

2000

The Game

Esther Loh

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a publication platform for fully open access journals, which means that all articles are available on the Internet to all users immediately upon publication. However, the opinions and sentiments expressed by the authors of articles published in our journals do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors are solely responsible for the content of their work. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

---

Recommended Citation

Loh, Esther (2000) "The Game," Cedarville Review: Vol. 3 , Article 8.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol3/iss1/8>

---

The Game

Browse the contents of this issue of Cedarville Review.

Keywords

Poetry

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview>

Part of the Poetry Commons

The Game

⌘ Ester Loh

The castle looms behind the tiny men
And dares opponents to come challenge Strength.
The horses set to charge, yet waiting. Then
A booming voice rings with great depth.
The little men, with such precision crept
like steady pieces forward, forward, Forward.
The horsed slyly yet boldly surged onward.

*****

The horses galloped away, and I wonder why
My royalty stands surrounded, dreadfully close.
I endeavored to put up my guard, but I,
Attacked from within, took a deadly dose.
And focus switched made me deathly morose.
He taunted brashly, “Checkmate.”
I have lost, but I shall challenge again,
At great cost.