MANY CHANGES IN RACING OF TO-DAY

COLUMBUS—In former years, widely known in trotting circles, and also prominent in the Grand Army of the Republic and in the Ohio legislature, first as a member of the latter body and later as one of its chief officials, Andrew Jackson of Cedarville, Greene county, 92 years young, a direct lineal descendant of that rugged character of American history, General Andrew Jackson, was in Columbus during the past week, attending the grand circuit races, and renewing acquaintances at the state capital, where, for many years, he was an outstanding figure.

Runs Farm at 12

Twelve year old Vivian Brown of Rye Beach, N. H., ran a 25-acre farm this summer, milking six cows a day; putting up hay; and raising corn and vegetables. She made money to go to school this winter.

Robinson, of Ironton, present sergeant-at-arms of the house, and who was a buddy of "Andy's" in the general assembly more than a generation ago, the doctor then being a member of that body from Lawrence county. This was when the brilliant and fiery Foraker was governor. "Andy" and the doctor were talking over old times when the newspaper men butted in.

PUBLIC APPROVES NO REVALUATION THIS YEAR

The action of the State Tax Commission in working with the county auditors to hold up re-appraisal of real estate in 69 counties in Ohio for a year was wisdom even though nearly all the counties were without funds for such a revaluation. The State Tax Commission has the power to hold over the revaluation even though the law technically may require it. This is but a sample of the kind of laws we have now a days. They usually say what they do not mean.

THE GREENFIELD ORCHESTRAL QUARTET

The Greenfield Orchestral Quartet is a premier orchestral organization. Each member is an artist of outstanding individual attainments, while ten years of playing rarely attained. Max Greenfield, violinist, saxophonist and manager, has been associated with the orchestra of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and with the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra. He has also been director of one of Marcus Lewis's well-known New York orchestras.

Edith Greenfield, violinist, recently won first prize in a concert conducted by the Chicago Artists' Association. She has appeared extensively in recital and concert, notably in New York and Chicago, and has scored distinctive successes always. She was a pupil of the renowned Leopold Auer, who also taught Elman, Helfetz and Zimbalist. Mollie Greenfield, pianist, has also a goodly number of New York and Chicago appearances to her credit in the course of many recitals and concert engagements to the country over. She has been soloist with the Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra.

COLLEGE NOTES

The College football season opens officially next Saturday when the boys from Urbana come down for the annual licking. Last year wasn't enough for them; evidently and the Urbans are going to meet the suburban with the advantage on the side of the farm boys. The Yellowjacket squad had its first scrimmage last Wednesday, another on the following day with their neighbors, the High School, and a funny practice game on Friday with Pop Warner's Fairmont boys from Dayton. The Fairmont aggregation put up a plucky fight but was of course outweighed and smothered by about 20-0 with very little effort.

Entered at the Post-Office, Cedarville, O., October 31, 1887, as second class matter.

THEN AND NOW

We had an occasion one day last week to look up a date of some importance in the files some twenty-five years ago or more. We were attracted by a series of letters that ran for several weeks concerning the use of the instrument in religious worship. The arguments for and against were strong according to the individual view of the writer. As the letters continued so did each writer quote from the Bible for and against. They were of much interest in those days and more so now that most all churches have some form of instrumental music.

The writers of these articles were both conscientious God-fearing men whose lives were examples for all men to follow. It so happened that one was a layman who wrote over his own name and the other was a minister of a Presbyterian congregation that was strongly opposed to any form of instrumental music in connection with religious worship. The minister wrote under a "non-descript name".

In those days such a topic brought division among church people and in some instances probably heart strings tightened over the thought of such a step. Time could not be held back and as a result we have the instrumental music as found today in nearly every church.

Just so with today no one or two or a half hundred members of any church can hold out against the advancement of the times that will demand continued changes as the years pass—even after some of us have gone to our reward.

The early Pilgrim worshiper if he were to return today might have more or less trouble in accepting the form of worship we are using now. These changes have been taking place the past few centuries and will continue as conditions demand.

We cannot expect our children to accept antiquated standards and the forms of twenty-five or fifty years ago when from the first day in school to conclusion of the educational course in the college and university we have been teaching all forms of advancement and the adoption of the newer ideas. Even today, the average parent cannot divide the simplest or most complex fractional problem to meet the requirements of the new school code. Newer ideas as to this branch of education has supplanted that given back as late as twenty-five years ago. The rules of Ray and Wentworth have been laid aside for a new rule that brings the same result. The newer idea in religion is to be in a constant contrast to that in years past but the object is getting the result in the same.

EVERYTHING ON THE CHANGE

What are we coming too anyway? Everything is on the change. The average citizen seems discontented with all that has been custom. Precedent seems to be a thing of past ages and of little use in the hustle of today. It must be something new. If the new does not satisfy we go back in the centuries and dig up the old and call it the "latest" of today.

While styles for dress must change with the seasons, so must our taste to keep up with the epicurean standards.

There is one change taking place that probably few have considered or even noticed. And that is nothing more than in the form of horse racing. There was the time when the country went wild when the "2:10" trotter or pacer went around the oval track with the high-wheeled sulky. Nowadays the harness horses must be around two minutes or the crowd is not interested, and even that time is not fast enough for today. The association races are being held in Columbus this week, as were held last. The form of racing was changed to the fractional of a mile or over. Every heat a race yet the attendance was as low as 500 when a few years back the average attendance would be ten times that. It is predicted that this will be the last year for association racing in Columbus as the association tends to lose many thousand dollars.

The country has gone wild over the runners in preference to the trotters and pacers. The races seem to give more of a thrill to the sporting element. Quick action must be given today in any form of amusement or the public will not take to it.

Much of this tendency has no doubt been brought about by the automobile. Rubber tires and gasoline now dominate practically every habit we have.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

In this issue will be found the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the regular election in November. These amendments were authorized by the last legislature and should be of special interest to every voter.

One amendment concerns taxation, a question that interests every property owner. It is proposed to change our tax system and some study must be given not only this amendment but the others as well.

Another constitutional amendment has to do with fixing debt limitation for political subdivisions.

The third is the change of increasing the terms of certain elective officers from two to four years.

It is not our purpose at this time to offer even suggestions as to how voters should mark their ballots. You will no doubt get much printed matter by mail and in the press. Read both sides carefully and form your own opinion.

Between now and the November election it is our purpose to interview prominent men in this county as to their views on these amendments. Then if you have not been able to decide for yourself you can be guided by what others will do.

STEPPING ON IT

How quickly the people of today exhaust life. With what pausing haste we devote everything. Every man and woman you meet seems to be late for a train. Hurry is stamped in the wrinkles of every face. We are men of action, we die without it; we go faster and faster as the years go by, speed our machinery to the utmost, stretch the silver cord of life until it snaps. We have not even time to die a natural death. Instead of the lingering maladies of our fathers, we drop down and die of heart failure and apoplexy. Even death has adopted our terrible gait. If we would spend a few hours each day romping with our children or in the society of our home circle we would live longer and our children follow in our pathway which would be plainly blazed with these hours of recreation.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

Beginning Monday Morning, October 5th, OUR GREATEST ANNIVERSARY SALE

To the Friends and Customers of The Home Store

AGAIN we celebrate the anniversary of the founding of our store. Proud of its growth of 17 years, we take this occasion to thank our many patrons, the number of which has grown each succeeding year for the loyalty and friendship that has made this growth possible.

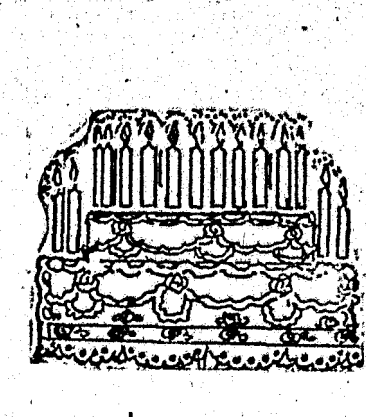

It is a great source of pleasure to us that we have been able to serve so many Springfield families and those from surrounding territory. In return it has been our policy to sell our customers reliable, dependable high grade merchandise at moderate prices and at all times to render courteous treatment, thereby building a reputation and good will.

During the growth of our business it has been our aim never to lose sight of the fact that our customers are our friends. The manifold executive duties of the owners kept them from giving the close personal touch that was possible when business was small, so we are taking this method of expressing our thanks for the keen appreciation the people of Springfield have shown for our efforts in better and bigger store keeping.

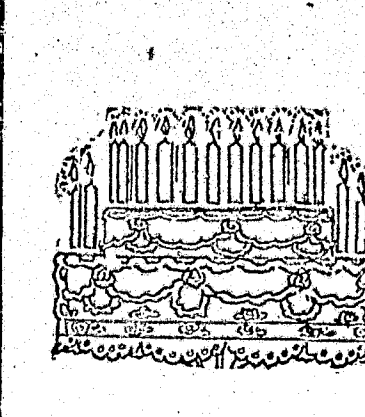

October, our birthday month, will find the store ready for a concrete expression of gratitude to the community it has served so long and in which it has endeavored to function as a buyer for, rather than a seller to the public.

Sincerely,
THE FAHEIN TEHAN CO.

SOAP VERSUS PAINT

Cleanliness is not only next to godliness, according to the American Cosmeticians' Association, but it is essential to loveliness. What this country needs, then, is more soap and less paint.

There is wisdom in this back-to-nature suggestion, which, if followed, to its logical conclusion, might reduce the dimensions of a corporal's guard. What doth it avail a woman to cleanse her skin to pearly plinkness when she immediately smears it with paint, powder, rouge and other alleged embellishments until the original hue is invisible?

HAPPY DAYS

There are many people who think October is the finest month in all the year, and will enjoy to the limit the glorious, golden days of the next few weeks. There is a rare beauty in the brown October with its flaming woods and its frosty air. In fact, there is beauty in gray November and snowy December and there is also business in the next three months. So let us breathe deep of the snappy fall air, throw out your chests and step high. It is great to be alive and well, to have a job and a home and a part in the work and welfare of a good town.

WINDOW OPENED;
SUGAR TAKEN

Burglars entered the W. W. Trout grocery store a week ago Wednesday and left with about 150 pounds of sugar, so far as can be ascertained. Entrance had been gained by entering a window from the alley next to the opera house. The safe had been left unlocked and in trying to open it the combination was set and nothing was disturbed. It is supposed that in as much as Mr. Trout had clerked the Weikar salo that day he had put money in the safe. The matter was kept quiet for several days in the hope of trapping local talent. If there was anything other than the sugar taken it has not been missed.

She had no broken bones but has been confined to her bed at the Dr.'s home ever since. The other ladies were not injured to any extent. ELAN STAGER DIED
IN XENIA LAST SATURDAY

The Greene County Klau Klau Klan held an outing last Saturday at the Xenia fair grounds and concluded the program with a parade in uniform followed by a fire works display that night.

The Klan parade indicated that a large part of the membership must have been from out of the county. It is estimated that not more than 1,200 to 1,500 marched including the women members. Dayton sent a delegation of about 900 that won a prize for being the largest. There were other delegations from Hamilton, Middletown and Springfield. The Greene County delegation was estimated at 200.

Head officers had announced that 30,000 visitors would be present for the show but the figures no doubt served the purpose in drawing what crowd there was. With 30,000 visitors in Xenia, we are fearful that Billy Rogers would have to ask his colored brethren in the famous Fourth ward to aid in maintaining Xenia's name for hospitality.

While business houses were asked to display the American flag most of them ignored the request. A year or so ago it was a popular thing to commercialize the flag but the plan is not so popular now.

AFTERNOON SOCIETY EVENT

A very pleasant and charming social affair took place Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Harry Hammond and Mrs. Kathleen Blair entertained about 135 ladies at the home of the former between the hours of two to four and three to five o'clock. The guests were received by Mrs. Edith Blair and Mrs. I. C. Davis and Mrs. Clara Morton assisted in entertaining. The dining room was decorated in a pleasing manner, yellow and white being the color scheme. Yellow dahlias were used in profusion. Other garden flowers graced the living rooms. The guests were served a two course luncheon. Guests were present from Springfield, Yellow Springs, Jamestown and Xenia.

FOR SALE.—High grade photograph of standard make. Will sell for balance due; payments as low as $1. per week. For full information write P. O. Box 142, Dayton, O.

Fashion favors contrasting shades

Well dressed men are now following fashion's latest decree—they are wearing separate trousers of a different shade than coat and vest.

Our complete line of Dutchess Trousers enables you to follow this sensible style easily and with real economy. Dutchess Trousers are stylish, because they are cut according to the latest designs. They must wear well, because they are backed by the famous "Warranty of 100% Suits"; $2.00 a Rip.

Turquoise's Odd Use.
A Fourteenth-century authority states that turquoise protected horses from the ill effects resulting from drinking cold water when they were overheated. It is said that the Turks often attach these precious stones to the bridles and frontlets of their horses as amulets.

In moral reform, all men are this way; they say: "We don't mind your making experiments, just so you don't make 'em on us."
Castor Oil.
The score of a hitherto unknown wait by Rossini has been found among his manuscripts in the Liceo at Pisa. It bears the amusing title "Castor Oil."

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTIONS IN HOME SEWING

BACK DRAPERY FOR GRACEFUL COSTUME

FOR CASCADE EFFECT

Fashion is a pendulum swinging from the extreme in elaboration to the utmost in simplicity. The present trend is toward elaboration.

Many of the newer Parisian frocks such as the one I have sketched here have that subtle note in their lines that shows a definite movement away from the straight sack-like costumes that have been so much in vogue for the last few years.

This lovely dress is of silk crepe in a deep violet and depends entirely upon its own graceful lines for decoration. Complicated as its construction may seem at first glance it is, in fact, extremely simple.

The body of the costume is cut by a straight sleeveless pattern. The cascade drapery that falls from the left shoulder in the back is shaped as I have shown here in the diagram sketch. The drapery is cut six inches longer than the dress from shoulder to hem. It is twenty-five inches wide at the top and is gradually sloped to the lower edge. At a point half way between the upper and lower edges it should be about twenty inches wide as indicated in the diagram.

When the edges of this piece are finished it is pinned and then sewn loosely to the costume from the shoulder to the neckline as indicated in the draping chart.

The girdle is a band of self material cut about fifteen inches wide and to hem. It is twenty-five inches wide at the top and is gradually sloped to the lower edge. At a point half way between the upper and lower edges it

Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

The Stomach's Rest Hours

Nature's laws—which are really God's laws, are infallible in either reward for obedience or penalty for disregard.

Digestion is a wonderful process which acts independently of our will. In man, this most important chemical laboratory operates only in daytime, as is true in lower animals. Digestion ceases with the coming of night. Digestion "goes to bed early" in order that other important work may be carried on during sleeping hours. This is true of all animal creation. To try to awaken digestion in the night is a dangerous violation of both natural and divine law. The penalty is sure.

Man cannot maintain his strength without protein. These are animal and vegetable and are taken as food. Until acted upon by man's digestive fluids, they are unfit to enter his circulation, and if absorbed undigested, are active poisons. And, most things swallowed are absorbed, whether digested or not. Fancy all the juices of a heavy six-o'clock dinner being thrust into the blood stream without proper digestion in the stomach! No wonder the victim is stupid, and without appetite next morning. No wonder the "no-breakfast" plan! The merciless, invisible foe in this chapter is THE FASHIONABLE SIX O'CLOCK DINNER! This defiance of natural law is building blood-pressure all over our land, hardening arteries, and producing all manner of liver and kidney diseases. Apoplexy—cerebral hemorrhage—the death certificate reads: "Killing more men at fifty to sixty-five than cancer." Traced back to the six o'clock dinner in the vast majority of instances! Those who persist in this defiance of the laws of health are certainly reaping consequences. This sort of crime is never unpunished.
