

1-21-2022

April 2nd - Death Visited Today

Emily Entner

Cedarville University, emilyentner@cedarville.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview>

Part of the Art and Design Commons

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a publication platform for fully open access journals, which means that all articles are available on the Internet to all users immediately upon publication. However, the opinions and sentiments expressed by the authors of articles published in our journals do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors are solely responsible for the content of their work. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

Recommended Citation

Entner, Emily (2022) "April 2nd - Death Visited Today," Cedarville Review. Vol. 21, Article 1.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol21/iss1/1>

April 2nd - Death Visited Today

Description

I drew this piece on April 2nd 2020, the day my grandfather passed away. After a month of quarantine and seeing no one, I felt I had been visited by something I didn't invite in. The day I drew this I felt that I had a lot inside of me to get out, but it was just raw feelings, and I didn't know what to do with it. I was so used to my feelings being molded and mulled into art and writing, but these circles were the best depiction of the hole I felt I was in and it was good to just feel the pen underneath my fingers scraping into the page over and over. I was just constantly reminding myself that he was gone, and it was all I could think and feel. I needed to get it out, to give it a place to live outside of myself so I could know it was true, and so I could ultimately begin to heal.

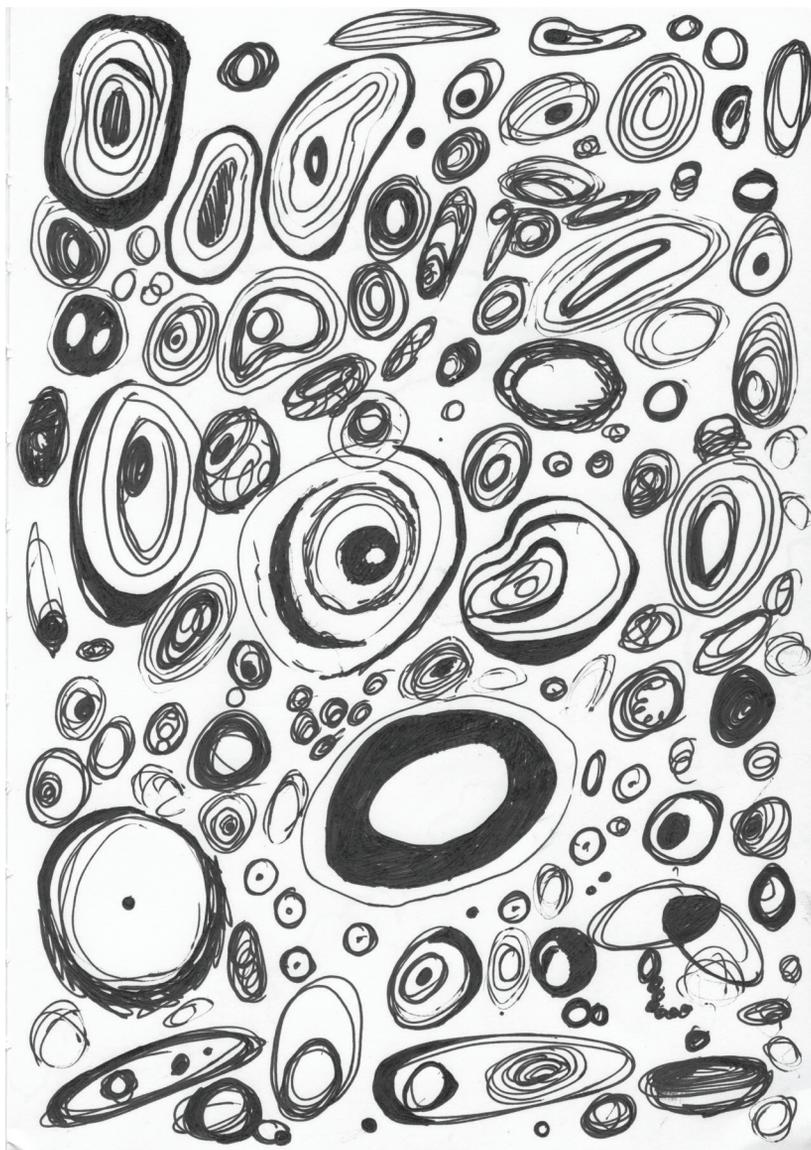

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

About the Contributor

I am a graphic designer / sculptor who is interested in what makes people laugh, going to renaissance festivals, playing Dungeons & Dragons, and generally creating or doing things that make people smile or consider a perspective other than their own.

DEATH VISITED TODAY

EMILY ENTNER