot equal a fascination presentation of Dickens' melodrama.

The newspaper staff appreciates the able and enthusiastic leadership Horace Ward furnished last semester. No, he hasn't been demoted; he resigned. His duties as pastor of a church in Jamestown and student at Cedarville College with other extra-curricular activities have become too heavy a load. We regret that he had to drop his editorship of Whispering Cedars but know that he will do as fine a job as reporter.
