Apr 12th, 3:30 PM - 4:00 PM

Unethical Business and Fair Trade

Charlotte Lively
_Cedarville University_, clively@cedarville.edu

Sarah Plantenga
_Cedarville University_, splantenga@cedarville.edu

Kennan Schwartz
_Cedarville University_, kschwartz@cedarville.edu

Alysia Bey
_Cedarville University_, alysiabey@cedarville.edu

Emilie Delgado
_Cedarville University_, edelgado@cedarville.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/research_scholarship_symposium

Part of the Social Work Commons

Lively, Charlotte; Plantenga, Sarah; Schwartz, Kennan; Bey, Alysia; and Delgado, Emilie, "Unethical Business and Fair Trade" (2017). _The Research and Scholarship Symposium_. 7.
http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/research_scholarship_symposium/2017/podium_presentations/7
Unethical Business and Fair Trade

The goal of this presentation is to educate others about the impact of America’s businesses on the global community. We will do this by first discussing the history of foreign trade in America, highlighting the exploitative characteristics our international business has for decades. From here, we will move into five specific industries that consume American life and the ways they violate social, environmental, and economic justice worldwide. These three industries include: the fashion industry, the pharmaceutical industry, the oil industry, and the food industry. We will end our presentation by challenging our audience to think about the spirit of consumerism that exists in America, and the ways in which this affects their buying. With this, we will offer examples of businesses that create products ethically and encourage our listeners to become more aware and conscientious of the products and businesses they support.