SKETCH OF ITALY, GERMANY, AND HOLLAND

Our three days in Naples have been wonderful as have been our other stops. We arrived here on Sunday noon coming to the Hotel Patria for lunch, then started out in taxis on a sightseeing trip over the city which took us to the Cathedral of St. Januarius, where is kept the blood of a martyr, St. Jerome, which liquefies and performs miracles two or three times a year (?)

We rode out along the bay and came back to the Aquarium which is quite unusual, not nearly so large or complete as the one in New York, but containing some very rare and unusual specimens of Mediterranean types particularly the coral and sea anemonal which are lovely.

We got a splendid idea of all the beauty and ugliness of Naples on that afternoon. I don't suppose there is any other city in the world with a more completely beautiful and historic setting. The bay is vivid blue, the mountains tower all around and behind it, and Vesuvius looms over all with the cloud of smoke which hangs heavily over him at all times.

But in spite of all this natural beauty, Naples is continuously ugly under foot, but always picturesque. It is all rags and smells, donkeys and dirt. There are millions of children and dogs and some other creatures. We stopped on a corner to take a picture of a half dozen children and instantly there were men, women, babies, dogs and many more children clamoring to be taken too.

Hurdy-gurdies and wandering bands play in the street.

While we waited for dinner Sunday evening we watched from our balcony at the hotel the melon vendor in the side street and his wife clean (throwing rubbish into the gutter), a chicken prepave and serve a four course dinner to the daughter, her mother and themselves. All this was on the street, they used merely a charcoal burner, three plates, one glass, a fork and knife and a small table. Every where one sees people practically living on the street and getting more pleasure out of life than an Anglo-Saxon ever dreamed of having.

Until far into the night one hears the sounds of little boys playing on the street.

Never in my life have I seen so many children, and all of them beautiful. Italy is indeed the land of perfect babies.

I suppose sanitary conditions are such that only the very fit live past a very tender age and they are indestructible and lovely.

On Monday we left early in the morning by boat for Capri, an island at the foot of the peninsula which bounds the Bay of Naples. There we visited the Blue Grotto which is a cave with an opening so small that it can only be entered by lying down in a small row boat. The cave is a perfect dome overhead, and the light coming through the water that the opening gives the most vivid blue hue to the whole place and makes one feel as if he were rowing on a sea of turquoise.

We had lunch at Capri and bought beads which are for sale by the bushel.

The boat trip takes all day but is worth it for the view of Vesuvius from the water is worth the time spent.

Today we took what is known as the Arnold Drive which ranks with the Grand Cornish Drive at Nice as one of the most beautiful in the world. Going out we spent the morning in the ruins of Pompeii. Ever since I read "The Last Days of Pompeii" when I was a child I have wanted to see it and I found it far more wonderful than any thing I had anticipated. One can get a complete idea of what the city was like and how life was ordered there, from the ruins as they now stand.

And to see old Vesuvius puffing away as he towers above all this ruin that he did more than nineteen hundred years ago, gives one a decided thrill.

We had lunch at a little mountain hotel high and directly above the Mediterranean. Every where we go there is music, at the hotels, on the boat, in the streets, sometimes it is men, sometimes a whole family or a company of adults. At lunch today it was a family with the younger children singing and the older ones playing instruments.

It is no wonder Italy has produced "Carmen" and "Galli Curci," there are no doubt many more of them on the streets of Naples.

On the way back we stopped at Sorrento where beautiful inlay work in wood is done and in the edge of Naples at a Coral factory where there are many lovely things in workmanship to be seen.

It is just impossible to describe this mountain, life of southern Italy. There are lemon and olive groves and vineyard everywhere. The sides and the soil red in place just as far of the mountains have been terraced as it is possible to climb, here the trees grow and sometimes some other crops. The villagers climb the mountain side, beginning at the water's edge.

Seemingly the sun never stops shining and the sea is always as blue as the sky which seems continuously cloudless except for the vapor hanging over Vesuvius.

How I wish we had time to climb him and peep down into his gizzard, but we leave in the morning for an all day's ride to Florence by way of Rome.

No one ever can get an idea of the dirt and noise, smell and joy until he comes himself.

GERMANY AND HOLLAND

We did Germany and we have been doing Holland at so terrific a rate of speed that there has not been a minute to spare for writing. We traveled all day on the hottest of German trains through the most interesting of German country which looks just like our flat middle west.

After the beauty and the coolness of the Swiss mountains it was just awful. We found famous bath place of Weisbad very lovely and fairly interesting. It and Mayence are the section still under the command of French soldiers and we found it interesting to notice the effect of it all.

The next day we had a lovely ride down the Rhine to Cologne.

The Rhine is interesting but not nearly so beautiful as our Hudson. The days ride could not compare with the Hudson River Day Boat's trip. The only very interesting things to be seen are the lovely old ruined castles which are perched all along the high rocky banks.

We passed the famous Lorelei rock, the Binigen Mouse tower, Boun the home of Beethoven Colmbents where the American troops were for so long.

At Cologne everything was closed up tight by the English.

There were manifestations of greater prosperity in Germany than any place where we have been. Of course I realize that the Ruhr valley through which we passed is the richest part of the country. The fact that much of our time was spent in occupied territory may have had much to do with the attitude of the people toward us, but they had not the cordial friendly attitude which we have found in most of the other countries. We may have been looking for affronts just because we are naturally curious how an ex-enemy will treat us on the first meeting after the hostilities are over but I do believe I was quite open minded in the matter.

German food however is excellent, but Dutch is super-excellent. It seems so very good because it is almost identical with our own in method of preparation as well as in variety.

The city of Amsterdam is a more modern and in most ways a much more "American-like" city than any we have visited.

This combined with the bits of atmosphere which one finds here and there about the streets and which abounds on the very outskirts makes it most unusual. Imagine stepping out of the suburbs of Columbus, Ohio, into very green fields dotted with windmills, storks, cows and canals.

The fields are bounded only by the ditches and canals but the cows seem never to wander beyond their boundary. Within much less than an hour of the city one sees all of this and

STATE CANS VEGETABLES FOR WARDS

More than 5,000 gallons of tomatoes will be canned by prisoners at the London farm during the next two or three weeks. Approximately 1000 gallons of tomato soup will be canned. This is the juice of the small ripened fruit boiled down so that from four to six parts of water must be added when it is served.

The prisoners have husked and dried almost five tons of sweet corn. This is hauled direct to the factory from the fields and while one group of men husks the corn, another removes the silks, and within an hour after being picked from the stock the corn is shredded and in the dryer.

The canning factory was established as an experiment by the present administration, but so successful has been the work of the prisoners there that an addition may be erected next year to care for the increased amount of canned goods that will be put up for consumption at the London farm.

The supply of tomatoes fresh from the field not only will be enough to supply the needs of the 600 men at London, and the 1800 or more at the penitentiary, but shipments of the canned product will be made to other state institutions.

The making of sauerkraut for use this winter will begin within a few weeks, Director Harper said, Saturday. The prisoners have made several hundred gallons which will be for early use, but more than 1000 barrels will be made from late cabbage at London and other state institutions. Sauerkraut has been found to be one of the most wholesome dishes that can be served institution inmates, and a larger amount will be made this year than ever before.

STATE HOUSE SITE FAVORED BY OLD COMMISSION

The old state house building commission, consisting of Governor Donahy, State Treasurer Tracey and Attorney General Crabb, after long hickering have voted to build the new state house building on the present state house grounds. At the last session of the legislature another commission was named in an advisory capacity from the legislature. This body wants the new building on the river front. Until public sentiment became so strong against the advisory commission favored a third street site opposite the present building. There was every ear-mark of jobbery connected with this site and public sentiment became so hot that it no longer is considered.

The large majority of people favor the state house site irrespective of what the advisory legislative committee wants.

OSBORN REMOVAL COMPANY WILL SELL HOUSES

The Osborn Removal Co. is this week advertising 26 houses in New Osborn for sale. The company is desirous of closing up its business and the last twenty-six properties will go on the market. The company was formed to relocate the town and move the residences from the old site due to the opportunity is at hand for these seeking an investment. With two of the largest cement works in the country and the Wright aviation field that will have several hundred government employes, the new Osborn will be one of the best towns in Ohio and one of the prettiest. Few cities have any better traveling accommodations, two railroads, a traction line, a bus line, are more than many towns can boast of.

SQUIRREL SEASON OPENS

The squirrel hunting season opened Tuesday and will close October 20th. Each hunter is entitled to five squirrels and under the law none can be sold. Each hunter must have a license and there can be no hunting without permission of the landowner.

Hunters should take precaution this year. At present in some sections there is considerable hog cholera. This can be spread by hunters in carrying the germs on their feet from one farm to another.

The peasants wearing wooden shoes, baggy trousers, lace caps, full skirts and all the other quaint things we term Dutch costumes.

In the afternoon we went in a sail boat from the little village known as Volendam, over the Zuider Zee to the fishing island of Nearland. It furnished still another variety of local color and costume. We went into some of their little spots but Zanny looking houses. It all takes too long to describe it in detail now but it was charming.

YELLOW SPRINGS PUBLIC

The improved road in the Yellow Springs road is now open to the public Monday morning. The improvement was made by the township trustees and the county commissioners from the equipment two mill road levy. The road was furnished by the township and the road now has a good surface being built of stone.

The road will last several years but from an investment standpoint it should have a cost of a small stone. By doing this the upkeep will be greatly reduced. With present transportation facilities a tar binder is needed.

In the course of a road in Cedarville should be built of stone. Life of stone roads are longer and more durable. Our side roads are in former years due to the mail delivery, school trucks and milk trucks. Farmers living on stone roads are not held up on delivery due to the hogs in the spring. By having a few days for the roads to settle a farmer can miss a good price for his hogs.

Another reason why stone should be used for roads in this township and the eastern part of the county is that we have one of the best companies supplying an excellent grade of stone. The company is largely owned by local people. The company pays taxes in the county and it should have that recognition.

The profits are distributed to local people and the entire community profits by the labor that is supplied.

Eastern Greene county should stand for the local products manufactured and back up our local industries whenever possible.

The two mill levy is a direct mandate from the people for funds for improved roads. The general public expects hard surface roads and will be satisfied with nothing else. Gasoline tax money as well as revenue from motor licenses adds to funds for streets and highways and the motoring public also demand a hard road.

The hard road not only means much more pleasant motoring but a safer surface. It means a saving of time and money from an economical standpoint. No defense can be made for any other type of road than that of tar bound stone macadam, cement and brick highways.

LOOKS LIKE CLIFTON PIKE WILL COME NEXT

We are informed that the state highway department has notified the Clark county commissioners not to spend anymore money this year on that road as it was to be improved next year. It is also reported that the village of Clifton has been asked to release any claim on the street passing through the village that connects the Springfield and Washington road from Clark to Greene county. The road is worn out and many have complained of both the Clark county and the Greene county sections. The section in Cedarville township is not in as bad condition.

M. E. RECEPTION

The M. E. congregation gave a farewell reception to Rev. and Mrs. B. E. Stevens Tuesday evening and at the same time welcomed the new pastor Rev. Joseph Bennett and wife. Rev. Stevens, moved his household goods Wednesday to pleasant Ridge, Cincinnati, where he was assigned at the recent M. E. conference. The congregation at Pleasant Ridge is preparing to build a new parsonage. The salary in the new charge is $3,000 instead of $2,700 as reported last week.

CINCINNATI PIKE PAVING MAY START THIS YEAR

The County Commissioners have been granted $116,000 as state aid for the improvement of the Cincinnati pike out of Xenia to the Warren county line, a distance of nine miles. The type of road has not been determined but it will probably be tar bound macadam. The estimated cost is $230,000. Thirty farm owners have petitioned for the improvement. The Warren county section of the Columbus pike is now being improved west of Waynesville. This is the last main highway in the county to be improved.

DROUTH BROKEN SATURDAY BY HEAVY RAIN FALL

The three weeks drouth and hot spell was broken last Saturday when about eleven o'clock that morning one of the heaviest rains of the year fell. About 10:30 that night a still heavier storm visited this section of the state but did no damage other than find the weak spots in the roofs. Day reports that more than four inches of water fell that day. The creek as well as the river and smaller streams have been replenished. The ground has been soaked good which is welcomed by farmers. There was some fear of seeding for wheat unless there was more moisture. This fear has been allayed.

DR. HENDERSON IS CALLED TO GROVE CITY, PA.

Detroit will lose one of its older pastors in the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Homer B. Henderson, of the First United Presbyterian Church, taking effect Oct. 1. Dr. Henderson goes to the First United Presbyterian Church of Grove City, Pa., one of the strongest small city congregations in Western Pennsylvania. The change is made because Grove City is the seat of a Presbyterian college where Dr. and Mrs. Henderson hope to educate their three sons.

Dr. Henderson came to Detroit 14 years ago, succeeding Rev. J. C. Pinkerton, who had been here nine years. In 30 years the church has had only three pastors. He served as president of the Pastors' Union several years ago and now is on the athletic committee of the Detroit Council of Churches. He is a member of the Optimist Club.

Dr. Henderson is a graduate of Cedarville College and one in which Cedarville people have always had an interest. He is an eloquent speaker and a prominent churchman in his denomination. We understand that the salary of his new charge will be $4,200, an increase of $400 over the salary he has been receiving in Detroit.

WHAT CONGRESSMAN BRAND MIGHT HAVE DONE

While Congressman Charles Brand of this district might be commended for his votes on legislative acts, and declining the increase of salary, there are many that have disagreed with him on the way he is distributing this money to the counties of his district.

The Congressman is a known advocate of gravel roads, or at least he has been giving some of the counties $500 each to purchase a wheel barrow crusher to be placed in gravel pits to crush gravel. Every load of gravel so crushed costs as much as load of stone by the time it is on the road.

A suggestion was handed up a few days ago. Had the Congressman given the five hundred dollars to each county and aided five students in securing a college education, he would have been doing something worth while.

The general public knows nothing of the number of students that are out of college this year due to financial stringencies in their own families. Many farmers have had their income so reduced that they cannot send their children to even the small colleges. There are now scores of young folks in college that can only remain by receiving outside aid or part time employment during the year.

The suggestion might be worth Congressman Brand's consideration. The regular tax funds, the license and gas tax money will care for the highways without causing the counties to load up on small machinery that will require as much man power as if the plant was ten times the size.

WREN'S ANNUAL HARVEST FESTIVAL NEXT MONTH

This announcement will receive a glad welcome in every home in this vicinity for it presents many unusual opportunities.

Great preparations have been made. Every market has been combed and the entire store is ready and will offer for reasonable merchandise of reliable "Wren" quality and latest style. You will find the lowest possible prices consistent with good quality, and the values will be the best.

The Harvest Festival Exhibits are to be held again this year. Worth while cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the winners of First, Second and Third prizes in each class. Every person is invited to enter in these exhibits as they wish. No entrance fee is charged and the only requirement is that the exhibit must have been produced during the year 1925.

A few changes have been made in the classes this year and the revised list will be published in this paper next week. You will also see further details on Springfield's Greatest Value-Giving Event.

OFFICERS RAID SMITH HOME SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputies Baughn and Spencer raided the home of James Smith (Venerable) last Sunday afternoon. There was no one at home at the time. It is said that Smith had made some grape wine and a quart of this was found. It is probable that an analysis will be necessary to determine whether it contained more than one per cent alcohol.

FRANK LEE DIES IN PEN DEATH CHAMBER

Frank Lee, colored, 38, sentenced to die in the electric chair December 2 for the murder of Patrolman Chas. Simms of Xenia, died Tuesday in the Penitentiary Hospital.

Death was due to acute heart trouble, from which he has suffered since entering the death chamber. Lee came to Cedarville from Springfield and was a stranger to the colored population. From here he went to Xenia and the day that he arrived in Xenia he was charged with shooting officer Simms at the home of Earl Keyes, where Simms had gone to get a rooming house key that belonged to Mrs. Jennie Hamilton of this place. Simms was shot from within the Keyes home and four bullets entered his body. Lee fled from the house and was not captured for several hours afterwards. A posse was formed and he gave himself up near Trebines.

Lee was indicted and found guilty August 13. He protested his innocence at the time of the trial and after being taken to Columbus. At no time did he ever weaken.

While he was sentenced to die December 2nd, Attorney Dawson Smith was preparing to appeal his case before the Court of Appeals next month. For several weeks subscription papers have been in evidence in the county seeking funds among colored citizens to employ Attorney Frank L. Johnson to aid Attorney Smith in appealing the case.

Lee was born in the south and he has a wife and three children in Monroe Michigan. The body was shipped to Alabama for burial.

According to Columbus prison authorities this is the second time in the history of the state that death has defeated execution of sentence for such a crime. The other case was a about nine years ago when a Hamilton county prisoner died before the time for his execution.

W. D. NISBET GETS HIGH MASONIC DEGREE

W. D. Nisbet stopped here Thursday on his way from Pittsburgh back to Chicago. While in the Smoky City Mr. Nisbet was signally honored by having the Thirty-third Masonic degree conferred upon him. There were 85 in the class. The membership for this degree is limited and candidates are elected only without application. Mr. Nisbet has for the past few years been devoting much time to lecturing before Scottish Rite as well as other Masonic bodies. His local friends extend congratulations on his receiving the highest Masonic honor.

CROSSING BRIDGES

One day at a time conscientiously lived will keep the eyes bright and the cheeks round and rosy. Don't begin to worry about things days beforehand. It will be time enough when they happen. It is the dread of what may come, not what is, that makes one old before the time. If you lie awake half the night worrying about something that is going to occur the next day you will be far less able to face bravely and work out the problem than if you had made and thought of something else until sleep came. It is not half as hard as it sounds and it will grow easier every time you try it. Troubles always look heavier when you lie awake at night. Perhaps, after all, the disaster will not befall you, or will be less awful than you anticipated, and just think what a lot of unnecessary wrinkles you have worried into your face. Remember the old, old man who said to the youth, "My son, I have lived a long time and I have had an awful lot of troubles, most of which never happened."

GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

A great deal of hot air is being issued upon the marriage question. A large part of the popular novels and plays deal with these infelicities. They do not seem to think people are interesting unless their lives are all tangled up by the "eternal triangle." They give the impression that most people pick the wrong wives and husbands, and that wedded homes are generally in a state of upheaval. The very apt remark was recently made that the "modern novel is neurotic, erotic and tommyrotic."

How unreal this all seems to the people of the rural districts, where most folk live in peace and harmony in their homes. Of course, divorce is common nowadays. But with the great mass of hard-working people, when it occurs, it is usually for one of the more serious faults, like infidelity, desertion and cruelty. The law has always recognized these as good causes for divorce. But it is in high society among temperamental and nerve-strung people, that divorces are sought for a wide variety of causes, many of them trifling, and where there is serious unrest in the married state. People of this type do not have enough to occupy their minds. They spend too much thought and time in follies and flirtations; they have too much idle time to brood over slights and indignities. Many marital quarrels develop that never would occur among hard-working persons. Among the great mass of industrious, active people, you won't find many claiming that marriage is a failure. Two people toiling together for a common end, year after year, generally get along well. They are bound together by ties that grow stronger each year. They have no time to get morbid or to think too much.

KROGER COMPANY SELLS STOCK TO EMPLOYEES

The Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. is offering to sell common stock to its employees at $95.00 a share. The proposition has been put into effect in order to develop greater personal interest of its employees toward the development of the company and to reward them in proportion to the success of the company. Approximately 10,000 Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Illinois, Michigan and West Virginia employees will have the opportunity to purchase under this plan. Harry Wright is manager of the local store.

LEIGHLY AUTO HIT BY INTOXICATED DRIVER

A wild ride on the part of John Clark and Raymond Stewart, Xenia ended Sunday, when both were locked up in Springfield. Blaine Leighly of this place reported that the pair hit and damaged his car and also another machine. Liquid corn caused the accident and landed the youths in the Springfield jail.

COMMANDER RODGERS' OWN STORY OF FLIGHT

Prizes Cross of St. George, No. 1, in Modest Narrative of 3-Day Drift in Pacific.

Honolulu.—Commander John Rodgers of the navy seaplane PN-9, No. 1, issued his first official statement of the attempt to span the Pacific in a non-stop flight from San Francisco to the Hawaiian Islands.

In an extemporaneous report, dedicated to "the American people," Commander Rodgers chronicled his experiences and trials gone through by himself and crew of four men since the plane took off from the waters of San Francisco bay, August 31.

By COMMANDER JOHN RODGERS
In command of the seaplane PN-9, No. 1.

For the benefit of the interested public, I desire to make at this time a definite statement of facts in regard to the voyage of the PN-9, No. 1, from San Francisco to Nawiliwili.

The PN-9, No. 1 and No. 2, left San Francisco approximately at the same time on August 31. The PN-9, No. 2, was not sighted by No. 1 after departure. Plane PN-9, No. 1, proceeded as per instructions sailing on a straight course to Honolulu.

The navigation was done entirely by dead reckoning, no attention being paid to radio bearings.

The engines worked perfectly. In the morning it became evident that the gasoline supply was running short and it would be doubtful if we could reach Honolulu. I therefore decided to land at the Atsutook.

I started to write a message which would give her some clue of our whereabouts but just then the gasoline gave out. Both engines were cut out simultaneously and we started to glide from about 800 feet.

Lieutenant Connally, who had the cockpit, made a beautiful landing in the heavy woods, both engines being dead, having no power. Due to total expenditure of gasoline, we could not use radio and were therefore out of communication at twilight. I determined our position to be fifty miles north of the Atsutook station.

We rigged a radio antenna on the plane and received without much difficulty everything that was in the air. We sailed before the wind, endeavoring to work the plane in toward the Hawaiian Islands, hoping to make Oahu. We made fifty miles a day.

We knew we could get along with the cockpit, but we had small emergency rations. We were depending on a small water still for water.

This supplied water, but the still required gasoline as fuel. We managed to get the still going on the sixth day by burning wood from the trailing edge of the lower wing. On the seventh day we made a canteen and a half of water in about five hours.

On the eighth day a heavy rain squall passed over us and we caught about two gallons in the fabric which had been cut from the lower wings. This enabled us to survive.

All during the trip we realized that an extemporized radio sending set would solve our difficulties in a few hours by giving our position to the search ships. We tried rigging one up, but were unable to make one which worked a sufficient distance. The receiver, as I have said, functioned perfectly all the time. We knew just what was going on about us.

Crossing the steamer lane from Honolulu to the coast a steamer crossed our bow about five miles ahead, in the early morning. Due probably to the fact that the sun was low and directly in the eyes of observers, we were not seen.

We passed Oahu at about 40 miles distance, the island being clearly visible, the afternoon of the eighth, and headed and close hauled for Kauai. We had reached a point about 15 miles off Nawiliwili and were trying to signal that port when we were sighted by the patrolling submarine, ten miles off Nawiliwili, were taken in tow and towed into the harbor, where the whole island greeted us.

The most exciting part of the whole journey was getting the plane anchored safe in the harbor of Nawiliwili. Finally we got it well secured in a safe place and went ashore. We were taken care of by the good people of the island, who insisted on treating us as invalids, whereas, as a matter of fact, we were in very good shape and perfectly capable of taking care of ourselves.

We believe the PN-9 is a great plane in the air, capable of maintaining itself on the surface of the water in ordinary weather almost indefinitely. The morale of the crew was high. As a matter of fact it appears from what we heard after our arrival that we were the least concerned people in the world as to our safety.

I wish to say finally that as Hawaiian flight commander I was fully supported by all units of the navy.

Miss Jane West won second prize in the "Secretary Hawkins Club" contest as conducted for young folks by the Cincinnati Enquirer. The contestants can write an essay or story or verse. The following is the verse as submitted by Miss West:

SUNSET AT RIPLEY, OHIO

As I stand on the summit of Rankin's hill
 And look into the valley o'er field and rill,
 I see the church, spires of a quaint little town
 And the roofs of houses among trees
 Nestled down;
 Off in the distance the beautiful Ohio flows;
 Around the bend it slowly winds as on to
 The ocean it goes;
 The sun hangs low in the clear autumn skies,
 A ball of fire as the daylight dies;
 Lower and lower it sinks from view,
 Leaving the sky a beautiful hue,
 The sun has changed from its silvery tone
 The reflection of the sun in the water is shown.
 The silver has changed to colors bright
 As the shadows lengthen into the night.
 —Jane West, age 12, Cedarville, Ohio.

SAD DEATH WHEN YOUTH IS CALLED TO ETERNAL HOME

Death ended a long sickness when John A. Finney fell asleep at noon last Friday. The young man suffered an attack of scarlet fever last April, and although unusually strong and rugged, nephritis developed which robbed him of his physical strength and for the past few weeks laid at death's door.

The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Finney and was nearing his fifteenth birthday. He would have been a Sophomore in the High school this year where he was a favorite among the students. Besides the parents he leaves four sisters and three brothers.

The funeral was held from the U. P. church Monday, where the young man was a member. The services were conducted by Dr. W. R. McChesney, who was assisted by Dr. J. P. White, the youth's former pastor. Interment took place in North cemetery.

REV. JOSEPH BENNETT COMES TO M. E. CONGREGATION

Since the announcement last week of ministerial assignments for the M. E. church, there has been a change that affects the local congregation, and one that is meeting with approval by the membership. The change came about due to the fact that the New Paris, O., M. E. congregation did not care to give up their pastor, Rev. L. Buehler, who had only been at that charge one year and was giving satisfaction and had accomplished much for the people in that time. Rev. Buehler preached last Sunday morning for the local congregation and he was well received. On Monday announcement was made that Rev. Joseph Bennett, of Jamestown had been assigned here and that Rev. Buehler would remain in New Paris.

Rev. Bennett has been with the Jamestown congregation two years and he enters upon the work here with the hearty co-operation of the local membership. He has made personal acquaintance with many of his new charge and does not come as an entire stranger. Rev. Bennett and family are welcomed into the community.

DAYTON FIRM GETS STREET JOB IN JAMESTOWN

Roth and Jennings, a Dayton road contracting firm has been given the contract for improving Limestone street in Jamestown. The bid was $22,765.81. The street has been in bad condition for several years and the improvement should be welcomed. A few residents petitioned the council to hold up the work until next spring owing bad weather at this season of the year. The commissioners will proceed with the work at once and only that portion of the street than can be improved this fall required.

HENRY J. FARRELL GETS STATE POSITION

Henry J. Farrell, Xenia, has been appointed Second Assistant Purchasing Agent, vice the late John F. Cunningham, Dayton. Mr. Farrell for a number of years was connected with the state securities department and has been prominent in Democratic politics in the county for some years. It is evident that political conditions within the Democratic ranks must have changed in this county or else committee recommendations were not retained.

"The Store for All People"

"WHAT shall I wear? How shall I look? Demure in neutral tones, or vivid in brilliant reds and greens? Shall I be sheath-like, slim and straight, or may I swing along in a jaunty flare of skirts?"

Of course, you are asking these questions—every woman is, because there's a new season here. Our Autumn Display will be a revelation to you of the marked fashion changes a few months have brought. Nothing is quite like anything you have seen before. Wraps are rich with furs dyed in subtle new shades. Frocks show ingenious new lines. In the ensemble, wool and silk fabrics match with a new exactness. Hats have an indefinable "difference" of air.

Yet so versatile have the designers proved, that every type and age of woman may find here the very costume that seems made for her alone. You will find yours here, without a doubt. A trip to Cincinnati, a visit to Pogue's, is the best investment you can make when planning your costume for autumn and winter.

Silhouettes of Fashion

—as seen in the new Coats for the new season.

Lithesome

Flares which swing from the shoulder, which dart in godets from the waistline—flares in front, at sides or in back, may be your choice.

Slim Princess

Straight lines, fitting slim and close, with tuxedo or narrow shawl collar of fur following the straightness to the hem—another smart silhouette!

Le Baril

Barrel-shaped, by means of inverted fullness, are a few of the more extreme coats—with snug-fitting fur collars and plain narrow sleeves.

Emphatic

Borders of fur are not often seen in their entirety. Usually fur patches are applied in border effects instead—to accentuate a fashionable flare.
