WHAT WE THINK WE CAN BE

Friends, money, environment, all contribute in a measure to be a deciding factor in what man is to be. What a town is or is going to be depends on the town people. It is frequently noticed that development of certain towns and cities has been aided by geographic locations, natural resources, but in the great majority of cases the town is never any larger or has more civic improvements than what the people living in the town desire. The towns that are getting no place are the ones that are perfectly satisfied with what they have. A good live up-to-date town keeps up with the progress of the times and enables people to enjoy the benefits of improvements that can be found elsewhere. But when you find a town with people that are interested in civic pride, alive, alert men and women who have no desire to drift, but want to go up stream after things, the chances are that that town will be a town worth living in. No town ever gets everything it goes after but continued effort brings about many things. There is always the chance of failure with the town as with the individual but that is no reason why consistent, persistent, intelligent, concerted effort will not bring results. The Cedarville Community Club is attempting to awaken a new vision. Accomplishment of the day in civic affairs as well as industry is through organized effort. There are a number of people in the village that see the needs of certain improvements and they have accomplished something in getting two important municipal improvements started. They have not been willing to take what fate hands them and be satisfied.

WHAT POLITICS CAN DO FOR A PRISONER

It was only a few weeks ago that Harry Gaskill of Wilmington, former county auditor, entered a plea of guilty to profiting unlawfully in a county contract, and was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary. He spent but a week or ten days there and was transferred to the prison farm at London where we understand he has a pencil and pad job. This is a very unusual procedure and heretofore only prisoners that have served time in the main prison and won credits as "model prisoners" were ever transferred. Politics has played a part in this transfer no doubt as Gaskill has been a part of the Pemberton machine that has controlled Clinton county and wrecked the county causing many indignities to be returned against county officials. There is no reason why Gaskill should have favors over other worthy prisoners who have served longer time and won credits to entitle them to be transferred to London. But politics has a way of taking care of those that play the game, even those who just go to prison for wronging the county and the majesty of the law.

OHIO AS A COLLEGE STATE

With one exception, Ohio has no college or university to compare with the great educational institutions that have grown with the years in many other states. What it may lack in physical size and bulk of its educational institutions, however, is made up by numbers. This state has 52 colleges and universities that grant degrees to graduates. About 50 per cent of these colleges have less than 500 students each, 13 have more than 1,000 and most of the others have student bodies ranging between these marks. The outstanding feature of most of these schools is their age. Most of them are very old and while they may not have grown substantially, the fact that, year after year, they manage to hold their own against strong competition from the larger universities, speaks well for their merits. The little college obviously operates under heavy and keen disadvantages. As a rule it lacks an endowment fund of any size and has to be supported by contributions and current receipts. This means a small faculty and the absence of ornate laboratory and library facilities. Nevertheless they win through, thanks to the earnestness of professors and students, and render service that would be sorely missed if discontinued. These smaller schools are proud of their independence, their history and their work. While it would be to the advantage of most of them to consolidate with other small colleges the absence of any movement toward this end in this state shows that they would rather do their individual work well than to lose identity and tradition in a merger. They are moved by the proper spirit. So rich and populous a state as Ohio can and should support all established colleges and universities in a way to preserve their usefulness. —Dayton Herald.

52 More Planes for Navy The Mothers Return Mr. Ford's Recipe 5-Billion Dollar Infant

Navy contracts for 52 fighting planes, torpedo and bombing aircrafts have been announced. They will cost, for the 52 ships, $3,000,177. For the price of one modern battleship, with coaters and other equipment, the navy could buy 1,040 such fighting planes. Altogether they would require crews smaller than one battleship crew and would cost far less in upkeep than one battleship. And one such bombing plane could sink any battleship or other ship afloat. This nation needs at the least an air fleet of 5,000 fighting planes, with an adequate fleet under water.

Peeshawer is a long way from Buckingham palace, and once it would have been painful, slow work subduing natives in those far off valleys. But now the dull thud of exploding Royal Air Force bombs is heard in the hiding places of Hajj and his Mohammedan tribesmen, rebelling against Britain. And Hajj's forces are melting away. Allah and his prophet are great, but they offer no weapon to fight flying machines.

The first party of 127 Gold Star Mothers, having seen the graves of their dead sons, are on their way home. They were too early for the poppies, about which pretty war poems were written, but they saw the white crosses, row on row, each marking the grave of a dead American soldier.

President Hoover and the Navy department are to be congratulated on the decision to allow our submarine O-12 to take part in Sir Hubert Wilkins' work of exploration in the Arctic. Eventually our fleet of submarines will be made useful in peace through exploration of the oceans, seas, lakes and land under them.

Engineers and surveyors will map out the mountains and valleys lying under the oceans. And the future will see submarine prospectors, searching for mines and oil wells, below the water, competing with modern prospectors now searching for treasure and oil for nations by airplanes.

Henry Ford says people must keep up their spirits, American farmers must develop mass production as American factories do, wages must not be cut, and everybody must be cheerful.

Sound advice for everybody except the man out of a job, and the farmer, who doesn't know how to get mass production out of 50 acres. Mr. Ford lets the workmen stand still while their work passes in front of them. The farmer can't stand still and make the rows of corn or cows pass in front of him. But Henry Ford is a genius and may find a way.

Wall Street believes that J. P. Morgan, most powerful figure in American finance, is perfecting an enterprise that will make his late father's big steel company look like a modest investment.

The new enterprise, called in Wall Street slang "United Corp.," plans a five-billion-dollar corporation to include practically everything in the way of public utilities in the North Atlantic region.

Steam power, water power, gas, and the great distributing agencies would all be under one hat.

Mr. Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, with his son and some first-class railroad engineers, has sailed for Europe, to be met by representatives of the Soviet commissar of railways at the Russian frontier. Mr. Budd will devote a year to planning reorganization of Russian railways on American lines.

This shows that Russia knows something about business, whatever you may think of her politics and social theories.

Not including real estate, the late Rodman Wanamaker left $60,000,000, according to his executors. More interesting than the size of his fortune is the fact that he worked hard, almost to the day of his death, at his own business, and at promotion of aviation, in which he was a pioneer, and other work important to the public. It is what a man does, not what he has, that counts.

Encouraging news from London says "business girls" are fighting long skirts. The short skirt represents common sense, comfort, health, and does not drag in germs.

Scientists of Lowell observatory are said to have selected the name "Pluto" for the new planet. They should make another selection.

An American, Professor Lowell, predicted the discovery of the planet; another American discovered it. It is, therefore, an American planet and should have been named for Newton, whose law made the discovery possible, or for Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Hoover or Theodore Roosevelt. This Valuable Service Deserves Adequate Compensation

YOU will probably be surprised to learn that a great majority of checking accounts are handled by banks at a loss. There are two main reasons for this. First, more than 90% of all business transactions involve the use of checks. The service is so convenient, accurate, safe, and so economical of time that nearly everyone pays by check nowadays. Second, cost of bank service has risen in keeping with everything else during the past dozen years. Running expenses have gone up 60%; taxes 60%; salaries 80%; nearly everything else doubled. At the same time, the source and rate of bank income from checking accounts has not kept pace. As a result, many checking accounts which formerly earned enough to offset the cost of service are now handled at a loss.

Would You Go Back?

No one who has ever known the convenience, safety, and prestige value of a checking account would willingly go back to the old, risky, time-consuming method of handling funds in cash. The check is the modern, efficient, business-like way to transfer money. The service is of sufficient value to make most people willing to pay money for it. But banks only ask that enough money be left on deposit to permit each account to earn its own way.

The Profits of a Substantial Balance

The surprising fact is that the greatest profit of a substantial balance comes to the depositor himself. The bank is only a custodian of the funds. Its returns are more or less fixed. But the depositor gains in many ways. A surplus is proof of business ability. It shows balanced judgment in providing liquid funds to seize opportunities and to offset possible reverses. It builds credit. It raises personal morale of the owner. An adequate balance in your checking account will profit you handsomely in many ways. Get in touch with your banker and let him show you the advantages of building your balance. A larger reserve will give the bank reasonable compensation for this service, and bring to you the substantial gains your judgment deserves.

It makes little difference in watering the lawn, whether the water is applied in small, daily amounts, or in larger amounts once or twice a week. Regular watering of one sort or another will almost double the growth of grass during the dry period.

KONJOLA GAVE WONDERFUL HELP TO THIS LADY

Cleveland Resident Eager To Endorse New Medicine — "Made New Person of Me," She Says

MRS. BERTHA MILLER
 "For many years I took treatments for a very bad case of nervousness," said Mrs. Bertha Miller, 2132 West Ninety Third street, Cleveland. "After taking four bottles of Konjola I am feeling fine and am able to go about my regular work. Before, I was tired out before I was really started. The terrible pains I formerly had in my stomach are gone now. I am no longer subject to dizzy spells. I now eat anything I care for without any fear of the after effects. The headaches that formerly came upon me soon after arising in the morning have all left and I never experience them now. So you see Konjola has made a new woman of me. I am giving my experience to others in the hope that they, too, may be benefited by this great medicine that has done so much in my case."
 It is logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others it will do for you—for everyone. This is especially true if Konjola is given a fair trial over a period of from six to eight weeks.
 Konjola is sold in Cedarville, Ohio at Prowant & Brown Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Now advance the spark to the limit and throw the gas throttle wide open; then with your hand brake, gradually diminish the speed of the car until a perceptible motor knock is heard. At this exact point notice the miles per hour and set down this figure as the "knocking point."

The knocking point will vary in different motors, but the comparison of different fuels will be the same. Keep a record of the speedometer readings for each gasoline. Obviously the slower the speed before the knock is heard, the better the knockless qualities of the gasoline. Your findings will prove the high knockless rating of BLUE SUNOCO.

We invite you...to test the High Knockless Qualities and the Power of Blue Sunoco in your own car...against any gasoline or motor fuel...regardless of price
