"PATENT MEDICINE POLITICS," PASSING

No one industry in this nation is sufficient unto itself, nor would our country enjoy its present prestige and prosperity without industrial stability.

We have an interlocked system which involves government, agriculture, transportation, manufacturing, banking, insurance, power of all kinds, the utilization of many natural resources and public improvements.

It is a mistake to think that any branch of our social or industrial life can be crippled without eventually affecting all business, employment and investment.

If one cuts off even the little finger the whole body feels it and maximum efficiency of the human machine is lessened.

And so it is with business. Hurt the large or small manufacturer, farmer or individual and the effect is reflected in greater or less degree throughout our whole industrial and social structure.

Business today is balanced just as nicely as the human system and tampering with it should be attempted only by experts and then with the greatest caution.

As the people realize this fact more clearly they will look with increasing disfavor upon "patent medicine politics" which experiment with our whole economic structure, just as they now do upon many so-called cure-alls for human ills which for years were peddled on street corners and guaranteed to cure everything from a cold to a tape-worm.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS TO BE PROBED

Charges recently made by one of the Ohio state educational institutions that "Near Professionalism" was being employed in the selection of athletes by certain institutions has brought about no little comment, among college students and the general public, that has as much interest in football and basketball, as in the national pastime of baseball.

For several years there has been whispering that "more" than the usual amount of money was being paid by the members of the athletic teams were attracted to this and that school. The state association has a standard of rules governing this matter, but like other rules they may not always be observed to the letter or even the spirit of the association law.

In several localities it is said that outside influence has always been available without drawing college authorities into a conflict with the regulations. Wealthy men interested in the sport are usually in position to offer good athletes, excellent positions with good salaries and little to do during the college year, as long as the student can make good on the team. This may not be contrary to the association rules, or even a matter that can be reached, yet it no doubt works an unfair advantage to schools not so favorably situated. There are so many different ways rules can be avoided that it is unlikely that any investigation started will uncover wrong doing. The trouble is likely more outside the college campus than on it.

AROUSED PUBLIC CONSCIOUSNESS NEEDED TO COMBAT CRIMINAL

French criminologists, proposing a revival of the ancient custom of branding criminals, reflect the seriousness with which nations other than ours take the problem of suppressing crime," says the San Francisco Chronicle. "On the ratio of homicides in France and the United States, our crime rate is about six and one-half times that of France.

The idea of branding, even by painless chemical means, is not likely to be revived. But the mere fact that it has been proposed by responsible criminologists shows an attitude of mind on the part of the French that partially explains their low criminal rate as compared with ours. The habitual criminal is an enemy of society and is treated as such. As soon as the American public has that feeling in the matter the criminal rate in the United States will show a rapid decline without resorting to any such drastic method as is now being discussed in Paris.

Unquestionably there is a need for a more active public consciousness in the matter of crime. Changes in our legal and judicial system, sorely needed in many instances, must result from public demand that understands the seriousness of the problem and the necessity for sterner justice and expedited trials and convictions.

In comparison with Europe, our American crime situation is nothing short of disgraceful. Misplaced, maudlin sympathy has created parole, pardon, and good-conduct systems that often turn the most case-hardened of felons out to prey again on society. Anti-crime activity has been deflected from its proper channels into proposals for useless and restrictive small-arms laws and the like. Criminals in sensational cases have been made to appear as martyrs.

In New York, which has laws that give life imprisonment automatically when a criminal is convicted for four felonies, crime is decreasing. An aroused public consciousness is needed to combat the criminal, not more laws which restrict the laws abiding citizen.

POLITICAL PARTY BOLTERS

Bolting political party lines is a matter much discussed during the present campaign. About the worst form of citizenship known to the professional politician is what is termed a "bolter," one who will not vote for and openly support his party nominees. To permit general bolting of the ticket usually means certain defeat for that party. Party leaders have never encouraged it for it can be disastrous to one party as the other.

This year both political parties have some very prominent members switching over one way or the other, yet neither makes much capital of what they may have gained from the opposition. In this campaign the Republicans may gain by the movement in numerous states to "bolt" from the Democrat ticket. Back in 1912 the Republicans suffered terrible defeat when thousands of its supporters bolted to Roosevelt and the Progressive party, resulting in the election of Wilson.

We remember the Herrick and Pattison governorship campaign in Ohio when the temperance question was an issue and what a storm of protest was raised because the Republican nominee was deserted for Pattison. Republican leaders all but read out of the party those who had been so aligned before but could not support Herrick.

In the present campaign we find many prohibition supporters in the Democratic party loyal to their nominee, Al Smith, regardless of his prohibition views. First is Sen. Shepherd, of Texas, the author of the Eighteenth amendment. Ex-Governor Charles Bryan, of Nebraska, brother of the late William Jennings Bryan. Sen. Carter Glass, of Virginia and Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, along with Gov. Dan Moody, of Texas, all prominent dry supporters.

The call for party regularity to men who aspire to political office is stronger than any call to duty to support dry candidates or dry measures. Men in politics well know they cannot hope for election unless they have party support and this cannot be given under an unwritten law unless the candidate has been loyal to nominees in the past. This same law applies to each of the dominant parties and were it not recognized the parties would soon disintegrate.

More Farmers Than Ever Before, Join Forces To Sell Products

More farmers than ever before, are now participating in cooperative marketing activities of one form or another. It has been revealed by a survey carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture. The survey showed an estimated membership of three million farmers, in various types of cooperative marketing associations.

Grain marketing organizations had by far the greatest number of members, approximately 900,000. Associations marketing dairy products had a membership of about 600,000 producers. Livestock marketing organizations included 450,000 persons, associations marketing fruit and vegetables had 215,000, and cotton marketing associations, 140,000.

Approximately 70 per cent of the total membership of these organizations is in the 12 north central states. This is an increase for this region from 53 per cent in 1925 and 55 per cent in 1916. Less than 12 per cent of the membership is now in the southern states, which had 30 per cent in 1925 and 16 per cent in 1916.

Some of the participants in these marketing activities are members of no associations, some are shareholders, some are under contract to market cooperatively, and others are shippers, consignors or patrons using the facilities of the organizations.

Sports And Middlings

Ohio pays a freight bill of $19,000,000 annually, on lumber shipped into the state, and annually suffers 235 forest fires which burn over 10,000 acres of forest land.

Brown, burned leaves on the shade trees this fall probably are due to excessive transpiration of moisture during the hot weather, and not to insects or disease.

Plump barley is considered slightly superior to oats for poultry feeding. Both grains may be used to advantage in the layers' ration.

While cattle losses from tuberculosis have been cut in half in the past 10 years, losses from contagious abortion have doubled in the same period.

Says Sam: Another diverting antic is that of the editor who writes a half column editorial urging less publicity for John Colledge, a fight clerk.

Forty different systems of storm signals are now in use in different parts of the world.

"Our occasional madness is less wonderful than our occasional sanity." —George Santayana

Planting This Fall Means Gain In Time

Trees, Shrubs, Flowers, Evergreens Will Get Start For Spring

"If your ground is ready now, by all means plant trees, shrubs, flowers, evergreens, and vines this fall, rather than wait until next spring," advises Victor H. Ries, extension horticulturist at the Ohio State University. "You gain several months by having your plants rooted and ready to grow next spring."

Peonies, according to Ries, should be planted in September, hardy perennial flowers during September and early October. Trees, shrubs and vines may be planted any time after the leaves are shed until the ground freezes in December. Evergreens may be planted any time during the fall, preferably during September or October.

Heavy Weed Growth May Smother Trees

Newly Planted Forest Tracts Need Looking After, Says Dean

Unusually heavy weed growth of this year may be smothering forest trees which were planted last spring, says R. W. Dean, extension forester at Ohio State University. Such trees may be having a hard time getting through dense weeds and undergrowth encouraged during early summer by heavy rainfall.

Dean recommends that the owners of newly-planted forest tracts inspect their plantings to see if any of the small trees are now being overtopped and smothered by weeds and briars.

"A great many trees can be saved by cutting or pulling the dense weeds away from them," says the forester. This is particularly true of two-year seedlings of pine which have been planted for permanent forest planting. In ordinary seasons small seedlings and transplants are able to take care of themselves after being permanently planted. A vigorous growing tree like the Scotch pine, or a more tolerant species like the Norway spruce, will stand considerable shading. But red, white, and Goshawk pines, if they are annually crowded, need to be helped along by having weeds cleared away from them.

Says Sam: Middle age is that period of life when one ceases to expect to have much fun at anything.

1. After the death of Herbert Hoover's mother in 1884, he went to live with his Aunt Milla in Cedarville, Ia.

2. He was not ten years of age—old enough to assume an important share in all manner of farm work.

3. In winter Herbert and his cousin rode on horseback to school two miles away.

4. The future engineer constructed a mowing machine out of an old cross-cut saw, using a helter for power.

COURT NEWS

DIVORCES ASKED

Charging his wife with habitual drunkenness, Uriah S. Hedgepeth has brought suit for divorce from Leslie F. Hedgepeth in Common Pleas Court. For the last two years his wife has been partly intoxicated most of the time and about one every month she would get really drunk and stay away from home in that condition for several days and nights, the plaintiff complains, declaring that he left her because of this habit.

They were married February 24, 1923. No children were born of the union.

In a suit for divorce from Junie Corbett, Helen Corbett charges him with extreme cruelty and seeks custody of their four minor children, Irene, Jerline, Christine and June Ella, also attorney fees and alimony. The couple was married in 1919.

MOTION SUSTAINED

In the case of Leslie Wiley against Thomas Trichoff in Common Pleas Court, motion of the plaintiff to have the real estate described in a motion re-appraised for the reason of lack of bidders under a former execution, has been sustained by the court.

SUITS DISMISSED

The following cases have been ordered dismissed in Common Pleas Court:

N. N. Hunter, doing business as the Wickersham Hardware Co. against R. W. Moore; Nathan Price against The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., New York.

THREE SUITS FILED

Three note suits have been filed in Common Pleas Court by John T. Harbine, Jr., seeking foreclosure and sale of mortgaged property. The plaintiff declared he loaned John and Sallie Newsoms, $60; Jesse A. and Della B. Stafford, $65, and Bethel and Mattie Corbett, $60. An accounting is asked in each action.

ATTORNEY FILES FIRST CASE

The Greene County Hardware Co., through Attorney Marcus E. McCallister, has brought suit against The Xenia Fertilizer Co. to recover a judgment of $200.

ORDER FORECLOSURE

Foreclosure and sale of mortgaged property in the event of non-payment of $1,833.37, adjusted due on a contract, has been ordered by the court in the suit of The People's Building and Savings Co. against Oscar T. Smith and others in Common Pleas Court.

GRANT INJUNCTION

An injunction enjoining the defendant from disposing of his property or money has been allowed in the case of W. H. Boyd, doing business as the Central Finance Co., Dayton, O., against C. A. Merz, 50 Maple Drive, Osborn, O.

The court appointed Miss Elsie Canby, court stenographer, as receiver and ordered Merz to appear in her office at 2 P. M. September 24 to answer concerning the disposition of his property.

FIX HEARING

Application filed in Probate Court by Mary J. Wallace seeking to probate and establish the last will of Merton F. Wallace, deceased has been fixed for a hearing October 4 at 9 A. M. The applicant is the widow of the decedent.

COOPER SALE

Sale of real estate has been ordered in the case of William A. Swamy, an administrator of the estate of John N. Webb and Mary Webb, deceased, against Ralph Webb and others in Probate Court. James Crowl, William Tate and John S. Turner were named appraisers.

VALUE ESTATE

Estate of Isaac Compton, deceased, has an estimated gross value of $10,296.55, according to an entry on file in Probate Court, disclosing the debt and costs of administration total $9,323.86, leaving a net value of $972.69.

RULING MADE

In the case of John T. Harbine, Jr., against John and Elizabeth Baber and Graham and Jessie Graham Bryson in Common Pleas Court, the court ruled the defendants owe the plaintiff $119 on a note judgment recently recovered.

TO COLLECT JUDGEMENT

Suit to collect on a judgment for $486.50, recovered against the defendant in the Montgomery County Common Pleas Court August 8, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by W. H. Boyd, doing business as the Central Finance Co., Dayton, against C. A. Merz.

Because of prior liens the execution was unsatisfied in Montgomery County and the Greene County sheriff reported no goods or property upon which to levy in this county, the petition recites.

The plaintiff asserts the defendant possesses property and money which should be applied in payment of the judgment but that Merz unjustly refuses to do so. Charging the Southwestern Portland Cement Co. is indebted to Merz, the plaintiff seeks to enjoin the cement firm from paying its debt to the defendant.
