THIRTY-FIFTH YEAR. NO. 3.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 19 1912.

PRICE, $1.00 A YEAR

DENVER NOT A CANDIDATE.

More interest than ever will center in the coming congressional contest next spring in that Matthew R. Denver, who is holding his third term as congressman from this district, will not be a candidate.

While Congressman Denver did not want the nomination for a third term it might be said on pretty good authority that he was ready at that time to set his foot flat down on any movement to bring him into the contest if Hon. George Little would have been the Republican nominee.

The political wisecracks are already figuring out how easy it would be for Mr. Little to get the Republican nomination if he should consent to try for the honor.

Mr. Little, should he decide to enter the primary, would have Greene county at his back like a solid phalanx.

When it comes to county politics there is going to be some more fun in the contest for county treasurer.

Boonleas are being started for clerk of court and George Sheets, a prominent young man in Xenia with a host of friends has announced that he would be a candidate for the clerkship.

NEWS ABOUT COUNTY SEAT.

The Greene County Bar Association has organized for the year with the following officers:

Representative J. E. Lewis, who has been drawing $1000 salary for looking after Greene county's legislative wants in the legislature will not ask a third term.

For county auditor, Walter Dean, will try for his third term regardless of the fact that he defeated Bill Dadds, who wanted a third term lease.

The new Children's Home is practically complete and the commissioners will turn the building over to the Board of Directors.

Prosecutor Johnson has nolleed the indictment against J. J. Turner, colored, who was indicted in connection with L. C. McLeod.

The program for the State Pastors' and Superintendents' Institutes to be held in Springfield, on January 24, has during the past week been sent to hundreds of Pastors and Superintendents.

Eugene Baskin Killed Saturday.

Eugene Baskin, a brother of Charles Baskin, a graduate of the college, who is attending Michigan University, was killed last Saturday in Des Moines, Iowa, by a passenger train.

The region has been and is still suffering from severe storms of snow, wind and cold.

Colored Man Loses Home.

The home belonging to John Proctor, colored, across the road from W. H. Arthur's farm, burned Tuesday about one o'clock.

The afternoon session opens at 1:30 with a Conference on "The Problems of Pastor and Superintendent in Country and Small Town Schools."

All Sunday-school workers should avail themselves of the inspiration and help in store for those who are privileged to sit under the instruction of such experts.

THE WEEKLY MAXIM.

"The glory of the house is hospitality." And what a glory! The true spirit of hospitality which says little about making you feel at home, but just proceeds to do it in a sweet and charming way. The whole-hearted welcome which does not end when you have taken your seat in the parlor or library. The art of letting other persons into our way of living, not insisting upon their way. Such are some of the distinguished marks of true hospitality. So let us have this also.

ANNUAL BARGAIN OFFER.

The Ohio State Journal Will again offer a Twelve Months' Mail Subscription for only Two Dollars—A Splendid Opportunity for Rural Mail Patrons.

During the month of January rural mail patrons, and those residing in towns where the Journal is without an agency, will have an opportunity to secure one year's subscription to the Ohio State Journal (State Edition), at the reduced price of two dollars.

The State Edition of the Ohio State Journal is issued daily except Sunday, and is one of the greatest and best newspapers published. Farmers will be especially interested in this offer, as the State Edition is made up in a manner calculated to interest and please the country people. In fact, it is a special edition for their benefit.

The important telegraph and Columbus news appears in this edition as does the market page, which is the best published. A big majority of the farmers are already readers of the State Journal, which is evidence that it is a favorite among the rural class.

In keeping with a great newspaper, the Ohio State Journal is publishing the political news regardless of parties and its readers are kept posted on what is actually happening in the political field.

The Ohio State Journal is the only morning newspaper published in Columbus or Central Ohio and has the great advantage of reaching rural route patrons on day of publication. Every page is interesting, the editorial page being the ablest published in this section of the country.

The special offer of two dollars for twelve months' subscription will expire on the last day of January, after which the rate will be three dollars for twelve months' subscription. Orders left at this office will be given prompt attention and forwarded to the State Journal with out delay.

If you want a great daily Associated Press Newspaper at a reduced rate this is your opportunity to secure it.

NEWS READ YEARS AGO.

The following may be of some interest in that the items were taken from the files of the Herald as published March 28, 1891.

April 4, 1891.
Capt. Culbertson Small, the oldest citizen of the township died Wednesday at the age of 81 years, having lived in the township all his life. In 1830 a company of the state militia was organized here and he was chosen captain. Capt. Small as one time organized a company and started with them to Cincinnati, bearing all the expense himself. The state's quota being filled the company was not enlisted.

April 11, 1891.
Otharles Jones, Cedarville's famous ball tapper has signed with the Ottumwa, Iowa, team.

A bill has passed both branches of the legislature allowing the village council to issue bonds to the amount of $1,500 to cover the deficiency in the treasury until the Crain securities can be realized upon.

A hotly contested election took place Monday when H. A. Turnbull defeated A. M. Tomkinson for trustee. Councilmen elected were: Gray, McFarland, Harper and Shull.

April 18, 1891.
Charley Smith, after a short stay Xenia, has decided to return to Cedarville where he has rented a room over the bank and will open his barber shop there.

Andrew & Bros. have sold a third interest in their business to R. F. Kerr and they are busy this week involving the stock.

Additional Locals.

A sleighing party spent last Friday evening at the home of Miss Helen Cresswell.

Mr. R. Bird starts one of the greatest clearance sales ever known in town Saturday. Prices have been slashed and one has but to read the paper and see what sugar, muslin, underwear, and various other stocks are being offered. An innovation will be an ice cream luncheon to all purchasers as well as a guessing contest on the amount of the sales.

Mr. Kenneth McElroy, who resigned his position in the composition room of the Journal, is spending a few days here with his aunt, Miss Carrie Clute, who is in poor health at the home of Mr. Samuel Klidow.

Daly World's Finest Port.

It is said of Daly, the chief city and port of Kwangtung province, that it has the finest harbor and wharves in the Far East, vessels drawing up to 28 feet being moored alongside the quay. Goods can be discharged from a ship and placed aboard the freight cars, which run out onto the wharves, in one operation. While ice forms in the protected parts of the bay at Daly, it never becomes sufficiently thick to interfere with navigation, so that the port is open the year round, and Daly being the southern terminus of the main line of the South Manchuria railway, the advantages offered are at once evident.

Double the Depth.

The unctious undertaker was sympathetic.

"How deep do you dig graves, as a rule?" asked the old millionaire's young widow.

"Six feet."

"Make it twelve," she replied. "I will pay the difference."—Puck.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JANUARY 21 THE BIRTH OF CHRIST.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:1-52.
MEMORY VERSE—10, 11.
GOLDEN TEXT—"For unto you is born a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2:11.

Almost twenty centuries ago, in an obscure village in Palestine, an event occurred which has had more influence upon the history of the human race than any other event since time began. A child was born—not an unusual event surely. He was no child of distinguished parents, nor a prospective ruler of a world's empire. He was born in a stable, and cradled in a manger. And yet around that lowly crib and humble birth, the life, thoughts, and love of millions have from that day to this been centered. During these two thousand years many noble births have been registered, but none so great as this. Emperors, monarchs, and mighty men have lived and died, and are forgotten; nations have risen and vanished; but the birth of the Christ child is more influential in this day than on the first birthday of our age twenty centuries ago.

The announcement of Christ's birth was made by angels. What more fitting announcement could there be to such an august event? How interested angels are in the welfare of mankind! How gladly they told the Christmas story to a handful of poor shepherds! How free from pride they were! They were not content that one of their number should tell the story—they all broke out in that great Christmas anthem.

"Do we believe in angels any more? We used to. We used to sing 'there are angels hovering round.' If we believe the Bible, we still believe in the ministry of angels.

Onward we go for still we hear them singing:
Angels sing on your faithful watches keeping,
Sing us sweet fragments of the song above.

The announcement was made to a small band of shepherds. No angelic host went to the Sanhedrin, or to the palace of Herod and broke the news of the birth of the Christ child. Is there not a lesson here? Does not God have special regard for the lowly and the humble? Hath not God chosen the weak things to confound the mighty? If angels were willing to preach to a few farmers, should the preacher be ashamed of ministering to a small and humble people, or the Sunday school teacher to a small class?

The scholars of the land were also notified of Christ's birth. The Scripture does not say "not any wise men are called," but "not many." It is a mistake to say that religion is good enough for women and children, but not for strong, brainy men. The brainiest men of the ages have been Christians men.

That the birth of Christ was mysterious and miraculous need not disturb us. How Christ's body was prepared, how the divine and human could become one—who can tell? We do not even understand our own birth, let alone His. If ever anything of a miraculous nature should take place, when shall it be? If not when the King of all laws is coming into the world? Let us be careful lest in denying the virgin birth, we challenge the purity of the Virgin's life.

The birth of Christ was the coming of God to and in man, not that God had never come to man before, for he had. He had come only as a sojourner. In Christ he came to abide. His name is "Immanuel"—God with us. Whatever else the incarnation may mean, it certainly means that God took our nature and became as one of us—he came unto his own.

The birth of Christ brings to us good tidings of great joy. If the angels sang, should not we? He came to save not angels, but men. The first note of this angelic song is a note of gladness, and song has characterized Christianity.

This birth in Bethlehem shows God's attitude toward men. God has good will toward men. He is not the hard, severe judge that men so often wrongly picture him to be. Sinner, you have cursed God, but he has not destroyed you. He has thoughts of kindness, and of love toward you. If you have wrong thoughts of God, let them die away in the music of that first Christian anthem, "good will toward men."

The Christian story brings to us also a Savior. Jesus Christ was born with reference to sin. He was the only man that ever was born with reference to that great fact. Other great men were teachers and reformers—he alone could save men from their sins. His name shall be called Jesus and he shall save his people from their sins. This is good tidings of great joy to a sin-stricken world. If Christ the Lord cannot save you from your sins, no one else can.

He is a personal Savior—who you he was born; he is a mighty Savior—he is Christ, the Anointed.

THEATRE NOTES.

At the Fairbanks Theatre, Springfield, on Thursday, Jan. 23th, Mr. Joe Weber will offer the charming and beautiful prima donna, Vera Michelena, in the sensational musical farce success "Alma, Where Do You Live?" by Paul Herre and Jean Belquet, a farce which has been translated into English by the well known humorist, George V. Hobert. There are fourteen musical numbers interspersed in the three acts. Mr. Weber has spared no expense in the production or the cast, which includes besides Miss Michelena, Robert Dore, William H. Power, Edouard Durand, Ezra Matthews, Walter Liebmann, Frank Kelly, E. F. Nagel, Bertha Whitney, Madeline Sovel and Selrit Rivers.

On Friday, Jan. 20th, Thomas Jefferson will be seen at the Fairbanks Theatre, in "Rip Van Winkle." All the world loves Rip Van Winkle. He is as familiar to every household as is the first cradle song. He is the folk hero of America; the kindly beneficent spirit of German legendry translated, transplanted from the mystical realm of dreams to the land of action and reality, by Washington Irving brought home to the hearts of the people of all ages by the family of Jefferson. The father, the beloved real "Rip," is seen and remembered in the son's acting, so a great treat is in store for theatre-goers.

With the real stamp of success comes Henrietta Crossman and her company direct from New York in "The Real Thing," the comedy that has been playing at the Maxine Elliott Theatre for months. "The Real Thing" is the kind of a play that will please everybody. This will be the attraction at the Fairbanks Theatre Saturday, Jan. 27th, matinee and night. There is a laugh for every minute of the two hours and a half and a theme that is appealing to all. Miss Crossman for the first time in her career has with her two children in the cast who are not only really children, but who are clever, in fact, perfect little artists. The cast is the same as that which played in New York City for so many months and the play comes with a reputation of the best that has been seen in years.

Dangerous Fire Narrowly Averted.

A dangerous fire was averted Monday at the library when the janitor, Mr. Charles Harris, discovered a wooden door just ready to break into a blaze. The door opens into a space about the furnace and as the furnace was being crowded to heat the building the door had taken fire. Had it not been for Mr. Harris' presence at the time it is likely that the whole building would have been at the mercy of the flames.

The heating arrangement in the building has never been satisfactory and it has been necessary to keep the furnaces at a white heat to get the building in a half comfortable condition.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The meeting of the Cedarville Protective Association will be held at the mayor's office on Saturday, January 27, at one thirty in the afternoon. This meeting is for the election of officers and transacting any other business necessary.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Helen's Independence

Helen looked up at the conductor with a flushed face. "I'm sorry," she said, "but I'm afraid that I have no money."

"I guess you can find it if you have to," he snorted as he passed on. "Look again—and hurry up."

He went on to the rear platform for a moment, but soon he followed another incoming passenger up the aisle.

"I really can't find a single coin," said Helen, looking up from her disordered purse.

"That's all right," was the more gracious response he sent out on the platform asked you.

"Was it that man in the soft hat?" she asked as she caught sight of Harvey Tennant trying to look unconcerned.

"Sure thing," he assented. "Shall I send him in?"

"I do not care to be under obligations to the gentleman," she said coldly. "Please stop the car."

It was intolerable that after last night Harvey should presume to pay her car fare. Had it been a total stranger she would have been grateful, but a man who only the night before had assured her that she could not get along without him! She would show him that she could, and she swept off the car with a majestic dignity that caused Tennant to smile.

"Look here, Nell," he protested as she allowed him to get on the sidewalk. "You must not be alone. It is one of the toughest districts in town."

"So I judge from its inhabitants," she said with a meaning glance at him. "It seems that they take pleasure in annoying unprotected women."

"That's just the trouble," he said placidly, though his face reddened. "Don't be foolish. Let me lend you a nickel. You can send it back tonight. It is only what I would do for any woman in the same fix."

"I do not have to trespass upon your civility," she declared, with a defiant accent upon the last word. "I am amply able to take care of myself!"

"I believe we disagreed that to no purpose last night," he said coldly. "I adhere to my original opinion."

"And I to mine," she sniffed, as she began to walk on. Harvey dropped back a few paces and followed her.

"That's a good idea," he said, "but I don't know how to get the freight yard. You have a most unenviable reputation. No gentlemanly woman was safe from insult."

And just because he had ventured to criticize her boldness in venturing out alone on her charity visits she had broken their engagement the night before was the account of the moment that she was amply able to take care of herself and would have naught of a husband who already showed such a disposition to bully.

He did not have long to wait for his revenge. On the next block a crowd of half-drunken loafers reeled from a saloon. Helen advanced to the edge of the sidewalk and by her very precaution attracted their attention.

"There's me mussy," shouted one as he lurched toward her. "Come here, me dear, and let hubby have a few coins for his beer."

As he staggered toward her Helen raised her hand to ward him off and in doing so dropped her bundle. With a wild yell the rest of the crowd drove after the parcels just as Harvey dashed up.

A few well-directed kicks scattered the crowd, but the first speaker was less easily disposed of. The idea that Helen was his wife had entered his drunken brain and refused to be dislodged and he made an attempt to clasp her in his arms while demanding of the new comer why he should seek to separate a loving pair.

Harvey's answer was a blow that sent him sprawling, but he scrambled to his feet in an instant and staggered toward his assailant, waving a cotton hook that had dangled from his belt.

With a scream Helen sought to throw herself between the two men, but Harvey thrust her quickly aside. The man in his drunken insanity would make no distinction and it was a fight man to man.

He had had some experience on the mat. Had been the wrestling champion of his club for two seasons, and he maneuvered for an opening. It was no easy matter for he had seen fights among the longshoremen and knew that a cotton hook was far more dangerous than a knife. It was some time before he could find his opening, but at last he closed in with a rush, pinning his adversary's arms close to his side. After that the fight was a short one. Once at a disadvantage the rough collapsed and through a sudden turn of his thoughts became lucidness. Harvey tearfully lamenting the loss of his wife while he assisted Helen to regain such bundles as had been left her.

"I presume that you will not refuse car fare now," he said as he straightened out his overcoat.

"Don't you think we could have a cab?" she suggested, "because you see, Harvey—we can hold hands in a cab."

Contemptible.

"They say he failed for $50,000." "Well, he always was a fellow that would do almost anything for a little money. I wouldn't think of fallin' for a little as that."

A sled load of teachers from the O. S. & S. O. Home, Xenia, enjoyed a ride in zero weather and came here Monday evening. By previous arrangement a special supper was awaiting them at the Central Hotel. There were seven ladies and two gentlemen in the party.

The Urbana city council in order to get rid of J. D. McCarthy, the service director appointed by the mayor, cut the salary from $460 to $18 per year. McCarthy is game and filed his bond for $5,000 and holds the job.

Owing to the condition of the furnaces at the R. P. church during the cold spell there were no services there last Sabbath, the organization uniting with the U. P. congregation. Rev. M. J. Taylor filled the U. P. pulpit Sabbath evening.

Mrs. John Lott arrived here Monday evening from St. Louis, where she has been for several weeks with her husband, Mr. John Lott, who is representing a Pittsburg company on a waterworks contract in that city. Mr. Lott is expected here Saturday.

Mrs. John Lott, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Owens, was over-come Wednesday morning by gas fumes in her sleeping room. The fire had been turned to high. Mrs. Lott was sick but a short time but the family was given a good scare.

The voters in Xenia on Tuesday defeated the bond issue of $40,000 for a sewerage disposal plant by a vote of 170 to 611. Several damage suits have been voted against the city by residents near the "sewerage farm" and the disposal plant was the only means of removing the trouble.

Mr. A. Z. Smith has been spending the past week or ten days in company with Hon. George Little, at the Franklin Board & Paper Company. A number of improvements are being made and Mr. Smith's long experience in the paper mill business makes his advice valuable in such work.

Mr. O. A. Dobbins and wife attended the Corn show in Springfield, Thursday, remaining over for the banquet that night. Mr. Dobbins starts out next week on a farmers' institute speaking trip in the northern part of the state. Mr. Dobbins has been quite successful as a seed corn and soy bean grower and has also devoted some time to seed corn judging, all of which will be helpful in institute work.

Watt & Foust will hold their annual Duoco Jersey sale in Xenia on February 6th, in a large warehouse at the rear of the Greene County Hardware Company's store. About 65 head will be offered for sale. This firm has the reputation of breeding some of the highest priced Duoco that have ever been marketed. Their sales are always attended by buyers from the adjoining states and the present one will be up to the standard of former years.

The third annual corn show as given by the Kinane-Sullivan Co., Springfield, was held last week and there were a large list of entries. Last season Dobbins of this place won the silver trophy for the ten best ears of yellow corn. This year the cup goes to H. Bassard & Son of Solms. However the local firm won two other prizes. They must win the cup three different times before they become the owners of it. The drought early in the season, the cold wet spell after the corn was cut causing cob rot and mold, made the past year one of the worst years known to save corn.
