Cedarville Dean Participates in National Opioid Webinar

CEDARVILLE, OHIO -- Dr. Marc Sweeney, dean of Cedarville University's School of Pharmacy and professor of pharmacy practice, will participate in a national forum for the Pharmacy Benefit Management Institute's "Mitigating the Societal and Economic Costs Associated with Opioid Prescribing" webinar on Tuesday, April 21, at 1:30 p.m. EST. The webinar is free and open to the public.

"Given the challenges of opioid use, and even more so during the COVID-19 outbreak, it is important for health care professionals to understand the challenges and solutions that are being discussed. I am honored to be invited to participate in such an important presentation," said Sweeney.

The webinar will discuss the most common barriers to the safe initiation, monitoring and discontinuation of opioid therapy and offer solutions to implement within the workflow of a pharmacy benefit management.

Other experts participating on the webinar include John Bowman, chief executive officer at Sure Med Compliance in Mobile, Alabama; Nicholas Opalich, chief executive officer at EHO in Belton, Texas; and Tammy Radcliff from KemPharm.
