CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By Clarence J. Brown, Member of Congress, Seventh Ohio
District

The second session of the 76th Congress began on January 3rd, at which time President Roosevelt appeared in person to deliver his annual message to the Congress. The message was on the subjects of National Defense, Foreign Affairs, and the Budget. The President asked for increased appropriations for National Defense, make a plea for peace and a pledge to keep America out of war, and explain once more to the people that it will be impossible to have a balanced budget.

There is considerable talk on Capitol Hill that the Administration will not press for the enactment of any controversial legislation at this session of Congress, but instead will bend every effort toward having a peaceful, harmonious and short session in May or June. Experienced observers of the program, some of which are: Right after the convening of Congress will come up the Gavan-Fish Anti-Lynching Bill, which was taken away from the committee and made a special order of business via the petition method during the closing days of the last session. That the Administration will be in a dilemma when the Anti-Lynching Bill comes to the House floor can not be disputed. Much of the New Deal strength of recent years has come from the heavy colored vote in strategic northern states. At the same time the solid Democratic South is bitterly opposed to the passage of any Federal anti-lynching legislation. An almost solid Republican vote for the bill may be expected, with the result that if the measure is defeated it must come as the result of Democratic opposition. The situation is not conducive to harmony, to say the least.

It also appears certain that suggested increased appropriations for military and naval purposes will receive close scrutiny to make positive that the New Deal spending program of the past is not continued under the guise of building a necessary national defense. Most members of Congress favor an adequate national defense program that will assure our ability to protect our own shores, but are not in favor of building huge offensive fighting forces. There has been considerable rumor and information reaching Congressional ears of late to the effect that sizable portions of the heavy appropriations made in the last few years for defense purposes have not been used to the best advantage.

Recent developments as a result of the hearings being conducted by the special House committee to investigate the National Labor Relations Board make certain that the laws regulating labor relations will come in for a rather thorough and complete overhauling. Labor legislation is always controversial. The NLRB has been one of the pet projects of the President. The country generally is demanding many changes in the law. Certain labor organizations are opposing material changes. As a result it seems certain that lengthy legislative battles will develop over labor law changes during the coming months.

In this connection should be mentioned the Wages and Hours Law, another New Deal creation that is sure to come up for controversial discussion during the Congressional session. For some time there has been a strong demand from the rural areas and small towns of the country, especially from the South, that some of the harsh provisions of the present law, which have been injurious to agricultural activities and small business, be changed or eliminated. Many southern Democrats will join with Republicans from the rural areas in fighting for a less strict law, and that the struggle will be a hard one can not be denied.

One of the real fights that is brewing, and in which no quarter will be asked or given, will be over the continuance of the Administration's power to make and enter into Reciprocal Trade Agreements without consent of Congress. The present law authorizing such treaties expires in June. The Administration, and especially Secretary of State Hull who has favored the treaties, insist that they have been most beneficial to the country as a whole. On the other hand, agricultural leaders, in most instances, are loudly expressing the firm conviction that many of the reciprocal

Highways Cleared Of Snow and Ice

The winter problems for cities and villages is to get the streets cleared of snow and ice at least soon after the highway department cleared the roads.

One can drive from Xenia to Dayton or from Xenia to Cincinnati and find little if any ice on the highways but in the towns and cities on the route little or no effort has been made to keep the streets connecting through roads clear.

Not only is such a condition a real hazard to local traffic and pedestrians but to through traffic as well. Some method should be worked out to keep all through streets open in weather and snow storms such as we have had this week.

In Dayton and Cincinnati most of the snow is removed from the business section at once. Council ordered some of the snow removed from the gutters here so that motorists could get to the curb for parking without having to be pulled out.

New Year's Fire Gets New Record

It has been many years since the village fire department had a call on the first day of the new year but such was the case Monday night about ten o'clock. An alarm called out the department to the home of Mrs. Dorothy Wright, North Main, due to a fire in the roof. It is believed the fire originated from a gas tank that had taken fire in the chimney and fell on the roof in such quantity as to ignite the shingles. The fire was soon extinguished without great loss.

She had annuities in some sixty educational institutions and had just a few months ago sent Cedarville College a check through the efforts of Mr. John L. Deat, business manager, for $500. She had annuities amounting to $2,700 which now become part of the endowment of the college.

Lawyers Law For Law Library

Under an old law from the Xenia municipal court went into the city treasury, many cases from the township and villages in the county were sent to the municipal court if the charges could be made a state case.
Under a new law things have changed and these cases must now go to the county law library association. It is said not even Xenia lawyers were aware of the change but evidently the lawyers that look after the law libraries, and there is one for each county in the state, must have done a neat job. Municipalities that have such courts will be out this income which is a neat sum even in Greene county.
As the county commissioners must make a tax levy for the law libraries, with the new income such may not be necessary in the future.

Greene Relief Notes Are Offered To Bidders

Bids for purchase of a new $10,000 issue of "poor relief notes" have been invited by Greene county commissioners for tabulation January 22. DEMOCRACY GETS A RAP FOR CIO SUPREMACY

It took 75,000 words squeezed up on 7,784 pages of testimony for a New Deal Harvard brain-truster, to clear Harry Bridges, CIO leader, that he was not a Communist and should not be deported. Secretary Perkins has won a gallant fight for suspected Communist leaders, such as have almost wrecked shipping interests on the West coast.

No American citizen that has the interest of the future of this nation can approve such a report which if Bridges was guilty his freedom could have been had in two words, or if not guilty in one word. It never should take 75,000 words to find any man not guilty on whatever the charge might be.

Imagine such a thing happening under George Washington, Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln or even Grover Cleveland. To place "Communism" as a charge against any man is not a political issue. The American Communist like his brother Russian is guilty of more than a breach of citizenship. The Communist has but two aims either on these shores or in Russia and that is to destroy democracy and all forms of religion. These two things have been accomplished in Russia and every effort has been given this element in this country from the White House to the Secretary of Labor in repayment for votes at a past election.

Roosevelt has said little against Russia regardless of what is taking place in Finland. You will recall that he demanded early in his first term that this country should recognize Russia and her Communist government. His first ambassador to that new found heaven for economic cures served only a few months and came back to be sent to France where he is now stationed. Russia was more than he could stand. The Russia of those days is the same Russia that is invading Finland today. The same tribe of CIO which Harry Bridges belongs.

SAID FATHER TO SON, OR DID HE?

Back in the days of Henry C. Wallace, who changed neither his politics or his church affiliation to get a seat in the cabinet under Presidents Harding and Coolidge, the department was what it was intended to be. In those days under Henry C. no farmer was ever heard to utter one word of complaint for this cabinet member was the editor and publisher of a farm paper that was authority in a dozen western states where it circulated.

"Like fatherlike son" did not prove true when Henry A. aspired to the same position held by his father. Henry A. swallowed the New Deal, sinker and hook; to get on the government payroll. His illustrious father had gone to his reward but here is what the elder Wallace published in his "Wallace's Farmer," Nov. 5, 1929:

"If it cannot be stopped in any other way, Congress should enact a law imposing very severe penalties upon any government official who undertakes to influence either crop production or crop prices. There are too many people in public office who seem to think they ought to exercise some sort of guidance or guardianship over the farmer."

Henry A. has no place for the law of supply and demand regardless of the fact it has existed 5,000 years and never will be changed by New Dealers or what ever variety of modern visionaries that may follow. Henry C. left what he thought would be a legacy in continuance of the family name in the years to come in thousands of American farm homes. But Henry A. with his new thought ideas once tried out put the life-time efforts of the Elder Wallace on the sheriff's block.

COSTS 110 MILLION TO SPEND 114 MILLION

The present setup of the Federal Social Security Bureau costs $110,000,000 in yearly salaries to the staff, and the payment of the so-called pensions has not yet begun.

The plan now is to start payment in 1940, and in order to do so, the administering bureau predicts it will have to enlarge the already increased clerical force to accomplish the work necessitated by the payment.

It is estimated the first year's "pensions" will amount to about $114,000. Thus, with the staff to be added when payments start, it will cost more to pay for the office workers in the social security department than the total amount of money to be paid out to beneficiaries. A very economical setup, that. If attacks of the jobholders who pay. Is it any wonder the Federal budget cannot be balanced? And another thing, with the increased payments yearly to be paid out, will not the office expense also be increased accordingly? Such management but bears out the fact that "social security" is a tax rather than a pension.

Still another department of the government is trying to smear the great mutual and the other life insurance companies with threats of "investigation" and prosecution. Let the New Dealers clean up and straighten out their own government departments and bureaus before they prosecute the great institutions which have helped make America.

A BAD EYE

By Charles Evans Loomis

"What can I do for you, big boy?" said the eye specialist kindly to a young man who had been ushered into his private office.

"I've got a bad eye, Doctor, and I want to know what to do for it," said the fellow.

"His right eye was clearly unhealthy. A mere glance showed the pupil turned white. It protruded slightly like a ball, while around the raised portion was the brown rim of the natural pupil and the white eyeball. The physician knew at once that the eye was past all restoration by the art of healing. He recommended its removal.

The young man accepted the word courageously. He half expected it. No sight came through it. It was now a useless appendage. It looked bad. It was bad. Its badness might affect the other eye in time. It was not learned whether its badness was the result of accident or disease. For twenty-two years it was part of his countenance, and until recently it had performed its duty. Now it must be separated from the face forever, for it had become a bad eye.

"You ought to go to the hospital for about ten days. During that time we can remove the eye, fit it in a gold sphere, and then install a glass eye. What is your business?" So spoke the doctor.

"I'm a gardener," said the man.

"Well," replied the physician, "you will have time for this in January. By March you will be in good shape to resume your work. Think it over a few days. If you can arrange for the expenses, we will perform the operation when you are ready. Come back to report to me in about two weeks."

Two interesting personalities met in this brief drama. The young man accepted the inevitable bravely. For the remainder of his life he must go forward with one eye. In his teen years such a plight had not even been considered. Life had its changes. Something happened. Now, he will

The New Deal, never at any time in the past seven years friendly to the American Legion, certainly pinned back to earth of the Legion leaders that have been conducting a war against un-American organizations and Communist undesirable. It can also be said the Communists have no more sympathy with the Legion than do the New Dealers including Roosevelt and "Big" Perkins. The Legion has directed a stiff fight against Harry Bridges for months, yet this week Harry gets a clean bill of lading from a Harvard brain-truster, appointed by Perkins to clear Bridges of Communist charges. The Legion should direct its next fight against the hot-bed of Harvard Communists that has been poisoning the young minds of students against Americanism.

In the budget placed before Congress this week by Roosevelt there are two items that will cause some discussion. He wants more taxes for what he calls "our defense" and cuts the WPA and AAA down to a new low as he views New Deal spending. "Our defense" is the munition and powder manufacturers. He also insists on retaining free trade with foreign nations on agricultural products, importing in competition with the American farmer.

Democratic politicians have been stirred the past week over certain charges within the party that have been laid against Sen. Donahay. The axis of the trouble is in Clark County and only last week the head of the Sheehan faction of the party boldly accused the Senator of double dealing. It is tipped from informed sources that this set the Senator on fire and he is to be laid in more places than in Clark county. It looks like a movement that will spread to the other counties in the Seventh District hat lineup with the Sheehan crowd.

Senator Donahay will have no trouble in defending his stand for all is well will have to do is to look up the highway department record in Clark county as exposed at a recent Civil Service trial, wherein Sheehan appointees were evidently following orders from political headquarters either in Clark county or in Columbus.

Henry L. Doherty, utility magnet, is lead and the press places his wealth at 200 million dollars. Back in the early days of the depression it was hinted in financial circles that Doherty had gone broke or badly bent trying to hold up the price of Cities Service stock. Previous to the market collapse this stock was a great favorite for those who wanted to plunge. Hundreds played the market with it and took big profits but when the crash came hundreds of thousands lost their all.

It has always been a question how Doherty weathered the storm during the panic days of the crash. There have been stock issues the past few years that evidently were bait for the uninformed. In 1930 stock was selling at $40 a share. A new issue was put out and ten of the old shares cost $400. Today they are worth about $4.50 and yet the Doherty estate is valued today at two hundred million dollars. Where is the New Deal SEC protection to investors?

The Washington dopsters have it that Roosevelt will not seek a third term. All eyes center on Vice President Garner who announced some weeks ago he would seek the nomination as a Democrat, not a New Dealer. With Garner in somebody may have to hold Walter Winchell's head.

Rev. Bigelow of pension fame was elected a member of council in Cincinnati last November at the same time his pension plan was turned down. The election in that city was four Republicans and four Charities with the Reverend having the controlling vote. The mayor under the charter government is chosen from the membership of council and Bigelow has the plan tied up as neither

A vivid picture of life in medieval Paris is presented in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," RKO Radio's spectacular version of Victor Hugo's novel, starring Charles Laughton, which opens Friday at the Regent Theater, Springfield.

Dealing with a nobleman's persecution of a gypsy girl and how a deformed outcast, the bell-ringer of the cathedral of Notre Dame, "rescues her, the tale has long been a favorite with readers all over the world.

Maureen O'Hara enacts the role of the gypsy girl and Sir Cedric Hardwicke that of the villain.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Travellers have been extremely injurious to, some extent, the markets for agricultural products. Many industries have also been adversely affected by the trustees and a dog fight can be expected before a decision is reached as a continuation of the power to overrule such treaties in the future.

The same old struggle between the Administration spenders and those within Congress who believe in governmental economy will be continued in the new session. It is thought that the Administration budget for the coming fiscal year will show a deficit of around three billion dollars, which would take the national debt well above the forty-five billion dollar limitation now in effect. As a result, undoubtedly, two more controversial questions will arise for Congress to settle. One will be as to whether or not the limitation on the national debt shall be lifted so as to permit a continuation of the New Deal spending program through deficit financing as in the past few years; and the other will be over the levying of new or increased taxes to care for the deficit in the Administration budget. That a financial crisis is fast approaching as a result of the many years of governmental expenditures running far ahead of governmental income, resulting in an increase in the national debt to astronomical proportions, can not be denied. The day of settlement now seems close at hand. That the problems surrounding it will mean legislative discord seems certain. Whether or not final settlement can be staved off for this year, and until the coming Presidential elections are out of the way, can only be decided as time passes.

There are many other issues that will undoubtedly come up within the next few months that will tend to disturb the serenity of legislative waters and make probable a more lengthy session than now expected.

Temperance Notes

Sponsored by Cedarville W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, National President of the W. C. T. U., recently said that repeal has been the lowering of the standard of womanhood. "The drunken mother is now a distinct problem."

"The dry night clubs, or similar places of entertainment carefully supervised, and the milk-bars, catering to youth's love of fun and being together, are movements which merit our interest and support."

"Home... It is not enough that women should be homemakers, but they must make the world a larger home.—Frances E. Willard."

"Charles St. John head of the Bowers Mission, says 'Bowers used to be a man's street, but now is as much a woman's street. They have trickled into the Bowers from the cocktail lounges, the most pitiable sights you ever saw. During prohibition we got the chronic drunk only, but today we get the skilled worker, the professional man, middle-aged men and women.'"

"Judge Harry H. Porter, chairman of the National Safety Council's Committee on Tests for Driver Intoxication, predicts specifically that when the complete figures become available it will be found that 60 per cent or more traffic fatalities and injuries are due to alcohol. Investigations of this committee and similar ones in city and state councils have proven the harmfulness of small quantities of alcohol; hence the term 'drinking driver' has supplanted 'drunken driver.'"

"From the reports of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (corroborated to 1939), we find that 1,855,826 crimes are committed annually in our country—a murder or manslaughter every forty minutes—a robbery every ten minutes—a burglary every two minutes—a case of larceny every forty-four seconds."

"The relation of liquor to accidents is increasingly recognized. Dr. Kilmer, surgeon of New York Association of Police Chiefs, asserts that 'Drunken drivers multiply ten times as fast as car registrations, 56 per cent in 1936 over 1935, while cars increased 5.4 per cent.'"

"Bishop Cushman said 'The liquor problem is supremely the job of the church. The church of God remains the agency that is most concerned, because this is fundamentally a moral and spiritual problem.'"

"Practically all church conferences and young people's assemblies have uttered similar pronouncements."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cory of West Jefferson have returned home after spending their vacation with the former's mother, Mrs. Ella Cory, Ohio.

FARM TOPICS

TAR OIL EMULSION FOR APPLE APHIS

Spraying Early Advised to Kill Eggs on Trees.

Any period of warm weather in the spring is an ideal time for the application of a tar oil emulsion spray for the control of apple aphis. This material, if applied at the proper strength, will kill the aphis eggs now on the trees.

The stock emulsion, as received from the manufacturer or dealer, will contain 85, 83 or 80 per cent actual tar oil. This should be diluted to provide 2.5 per cent actual tar oil in the diluted spray. Growers who have difficulty in controlling the aphis would do well to apply one of the tar oil emulsions while the trees are dormant and the temperature is above freezing, since the treatment offers one of the most effective methods of control.

Plans for applying tar oil emulsion should be made early enough to insure the completion of the job by the time the fruit buds appear. Since the use of such a mixture after that stage of bud development may cause serious injury. Furthermore, the application of excessive amounts of material should be avoided in the interest of safety and economy. It is important, however, that the trees be completely coated with the spray, since any aphis eggs which are missed will not be killed. Best results are obtained by forcing the material into the tree with the wind in the form of a fine mist.

Many Reasons Why the Hen Lays Eggs on Floor

Floor eggs are objectionable for many reasons. They are likely to be broken and bring about the egg eating habit. Then, too, they are often fouled. And of great importance to R. O. P. breeders, they cannot be credited to the hens that lay them. The primary reason for floor laying is lack of sufficient nests, advises a poultryman in the Montreal Herald. If a hen is ready to lay and the nests are all occupied she will do the next best thing—lay on the floor. So the first preventive measure is to provide plenty of nests.

Another reason is comfort. If a hen ignores an empty nest and lays on the floor, she is probably more comfortable there.

The type of trap door may be another reason for floor eggs. There is usually a higher percentage of such eggs where the nests are equipped with the old type swinging door that is held in place with a trigger. This makes a rather cumbersome trap and the hen appears to fight shy of it. Either thin plywood or metal drops seem to be least objectionable, being light, easily worked and positive.

Watch for Corn Bugs

With a large amount of stored corn, it is especially important to watch for insect damage, says the Prairie Farmer. The winter months have caused such insects to increase. Dry corn, stored in a dry crib, well ventilated, is not likely to be damaged by insects. First indications of damage can be detected by feeling for the insects in the ends and along the sides of the kernels. If a crib of corn becomes infested, it should be fed or sold, or if it is to be fumigated, must be shelled and treated in a tight bin.

Wire Fence 50 Years Old

It was an Illinois farmer named Peter Gorman who first tried to make woven wire fence, says the Keystone Steel & Wire company. That was 50 years ago. He first tried stretching smooth wires between posts, and weaving in cross wires by hand. The worked pretty well but took too long, so he developed a machine. Operated by two men and a boy, some 10 rods of fence could be made in a day. The fabric had small square openings.

Hard-Shell Hens

By selecting chicks from thick and thin-shelled eggs, respectively, poultry breeders at the University of California have developed two distinct lines of hens, one of which produces hard-shelled and the other soft-shelled eggs. A good laying stock then can be developed from the hard-shell hens, and the soft-shellers can go to pot.

Insectproofing Plants

According to the Country Home Magazine, modern greenhouse gardeners now keep plant lice and red spiders under control by feeding their crops poisonous chemicals which are more deadly to insects than to plants. Dr. W. E. Morris, of the Ohio Experiment station, employs sodium selenate for this purpose, adding one part of selenium per million to his culture solution weekly and satisfactory results have been reported.

WATER DEPARTMENT NOW ON REVENUE BASIS

One of the departments of the village now on a self sustaining basis is that of the municipal water plant under the direction of the Board of Public Affairs. Since the plant was started in 1930 the board has had unusual expense in motor and pump upkeep and a third well has been drilled, the last with a flow as great as the first two combined. This expense has been cared for and the department in addition will show a profit for the year just ended. There was a good increase in the number of water consumers also last year.

Soil Allotment Is Reduced For 1940

Greene County's total soil allotment for 1940 is announced by AAA officials at 90,915 acres, a decrease of 2,140 acres of 2.1 per cent from last year.

Major crop coverage allotments for this year include: corn—48,248 acres, a decrease of 1,800 acres or 3.7 per cent; wheat—26,915 acres, an increase of 2,708 acres or 12.7 per cent; general crops such as oats and sorghums—17,718 acres, a decrease of seventy-seven acres.

Based upon the ten-year average, from 1930 to 1939, inclusive, the general base 1940 allotment is 16.8 per cent below the average, the corn allotment dropped 12.3 per cent.

14 Indictments Found By Grand Jury

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for January 7. Includes the title 'THE CHRISTIAN'S CONFESSION OF FAITH'.

Lesson Text: Matthew 16:13-16. Golden Text: 'These are the stones of the living God.' - Matthew 16:18.

Many outstanding miracles had been performed by our Lord during His ministry in Galilee, and now as that period of His earthly work was drawing to a close...

I. The Question—Who is the Son of Man? (vv. 13-17). The question of Christ was general at first, and in the answer we find that the people of our Lord's own day had a very high opinion of Him.

Observe carefully that such a confession of Christ is not sufficient. It is not enough to acknowledge Him as the great teacher, the perfect example, or the way-shower.

II. The Church—Its True Foundation (vv. 18-20). Christ, the Son of the living God, is the rock upon which the Church is built.

III. The Cross—for Christ and for Me (vv. 21-24). The shadow of the cross falls across the little gathering of disciples as the Lord tells them of His impending death on the cross.
