LESSON FOR MAY 17 THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS,

LESSON TEXT—Luke 16:14-15: 19-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Whose stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he shall also cry, but shall not be heard." Prov.

Verses 14 and 15 link this parable with the teaching of Jesus about covetousness and stewardship. Verse 15 is a most heart-searching one. It demands that we look well to the standards by which we measure our conduct, I Sam. 16:7. That the teaching of Jesus was effective is evidenced by the statement of verse 14. These Pharisees were naturally cool, cynical, calculating and their scoffing shows that Jesus had probed them deeply. Their love of money-service of mammon-made them unfaithful in their professed stewardship. In the intervening verses (16-18) Jesus condemns their attitude of sceking to justify themselves in the sight of men, declaring such an attempt to be useless in the sight of God. The methods men exalt are an abomination to him. No jot or tittle of the law can fail. This he emphasizes by an illustration about the binding nature of the marriage relationship. We get our suggested two-fold division of this lesson from I Tim.

Why He is Condemned. The Life That Now Is, vv. 19-22. The revised version for verse 19, "now cates even stronger than the King James version that this is the story of a historical incident. Jesus did not mention the rich man's name, nor quencies. Even morality cannot save a man from bunishment in the next life. Nor is this rich man condemned because he is rich. He is condemned because he sought to enjoy his pleasures in this life, squandering his time and his money upon sensual pleasures, ignoring the need of those at his door. Jesus had just told these Phari-Tim 6:17-19. A wrong use of money damns a man. A few paltry charities or even larger gifts given for ostentatious display will not suffice. There was, however, no real joy to the rich satisfaction, Eccl. 1:8. Lazarus lying at the door was a living rebuke to his A girl who married at the age of self-indulgence. Here is another of ble impression on the mind. It is better, however, to be a beggar, sore and hungry in this life and go to heaven hereafter, than to enjoy the pleasures torment in the life to come. The name Lazarus means."God his help" and is an indication of his character. It did not look as though God was "mindful of his own" but the sequel abundantly corrects such an idea.

II. the Life Which is to Come, vy 23-31. Unconscious of the need of othconscious of his own need in hades when subject to forment and anguish. There is no need of trying to minimize or to "explain" nor to deny these fully disobedient, and was never prepared for man (Matt. 25:41). On earth he saw Lazarus "at his gate," now with Abraham, resting "in his the petitioner is now the rich man who begs for "mercy," though in life he showed none at all. His plea was for his tongue; that organ had been ery, because deprived of earthly satisfaction. The solemnity of this lesson is very great. As we have suggested Luke does not call this a parable. It is possible that Jesus' auditors knew the very people of whom he was speaking, some notoriously wealthy citizen recently deceased, and some wellknown alms-seeker. For a moment our Lord withdraws the curtain to let those about him read the story. catch, for an instant, a glimpse. He shows us that the attitudes of today determine the destinies of tomorrow. The experience of life beyond death is determined by the use of the life "that now is." The gate of heaven is without the form of a beggar. To wrongly employ our wealth, to live within the gate of selfishness will shut the gate of heaven in our own faces. If we pass without that gate of selfishness and minister, presently we find we have made a friend in the life beyond. It is not the crumbs we give the beggar, that which we do not miss, it must be self-emptying service.

This lesson raises the question, "are the ruling desires of our lives such as shall develop gratification and satisfaction in the life to come?" If not, we do well to heed this story, Col. 3:1-2. Memory is also active in that future existence and it will be either a source of gratifying joy or else of unspeakable anguish. We are taught that education is largely developed out of memory and the Scripture tells us that as a man thinketh so is he. Prov. 23:7. Small wonder Paul should exhort us to think on holy things, Phil. 4:8, with such a prospect in view for

Had the Last Word. Two ladies, during a friendly meetng on the street, got to quarreling about their ages, and used yery strong language toward each other. At last, as if to end the dispute, one of them turned away and said in a very conciliatory tone of voice: "Let us not quarrel over the matter any more. I, at least, have not the heart to do it. I never knew who my mother was: she deserted me when a baby, and who knows but that you may have yielding will. The oval chin is an indication of an artistic, sensitive nature with some talent along those lines, while the angular chin denotes the scientific, practical nature. The protruding chin always means combativeness, determination and power. and the receding chin denotes the weak will, and the straight chin also been the heartless parent?"
