CONTRAST TWO LIVES

Some days ago two men, prominent in the public eye, died. This is nothing unusual in itself. How the public received this news brings out a comparison that makes one think.

The one represented the more serious side of life, the other that vast American audience that seeks pleasure in viewing the silver screen. Charles W. Elliott, America's foremost educator died the same day, or near the hour that life left the body of Rudolph Valentino, the popular Italian screen artist who had been in this country but thirteen years.

The life and work of Charles W. Elliott, President Emeritus of Harvard, has had more influence upon higher education than that of any other man. President Roosevelt once said that Elliott was "the only man I envy."

It is said that during the recent republican state convention there was much comment regarding Attorney General Charles Crabb and his tenure of office. For months previous to the primary Crabb was busy giving interviews to the press.

nomination at the primary but was defeated by a large vote by Edwin Turner, one of the leading jurists of the state. Crabb's idea was to start something and then runaway and leave it. He fumbled the shrubby investigation as well as others. Charles worked hard at the job until he found where some Republican politician or lobbyist had profited and here the matter rested. Meantime Crabb could get front-page space.

It was well the Republican voters saw at primary day to make a new start and select talent for attorney general, not an actor. It was hard on Griswold—a case of bad luck.

AUTOS AND RAILROADS

The railroad is facing the greatest test in its history in competition with the automobiles. There was a time when the steamship threatened to capture much of the freight business but the increase in the speed and manner of handling things, the old river boat was far too slow.

It is reported that nine million automobiles this year are carrying thirty five million passengers on vacation trips. Of this number three million will carry camping equipment and provide for an extended outing. To all this it is estimated by one writer that three billion dollars will be spent by the automobilists this Summer.

VIOLETS, TREES, MEN

The longest stemmed violets always grow where the grass is deep and thick.

A recent bulletin of the Department of Agriculture mentions the fact that the best timber is found in forests where the trees grow close together. Competition for the sunlight makes them soar up straight and tall.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

WE MUST LOVE ONE ANOTHER

The only practical plan under which human beings can expect to live together in peace is the Golden Rule. We must love one another and do as we would be done by. This is not an ideal Sunday School precept, but it is a rule that has teeth and claws.

Wherever hate and fear and contention rule there is upheaval and disaster. These things cannot be permanently cured by an increase of charity and the spirit of compromise.

The main thing for a people to learn is that there can be no abiding peace that is not founded upon justice.

Tarrying at Jericho

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

"A-L-A-B-A-S-T-E-R-I! Now what, please, is alabaster?" Penny asked. She had spelled the word, with a giggle after each letter—now the stigmas were guffaws.

"Lemme see! O! It's some kind of old rock," Meg, the studious Elliot, said over her shoulder, not raising her eyes from her book.

"How! And what! And why?" Meg demanded, sitting up straight, "Lemme see that letter."

"Really, Penelope, I'm struck dumb. Many, many things have I thought of you—but never, never, NEVER ONCE that you'd inspire poetry like that."

"Shut up—else I'll scratch your eyes!" Penny spluttered through Meg's fingers, fixing upon her lips. Just then black Susanna fung wide the door, saying firmly: "Dat dar Mason boy's at de door—and say he's bound for come inside—lawdy! Hyur he is! Walk in Clint and fine out what de ruction is—"

Meg had said of Clint: "He'll be mighty good looking if he lives to get over gettin' grown"—and spoke exact truth. As to height—he was full-grown—fisting six feet, but so loose-knit, gangling, uncertain of complexion, eke of voice, as to make the height almost comic.

"What you askin' that for?" from Penny over her shoulder. "Say—didn't the postman bring you—anything signed with my name?"

"None at all—unless they go and sign my name," Clint hurried out. "You mean—without your knowin' all about it?" Meg cried.

"None at all—unless they go and sign my name," Clint hurried out. "You mean—without your knowin' all about it?" Meg cried.

"You really mean I can put that across my shirt?" from Clint, no longer frowning. Pen darted to fling the absurd letter in the fire, saying breathlessly as it went up in flame and fantastic ash:

"There! You can't ever know—and if those wretches dare to come askin' me—hardly dare—but if they do, I'll tell the truth—that I couldn't have got a letter from you, because— you never sent me one."

"Hoo-ray! That'll fix 'em—the plean bunch!" Clint shouted, sinking into the nearest chair with a huge sigh of relief. After a minute he grinned shyly, saying meditatively: "Ten—I most wish I'd seen—that they made me say—"

"Shut up. You make me sick," Pen said maternally. "Take it from me—you'll find words enough—when you've really got anything to say. At least I hope so—I know if I had a—a sweetheart, and he came parrottin' as if he'd learned things out of a book, I wouldn't even trouble to say 'No'—just quote Scripture to him: 'Tarry at Jericho till thy beard is grown.'"

"That's certainly Pat. How'd you come to know it?" from Clint admiringly. "By heh! Meg's sister—she knows 'most everything," Pen confessed.

"I'm glad of it," said Clint. "I was all set to go at that bunch o' meddlers with a stall—if I had—"

"You'd have ruined the party Friday night—nobody able to dance—heads bandaged and faces all over surgeon's plaster," Pen interrupted.

Clint beamed. "You think I could have made hash of 'em?" he asked sitting very straight. "I know you could," Miss Penny murmured, looking down. "You're so tall, and quick-moving—and got such strong arms—why! you could scare the lot of 'em out of a year's growth—or maybe cripple them for life."

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for September 5 THE TENT OF MEETING

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 33. GOLDEN TEXT—And the Lord spake unto Moses face to face as a man speaketh unto his friend.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's House in the Wilderness. JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses' Worship in God's House. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Friendship With God. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Communion With God.

1. The Divine Command to Possess the Land (vv. 1-6). They were to go up and possess the land despite the fact that the calf worship had broken the bond between them and their God. God spoke of them as the people whom Moses brought up out of Egypt, not as His own people. They had not shown any true penitence for their awful sin, therefore God could not claim them as His own.

2. Divine aid promised (v. 2). Though their sins made it impossible for God to go with them, He still agreed to help them by sending an angel before them to drive out their enemies.

3. The threatened withdrawal of the divine presence (vv. 3, 5). God said, "I will not go up in the midst of thee, for thou art a stiff-necked people; lest I consume thee in the way: the presence of God in the midst of a sinning and unrepentant people would mean death unto them. The mercy of God is often strikingly shown by God's withdrawal from His people."

4. The effect upon the people (vv. 4, 8). "When the people heard these evil tidings they mourned." They had not understood the seriousness of God's threatened withdrawal. They knew that no angel could make up for the great loss of the personal presence of God. They called it "evil tidings." Surely no tidings are so evil as those which tell of the withdrawal of the divine presence.

(2) They stripped themselves of their ornaments, showing that the articles which indicated gladness and joy could not be consistently worn when God had departed. We must be stripped of all that pertains to self and carnal pleasures if we be clothed with the divine blessing.

5. The Tent of Meeting (vv. 7-11). A. It was pitched outside of the camp (v. 7). As a token of the severed fellowship, the symbol of God's dwelling place, the tent of meeting was placed without the camp. While this showed the excommunication of His people, it showed also God holding out an opportunity to such sinners. He sought the Lord to continue in fellowship with Him.

2. Moses in communion with God (vv. 8-10). Because Moses had not transgressed God's law, he still had fellowship with God. The visible sign to the people that God honored Moses was the descent of the "cloudy pillar" as Moses entered the tent of meeting.

3. Moses the friend of God (v. 11). This is one of the most beautiful expressions of personal fellowship to be found in all the Bible. Because of his fidelity he was privileged to abide in the tent in the divine fellowship.

11. Moses' Prayer (vv. 12-23). Moses' mind was somewhat perplexed, therefore he came to the Lord for the solution of his problem. God said that He would send an angel to carry out His covenant obligations concerning the people in the possession of the land. Moses desired fuller knowledge of this angel so that he might act intelligently with reference to the matter. He asked for three things:

1. Fuller knowledge (vv. 12-14). In order to lead the people he needed to know more fully his God. God graciously responded, to this request by assuring him that His presence would go with him and that He would give him rest.

2. If His presence go not with me, carry me not hence (v. 15-17). Moses was convinced that no substitute could take God's place even though that one be an angel. He argued that it would be better to perish in the wilderness than to attempt to go into Canaan without God.

3. "Show me thy glory" (v. 18-23). Manifestly Present Never in all the world's history has God been more manifestly present in it than when Jesus died upon the cross. We can all see that now. God was there, if He was ever anywhere in the world of men.

The True Prayer The true prayer in time of great trial, care, or sorrow, is not that we shall be delivered from the experience, but that we may pass through them unharmed.

Colossal Moth Damage Damage caused by ordinary moths exceeds more than $200,000,000 each year in the United States alone, according to a recent investigation of scientists who sought means to reduce the figure. These men discovered that the only sure means of preventing damage was to spray woolen articles with a colorless, colorless liquid which moth worms dislike to touch which marva. As it is the moth worms, and not the flying moth that eats, this method has proved entirely effective.

Velvet Is Featured in Fall Millinery

Modistes are displaying rich velvet and more silk and combinations of velvet with other materials that herald a winter of important millinery. There are many wide-brimmed and high-crowned models and even the smaller hats are elaborated with trimming.

"Thoroughbreds" A horse is termed thoroughbred if he has had an ancestry of noted stock recorded in the stud book for several generations (five in America and seven in England). All thoroughbreds are not descended from one stallion. All race horses are thoroughbreds, but not all thoroughbreds are race horses. Thoroughbred means descended from pure blood and pure stock.

"Hell Gate" No Longer Hell Gate is the name of a formerly dangerous passage in the East river between Manhattan and Long Island. "Hell Gate" is a corruption of the old Dutch name "Hoelgat," which literally means "whirling gate." In 1885 many of the natural obstructions in the channel were removed and Hell Gate is now navigable by large vessels.

The call of the great hornbill, sometimes referred to as the "motor-hornbill," frequently can be heard a mile away.

Mrs. Jessie Owings, Norwood, O. and sisters, Misses Georgia and Tate Parren, Louisville, Ky., and Misses Ruth and Miriam Hersey, Silverton, and Miss Drucille Owing, Norwood, O., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hartman and family, Mrs. Jessie Owings is Mrs. Hartman's mother.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mabel Strobridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Strobridge to Mr. Donald Packer Saurr, Xenia. The marriage took place at North M. E. church, Columbus and the ceremony was performed by Rev. John E. Bickell at 4:30 Saturday, August 14th. The couple left immediately afterward on a wedding trip through the East. Mrs. Saurr has been connected with the Exchange Bank for the past two years and will continue here position this winter. Mr. Saurr is salesman for the White Maytag Sales Co., Xenia.

Little Chance to "Graft"
Wandering bands of gypsy musicians in parts of Europe employ a very simple method to check dishonesty on the part of any member who takes up the collection. They give him a tambourine to hold in his right hand, and a live fly which he has to keep imprisoned in his left as he goes round collecting the money.

Shoes of Old Times
Discarded auto tires are used for many purposes, but the latest way is perhaps the most useful of all. They are now made into shoes that are worn by Spanish peasants. Spanish shoes are worn by the Chinese and by native blacks in South African diamond mines.

The Zither
This instrument is really a compound of the harp and guitar. The harmonics of the harp are produced from it, and it has the delicate tones pertaining to both instruments. The number of strings varies, some altiers having so many as thirty. It is plucked either with the fingers or with a small hook worn on the thumb of the performer.

Walnut Superstition
Once a belief prevailed with some persons that black walnut wood was unlucky. This superstition was rather common among Potomac boatmen, who feared the use of any walnut wood in the construction of a boat. Some were so strongly superstitious that they would not carry walnuts as cargo. It is thought by some that this superstition was because walnut wood was often used making coffins.

Dignified Hats of Rich Materials

Important things are happening every day in millinery and they are emphasized in the new displays of fall styles. The revival of dignified hats of intricate handwork and more elaborate trimmings is bringing in rich hats of velvet, or velvet in combination with other fabrics. The three hats shown here include a beret of velvet and silk, a graceful shape with more crown and velvet brim and a wide-brimmed all-velvet hat.

GOOD EATING

We all like chicken, and a different way to serve it will be welcomed.

Savory Chicken.—Cut a six-pound fowl into serving-sized pieces. Dredge with flour and saute in fat until well browned on both sides. Lay in a deep casserole and place around it one dozen small oysters which have been peeled, three stalks of celery cut into inch pieces, two medium-sized carrots sliced. Sprinkle all with one teaspoonful of salt and pour three cupfuls of strained tomato over the top. Dot the surface with one tablespoonful of butter, cover tightly and cook in a slow oven until the chicken is done and the vegetables are tender—from two to three hours will probably be needed for the cooking. Serve with boiled rice.

English Seed Cake.—Cream together two cupfuls of sugar and one and one-fourth cupfuls of butter. Add alternately eight well-beaten egg yolks and three cupfuls of pastry flour with which one teaspoonful of cinnamon has been mixed; add one teaspoonful of lemon extract. Mix one cupful of flour with six ounces of sliced candied orange and lemon rind, one-half pound of citron and three-fourths of a pound of shredded almonds. Combine all the ingredients and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake for three to four hours in a pan which has been well greased and floured.

Cocoa Sponge Cake.—To the yolks of four eggs beaten thick and lemon colored, add one cupful of sugar and mix well. Add four tablespoonfuls of cold water. Measure and sift together one-half cupful of pastry flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half cupful of cocoa, and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt. Combine with the above, flavor with one teaspoonful of vanilla and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in an angel food pan for one hour. Ice when cool.

Summer Salad.—Mix mustard and lettuce and serve with tender radishes and onions sliced over it. Serve with a French or any preferred salad dressing.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Grant's "Unconditional Surrender" Note.

"No terms except an unconditional and immediate surrender can be accepted. I propose to move immediately upon your works." That laconic dispatch is famous in American history. Written to Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the Confederate commander at Fort Donelson, Tenn., by Gen. U. S. Grant on February 16, 1862, it gave to the Union commander the nickname of "Unconditional Surrender" Grant.

At the opening of the Civil war the Confederates built Fort Donelson on the Cumberland river and Fort Henry on the Tennessee to protect Nashville, the very heart of the Confederacy, from an invasion from the north. Erected on a hill 120 feet above the river, surrounded by two and a half miles of rifle pits and protected on the river side by three great batteries, Fort Donelson with its garrison of 18,000 men was one of the most important posts in the Mississippi valley.

On February 6 Fort Henry fell before the cannon of Commodore Foote's flotilla of gunboats, but when that commander moved to attack Fort Donelson he was speedily repulsed. Meanwhile General Grant had marched against Donelson and for three days a fierce battle raged during which each army lost more than 2,000 men. On February 15 the garrison tried to cut its way through Grant's lines but was driven back into its stronghold.

The next day Buckner sent a message under a white flag asking Grant what terms he would give if the Confederates gave up the fort. Grant's historic reply was the result. When Fort Donelson surrendered the first great Union victory of the war was won and 14,000 gunboats marched on and laid down their arms, the largest number of men ever captured up to that time in any battle on the American continent. The victors also took possession of 87 pieces of artillery, although one great prize in the persons of Generals Floyd, Pillow and Nathan Bedford Forrest, the leading cavalry leader, slipped through their hands when these officers escaped across the river.

The surrender of Nashville and Columbus soon followed. Kentucky and Tennessee were now in the hands of the Union forces and Ulysses S. Grant had started on the military career that ended triumphantly at Appomattox.
