

8-4-2020

Sing Me an Old Song

Amy L. Plank

Cedarville University, amyplank@cedarville.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview>

Part of the Poetry Commons

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a publication platform for fully open access journals, which means that all articles are available on the Internet to all users immediately upon publication. However, the opinions and sentiments expressed by the authors of articles published in our journals do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors are solely responsible for the content of their work. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

Recommended Citation

Plank, Amy L. (2020) "Sing Me an Old Song," Cedarville Review: Vol. 20 , Article 4.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol20/iss1/4>

Sing Me an Old Song

Description

Sing Me An Old Song expresses the feelings I experienced growing up in a hymn singing church and then changing worship style in college.

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial 4.0 License

SING ME AN OLD SONG

AMY PLANK

Sing me an old song
Without drums, or guitar, or keyboard, or ooh and ah's.

But

With words, written by people long since gone
Found in the blue hymn book with pencil marks
From boys, now men, once bored by long sermons.

Sing me an old song,

The one that leaves A tremor in our elder's voice
The one the pianist plays without music.
The one I've sung since scratchy tights and velcro sandals.

The one that lifts my heart more than my hands.