Banquet Planning Committee Announces Details

by Shelly Heldreth
Staff Writer

After over a year of keeping the details of the 1993 Junior/Senior Banquet a "secret," the Junior/Senior committee has finally revealed the details for the long-awaited event. This year's Junior/Senior, "Lasting Impressions," will be held at the Villa Milano in Columbus. The Villa Milano, a banquet facility, is only ten minutes from downtown Columbus and an hour and a half from Cedarville. According to Dana Gosser (Chairman of the Junior/Senior committee), "Holding the banquet in Columbus is a big break from tradition, but I am very excited. The Villa Milano is a very beautiful, elegant setting for the Junior/Senior."

The evening will begin at 6:00 p.m. when the doors open. Dinner, featuring Chicken Piccata as the main entree and strawberry tort for dessert, will be served promptly at 6:30. The program will, of course, feature the Senior Tribute. This is a chance for everyone, especially the seniors, to reflect and laugh over the last four years. At 8:45 the entertainment will begin. This year the popular Christian artist, David Meece, will be giving a concert. The Junior/Senior will be one of his first concerts featuring his new album, Once in a Lifetime. The new music and his humorous style should make this a fun concert.

Tickets for the event go on sale for seniors Monday, May 10, in the Student Center from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.. Juniors and non-walking seniors can purchase tickets on Tuesday, May 11 also from 11:00 to 4:00. On Wednesday, the rest of the tickets will be available to the entire student body. Once again this year tickets will be free for graduating seniors. For juniors the tickets will cost $20 per person, and for the rest of the student body and any outside guests the tickets will cost $25. Tickets cannot be put on reserve, so you must bring your money when you go to buy them. Also, the maximum amount of tickets a person can buy is one table. A table can seat either eight or ten people. The most important thing to remember is that you must have the I.D. numbers of everyone you are buying tickets for. No exceptions can be made so please remember to get everyone in your party's I.D. number.

After over a year of planning and many hours of hard work the 1993 Junior/Senior Banquet is finally here. The elegant facility and excellent entertainment promise to leave us all with very good "Lasting Impressions."

Annual Parents Weekend Features a Busy Agenda

by Paul McGrady
Staff Writer

The parents are coming! The parents are coming! The weekend of May 7-9 is Parents' Weekend. This annual event is one that the entire college family looks forward to every spring. The agenda has been packed to ensure that this is one of the busiest times of the year.

The program begins with Honors Day Chapel on Friday morning at 10 a.m.. Parents are given the opportunity to view their children being honored for their academic achievements. The faculty and staff Members of the Year are also honored during this special program.

After a long day of attending classes, parents will be given a chance to meet Dr. Dixon and the Administrative Team at the President's Reception. Students will have the opportunity to introduce their parents to their favorite faculty member.

This weekend is packed with exciting events that will thrill even the most reserved parent. The spring drama Comedy of Errors shows both Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m., as well as Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.. This drama program, directed by Dr. Robey, is sure to be one of the best plays yet.

The Pops Concert, an annual favorite of music lovers throughout the entire college family will be performed on Friday night at 8 p.m. in the Athletic Center. This concert will feature the Concert Chorale, Brass Choir and the Symphonic Band. The program will feature various styles of music to meet a large variety of tastes. Those who have attended this in the past always look forward to this concert every year.

Saturday morning at 9 a.m. is the Parent's Association Coffee Hour. This informal time allows parents the opportunity to meet with members from the Parents Council and members of the College Administration to discuss the current course of the college and to give an update on the current state of the college. At 12:30 p.m. the Golf Scramble Tournament, at Locust Hills Golf Course, begins. This is a great chance for students to school their parents (or vice-versa) in the game of golf.

Allison Durham Speer will be in concert on Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the chapel. She is one of the brightest stars of gospel music today and will be here to help us celebrate our Cedarville College parents.

The highlight of this Parent's Weekend is the special parents service on Sunday morning in the chapel. The program begins at 9:30 a.m. and goes until 11 a.m.. This will give students a chance to attend church with their parents and to spend time together in God's Word.

Whatever activities that students and their parents chose to engage in this Parents' Weekend, a great time is expected for all. This truly is a most special time of the year for the entire college family. As we "Celebrate the Family" with our parents, students are given the chance to show how much this college and they love their parents. Our parents are our bedrock and our best supporters. Lets show them a great time while they are here.

Honors Day Chapel to Recognize Students

by Cinnamon K Brown
Staff Writer

For some diligent students- those students who best relate to the images of all-nighters, care plans, Greek tests, business presentations, and senior recitals- Honors Day Chapel, May 7, will be a day of reward, a preliminary praise "Well done, good and faithful servant."

At the end of winter quarter, each faculty department singled out those individuals who best met their standards for achievement and criteria for eligibility. Of the sixty awards that will be given, some specify the student with the highest grade point average, while some have more subjective standards including Christian service. Others take financial need into consideration.

May 7 is also a day of recognition for the Faculty and Staff Member of the Year. Dr. Wood's Student Advisory Board, which consists of one junior and one senior student from each academic department, was responsible for choosing the recipients of these two special honors. To make their decision, they first surveyed the students, faculty, and staff. Based on these surveys, the Board cast their votes. Last year, Dr. Pamela Diehl and Susan Faulkner were selected for this honor.

Awareness Week Focuses Students' Attention on Special Needs

by Jennifer N. Shriver
Staff Writer

Cedarville College introduced an influx of "Awareness Week"'s to help students better understand the world in which we live. For Spring Quarter the awareness week focuses on the disabled. Jeff Beste, coordinator for activities during the week, states that the realm of the disabled is far greater than one normally thinks. Being disabled is not merely being mentally handicapped or riding in a wheelchair, but includes such problems as learning disabilities and diseases like multiple sclerosis and cerebral palsy.

During the week of May 10-15, students can get involved in many activities. The week will begin with a chapel discussing different disability issues and will climax on Saturday, with the Special Olympics, held here at Cedarville.

One project will be the renovation of some wheelchairs donated to the Salvation Army. These chairs need fixing up before they can be distributed. Students will be involved in the reparation and cleaning of the wheelchairs.

Also of interest during the week, Cedarville will host students from Four Oaks, a school for mentally disabled children. Cedarville students will show them around the campus and give them a fun day to remember. Various agencies will also be setting up booths in the chapel foyer, explaining the various services they offer. A collection will be taken to donate to one of these agencies.

The important aspect of each Awareness Week is to orient students to the needs of others. Not every week interests every person, that is not the goal. Jeff Beste is excited to see different campus organizations focusing on different weeks and projects to get involved in. The key is to find one's own niche and help with an organization which you have been exposed to.

Cowens' Closes Due to Lack of Business

by Stephen Wildasin
Contributing Writer

After fifteen years of serving the community of Xenia, as well as Cedarville College, Cowens' Sports Center will be closing its doors for good. John Cowens, the owner of the store since its beginning, has decided to close the books. The popular store, located on the corner of Main and Detroit streets in downtown Xenia, is now in the middle of a going out of business sale.

Many students and area business owners were surprised that Cowens' will be shutting down. It always appeared to be busy and thriving, but Cowens cited the fact that profits have either been low or non-existent for the past few months as the reason for closing.

Cowens said that starting in October, even though sales have still been good, he was not able to turn any profit. Before this time, he had not even thought that there might be the possibility of closing its doors. In January of this year he really began to seriously consider moving on. He briefly considered moving his store to Beavercreek, where there are a lot of new retailers opening up, but he decided to close for good.

Cowens said, somewhat bitterly, "Two out of three people who come into the store don't even care about the quality of the merchandise anymore. They won't even consider buying unless it is on sale. Only one out of three customers will pay the price for the product they want."

Cowens also said a weak economy, with Xenia even lower than the national average, was a factor in the loss of profits.

Cowens provided other services to the community as well as selling equipment and clothing. Many companies used Cowens' for printing tee shirts and hats for teams they may be sponsoring. He was also able to order an item if it wasn't in stock.

Many local colleges and high schools will miss Cowens'. The store was responsible for providing uniforms and shoes for area schools, including Wright State, Wilberforce, and Central State Universities, and Yellow Springs, Xenia, Beavercreek, and other high schools. It also catered to the University of Dayton. Cedarville used Cowens for athletic shoes and uniforms in almost every sport.

Many students will remember Cowens for his good deals and service. His coupons for fifteen percent off of merchandise were usually available for Cedarville College. Students will not find another retailer at probably have to pay a lot Cowens owns a second store nearby Wilmington. This also having a going out of business sale. The situation is the same at both stores, and he will try to sell everything. Cowens said he will probably start looking for a new job once it is all over.

Each store has even been marked down at a savings of 40 percent off. This includes athletic shoes, clothing, shorts, shirts, and jackets. There is a vast selection of hats. There is also equipment for all kinds of sports including basketball, volleyball, baseball, softball, football, and many others. Cowens is planning on the sale going on until the merchandise is sold. The store both stores started April 15, and there is still a lot left. The sooner you can get there, the better the selection there will be.

Cowens said that he is planning to have everything sold by the end of the year. This means that the sale is going on pretty much through the school year. Cowens' Sports Center has provided great service to Cedarville College and surrounding communities for 15 years, and this will be a good opportunity to take advantage of it.

Speer to Perform During Parents' Weekend

by Marsha Olsen
Contributing Writer

On Saturday May 8, the Campus Activities Board will present an evening concert beginning at 8:00 p.m. in the James T. Jeremiah Chapel with Allison Durham Speer.

Allison Durham grew up in Parksville, Kentucky and began singing in the school choir. Although she had no formal vocal training, she found herself winning many vocal awards including the Kentucky State Talent Competition's female vocalist of the year for 1983 and 1984. Since those early days of competition, Durham has developed a confident and polished stage presence that make her an intriguing performer.

After high school, Durham attended the University of Kentucky on a music scholarship but sought a major in horticulture. She performed infrequently until 1985 when she was given the opportunity to participate in a concert with a popular southern gospel singer songwriter, Squire Parsons.

That same year, doors began to open for the young singer and she was asked to sing as a featured soloist at the Southern Baptist Convention. She has held that honor for every year since that first performance.

In a short time, Bill Traylor, founder of Homeland Records and Benson's Riversong Records recognized great potential in Durham. He was impressed by her voice as well as her ability to communicate and minister to those around her. He immediately signed her to a recording contract and in 1989, Homeland released her first label recording, "Allison Durham." The record focused on Durham's southern roots and enjoyed great success.

In December of 1989, Durham married another musician, Brian Speer. He was a third generation singer and guitarist with his family, the Speers. After their marriage, he became his wife's manager, advisor, and sound engineer.

In November of 1990, Allison Durham Speer released a new recording under the Impact label titled "Break This Heart." The recording reflects Speer's own spiritual growth, and her growth as a singer. The project was produced by Bill Gaither and Lari Goss, and the songs were written by some of Christian music's top writers. Some of the songs express the freedom of salvation, the need for sensitivity toward others, and the responsibility inherent in one's relationship with Christ.

Currently, Durham Speer has been balancing her own solo schedule and touring with the Bill Gaither Trio and Vocal Band. Her husband travels with her, acting part-time as road manager for the Gaither's.

Living in Nashville, Tennessee, Durham Speer enjoys caring for her flower garden as well as developing her talents as a sketch artist and painter. She declares openly, "I've been called as a Christian to share the fullness and freedom Christ gives and this I will do with every talent and ability I may possess."

Tickets for the May 8 concert may be purchased in the Campus Activities Office. Pick yours up, come, and be encouraged.

SGA and Campus Activities Office Sponsor Leadership Conference

Shelly Heldreth
 Writer

Leadership is a topic we hear a lot about. At Cedarville we are in the process of changing all of our student leaders. We have new Student Government Association officers, new Resident Assistants, organizational officers, new Christian ministry leaders, and new class officers. The Student Government Association and Campus Activities Office will be sponsoring a leadership conference for all of these new leaders. The conference will be held on separate nights, May 11 and 18, at 8:30 p.m. On each night everyone will meet together for the first session. During the second session many different workshops will be offered, and during the third session students will have the opportunity to meet with their respective groups.

On the first night, Tuesday May 11 at 8:30 p.m. in Alford Auditorium, Dr. Dave Drullinger will be speaking on the topic "A Servant Leader." The participants will then get to choose from any of the following seminars: Vice President Rickard - "Goal Setting," Dick Walker - "Creativity/Brainstorming," Brandon Waltz - "Problem Solving," Bryon Shearer - "Spiritual Disciplines," Tim Bosworth - "Delegation/Accountability," Jeff Brock - "Taking Back Chapel," Michelle Longo - "Mattering," and Shelly Heldreth - "SGA 1993-94". After the workshops students will attend sessions based on the organizations they are involved in. For instance, all the RA's will meet together, and all SGA officers will meet together.

On the second night, Tuesday May 18 at 8:30 p.m. in the chapel,

Dr. Dixon will be speaking on the topic "Vision for 1993-94." Some of the workshops will be repeated from the previous meeting, but several new ones will be added such as: Dick Walker - "Identity," Carl Ruby - "Time Management," Michelle Longo - "Planning an Event." On this night students will also have the chance to break up into their individual groups.

Much effort and planning has been put into this event. All new RA's, Getting Started 1993-94 crews, Christian ministry leaders, SGA officers, organizational officers, and new class officers will be expected to attend. If you have any questions please contact your advisor. In this day and age when leaders don't seem to lead well, it is extremely important for Christians to develop their leadership skills. This conference will be a good start.

Alpha Delta Omega Reaches Out to Community

of the organization Alpha Delta Omega (A.D.O.), a Christian ministry organization made up of three women.

During the spring the members of A.D.O. selected the new members to join them for the 1992-93 school year. This spring, the organization has once again started the selection of new members. As preparation for the coming year, all members observe their responsibilities during spring quarter. A.D.O. keeps its organization due for each quarter is fifteen dollars, but this quarter's due was only five dollars per member since fewer activities were planned. They also have more money in their fund right now, so this cuts down on the cost for each member.

This year, A.D.O. participated in both Hunger Awareness Week and with the Handicapped Week, which will take place this quarter. The group is called "The Huggers" because they will be offering their encouragement to all the disabled kids participating with the Special Olympics. They will end the year by being involved in the "Battle of the Ville," which includes games with the other organizations. Over all, A.D.O. feels that the year has been a success for them, and they are satisfied with the results of their organization.

Glowmer's Globe

Glowmer
Philanthropist

Welcome Back! How was your week without me? I know you missed me. Admit it. Many of you are asking yourself, "Where did Glowmer go?" Well, Glowmer went to Washington and met Hillary. That's right. This is fortunate for both of us and me because she convinced me of the error of many ways. I now want universal health care, generous aid to those who refuse to work, and Kings Island Season Passes for everyone.

This week's issue deals with something that no student at Cedarville College ever deals with: conformity. No sir-ee! Free thinkers all! Actually, upon my return from the ever-so-liberal city of D.C., I realized an amazing thing... every Cedarville student looks exactly the same. Now there are some variations like the shade of Khaki in your khaki pants- blue denim shirt or Jean shirt at Banana Republic instead of the Gap. WOW! How original!). Yet, for the most part we all dress alike, and act pretty much alike. We say things like "Sweet" or "Quality" or "Cash." We all like to joke fun at President Clinton and we never go to Wittenberg to watch the local film.

It is precisely because of this amazing conformity that I have decided to rename our beloved alma mater after the clothes we wear. We should rename our school "Dockerville College." Once a year we can have "Dockerfest." Everyone can sport their favorite blue/tan combos as we prance around in our penny loafers eating home baked cookies made by our suburban moms. What fun! Many of you are saying, "Glowms, that's what I do everyday!"

Someone suggested that perhaps we should be allowed to wear jeans and a sweatshirt to break the monotony of the current dress system. I do not advocate this kind of radical change. As my close friends will testify, I have never, ever in my four years here, called for change. As a matter of fact, This kind of clothing change will only serve to divide us into two distinct camps. These camps will then go on to bring about total war. That's right - the Michigan and Ohio State Sweatshirt Civil War. These new casual clothes will make it even easier to divide the sheep from the goats (so to speak). Now many of you are saying, "Hey! I thought all Cedarville students are sheep!" That's not true. We have made great leaps in free thinking the last few years. I have grown to love and appreciate the many minds that inhabit this campus. Just don't get carried away! And whatever you do, don't trade in your Penny Loafers!

Next Week: Glowmer shares his Oatmeal Scotchie Cookie recipe. Save this one for Mom!

everyone but in a personal way.

The duet from Russ Lee and Leigh Cappillino, "God Will Make A Way," resembles the inspirational sounds of Billy & Sarah Gaines, and is sure to be a radio favorite.

One of the most notable songs on the album, is the first radio single, "If You Could See Me Now," that gives an account of a man who just arrived in heaven. The song was dedicated to Roger Boreland's brother-in-law who passed away in 1992. Boreland is Truth's founder and director. The song gives us reason to rejoice when someone we love has died and gone to heaven.

This is an album that can be enjoyed by almost anyone, even those who aren't fans of Christian singing groups. "Something To Hold On To" shines in every respect: vocally, musically, and lyrically.

Delta Pi Sigma to Host Wild West Date Party

by Lynda Gavitt
Contributing Writer

Are you tired of being bored on weekends? Do you run out of things to do? Well, here's a suggestion for you. Get involved in the Wild West Date Party which will be held May 14. The members of the Delta Pi Sigma (ΔΠΣ) will be hosting this party, and they encourage you to bring your date. Of course you are still invited to come join in on the fun even if you don't bring anybody with you, so don't be left out. This evening has been set up to get the campus involved in the action as well as to help promote the growth of the ΔΠΣ. This organization is still very young, and the members wish to enhance it by providing the campus with an activity to socialize.

They set up four committees to plan the evening, and these committees have scheduled events which will spark everyone's interest. First, they have arranged to start the party by serving the food. This casual meal will include chili dogs, chips, pop, and wagonwheels. Next, they will engage in exciting games while listening to Nathan Elmore act as the DJ for the evening. They have also practiced skits which will be performed throughout the night. It promises to be a rewarding evening for all who attend. The tickets will be $6 per couple or $4 for singles and will go on sale at lunch on May 6.

Yankovich Dedicates Piano Recital to Family

by Jennifer N. Shriver
Staff Writer

Sheryl Yankovich's years of learning will culminate May 15, in her Senior Piano Recital. As a student of piano for fifteen years, Sheryl says she has always loved music. She gives credit to her family for her musical background and thanks them for their support. Because of her parents involvement and encouragement, she is dedicating her recital to them to express her gratitude. As a special tribute Sheryl has decided to play the last song as a duet with her mother.

Sheryl started preparations for the recital last spring. After trying many different pieces she decided to maximize her artistic talent with contrasting pieces centering in the Impressionistic and Romantic eras. The first half of the concert will be bouncy, whimsical, and light, while the last half will concentrate on the slow and dramatic. Dr. Clevenger has been her instructor.

Sheryl's recital signifies a fond farewell to her experiences at Cedarville. Next year she plans to teach middle school or high school students and share her love of music with them.

Cedarville Men's Tennis Team Ranks Nationally

Jennifer N. Shriver
Writer

With an 18-1 record, the Men's Tennis Team is enjoying another outstanding year. Recently they defeated their major rival Malone by a score of nine to zero. In a match against the team was once again victorious. During this match, how the top five men did not even play. A well rounded team is evident from this performance. Murdoch gives part of the credit to the strong senior bloc, consisting of Matt Kibble, Mike Anthony, Mike Baker and, Sanjiv Sant Singh. Kibble, along with Sinisa Rasberger, ranked twentieth in the nation for doubles. An international flavor is represented in the team, including Rasberger from Croatia, Singh, India and Marcus Varotti from Brazil. Overall, the team is ranked twentieth in the nation. Cedarville Men's Tennis is the district favorite. The district competition will take place May 16 to qualify for the nationals May 24-29.

Women's Softball Team Experiences Growth

Cinnamon K Brown
Writer

It has been a struggling season for the women's softball team, but it's a growing season for the team. Their record of 1-1 does not fairly represent the steps of improvement they've taken, nor does it represent the potential for the team's future. Though they will be losing some valuable senior players, the majority of the team will return next year to build on their experiences this season.

At the NCCAA District III Tournament in Spring Arbor, Michigan, the softball team did not fair well. They first lost to Spring Arbor on April 22, 2-6. Mindy Humble led the team with two hits. That same day, Oakland City ran the bases for seven runs compared to Cedarville's four. Julie Rutt batted in three of those four runs; one of those was a triple. On the next day of play, the team struggled at bat. They only had seven total hits for the day. Indiana Wesleyan topped them 5-0, and Grace College finished their tournament play, winning 9-1. In a double header against Tiffin on April 27, though Cedarville did not come out on top, their batting average was redeemed. In the first game, Lisa Coe had three hits, three stolen bases, and one run. DiAnn Miller had two hits; one was a double. Mindy Humble led the team in the second game with three hits. Jennifer Sloan and Lisa Coe each had two hits. Both of Coe's hits became runs for Cedarville.

"How have your feelings changed toward the Computer Network over the past year?"

"Every time I go to the computer lab and spend twenty minutes erasing e-mail messages it makes me realize why I never liked it in the first place."
Dan Zerby Jr./English Ed.

"I didn't think that they would be able to pull it off, but it turned out very organized and advanced compared to other schools."
Victoria Johnson Sr/English
"I was scared to use the computers, but through having to use the network, I found it is not as hard as it looks."
Heather Rifenerick Sr/English

"I don't know. I'm still in Intro to Computers."
Steve Whalen So/History/Bible

"My feelings would be more positive if there was more training on the academic programs."
Jonathan Crider So/Psychology
"I think they should consider having labs in the dorms rather than computers in every room."
Kristine Illjes So/English Ed.

"I support it more now because it is a lot of fun."
Laura Lotz So/El.Ed.
"I was for it last year, and I really see the benefits of it this year."
Aimee Miller So/Business Management

"At first I didn't think I'd use many of the programs that we had access to, but actually I spent too much time in paintbrush."
Rhonda Honston Jr/Marketing

"I never liked it because I could do the same quality of work on the old network and now I have to pay more for it."
Paul Dettwiler Jr/Accounting
"I'm still ticked off about having to pay the $75 while doing an internship in Nebraska."
Brent Apperson Sr/Broadcasting

"Last year I really didn't care, but this year I'm totally against it because the network is nothing but a magnet for Tetris addicts and e-mail abusers."
Sam Garland So/Biology
