Whispering Cedars

"For the Word of God and the Testimony of Jesus Christ"

A dedicated group of runners, drivers, and staff gave up part of their summer to testify of our Lord Jesus Christ.

David Is Coming

David is coming to Cedarville! David Copperfield, that is! This story by Charles Dickens has been selected by the Drama department to be presented this fall. For those interested in an acting part in this drama, try outs will be held on Wednesday, October 3rd and Thursday, October 4th at Alford Auditorium from 3:30 p.m.-5:00 p.m.

In addition, there is a need for people to work with the sets, lighting, make-up, publicity, sound, tickets, and wardrobe. If anyone is interested in helping in these areas, please come to the auditorium on Wednesday or Thursday afternoon.

Conference Still Underway

With this being the beginning of classes many alterations in our study schedules are taking place. Each night this week, October 1-5, Pastor J. Don Jennings has been presenting the Word to our entire student body at the annual Fall Bible Conference. These meetings will all be held in the gym at 7 p.m.

Pastor Jennings is the Pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Ypsilanti, Michigan. Pastor Jennings has studied both at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Illinois and at the Piedmont Bible Institute in Winston Salem, North Carolina.

The students participated in the Day of Prayer. Classes were replaced by prayer groups of all classes, clubs, and categories of Christian service on this campus.

Cross Country Still Runs

By Debi Rowland

On August 20th at 12:00 noon the runners of Cross Country for Christ left Astoria, Oregon on a continuous relay across the United States. Seventeen days and eight hours later they arrived in Portland Maine, with 3,421 miles between them and their starting point.

The Cross Country for Christ Team has at this time completed the first three of their four goals. Those goals were to reach people for Christ, to promote Cedarville College, to cross the U.S. in the shortest possible time and to raise at least $120,000 for the Student Body Project. By the use of radio, television, press, specially-prepared tracts and church services countless souls were contacted. Tracts were given to everyone the runners came in contact with to further their ministry. Cedarville College was promoted basically through the thirteen to fifteen churches where services were held by the runners and the staff of Cross Country for Christ. The third goal was exceeded by crossing the U.S. in less time than had originally been planned. They have presently received $13,000 for the SBP which will cover the expenses. It is hoped, however, that more money will be received for this project within the next few weeks.

The run consisted of four groups with four runners in each group. Each group ran during an eight hour shift, with each member of the group running twice, an hour each time he ran. There were sixteen runners, three van drivers who served as alternative runners, Coach King, who also drove a van, Jeff Kisler, the SBP chairman and the school nurse who attended to the few minor road injuries incurred.

Youth Conference Set for Nov. 10

The Swordbearer's seventh annual youth conference will be taking place on our campus November 10th. The conference is intended for high school young people and it purposes to inform, help, and strengthen these young people in the various areas of their lives. This year's theme comes from I Corinthians 16:13 which says, "Watch ye, stand fast to the faith . . . be strong."

Two important youth seminars that are being prepared for this day are entitled "How To Live With Yourself and Like It" and "Charismatic Movement." Also, plans are to show the film, "Three."

Mr. James Grier, professor of philosophy, will be conducting a seminar for adults concerning "Our Fractured World."

Mark Green hands off to John Hutchinson after a long run.

MUSIC!?!

Attention Music makers! There are plans in the making that should be of interest to you. The development office and the Music department are in the final stages of plans for a new gospel team. It will be a mixture of vocal and instrumental talents selected by Mr. David Matson and Mr. Lyle Anderson.

The team will be going out on a summer tour (Lord Willing) and it is a strong probability that it will represent Cedarville College at The National GARBC Conference. More information will be available when plans are complete.

From the Two of Us

What's Your Attitude?

At the beginning of this school year, it is appropriate to check what kind of attitudes you have toward this campus as a whole and toward your God. For if you are slack to have a proper attitude to begin with it is certain that shortly you will have problems—BIG problems!

Let's check them out together. Freshman, what about last Friday? Were you one of those loving frosh who hid all their clothes that they didn't wish to be forced to wear along with all the make-up and other accessories? Or were you one who decided that it would be a beautiful day to take your first set of cuts from all your classes and activities?

However, this is not limited just to the Freshmen. Upperclassmen, did you sense the same "leave me alone" attitude coming on when you continued to hear about the various types of Christian Service openings as I did?

We, as the student body, have the fantastic privilege to be bonded together as a close family, which by the way was the sole purpose of the Freshman initiation. Further, what better place is there to serve your Lord in various ways than on a Christian campus? Sure, you may well have a lot of studies but if you aren't planning on serving Him now while you are busy, do you really think you ever will have time for Him?

The Word admonishes us to "do all to the glory of God." How do your attitudes toward your fellow colleagues and your Lord measure up to that? I, admittedly, know that I have failed and continue to do so, but with the Lord's help we all will be able to grow together in Him and desire to serve Him. —JB

Be Still and Know . . .

Throughout the year much will be said about involvement, goals, attitudes, and human relations among other things, and rightfully so. All of these areas are very important parts of life on a college campus. Much time will be spent in considering these ideas; taking in new impressions, learning facts; hearing varying opinions on various topics, and in absorbing each aspect into one's very being.

However, one can get so wrapped up in activities, and learning that he fails to stop long enough to see where he is going or where he has been, and what part God should be playing in all of it. Every student, faculty member, and those on the staff need a time of retrospect, of self-evaluation, and of just being still and knowing that God is who He is and that He is ready to help at the asking. —CC

Here's a Welcome!

Dear students,

It is great to see all of our college family back on campus. About 400 freshmen and transfer students have registered and with the returning students, we will have about 1,000 in our student body. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the college and I am glad each one of you is a part of the Cedarville family.

During the summer, we have attempted to make some improvements in our facilities. I hope you like the "new" cafeteria. Those bright colors should give you a royal welcome. As some of you have noticed changes have been made in other areas too. Each one in the maintenance department has worked diligently to make all of this possible, and we are very grateful. I am sorry we could not have the blacktopping finished before classes begin, but it will be completed very soon.

Have you visited the new science center? What an encouragement this building is to all of us. Cedarville College never had it so nice. We thank the Lord for all He has done to meet this need and that without the aid of government subsidies.

I trust each one of you will have a great year and your life will be enriched by your studies and participation in all the opportunities available to you. I am sure you will give the proper place to the spiritual priorities in your life. The heavy burdens will then be made lighter. Welcome!

James T. Jeremiah, President

And . . .

Dear students,

As the campus "comes alive" we can not help but reflect on God's blessings on Cedarville College. So many people have had so many needs met; a number have had tremendous summer experiences; the college is enjoying the largest enrollment in its history at a time when many other schools are down; the school has been able to make many improvements; and on and on.

We are optimistic about the 1973-1974 school year and are excited about our program. Our plans for the year include the expansion and refinement of student self improvement in areas of reading and study skills; further development of the counseling service (including vocational counseling); responding more effectively to contemporary issues and problems (e.g. Prof. Grier's presentation during New Student Days regarding the theological basis of interpersonal relationships); developing a more meaningful residence hall program.

We believe God has given us a well-qualified staff who are excited about the opportunities here at Cedarville. Let us work together to make this the best year in Cedarville's history.

Donald W. Rickard, Dean of Students

Confessions of A Counselor

Dear Mr. Nichols,

One of the college staff recommended that I write you. I am having some real problems and I just can't handle them. My family have already spent too much money on counseling and I still have my problems. Frankly, I just can't stand it anymore and I am writing in hopes that you can help.

Every time I think I am improving I fail again! The sin that I know I should not do just seems to overpower me and I am a slave to sin. And the good that I know is my responsibility before God—I am unable to do.

Please try to help me! It seems there is no hope of being delivered from this spiritual confusion.

Sincerely,
I. AM. CONCERNED

and . . .

Dear Friends,

It is that time of the year again and another school term has begun. I am sure that all of us are looking forward to this year with excitement and anticipation, wondering what will happen and what we will learn.

College life is a unique experience in that it provides a transition from adolescence to adulthood. It is now that we are afforded countless opportunities to develop new skills, participate in social interaction, and mature in spiritual character and perspective.

I wonder if we fully appreciate and take advantage of our college experience at Cedarville. Perhaps we neglect to remember the distinctive benefits of our Christian philosophy of education. We have the great opportunity to develop as total Christian individuals in every area of our lives. Classes are taught from Christian perspective, by dedicated Christian professors. It is our opportunity to meet and get to know others of the more than 1000 Christian students in our college. Chapel and Christian Service stress instruction, exhortation, and application in regard to everyday Christian living.

The school year before us presents to us a challenge. I trust that we as a Student Body will appreciate and utilize our unique Cedarville experience as we prepare for the service of our Lord.

Yours in Christ,
Dan Estes
Student Body President and finally . . .

Dear Students,

WELCOME! I have seen signs on several campuses in the past weeks advertising the friendly spirit awaiting new students. I trust that Freshmen and transfer students sense that Cedarville College is no exception. We genuinely welcome new and returning students to our campus. I have already sensed a great beginning of the 1973-74 school year in the few sessions that we have had together. Let's pray that even greater blessings than we can imagine will be ours this year.

"The pause that refreshes." This familiar advertisement is a good definition for the word Selah found in the Psalms. It means to pause and think. Let's take this admonition and reflect on the past summer. What great things God has done through M.I.S., Swordbearers, Camp counselors, Cross Country for Christ, Church workers, and other areas of Christian Service. Let us make this a challenge to attempt even greater things for Him this year and anticipate His faithful enablement. Let me encourage you to feel free to call me if I can be of any assistance to you personally or to your group.

Cafeteria Blues

by Two Typical Matildas

The following tale is dedicated to the hard-working students who labour for the food service. This treatise will endeavor to depict the true-to-life adventures of a typical Cedarville College student's introduction to the difficult, but worthwhile, operations of the food service. Our typical student, whom we shall call Matilda, bursts through the cafeteria doors, weaves in and out of the already accumulating supper line, and skids to a halt just in time to grab a tray. Due to the fact that she is 25 minutes late, Matilda decides that a hurriedly eaten dish of jello is her wisest choice for a meal that evening. After gulping down her "luxurious" supper, our heroine makes a mad rush into the kitchen where she must punch her work card into the time clock. After 60 seconds of desperately searching for her card, Matilda spies the allusive object directly in front of her nose, but as she tries to thrust her card into the clock, our plucky worker discovers that the time piece is clogged with a previously punched in time card. After her first surge of panic has ebbed, Matilda discovers a pencil which she utilizes to record her time. Subduing her excess energy she "calmly" walks out into the serving line where a member of the management gives her the interesting duty of dishing vegetables. Being overly energetic, Matilda exuberantly pushes the small dish of Jolly Green Giant peas to the far front of the serving counter where they promptly bounce and tumble onto and around the mashed potatoes on the tray of some unfortunate diner. Immediately after apologizing profusely for her clumsiness, our undaunted heroine finds herself endeavoring to lift a large tray of creamed chicken from the bottom rack of the warmer. Unexpectedly, the metal container slips and quite to her amazement she stands watching a growing puddle of the main dish oozing onto the floor. With a red face, she finds a sponge and dust pan which suffice to clean up the mess. Realizing that this is Matilda's first day at the job, the management places her in front of a large tray of steaming silverware and "kindly" tells her to "get busy and dry silverware!" Still filled with good Spirits and undaunted by her previous mishaps, our heroine energetically grabs a handful of the silverware that has just emerged from the steaming hot dishwasher. OUCH! Knives, forks, and spoons are hurled into remote corners of the kitchen.

Trembling slightly from this latest nervewracking experience, our woebegone worker tip toes into the now empty dining area. Spying a bucket of soapy water and a sponge, she decides to wash tables. "After all," she says to herself, "what could possibly go wrong here?" With her arm ready to give out from washing half of the tables in the cafeteria, and her hair net having been captured by one of the giant green plants stationed at the ends of various tables, Matilda is gently tapped on the shoulder and told that those tables had already been washed. Finally! The last dish has been put through the dishwasher, the last piece of silverware has been dried, the last table has been washed. Our courageous heroine limps into the kitchen to punch out. Oh, good, the time clock is fixed! In goes her time card, and in it stays... it's stuck! "Oh, forget it," she moans, and turning slowly she quietly makes her way out of the cafeteria and into the sanity of the cool night air.

Dr. Jeremiah talks with Cross Country for Christ runners.

Oh, that my writing will proclaim thy name,
Here, Master, is my quill,
Use me according to thy will.
Let me mark upon this page,
To show new life to all age.
Let my Words and Meaning be,
Show that Christ liveth in me.
Guide my pen to say no harm,
To cause no heart to go alarm.
Permit my words to soothe and rest,
Put to hearts that Christian test:
"What is it that I am to do,
Maybe I will find it—reading you."
Let my words to people be liable,
To seek the TRUTH through thy Holy Bible.
Oh, that my writing will proclaim thy name,
Only through thy love will reach my fame.
Permit me not come to an End,
But rather—Let me just Begin.

Changes Come To Cedarville

There were many out changes made on campus this summer and more improvements in the planning.

First of all, the new science building is now in use though there are still a few minor jobs to complete. Maintenance is presently working in the basement of the building preparing it to house the biology dept. They hope to have that completed before winter quarter.

The cafeteria underwent a complete facelift. With the walls repainted, the carpet, the new furniture, new drapes, the plants, and the screens give the cafeteria a different look and atmosphere.

The Administration building was spruced up inside and out with new roofing, and paint.

Parts of West Williams, and Patterson Halls were remodeled. The walls were paneled in West Hall.

All the halls and some of the rooms were repainted in Faith Hall and the Post Office gained a new floor. Alford & the gym also were given a paint job.

Work is being completed now on widening streets, putting in new sidewalks, and providing additional parking.

There are many planned improvements to come.

There are plans to convert the old science building into general classrooms and faculty offices, so the rooms for classes in the Administration building can be used for the administration.

There is also plans for two apartment buildings to be constructed at the end of College Ave. (behind the GSC) for new single students. Cedar Park will probably be converted into apartments for married students.

Mr. Bauman moves equipment to New Science Building.

Counseling

Dear I, AM CONCERNED,

Yours is a hopeless case! It's no use; you've already worn yourself out in a hopeless struggle. You have been a real disappointment to your family and certainly to your Saviour.

You should have known that you would never get as strong as thes in that is within you. My suggestion to you is that you quit—, that's right—throw in the towel, admit defeat, give up—resign yourself to the fact that takes.

Oh, yes, one more very important thing. I am recommending that you let Christ take your place in this struggle—you just watch and trust in Him with all your heart.

Sincerely,
Mr. Ken Nichols,
Counselor

These letters were designed from Romans 7:15-25 where Paul declares the extreme frustration of a Christian who is overcome by the power of sin. Paul suggests that we stop working so hard with self effort and put our complete confidence in Christ. He suggests, Oh, wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death—I thank God that through Christ I can have victory over sin and self.

Complete dependence upon God for His direction and blessing throughout this school year will allow you to be victorious in the most difficult situations. Let go and let God have His perfect way.

The counseling service is located in room 104 in the new science center. Appointments may be made by calling 307 or by scheduling in the reception office in room 102.

Soccer Team Aims High

The CC soccer team opened their season Sat. with a "splash" as they defeated the U of C, 3-2. The team, under the leadership of co-capt's Larry Ballback and Phil McMillan, kept it all together regardless of the pouring rain, injuries, and poor field conditions.

According to Coach Berry, this could be the best team he has coached in the three years he has been at CC. He had eleven players return from last year and "the best group of freshman ever." Also, five members of the team were born or raised in South America, where soccer is emphasized. Larry Bollback, Don Hare, John Cavy & John Cavy learned to play soccer while living in Brazil. Merle Ziegler learned the game in Bolivia and is now learning to play a new position. Finally comes frosh Evandro Batista, a native of Brazil, who is presently sidelined until he gains eligibility.

The team has many goals for the remainder of the season. Above all else they want to glorify God in their attitudes and way of playing. Secondly they want to do the best job possible at each game. They feel that if each man does so, they'll all be winners. Thirdly, they hope to improve upon their 10-4 record o last year. Finally, they are aiming a regional championship and going on to the Nationals.

MIT ANDERN WORTEN

LOVE LOOKS NOT WITH THE EYES, BUT WITH THE HEART.

Last year's runners in competition

Team Strives for Improvement

Constant improvement will be the key aim for the 1973 cross country team. The team is composed of one junior, two sophomores, and seven freshman, while most of the freshman were outstanding runners in high school with three placing in state meets, they are still inexperienced in the five-mile. Coach King feels that they will greatly improve as the season progresses.

The runners' main aim for this season is to qualify for the Nationals in the NAIA District 22. To do so they must place as one of the top three teams. Their main competition for the honors will be last year's teams, Malone, the 1972 National Champions, Findlay, and Rio Grande.

One of the biggest meets the team hopes to win is the 10-team Cedarville Invitational to be held at Homecoming. Cedarville has dominated at Homecoming meets for the last two years, but this year they are facing tougher competition. Coach King is hoping that "a good number of students will come out and support the team."

Dedication Is Key

Dedication is the key to women's sports. For the first time the women came back early on Sept. 19th for concentrated practice in their sport.

"Field Hockey"

The first game for the field hockey team, will be on October 9th with Mount St. Joseph.

The team hopes this year to compile a good enough season record to enter the first Ohio Field Hockey Tournament to be held at Baldwin-Wallace University on Oct. 25 and 26. Since only 16 teams are selected to participate. It would be an honor for Cedarville's women if they could make it.

The team members are also looking forward to the Miami Valley Field Hockey selection to be held at Taylor University on Nov. 3. There the individual players are selected on the basis of their ability to play on the Great Lakes team.

There are five returning students and no seniors on the team. Dr. Kearney feels that the team will be stronger this year than in the past.

"Tennis"

In tennis, their first game is on Oct. 9 with Mount St. Joseph. There are five returning students on this team also. Miss Jeremiah feels though that the new players will add more depth to the team.

"Volleyball"

The volleyball team's first match is at home on Oct. 15 against Wright State University. Dr. Kearney feels the team is fundamentally stronger this year.

The team is carrying a bigger schedule than they had before. More triangular, and quadrangular meets are planned.

The league tournament will be held on November 6th at Wright State. Un. The State tournament will be held thirteen days later at Ashland College.

Those involved have great hopes for the coming season in women's sports.

MOM, HOW MUCH DETERGENT DID YOU SAY TO USE?

Food for Thought

by Nova Berkenstock

The opening days of school at Cedarville are sure to be exciting! Meeting old friends, and making new ones, unpacking, registering, and new classes occupy our time.

The last page of summer is over and a new chapter has opened with school. What will it be like? What do you expect the next pages to hold? Did you make any "Fall Quarter Resolutions" to open your story with? Maybe you are going to let the letters form what words they will, without a thought of what you'd like them to say.

Give it some thought, if you haven't already. It's natural to want to do our best. But, like Paul in Rom. 7:15, we might say, "For that which I do I allow not; for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I." Sounds like help is needed, doesn't it?

We've all heard it before, but the truth can stand to be re-things through Christ which strengtheneth me."—Phil. 4:13. The Lord already has our life's book written down, even the last minute detail. This is His perfect will for our lives. But whether or not we let Him help us to fulfill that story completely, determines what aspects of our personal book will be re-written before the finished work is published.

We need to talk to the Best Author and follow His instructions to make ours a "bestseller" like. We cannot depend on ourselves to go the best way, but the Lord can strengthen each of us to live our own "best-seller"!

May the Lord bless each of you as you endeavor to live your "perfect will" life this year.
