9-26-2017

Hoosier Leader Named "Chief Technology Officer of the Year"

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/news_releases

Part of the Organizational Communication Commons, and the Public Relations and Advertising Commons

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/news_releases/535

This News Release is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@Cedarville, a service of the Centennial Library. It has been accepted for inclusion in News Releases by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Cedarville. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@cedarville.edu.
Hoosier Leader Named "Chief Technology Officer of the Year"

CEDARVILLE, OHIO – Cedarville University alumnus Jason Vasquez of Carmel, Indiana, was recently named a Chief Technology Officer of the Year by the Indianapolis Business Journal and TechPoint, an Indiana technology community.

Vasquez, a 1998 broadcasting and digital media major, is the director of development and founding partner at DeveloperTown, a company that creates software solutions to solve business problems. DeveloperTown was founded in 2010 and has extensive experience working with startups and Fortune 500 companies.

The third annual program honors men and women who develop technology strategies and systems to help companies, not-for-profits and government organizations advance. Vasquez was selected as an honoree for private companies with a revenue of $100 million or less.

Located in southwest Ohio, Cedarville University is an accredited, Christ-centered, Baptist institution with an enrollment of 3,963 undergraduate, graduate and online students in more than 100 areas of study. Founded in 1887, Cedarville is recognized nationally for its authentic Christian community, rigorous academic programs, strong graduation and retention rates, accredited professional and health science offerings and leading student satisfaction ratings. For more information about the University, visit www.cedarville.edu.