First phase of construction begins

Construction is now underway for a new women's dorm, with the first section expected to be finished in approximately seven months.

The excavation for the building is finished and the actual construction should start before the cold weather hits. The section, when finished, will look similar to College Hill. As the need arises, other sections will be added. Seventy-two students will be accommodated in the section now being built. The complete dorm will house 296 women. The part now under construction will have a suite for a Resident Advisor, a game room, a room for washers and dryers and a lounge.

The new dorm is just one part of a new phase of building now being planned for the school. The college has just begun a fund raising drive to bring in money for the construction of a new athletic complex and remodeling of the Student Center and cafeteria. This "Capital Campaign" involves supporters of the college located in various part of the United States who show an audio visual presentation about the needs of Cedarville College.

These men are mainly approaching businesses, foundations and individuals who would be able to contribute.

In remodeling the Student Center in the future, the dining room will be expanded into the present gym, giving additional room to Student Senate offices or, possibly, a banquet room. The new field house will have three indoor courts - two basketball courts (which could also be used as tennis courts) and a track.

"The beginning of these facilities is not determined because everything depends on when we can get the $1.6 million we need," says President Dixon. "Keep in mind, though, that these are not definite plans. Everything is still in the planning stage."

Cedarville's long-range goals include expansion of the library, construction of a music building and creation of new classroom space.

Four-Oakes ministry challenges students

"It was an experience I'll never forget," commented Paula Humphrey concerning the weekend of Nov. 10-12. During this particular weekend, three Cedarville College students, Paula, David Morris and Holly Detrick, traveled to the hills of Warsaw, Ohio to minister to the mentally retarded.

The site of this ministry was a camp - Camp Echoing Hills. This camp operates retreats every weekend throughout the year and offers a full-time summer program. Paula, Holly and David acted as counselors to 13 mentally retarded campers, working along with a planned program and giving devotions in the evening.

Cedarville would like to send students to Camp Echoing Hills every weekend possible. The Four-Oakes School for mentally retarded in Xenia, is normally where students interested in this field go for their Christian Service. They act as babysitters for parents. But, because of difficulties with scheduling and the fact the Four-Oakes won't need students to babysit for awhile, no one will be going there for the rest of this quarter. "Since we're not sending students to Four-Oakes, Echoing Hills is a great chance for Christian Service, giving students an opportunity of actually living with the mentally retarded for a few days," stated Dave Kisner, Assistant Director of Christian Service.

Another group of CC students are leaving for Echoing Hills tonight at 5:30, and will return Sunday, Nov. 19 at 3:30 p.m. The next retreat will be Dec. 1-3.

New horizons in education

Cedarville College has taken a first, tentative step toward the establishment of a graduate program in Education. Dr. Jim Biddle, Acting Chairman of the Education Department, has made some initial contacts with the University of Dayton to discuss the possibility of the two school cooperating in offering such a program.

Biddle emphasized that plans are still in an early discussion stage and that there are several changes which would have to occur before the graduate program could become a reality.

If an arrangement is agreed to between the two institutions Cedarville students would be able to take several graduate-level core courses at Cedarville which would be accepted toward a master's program in Education at UD. These core courses would include such offerings as "Philosophy of Education" and "Psychology of Education and would be taught from a biblical perspective. These courses would be taught at Cedarville during the summer.

Biddle projects that the earliest possible time the program could begin is the summer of 1979, but considers the summer of 1980 to be a more realistic date. Since Cedarville College is an accredited school, it would have to obtain permission from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools to teach graduate level courses without having a complete, accredited masters program. In addition, the college would have to obtain the appropriate library resources for these courses.

The college's ultimate goal is to have a fully accredited graduate program in Education. Such a step would make the college one of a few accredited Christian colleges to offer such a program, something Biddle says will be "unique and needed."

If the arrangement with the University of Dayton is made, such a move would show a great deal of confidence in Cedarville's professors on the part of the university since Cedarville does not have a graduate program. Biddle added that such an agreement would not involve any official tie with that institution, but would merely be a cooperative arrangement.

Musicians to entertain

The college's Wind Ensemble and Brass Choir will unite for a combined concert this coming Monday night.

The two groups will be under the direction of Charles Pagnard, a member of the music faculty. According to Pagnard, the concert will be a display of what the two groups have been studying this quarter and will demonstrate their instrumental abilities.

The music selections will range from sacred music to contemporary pieces. Some selections will feature the entire 52 member ensemble, while others will be played by smaller groups. During one piece by the Venetian composer Gabrieli, the Bass Chair will be divided into sections with each section located in a different part of the chapel in order to create an antiphonal effect.

Pagnard urged students to attend Monday's concert in support of "an activity put on by fellow students" as well as "to hear music you wouldn't normally hear everyday."

The concert will be presented at 8:00 in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel.

AS THE ADDAGE goes, practice makes perfect. After hours of practice, the Wind Ensemble and Brass choir will perform classical, sacred and contemporary pieces in their concert on Monday night. The concert will begin at 8 p.m.

Banquet

Tonight, Cedarville College is holding its Twenty-fifth Anniversary Banquet. The evening will begin with appetizers at 5:45 in the Student Center Gymnasium. Entertainment includes singing by the Concert Chorale and the Men's Quartet, and mimes.

Alpha Chi

Saturday, November 18, there will be a picnic, sponsored by Alpha Chi, at John Bryan State Park. The picnic begins at 10:00 am and is for Alpha Chi members and their guests.

Vesper Service

Thanksgiving Vespers, a special service taking the place of the Sunday evening service, will begin at 4:00 in the Chapel. There will be a dramatic presentation and special singing by Cedarville students.

Day of Prayer

Monday has been designated as Day of Prayer. The day will begin with a chapel service and prayer at 8:30. At 9:45 students will meet at appointed locations with their advisors for prayer, followed by a time for testimonies in the chapel from 11:00 until 12:00. No classes are scheduled.

Editorial

Goals and policies

A political party has its platform, a military general has his carefully planned strategy and a newspaper has its statement of goals and policies.

Such a statement serves two purposes. First of all, the goals tell the direction that the paper wants to take. Secondly, the policies set the guidelines for the paper in achieving these goals.

The major goal of a newspaper is to keep its readers informed. In informing the reader, accuracy and impartiality are the utmost concern of staff. The major goal of CEDARS is to keep the students of Cedarville College informed. Not only do we want to keep the students informed of news happening on campus, but we also want to inform them about college staff members and fellow students by doing feature articles on people with unusual or interesting backgrounds, jobs or hobbies. Through the use of "in-depth" articles, CEDARS wants to keep its readers informed of topics affecting them.

Another goal of CEDARS is to be a voice for the students. Editorials will be written concerning important topics. Editorials are not meant to be an expression of the views of the administration or of an individual editor, but they will be the views of a majority of the five editors on the Editorial Board.

CEDARS will also be a voice for the students in a new way. Periodically a random group of students will be asked a question dealing with events on campus or national events. Through this "man-on-the-street" question, students will be able to express their views concerning vital topics.

A third goal for CEDARS is to encourage student involvement in their paper. Students interested in working should contact one of the editors. We would encourage photography buffs to submit any pictures that vividly portray Cedarville College, student life or the surrounding environment.

A fourth goal of the CEDAR staff is to learn. Not only do we as a staff want to keep the readers informed, but through this process we want to learn more about the different phases of newspaper journalism. From time to time during a learning process, mistakes will be made. It is therefore our goal to minimize these mistakes as much as possible.

In the attempt to achieve our goals, several changes have been made. The name of the paper has been changed from WHISPERING CEDARS to CEDARS. The physical makeup of the paper has also changed from four column to five column in order to make the appearance of the paper more attractive. Some weekly articles that appeared last year have been eliminated in order to allow more room for articles concerning student life.

Throughout the year we will be attempting several things with CEDARS. Since our central goal is to satisfy the readers, constructive comments concerning any edition of CEDARS are welcome.

quarter organizing their studies, members of the Student Senate have spent the first few weeks organizing various committees.

"Our main goal so far this year has been to stimulate committee work," Donald Lewis, Student Body President, said. "Each committee is assigned to a different area, and they have written a list of specific purposes and goals. We feel that if we can improve on the organization of committees in Senate, then we can increase the effectiveness of Senate."

Besides improving the organization of Senate, another goal of Senate is to improve the communication between students and their representatives.

"Each student has three representatives that they can talk to," Don stated. "We would really like to encourage the students to find out who their

'Man' comes of age

On Thursday evening, November 30, the curtain will open on the fall musical, The Music Man. Written by Meredith Willson, it is the story of a traveling salesman and a small Iowa town around 1900.

Mrs. Rebecca Baker, the director, chose this musical because of the "quality of the music and the depth of characterization." She adds that much of the play depends on character development. This is particularly important with the salesman, Harold Hill (Ron Bigelow), and town librarian Marian Paroo (LouAnn DeYoung).

The production is jointly sponsored by MENC and Village Players. MENC is the student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference and is for students in a music teaching program. Village Players is the college dramatics club and is open to any student.

The musical will be performed at 8 p.m. nightly November 30 thru December 2. In addition, there will be a 2 p.m. matinee on Saturday, December 2. Tickets will go on sale Monday, November 27 at a cost of two dollars.

Mrs. Baker foresees the production as enjoyable with a wide-spread appeal for both students and families.

CONTINUING THEIR HOURS of rehearsing lines and steps, seniors Ron Bigelow and Lou Ann DeYoung prepare for the opening of the "Music Man" on Nov. 30. The "Music Man" will be performed by MENC and the Village Players, under the direction of Mrs. Rebecca Baker.

New club organized, Jackets aid athletes

The Athletic Department has announced the formation of the Yellow Jacket Club - a group designed to channel money for athletic scholarships to the college.

Dr. Rod Wyse, a business professor at Central State University, is co-ordinator for the club and he is in the process of forming a steering committee to initiate a fund-raising drive.

Wyse's personal interest in Cedarville's sports program dates back to the early 1960's when he was a member of the college faculty.

The club will be open to anyone who contributes $25 or more to the fund. Donations of $50 or more entitle the member to a free club jacket. In addition, all members receive free passes to all athletic events.

Although full scholarships will not be given in any one particular area, the funds will be divided to meet the individual needs of all sports offered at Cedarville.

Dr. Don Callan, who is helping direct the project, urges students to spread the word about the existence of the club to any prospective contributors.

representatives are and give them some feedback. Also, all Senate meetings are open. We usually meet every Wednesday at 6:00 in SC 105."

A few changes have taken place. Student Senate is now responsible for Friday chapel services. These services have been designed to utilize students in ministering to other students.

Another change has been the switching from Pepsi machines to Coke machines.

"We felt that a change was needed," Don said. "The service that we were getting from Pepsi wasn't what we wanted. The poor service was the main reason for the change, but there were some other factors also. Coke is using brand new machines and they also have a wider selection of drinks."

"Pepsi still has four machines on campus," Don continued. "They offered us $500 in free pop

Mrs. Dixon honored at Gamma Chi tea

The Annual President's Wife Tea, presented by Gamma Chi was the scene of a friendly, genteel exchange as the ladies of the faculty, staff and student body gathered to honor Mrs. Pat Dixon.

About 50 women filled the atmosphere room on Sunday afternoon, November 12. A few games provided an opportunity for the ladies to meet each other, after which Denise Kelso, President of Gamma Chi, presented a basket arrangement of blue and green silk flowers to Mrs. Dixon. In acceptance Mrs. Dixon gave a short speech which was followed by light refreshments. "The many hours of organization and preparation were well rewarded by a very pleasant afternoon," said Karen Haga, Co-Vice President of Gamma Chi.

Campus of '53 revisited

Features

If the present students of Cedarville could do a reverse of the Rip Van Winkle story and go back in time 25 years to when Cedarville College had just begun, under a Baptist administration, would their reaction be the surprise Rip felt when he took the switch in time? Probably. At least, that is the opinion of several people who were here 25 years ago and have seen the change over the years.

One of those people who have been here the entire 25 years is Miss Bernice Mick, manager of the campus book store. When Miss Mick came to Cedarville as a student in 1953 there were under one hundred students. What is now the Post Office was the dining hall and the present book store was the chapel. In her Senior year she started the college book store and has been with it ever since. In her opinion, the biggest change has been the tremendous growth of the student population and the many new buildings added to the campus. In reflection Miss Mick said, "When students and a personal interest in the appearance of the campus, and all pitched in and worked on campus clean-up days."

When asked if there were any particular incidents that happened in the past that stood out in her mind, she related a story about a time when she had had the responsibility of cooking for a

Mr. Harry Cole, who also works in the book store, came to Cedarville after its first year to be the Pastor of Grace Baptist Church, which was then meeting in Milner Hall. He feels that the best change in the school came when Pastor Harold Green became the campus pastor. Mr.

Mrs. Bergen noted that when Cedarville changed from semester hours to quarter hours, everything went at a faster pace. "One quarter had just started, and then it was over and time for another to start. Everyone seems to be under more pressure now." However, she didn't feel that the academic standard of excellence at Cedarville had been lowered because of this change or any other.

Even though Dean Rickard hasn't been here all of the 25 years, he was here as a student when the school first began, and has been the Dean of Students since 1970. After a bit of reminiscing about the 'good old

Resident remembers

Students singing on the street corners "like the Salvation Army" did not impress Cedarville townspeople. Fearing a Baptist takeover, the residents were less than enthusiastic when the Baptists came to Cedarville College in 1953. Since those early days, however, much has changed.

Mr. Walter E. Cummings, a resident of Cedarville since 1930, says that the relationship between the college and community has progressed over the years. Now he sees no problems between the two.

Retired from his Chevrolet dealership in downtown Cedarville, he remembers Dr. Jeremiah's first arrival in his '53 Chevy. There was also the time when he sold a brand new '55 model to a faculty member who promptly wrecked it when he hit a tree in front of Mr. Cummings' house.

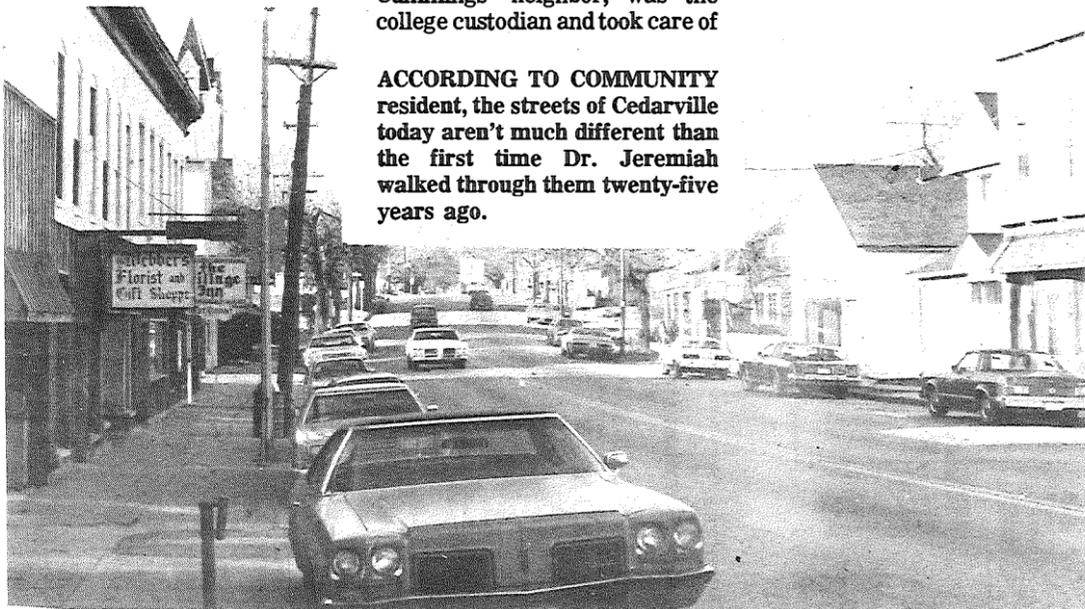

In those early days of the Baptist administration, the college did things on a smaller scale. The Fine Arts building housed both the college and town libraries. "Pop Marshall, Mr. Cummings' neighbor, was the college custodian and took care of all maintenance.

Mr. Cummings has also observed changes in the student body. Today's student has more money. In those days, almost all of the students had jobs, some at the Chevrolet dealership.

According to Mr. Cummings, the college has been good for town growth. Yet Cedarville has retained the advantages of being small. A safe, clean town coupled with the "highest quality of students" has made Cedarville a "most enjoyable" place to live, for at least one long-time resident.

ACCORDING TO COMMUNITY resident, the streets of Cedarville today aren't much different than the first time Dr. Jeremiah walked through them twenty-five years ago.

days', Rickard went on to give his views of the changes that have taken place. "There has been a change of attitude in the students concerning the questioning of authority and regulations. Some of this is good, in that the students are thinking more now and they don't accept everything blindly. Also this questioning prods the administration to assess and evaluate their decisions and avoid the status quo. However, in another sense, some of the questioning is because of the influence of society, which should not set the standards at a Christian College. As far as the activity of students, many of the same things happen, just in a different form. Maybe we were a little more corny then." To emphasize his point the Dean then told of a 'game' the students in his day used to play, using their fingers as 'guns' and "shooting" each other. A certain number of points could be gained by guys "shooting" certain girls, and even the girls had their special targets in the guys.

So if any students still want to go back and see the way we were, don't forget your finger and your ammunition. But everything taken into consideration, if the students of 1993 did a time warp on us, they might think the things we do now are corny. For instance...CZ?

'What, no single dates?'

For Women: Hats are always in order for Sunday Morning services, commencement, teas and meetings of a more formal nature. Bandanas, babushkas, and similar attire are not to be worn in the dining hall, for classes, chapel or other public places. Unnatural tinting, dyeing, or bleaching of the hair is not in good taste.

Women are expected to wear hose or anklets when leaving the dormitory.

Men should wear some type of robe when they are out of their rooms and not fully dressed in the dormitory and should make sure that their shades are pulled down to the window sill when the lights are on in a room in which the occupants are not fully dressed.

Personal items such as small trunks, suitcases, boxes, papers, etc. must not be stored under beds and furniture. Do not indulge in loud laughter and boisterous conduct while in the dining hall. The dining hall is no place for practical jokes. At no time should you lean on the table while eating. When you raise your food to your mouth, pick your arm off the table to do it. The cafeteria, offices and hallways and steps of classroom buildings are not to be used for study purposes at any time. Unlocked class rooms may be used by men or women separately at any time. Permission must be obtained from the Dean of Students for all dates involving the use of a car. Single dates are not permitted.

Fall Wrap-up

CC wins NCCAA

Quick! What's the fastest growing sport in America? If you answered soccer, tennis or racquetball you're wrong. With the recent interest in jogging and mini-marathons, cross country has taken a big step forward in the United States, and Cedarville is keeping pace quite well.

The cross country team, under the direction of Coach Elvin King finished the season with a three-win, no-loss record in dual meets, and headed full hilt into tournament competition.

The Mid-Ohio Conference meet held at Rio Grande saw the Yellow Jackets place second, well behind front-running Malone. However, Dale Shaw and Tom Yater, who finished second and eighth respectively, were elected to the All-Conference team.

The following Saturday, the NCCAA nationals were held at John Bryan State Park with teams competing from all across the nation. The race saw the Yellow Jackets nose out King's College (New York), to capture the NCCAA title. C.C.'s Dale Shaw ran the five-mile course in a time of 25:38 to capture first place, with teammate Tom Yater finishing fourth in the event. The tandems high finish carried the Jackets to the title and helped put the finishing touches on a very rewarding season.

C C field hockey

The Cedarville women's field hockey team experienced many changes this season. The team's 1978 season record was 1-13. Mrs. Becky Kuhn coached the team for the first time this year, replacing Dr. Maryalyce Jeremiah. The team's three returning players were Crystal Anderson, Elaine Gregory and Debbie Kearsley.

Co-captain Crystal Anderson, a senior and Physical Education major, was asked to comment on the season. Crystal replied, "This season was a learning experience for all of us. The majority of our team members were new to not only the competitive level of intercollegiate field hockey, but to the sport itself. A lot of individual improvement was seen, so this past season can be regarded as contributing to the building of next year's team."

Spikers 26-16

On November 9, the volleyball team, under the direction of Coach Dr. June Kearney, travelled to Ohio Northern University, where the site of the 1978 OASW State Small College Tournament was held. Upon arrival, all twenty teams participated in the opening ceremony, in which the teams were introduced. C.C.'s first match was Friday morning when they took on Baldwin-Wallace College. This resulted in a victory with C.C. winning in two games, 15-9, 15-6. The second match was with Mt. Union College. This game was also a victory with C.C. winning, 15-13, and 15-4. A tougher match was then to be played against Ohio Northern. C.C. won the first game 15-9, and then lost the second and third games 11-15 and 5-15.

In the triple elimination tournament set up, C.C. qualified to move on in the competition by winning two of three matches. This set up the fourth match, against Ohio Dominican. Cedarville lost to Dominican 18-16, 4-15, and 10-15. C.C. placed ninth in the state out of 20 teams.

Individually, co-captains Rachel Norton and Brenda Hobar did exceptionally well in the areas of serving and spiking. Through the course of the three days, Norton served 54 times with 100% accuracy. Hobar spiked 95 times with 88% accuracy. The team's final record at the conclusion of the tournament was a fine 26-16. Team members were: Senior Rachel Norton; juniors Brenda Hobar, Landa Penquite, Kathy Turner, Nancy Snook; sophomores Connie Clemons, Susie Riegle, Jill Griswold, and freshman Darcy Morton, Jennifer Knecht, Kari Schmidt, and Terri Potter.

A capsule summary of the season saw the C.C. spikers:

*reel off nine straight wins before losing their first match at Bowling Green.

*Placing second in the Ohio Valley League tournament behind eventual state champion University of Dayton.

*Placing ninth in the state at the OASW tournament.

*Achieving a 26-16 win-loss record.

Soccer wins District

The soccer Yellow Jackets are making a tradition out of winning tough soccer games, and this year was no exception. Under the leadership of head coach John McGillvray, the Jackets finished the regular season with an overall record of nine wins, seven losses and two ties. In district play, the team had a 5-0-1 record to finish the season as undisputed champions of NAIA District #22.

The season highlights included a fiery defense that gave up only three goals in district competition and shut-out state ranked Wilmington, 1-0, in a crucial NAIA battle.

Senior Tom Aitken, working on the offensive side of the field, finished the season among the top fifteen in college scoring with nine goals and four assists for a total of 13 points.

The day before the regular season finale, a 6-0 victory over Bluffton, the Jackets travelled to take on Grace College in the NCCAA playoffs. For the second year in a row the team lost in the playoffs by a tie-breaker. This year, after 110 minutes of scoreless soccer, Grace won, 2-1, in a North American Soccer League style shootout.

The following Wednesday, the Yellow Jackets defeated district rival Wilmington by a 3-2 score to capture the NAIA District #22 post-season tournament crown. Cedarville, led by freshman Jeff Bowser's two goals, and Larry Green's one, slowed down Wilmington's high scoring offensive machine in the win.

The win over Wilmington propelled the soccer team into the NIAI area playoffs against Berea College (Kentucky). In this contest, CC and Berea battled furiously for a goal, but neither team could find the back of the net and after 110 minutes it was "shoot-out" time once again. The shootout, which looked similar to the one at Grace the previous week, saw Berea score two goals while Cedarville only managed one. This eliminated Cedarville from the NAIA and dashed their hopes of a national title.

Season opener tonight, cagers lost Earlham

The Yellow Jacket basketball team will take the court for their home-opener against Earlham tomorrow night.

The Jackets are coming off a 15-14 record from last season and Coach Don Callan feels optimistic about his team's chances this year, despite the loss of three key members from last year's team. Cedarville lost two-year captain and MVP Jeff Reep and floor leader Kevin Waiters to graduation. In addition, 6'8" center Mark Schwenke did not return for his senior year.

Coach Callan is counting on sophomores Dan Reep and Eric Mounts to continue to develop and carry much of the Yellow Jacket rebounding and scoring load after both turned in excellent years as freshmen. Mounts, a 6'3" guard, averaged over 18 points per game and led the team in assists. Reep, a 6'6" center, averaged 12 points per game, while also grabbing seven rebounds a game.

The starting line-up announced by Coach Cullan has juniors Kim Kauffman and Rick Hickman, along with freshman Drew Baker, joining Mounts and Reep. Kauffman (6'6") is coming off a disappointing season which saw injuries and sickness keep him less than 100% for most of the season. Kauffman averaged seven ppg and is expected to pick up much of the scoring slack vacated by Jeff Reep. Hickman (6'0"), a transfer student from Wilmington College, sat out most of last season because of NAIA eligibility rules. Drew Baker, a 6'2" leaper, is a newcomer from Cleveland Baptist Christian high school.

Senior Butch Potter is the Yellow Jacket's captain this year. Seniors Potter (6'5"), Mark Streitmatter (6'5") and Jerry Lantz (6'4") are all four year players with experience and

Callan is relying on all four to fill key reserve roles. Junior Mike Allen (6'0") is coming off a season that saw him average seven ppg, while also being third on the team in assists. Allen is currently in a battle for a starting job but is cast into the role as sixth man presently. Sophomore Greg Greve (6'3") has been moved up to the varsity from the J.V. team, and is also expected to help beef up the varsity.

Callan sees this year's team as being somewhat smaller than recent years' teams, but feels that they are a more hard nosed and scrappy type of team. Callan sees the Jackets running more on their opponents and trying to take advantage of their quickness. Regardless, the stage is set and the curtain will open to unveil the 1978-79 edition of the Yellow Jacket basketball team tomorrow night at 7:30.
