Combs and Herman Join Guardsmen

Auditions were held on January 27 and February 2 to fill two openings in the Guardsmen quartet and to form a new quartet.

As a result, Mr. Payne and Mr. Matson have selected Steve Herman, baritone, and Ronald Coombs, tenor, to join the regular members of the Guardsmen quartet, Ron Spieth and Phil Mohler. All men are juniors except Steve Herman, a freshman.

When asked about the possibilities for a second quartet, Mr. Matson said that it was premature to know the possibilities but they look reasonably good. He also said, "I am encouraged with the response. It is the best response we have had in the five years I have been here."

Tarter Receives Degree

Mr. Charles Tarter, head of the college's housekeeping department, has just received his diploma in maintenance supervision from the American Institute of Maintenance in Glendale, California.

In addition to the diploma, Mr. Tarter also received a letter of recognition for being an honor student. His overall grade in the course was 99.25.

Loren Reno Will Travel Abroad

Loren Reno, 6'1" Senior guard, is one of ten chosen to tour Central and South America, playing for the Ambassadors basketball team. The team will be touring about eight weeks in June and July.

Traveling by bus, car, and plane, they will be playing one or two games a day, primarily in Mexico and Columbia. At the halftime, a few testimonies will be given and the Gospel presented. Afterwards, fans who are interested may stay, for more information. Besides witnessing at halftime, they will also be speaking at churches, clinics, and other groups.

Cristopher Bean Arrives

Cedarville College presented its winter play, The Late Christopher Bean, February 5, 6 and 7.

As one actor, Kenn Dibble, said in his lines on stage, "Things are a little cold around here." Backstage, however, the (artificial) "Sun" blazed when one of the switches "blew a circuit."

Observers realized that it takes a company to produce a play such as The Late Christopher Bean. The set used in the play was a Cedarville first. It was hand-painted and constructed by members of the crews, and extended onto the apron and outside corners of the stage. After each rehearsal and performance, the extending portions had to be dismantled and hidden until the next night.

"Play production is a unique activity," said Dianne Kemp, a member of the lighting crew. "The cast, crews, and director learn how to work together, pray together, and

Student Teachers Receive Contract Option

Beginning next fall, all student teachers will have the opportunity to go "off contract." Any student who is student teaching may have board expenses (the current amount is $165) deducted from the quarter's bill if desired. This student will then pay cash for any meal eaten in the cafeteria, as would a guest. Those student teachers who do not desire to go "off contract" will still receive the current benefit of a "reduced" food bill. In other words, they are still on contract, but money is deducted from their board for the lunch meal.

Surprisingly, this innovation is not new to Cedarville College. It was tried in the past, but too many students "off contract" neglected cafeteria meals entirely and cooked meals in their rooms, causing numerous complaints.

Would going "off contract" save money? It depends basically on how often one goes to meals. The contract students pay $15 a week for meals, yet a non-contract student paying cash for meals would average $20 a week.

play together. Each person has to learn something about everyone's job."

Problems Of Food Service Probed

Student Council brought up the issue of cafeteria problems in the meeting of Jan. 28. Mr. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Ron Mellish, and Joyce Jefferies made up a panel for questioning from the students.

Student teachers getting off contract was discussed and this will be permissible starting next year. In the meantime, a student teacher may partially go off contract for the meals that he is missing now.

Mrs. Smith stated that she works with seventeen other colleges besides Cedarville, and she rates Cedarville, "head and shoulders above them all." She said there is not the thievery and waste here that there is in other schools, so we are able to have ice cream socials and good family style meals, also it is permissible to come back for the fifth or sixth hamburger.

Mr. Smith discussed the problem of the clouded glasses and said that it was caused by malfunction of the water softener, and local water conditions. This problem is being worked on.

The cafeteria seems to be having problems with some of the students in that trays and garbage are left on the tables and sometimes on the chairs.

They asked that the few who indulge in this please take a little pride in table manners and conduct to solve this problem. (The last remark was to whom it may concern.)

There still is some waste, however, and less of it should result in getting better meals and better cuts of meat.

The cafeteria is concerned about the student and it operates for the student.

Band Goes On Tour

The band is going on tour for the first time in the history of Cedarville College. On February 17, the band leaves for Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and returns the following Sunday night.

They will perform at churches and perhaps give school concerts, and sight see in Chicago for one day. One purpose of the trip is to promote the "Three to Grow On" program.

The women band members will wear floor-length skirts, blazers and gold ascots. The men will also have blazers and ascots.

Mrs. Haggart (Don Goff) "I bought them."

Editorial

Are You For Real?

by Pastor Harold Green

"Tell it like it is." This statement has great acceptance in the NOW generation and rightly so. Credibility gaps or just plain deceptions have for too long plagued our great society. The problem is no less in the Christian sphere; in fact, it may be even more pronounced.

Our beliefs have been clearly defined in the Word of God, but the demonstration of our beliefs in behavior many times is only for those around us. We have the constant danger of conditioning our actions and reactions to appear right and acceptable and at the same time not be genuine. This deception is at its worst when it becomes self-deception and we believe it. Nothing is more cunning and pernicious than rationalizing our state of affairs.

We are living in a day when imitations have become a booming business and the products seem so real that the genuine is hard to distinguish. Advertising has played on this theme—"Only her hairdresser knows for sure," "Which one has the real _____?"—and illustrates the wide acceptance and popularity of imitation. This has carried over into the spiritual. We are most capable of projecting the image of the genuine and at the same time being a Jeckle and Hyde character. The apostle Paul expressed his burden when he told the church at Rome to provide that which is honest in the sight of all men (Romans 12:17). To the church at Corinth he further stated the motivation, that it is also before the Lord that we must be honest (II Corinthians 8:21). With the knowledge that all things are open and naked before the Lord with whom we have to do (Hebrews 4:12-13), introspection should and must be a daily concern. Thus, the question: Am I really telling what I really am?

May we with Paul provide that which is honest (excellent), both before God and man.

Attitude Appears Schizo

Cedarville sportsmanship at the basketball games has been the topic of comment by students from opposing schools.

Cedarville has "real good spirit" one cheerleader stated, but another collegian from her school said that he thought there could be more cheering. Another opposing cheerleader reflected that we had a "lot more screaming than cheering." Even our cheerleaders admit they have trouble getting the crowd to cheer.

Except for some booing, the students as a whole seemed to display good sportsmanship, replied another, except those "people in the corner (Pointing to the faculty and administration area) especially the older... like parents; they really had a bad attitude."

One amusing spectator a cheerleader pointed out was "that guy down on the other end of the bench (by our team)$. He just goes 'schiz' everytime something happens. He was so funny."

"You mean the coach?"

Our cheerleaders readily admit they have little contact with the cheerleaders of the opposite team, but the other cheerleaders brought out that "it was real nice of them to come over after the game. At half time, we kind of thought they didn't care for us too much."

Another collegian from another school stated he had seen some "bad things" on the floor that night, and our players seemed nice, but they were "poor sports." A member of the Jackets honestly stated that the team members rarely get to talk to each other except "during the game," and then it's "derogatory remarks."

Overall, Cedarville was rated as being like "any other school."

Brrr!! Cold Remedied!

by Darlene Rouch

Bringing with it hard times, the recent cold spell of Cedarville, Ohio, has been close competition for Valley Forge. Problems pile up but it seems as though no one has been able to come up with any answers. Allow me to share some of my profound thoughts with you.

PROBLEM: Are you late to that 8:00 class every morning because your car won't start?

SOLUTION: Buy yourself a new alarm clock that rings every hour on the hour so that you can get up periodically throughout the night and start your car to keep it warmed up.

PROBLEM: You found your hair cream frozen in your room?

SOLUTION: Buy a refrigerator and install it in the lounge. The temperature inside of the fridge will be warmer than the room itself.

PROBLEM: Girls, have your legs become as stiff as statues from the cold?

SOLUTION: Find, make, buy, borrow, or in some way obtain a maxi-skirt and wear long-johns underneath.

PROBLEM: Boys, I know your faces and ears are being forstbitten, but of course you are much too "tough" to wear hats or earmuffs.

SOLUTION: If you are over 30, grow hair on your face.

PROBLEM: Do you crawl between two glaciers when you go to bed at night?

SOLUTION: Room fee next year should include an electric blanket on every bed and a fireplace in every lounge.

PROBLEM: Do your hands freeze in position carrying your books around campus?

SOLUTION: Sing "This Little Light of Mine" in chapel, using real matches. Or find a partner.

PROBLEM: If you wear slacks across campus and carry a skirt, don't you get tired of changing every hour for classes and treks across campus?

SOLUTION: Wear your slacks under your skirts. You may get some funny looks and few dates, but you sure will be warm.

Even after all these suggestions, it may still seem terribly cold. If you have any other ideas, let me know. Even my "mustard-seed" is frozen.

WCDR Attempts More Variety

"On the left side of your dial and on the right side of good listening, you are in tune to WCDR FM, Cedarville, Ohio. Transmitting at 90.1 megahertz, this is Greene County's first stereo FM station." This remark is a typical station identification for the Cedarville College radio station, located in the communications building.

In a survey taken last year, the "easy listening" sound of WCDR rated third among the stations in Greene County. Since last year, WCDR has installed an automation system and boasts of several firsts.

Says Phil Rohler, student manager of WCDR, "As far as Tape-Athon is concerned, we are the first fully automated college station in the U.S., as well as the first stereo FM station in Greene County. That's something to be proud of."

The installation of the automation system in November has resulted in a better quality sound of music and programs over the air. It also has given the operators the potential of spending more time in gathering local news. Some of the areas contacted are the surrounding colleges and organizations, the U.S. weather bureau in Vandalia, police and fire departments in adjacent areas, and other radio and television news departments for news-worthy events. According to Phil Rohler, these contacts are made so that "WCDR can be first in Greene County with Greene County's news."

The radio station has had a problem with music in the past. The record library was inadequate, and with the change to stereo this year, it was even more so. The station is now beginning to build its supply of stereo records. Recently WCDR received over 100 stereo records which will provide a more contemporary sound for listeners.

SHALOM

Shalom is a Hebrew word meaning "peace." Traditionally, it has been used as a greeting among Jewish people.

Friends of Israel is a group on campus which meets Mondays at 7:00 p.m. to learn more about these nationalistic people. The group acquaints itself with Jewish customs, current events of Israel, Jewish history, Yiddish folksongs, and methods of witnessing to Jews. Occasionally, a special speaker addresses the group. Once each year, they visit a synagogue. The Jewish holidays are studied during appropriate times of the year.

Acting as leader for this year is Jane Austin, who is planning on Jewish mission work herself. "There's so much to learn," Jane stated, "I keep learning more and more myself all the time." Out of Friends of Israel have come three young people who are now in Jewish work.

As a prayer band, they also read prayer letters and pray for missionaries, those to whom they witness, and the nation of Israel, following the admonition found in Psalms 122:6, "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem."

By Darlene Rouch

Contrary to the custom of ancient Greece, Pi Sigma Nu's Greek society banquet was attended by both men and women. In that day, women were permitted to be present only at wedding banquets.

Neither were Grecian women allowed to out do the man folk. Thus, Gamma Chi's initiation was nothing along the line of the men's grueling initiation. On the other hand, eleven new girls were initiated in a candlelight ceremony.

Were Grecian women given freedom to leave their homes overnight? The women of Kappa Delta Chi were. They spent a sleepless slumber party eating, playing games, watching television, lying on a cold floor, and taking pictures.

Apollo had a musical contest with the Phrygian Marsyys and now students may participate. The annual Alpha Chi Talent Contest is coming up March 13. One may also enter in the fine Greek art of oral reading. Last year's winning performance was an oral recitation by Tim Warren. If a student has not been practicing for ten months, he shouldn't worry, but he should start now.

Jackettes Go To Five Man Team

Cedarville College Jackettes played Manchester College (Indiana), January 24, in the team's first five-woman basketball game. The final score was Manchester 37; Cedarville 27. Scorers for the Jackettes were: Rita Gast, 11 points; Darlene Mann, 4; Karen DeMars, 4; and Joy Trefzger, 2.

The team is coached by Miss Maryalyce Jeremiah, who said that the team's "defense is a little weak," but that it has "a strong offense and a lot of depth in shooting."

Miss Jeremiah also said that five-woman basketball makes several new demands on the players: "speed, ballhandling ability, total endurance, and total conditioning."

The team consists of seniors: Joan Dautel, Judy Stamatis and Pat Wissinger; junior: Darlene Mann; sophomores: Pam Branning and Becky Bittner; and freshmen: Rita Ghast, Joy Trefzger, Connie Pumpelly, Jan Martin, Karen DeMars and Landra Lowery. Darlene Mann and Pat Wissinger are co-captains for this season.

The girls have more height than in the past. Miss Jeremiah is determined to have another unbeaten season. Last year's team, coached by Miss June Kearney was undefeated.

Cedarville Takes Malone

Cedarville overtook Malone 77-73 in the final ten minutes of the game, January 31 on the home court.

Plagued by 14 turnovers and stymied by a Malone 2-1-2 zone, Cedarville fell behind 27-20 with 7:30 left in the first half. But as Malone switched to a slowdown type game, Cedarville whittled the lead and went ahead on Darwin Boertje's 25 foot shot with 2:00 minutes left in the half. Malone moved out again and went up by 2 at half time 37-35. Stephenson, a 5'10" guard, led Malone's first half attack with 13 points.

The first part of the second half was a see-saw battle until Malone, let by Steve Schrader moved out to a 8 point edge, 56-48, with 10 minutes left. Then with Reno and Holbrook leading the way, Cedarville tied the game at 63-63 with 6:15 left. Buckets by Atherton and Holbrook put Cedarville up to stay. Trefzger clinched the game by converting a one and one with 18 seconds left, to give Cedarville a 77-73 win. The second half Cedarville was led by Holbrook's 16 points and Reno's 12 points. Atherton was high rebounder for Cedarville with 11, as Cedarville out-rebounded Malone 40-39.
